MARKET CLOSED STRONG

Public Market, Sept. 7.— (AP) —With [illegible] resuming the leadership of the market by soaring 8 1-2 points, stock prices bounded upward at the close of today's session after a period of irregularity. Interruption of trading after the [illegible] Monday found speculative [illegible] bullish, due to the [illegible] current earnings [illegible] but bear traders were [illegible] covering a few [illegible] merchandising, automobile, [illegible] and sugar issues.

Reports of [illegible] disturbances [illegible] over the week end, the appointment of a receiver for a large [illegible] firm after the Stock Exchange closed on Monday, and increase in the [illegible] rate from 4 to 5 per cent failed to bring out any appreciable volume of selling. Wall Street [illegible] continued to pay attention to [illegible] of interview with [illegible] in which that stock [illegible] was quoted as denying [illegible] stocks prior to his departure for Europe, and predicting an [illegible] of the bull movement [illegible] trade issues this fall.

The [illegible] money rate following [illegible] about $100,000,000 in [illegible] was in accordance with [illegible] expected after the [illegible] of about $1,000,000 in reserve [illegible] last Saturday's clearing house statement. After the market had opened, the New York stock exchange [illegible] month loan [illegible] an increase of $144,000,000 [illegible] month, bringing the total [illegible] three billion dollar mark for the first time since March.

Business continued in the [illegible] on the expectation [illegible] statements would make an even better showing [illegible] particularly of [illegible] the south and southwest. Commodity and common [illegible] new record [illegible] 1-2 mill [illegible] New York [illegible] the Baltimore [illegible] Pacific, Illinois Central, [illegible] and preferred. Colorado & Southern, Great Northern preferred, [illegible] Great Western preferred, [illegible] Missouri & Northern preferred and Western Pacific preferred [illegible] upgrading [illegible] levels in a [illegible] year of [illegible] Atlantic Coast Line, [illegible] and Reading [illegible] others [illegible] moderate [illegible] gains.

[illegible] buying supported [illegible] which were being [illegible] as a result. U. S. Steel common [illegible] its [illegible] but bear traders [illegible] covering a few [illegible] profit-taking. Oils, [illegible] with proven acreage, [illegible] by the report of the [illegible] Board expressing confidence over the nation's future oil supply.

[illegible] Car was bid up over 3 points to a new peak at 38 3-8 on reports that the company had plans for putting [illegible] trucks on a rental basis. [illegible] touched a new low at 84 3-4 but rallied to 86 7-8 on the [illegible] of an over-crowded short interest. Wall Street Journal [illegible] back [illegible] 2 points on the statement of its [illegible] that third quarter earnings [illegible] fall below those of the preceding [illegible] months.

The [illegible] demand for Pullman [illegible] pushed it [illegible] to 194, the highest price since 1910 revived rumors [illegible] special distribution to [illegible] in the near future. J. [illegible] denied a new record [illegible] Kansas City Star broke away [illegible] to 1 point on the [illegible] Atchison, Texas & Pacific [illegible] Sugar [illegible] to 6 1-2 on [illegible] bottom at 6.

PROSECUTION OPENS IN THE DAUCHERTY-MILLER CASE

District Attorney Asserted He Would Show That Daugherty and Miller Participated in Bribes Totalling $441,000—Richard Merton Testified of His Dealings With John T. King, Stating That King Introduced Him to Jesse Smith and Miller—Two Clerks in the Alien Property Custodian's Office Identified a Number of Documents Offered as Exhibits.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The government struck swiftly today in the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the Harding administration and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian.

Richard Merton, the government's chief witness, testified that the Societe Suisse Pour Valeures de Metaux, of which he, a German citizen, was agent, was owned by the Metallgesellschaft and Metallbank, German companies of which Merton was an officer. At the time Daugherty and Miller paid him approximately $7,000,000 in lieu of property of the American Metal company, which had been seized under the enemy trading act.

District Attorney Buckner, in his preliminary address outlining the government's case, held that the refund was illegal, even without consideration of the graft factor, since the law required all such payments to be made only to neutrals or companies controlled by neutrals.

The government also produced two letters which were in files in Miller's office as alien property custodian at the time of the restitution, which showed partial German ownership of the Societe Suisse.

Daugherty was charged by Mr. Buckner with having personally destroyed bank records to obliterate the trail of graft which the government contends marked the $7,000,000 transfer, and out of which, it is alleged, arose one of the biggest post-war graft cases affecting the government.

Merton's testimony came as capehenf to that of two other witnesses and a four hours opening address by Mr. Buckner, who asserted he would show that Daugherty and Miller participated in bribes totalling $441,000. He alleged that Daugherty, his brother Mal E. Daugherty and Jesse Smith, an aid of Daugherty who committed suicide, destroyed or arranged to have destroyed records of the Midland National bank, at Washington Court House, Ohio, which would have revealed that some of the $441,000 was deposited to Daugherty's account.

Mr. Buckner said he would show that $50,000 of the $391,000 in Liberty loan bonds Merton is alleged to have given Jesse Smith, were raced to a brokerage account of Miller.

The first witness called was Miss Virginia Ward, a clerk in the alien property custodian's office at Washington. She identified documents she had delivered to department of justice agents investigating the charges against Daugherty and Miller. They included the claims of the Societe Suisse.

Mrs. Edna Earle, of Newton, Mass., the second of the three witnesses was a clerk in the office of the alien property custodian during Miller's incumbency. She identified a number of ledgers and documents offered as exhibits.

Merton's testimony centered upon his meeting with John T. King, who was indicted with Daugherty and Miller but died shortly after the indictment was returned. Merton testified he met King through a friend, with whom he was transacting business of related to the case. King, he said, introduced him to Jesse Smith and Miller.

Merton was asked what he wanted of King.

"I wanted him to bring me into contact with people who knew what should be done to get a prompt and fair hearing of the claims for restoration of the American Metal company property. I wanted him to put me in contact with the men who could decide such matters."

After he had explained these things to King, the latter introduced him to Smith. Merton then told his wishes to Smith, he said, and Smith said he would introduce him to Miller. King and Smith took him to a hotel and introduced him to Miller, he testified. At this point court adjourned until Friday morning.

The sketch of the government's case by Buckner began with the history of the founding of the German companies; the establishment of the American Metal company and the organization of the Societe Suisse, which he described as nothing more than a holding company and the stock of the German companies, whose chief asset was the American Metal company.

After the seizure of the German owned stock of the American Metal company in 1918, three years passed without a claim being made against the government, and then Merton laid claml to it, contending it was wrongfully seized. Merton, after alleged conferences with Miller, returned to Germany and prepared a claim as instructed by Miller, Buckner said.

This claim, Buckner said, was passed and payment of $6,453,979.07 was made by check and Liberty loan bonds amounting to $544,000 were transferred to Merton, as agent for the Societe Suisse. The claim Buckner said, was not investigated by either Miller or Daugherty.

Buckner then described the manner of the payment of the money to Merton. The checks, he said, were signed by Guy D. Goff, senator from West Virginia, then first assistant to Daugherty. They were delivered to Miller, who brought them to New York and at a champagne dinner with Smith and King in Merton's room at the Ritz-Carlton hotel, gave them to Merton, Buckner declared.

The next day, Buckner asserted, King went to a New York bank with Merton. Merton gave the checks to the cashier and ordered the $544,000 in Liberty bonds, which had arrived at the bank by post, to be sent to a brokerage house. There, Buckner said, he had witnesses to testify, King was handed $391,000 which he counted before driving away in a taxi. Miller and Smith were in New York at the time. Merton had previously paid $50,000 to King, making a total of $441,000, Buckner asserted, as the price for defrauding the government of nearly $7,000,000.

Tracing the disposition of the alleged bribe of $391,000 in Liberty loan bonds, Buckner said he would produce evidence to show that Miller had accepted $50,000 of this.

GOV. HUNT OF ARIZONA IS ASSURED OF RENOMINATION

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Arizona's political war horse, Governor George W. P. Hunt, democrat, tonight was virtually assured of renomination for a sixth term on the face of incomplete returns from 338 of the state's 644 precincts in yesterday's primary. The vote stood: Hunt 17,334; E. E. Eddlewood, Phoenix attorney, 10,771, State Senator J. C. Cox, 7,754.

Carl Hayden, Arizona's only congressman, had deluged his opponent, Charles Rutherford, Jerome attorney, 19,087 votes to 6,424 for the democratic senatorial nomination.

Senator Ralph H. Cameron, unopposed for the republican senatorial nomination, had polled a vote of 8,318.

After trailing Amos A. Betts, retiring chairman of the state cooperation commission, Lewis W. Douglas, former member of the legislature, jumped into the lead for the democratic congressional nomination. The vote showed: Betts, 11,120; Douglas, 11,836; H. A. Davis, 3,420; Frank Duffy, 3,909.

As returns filtered in, E. S. Clark, territorial attorney general of Arizona, seeking the republican gubernatorial nomination, saw his lead of 900 over his opponent, Thomas Maddock, cut to less than 700. The vote gave: Clark 4,545; Maddock, 3,888.

MURDERED MAN, WHO HE CLAIMED HAD RUINED HIM

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Benjamin Turner, 35, an accountant of Mexico City, Mexico, is under arrest here, held for slaying James D. Hallen, 64, at his home in Falmouth Foreside, a suburb, today, by firing five shots from a 38 caliber revolver into his body.

Following the shooting Turner is alleged to have stuck the smoking revolver into his pocket and to have submitted quietly as Alberto Starling, a painter who was working on the roof of the Hallen residence, dropped to the ground and grabbed him.

Starling and Mrs. Maud Haskell, a neighbor, described in some detail the circumstances preceding the shooting of Hallen by Turner, who is alleged to have come from Mexico with the express intention of having revenge on Hallen for alleged wrongs, although he denies going to the Hallen home with intention of killing the latter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hallen were seated on the porch of their home, Mrs. Haskell says, when Turner approached. The latter and Hallen talked a few minutes in the presence of Mrs. Hallen, after which she left and went into the house. Hallen then is said to have invited Turner to 'walk down the road.' They reached a point about 20 feet from the house, stopped a minute and Turner, according to Mrs. Haskell, pulled out an automatic and fired at Hallen.

Turner refuses to reveal his native city but replies, "well, say I am from San Francisco."

"He ruined me financially." Turner is alleged to have told officers at the sheriff's office.

"I trusted that man as my own father. I put more confidence in him than I would have been justified to putting in my father."

Turner said he left Mexico City about a month ago, went from there to San Francisco and then to New York, from which city he came to Portland about two weeks ago and has been stopping at a local hotel.

The case probably will be presented to the September grand jury which now is in session after Turner has been arraigned in the municipal court tomorrow.

Was a Native of Boston

ROME, N. Y., Sept. 8—(AP)—Rev. Joseph Pamesi, who according to a cable dispatch from Genoa, has presented 70,000 lire for the reconstruction of the parish church of Santa Margherita Maconesi, is pastor of St. John the Baptist church, this city. He came here from Boston nine years ago. He is a native of Biandei Rappi, province of Genoa.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

MADRID, Sept. 8—(AP)—"In applying the laws of the country to the delinquents, the government will not forget what the country owes them for their services," says an official statement issued dealing with the mutiny of the artillery corps.

PEKING, Sept. 8—(AP)—The city of Hanyang on the Yantse river has been surrendered to the Cantonese by the northern troops, it was officially announced. All of the northern generals except Wu Pei-Fu desired to surrender the city, the announcement said.

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 8—(AP)—"Special military measures have been ordered owing to grave indiscipline on the part of the republican guard," was the terse official announcement issued after an unexplained move by the republican guard, which suddenly marched to the suburb of Aghia Paraskevi.

DEADLOCK ON AMERICAN FORLD COURT RESTRICTIONS

GENEVA, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A deadlock was suddenly reached tonight in the problem of American adherence to the world court of justice, which is now in the hands of the special committee of 14, appointed by the world court conference.

Another meeting of the committee will not be held before next week, first, because of the serious nature of the difficulty encountered, and, second, because the members will be occupied with the sessions of the committees of the assembly.

The difficulty arises from the fact that neither the committee nor anybody else knows whether the council of the league of nations, when asking the court for advisory opinions must vote by majority or unanimity. If the unanimity rule prevails, the United States reservations can be accepted immediately, but if the majority system obtains, then the situation is otherwise.

Even if the United States, sitting in the council with equal rights with the members of the council, voted against an advisory opinion, such an opinion could be requested if a majority of the council voted against the American position. This would mean that the American condition could not be fulfilled in practice, because the United States, as the committee interprets the fifth reservation, wants no opinion given in matters in which it has or claims an interest unless the United States has previously consented to the same.

The only way no seen to satisfy the United States would be to amend the convenent so that even if the majority rule existed, America could still enjoy the right of an effective veto. But the delegates realize that it would be difficult to secure an amendment of the covenant, and doubt, moreover, whether the signatories of the court would wish to extend the United States such a privileged position.

At the meeting tonight some members said it would be possible for the United States, by claiming an interest, to block a demand for an advisory opinion earnestly desired by two countries in a dispute. The committee is asking itself whether the United States really wants such extensive authority, and is apparently desirous of getting some enlightment on this point.

In the meantime it is understood that the committee voted today to give the United States, when party to a dispue, the right to vote at the council when the dispute is under consideration—a right which is not enjoyed by the members of the council.

GERMANY ELECTED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Germany, with impressive unanimity, was today elected a member of the league of nations, and was thus bidden to enter the portals of Geneva's institution of peace.

Without a dissenting vote also Germany was designated "for all time," as President Ninchitch put it, a member of the league council, and will thus sit as the equal of France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan.

Germany has accepted the action of the league, for Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general, received a telegram from Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister, announcing the departure of a German delegation for Geneva, and by this acceptance commits herself to submission to all the obligations and responsibilities under the covenant of the league, which was fashioned to outlaw war.

France was the first to vote for the admission of Germany. M. Briand, foreign minister, pronouncing a sonorous "yes" when the roll call of states was taken. He was followed by M. Vandervelde, the foreign minister of Belgium, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, both of whom were emphatic in their approval, and displayed deep satisfaction over the historic event.

The assembly also ratified the recommendation for an increase of the number of the non-permanent members of the council from six to nine.

SENATOR T. L. ODDIE WON RENOMINATION IN NEVADA

RENO, Nev., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Senator Tasker L. Oddie, advocate of world court adhesion, won the republican nomination for United States senator in the state primary yesterday, by a majority of more than two to one. Tabulation of revised figures late today gave him 7,716 to 3,665 for E. E. Roberts, mayor of Reno, world court opponent and according to his political opponents, an opponent of federal prohibition.

Raymond T. Baker, former director of the mint and a world court advocate, won the democratic senatorial nomination with nearly as many votes as his three opponents combined. The vote stood:

Baker 4,363; Judge P. A. McCarren, 2,524; C. H. McIntosh, 1,089; W. E. Brennan, 800.

There were no contests for the nomination for Nevada's seat in the lower house of congress nor for governor.

HARTFORD, Sept. 8—(AP)—A notice of intention to organize a bank at Moosup, to be known as the Moosup Trust company, has been filed with Bank Commissioner John E. Byrne. A date for hearing on the matter will be set when complete organization papers have been filed. The incorporators of the proposed institution are Charles T. Aldrich, of Providence, R. I., Lucius B. Cranska, Harry Richardson, Thomas J. Seaton, Bradford W. Danielson, Thomas Hope and Alfred Champaigne, of Moosup; Irving W Davis, of Danielson and Fred W. Tillinghast, of Plainfield.

She[riff] and Deputy Were Shot and Killed

By Man Whose Arrest Was Ordered on Charge of Violating School Attendance Law.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Granville Holben, a well-to-do farmer, was shot to death tonight after he had shot and killed a sheriff and his deputy and wounded two other officers who were attempting to arrest him on a charge of violating the compulsory school law.

Barricading himself in his house Holben held the officers at bay for several hours. All other means to dislodge him having failed, the officials finally decided to set fire to the house and the farmer was shot and instantly killed as he fled from the flames. The two wounded men were not seriously hurt.

Holben made his dash for freedom with the shotgun in his hands, but two well-directed bullets through the head brought him down. Before it was decided to burn the house, the besiegers learned that Holben's wife and children had been sent to another farmhouse earlier in the day, apparently in preparation for his defiance of the officers.

One load of buckshot killed Sheriff Mark Sensenbach and Deputy Sheriff Harry Siegfried when they attempted to serve the warrant. Aid was summoned from this city and state troopers also joined in the effort to dislodge Holben, who, neighbors said, had been acting strangely for six months.

Allentown police, armed with riot guns, stormed the house, but they were met by a fusillade from the farmer. Sergeant Charles Lawall was shot in the hand while directing the police and John Maury, a motorcycle officer, received a flesh wound on the cheek from Holben's bullets.

LENROOT WAS DEFEATED IN WISCONSIN PRIMARY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 8—(AP)—Governor J. J. Braine, republican progressive, carrying the endorsement of United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette yesterday defeated Senator Irvine L. Lenroot for renomination for senator, but saw the defeat of his own candidate, Herman A. Ekern, in the gubernatorial race. Fred Zimmerman, progressive republican, who headed an anti-LaFollette faction was victorious over Ekern by over 50,000 plurality and Braine saw the usual LaFollette plurality cut appreciably by Lenroot.

Blaine was pledged to seek reconsideration of adherence to the world court, and amendment of the Volstead act. Nomination of the five republican progressive congressmen appeared certain except possibly John D. Beck in the eighth district with the remainder by the state officers also assured of the Blaine-LaFollette group.

The victory of Zimmerman was attributed to by politicians to his support of the principles of the late Robert M. LaFollette and the promise to give a square deal to labor and industry alike. And at the same time because of his opposition to the element known as the "Madison Ring," described as the Blaine-Ekern forces. Frank J. Kelly, who made his platform "wet" in campaigning for the senate, ran a poor third.

Fate of the democrats, needing 16,000 votes to keep their candidates on the ballot, remains in doubt with few precincts reported.

Senator Lenroot tonight said he would support Governor Blaine, adding he "had no regret" because of his defeat.

The defeat of Ekern may cause Phil LaFollette to become an independent gubernatorial candidate in November with the Blaine-LaFollette support.

HEARING ON REGULATION OF BUSSES AND PRICES

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Federal regulation of motor busses and trucks sought by the railroads would be extended next to the private automobile, "for that is a competitor of their business," Albert T. Marshal of New Britain, Conn., told the interstate commerce commission hearing here today.

Mr. Marsh, who represents the Motor Truck association of Connecticut, declared that what the railroad sought was elimination, not regulation, and termed the motor truck the rescuer of remote New England industries rather than the destroyer of the rail business.

Railroad officials who urged regulation but differed on the form it should take, were the first to testify. William Wood, freight traffic manager of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, said his gross loss annually is $10,000,000 from motor competition, while F. C. Foley, passenger traffic manager of the same road, said his department attributed an annual loss of $27,899,287 to this competion. H. F. Fritch, Boston and Maine passenger traffic manager, told the commission passenger traffic on his road fell off 22.8 per cent. between 1921 and 1925. Bentley W. Warren, counsel for street railway interests, declared flatly that "congress should prohibit the interstate business of motor busses."

Mr. Marsh, in opening the argument for the bus lines, declared that the public had made no demand for federal regulation and that when such a demand was made it would have the support of the truck associations.

"We are fighting the battle for the public. If the railroads gets this, next they will be demanding regulation of the private car, for it is a competitor of their business. The railroads have broadcast that they had to give up some roads because of motor competition. The fact is that the motor truck came to the rescue of New England industries and the railroads are getting the benefit of it while they growl about a 3 per cent. competition."

WOMAN CENTENARIAN TAKES AIRPLANE TRIP

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 8.—(AP)—"Grandma" Almatia Bennett, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., not only celebrated her 100th birthday here today by flying 1200 feet over Portland harbor and its islands but she made a date with Harry Jones, who piloted the Curtis sea gull in which she made the trip, to repeat the performance on her 105th birthday.

Mr. Jones, a former army flier, not only promised to have ready for her a much larger plane but intimated that it might be possible for him to grant "grandma" her cherished desire for an air voyage to California at that time.

"It was wonderful. You ought to try it," Mrs. Bennett told spectators on the runway at the Doyen Ship yards, where the flight started and ended, as she alighted from the plane.

She had risen early and eaten a light breakfast of toast, tea and a melon, refusing an egg because, as she explained laughingly, "it'll make me too heavy going up."

The plane in which the flight was made is capable of a speed of 80 miles an hour and at the insistence of his aged passenger Aviator Jones had thrown the throttle wide open.

As her ten minute ride in the air ended Mrs. Bennett alighted from the plane as fresh as a young girl and expressed her sorrow that the trip was over.

Simple Funeral Rites For Charles H. Clark

Three Governors of Connecticut and Two U. S. Senators Among the Notables Present.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 8.—(AP)—With services of beautiful simplicity, Charles Hopkins Clark, editor of the Courant, was laid at rest in the family burial plot in the Spring Grove cemetery this afternoon.

Three governors of Connecticut and two United States senators joined with notables of the publishing and financial world and leaders in the business, professional and social life of the state to pay him a last tribute. Governor Trumbull, former Governors Marcus H. Holcomb and Frank B. Weeks, United States Senators George P. McLean and Hiram Bingham, Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, Melville E. Archibald, pastor of the South Congregational church.

There was no eulogy of the man who had occupied such a prominent place in the state of his birth.

Short readings from the psalms and scriptures and two prayers chanted while the congregation knelt made up the service.

At the grave the simple committal service was read while the mourners bared their heads to the bright sun and the cooling breezes that blew over the cemetery.

Chopin's "Funeral March" was played as the casket was carried into the church. Heading the solemn procession to the flower-banked altar, the pastor chanted the opening passages of the burial service for the dead. He was followed by the honorary pallbearers, with ex-Governor Holcomb and U. S. Senator McLean leading, and then the casket, draped with a blanket of red roses and borne by employes of the Courant, who served as active pallbearers.

The honorary bearers were Judge Edward B. Bennett, of Hartford; Charles F. Brooker, of Ansonia, chairman of the board of the American Brass company; ex-Mayor Louis R. Cheney; Henry H. Conland, treasurer, and Edward M. Day, director of the Hartford company, all of Hartford; Dr. Frederic S. SHEFFIELD IS SUSTAINED IN HIS MEXICAN POLICY

President Coolidge and the State Department Affirm That the American Ambassador is Acting in Accord With the Washington Government—Mr. Sheffield Will Return to Mexico City in the Fall With the Full Support of the American Government.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Entire confidence and support for James R. Sheffield, American ambassador to Mexico, by President Coolidge and the state department was voiced strikingly today at the executive offices of the summer white house.

The statement was accompanied by a definition of policy which was generally regarded as reiterating and setting out broadly anew the position of the Washington government toward Mexico after Ambassador Sheffield had conferred with Secretary Kellogg of the state department at Washington as well as with Mr. Coolidge here.

It was also made after the president had considered other elements in the situation, such as the request of the Knights of Columbus for any protection by the United States to ameliorate conditions in the southern republic where Catholic church men are engaged in a religious controversy with President Calles.

Without any direct reference to reports that Mr. Sheffield, who has come to this country for a vacation, would not return to Mexico City and that he was in disagreement with the Washington administration's Mexican program, officials, speaking for the president, not only declared that he had the support of the American government but would return to Mexico City in the fall with that support.

Upon his return to Mexico, it was emphasized, he will continue to have that support in the policies he has carried out and will continue to carry out, without any change being anticipated by the president.

The views of Mr. Coolidge were made known at a newspaper conference which was marked by frequent interplay of question and answer between the correspondents and the official spokesman for the president.

Mr. Sheffield, who, it was explained, had adopted a policy upon leaving Mexico City of declining to give interviews, did not speak but was present throughout the conference. He is a guest for several days at White Pine camp and accompanied Mr. Coolidge and Attorney-General Sargent, also a summer white house guest, to the executive offices today. Later the three were photographed together.

As for the religious dispute, it was said that the Washington government would deal with that as it would with any other questions that might affect the rights of American citizens in person or property; it would try to protect the rights of the American people.

Of both the religious question and the application of the oil and land laws of Mexico to Americans, it was reiterated that the policy of the Washington government was to protect the rights of American citizens in the enjoyment of the personal privileges they are entitled to under international law, usage, custom and treaties, and to protect their rights in the ownership and use of their properties.

There have been no recent developments in connection with either of these questions, it was added, while Mr. Sheffield has made no recommendations concerning any protests touching the religious controversy.

There has been a good deal of recession, it was continued on the part of the Mexican government in the matter of the claims it has made of the privilege of interesting with the rights and business of American citizens in Mexico. There are yet, it was added, some questions pending touching the right of American citizens to hold property and to conduct business there.

The American government was said to feel that there was a very good condition of order in the southern republic. There has been practically no complaint about disorder now, it was added, but rather about prospective instead of present interferences with the rights and business of American citizens in Mexico. There are yet, it was added, some questions pending, touching the right of American citizens to hold property and to conduct business there.

Mexico has been in a condition of uncertainty, it was pointed out, and there have been quite a number of years of banditry and revolution but for the past three or four years that has been getting less and less so that there is now not believed to be much cause for complaint about a condition of disorder such as that which characterized Mexico some years past.

The United States, it was remarked, has not been able to prevent considerable lawlessness in this country, although the authorities make every effort to apprehend and punish violators of the law. Yet, it was added, it would not be maintained that there was burglary and robbery here because the national government was inadequate in authority.

The religious question in Mexico, it was pointed out, touches all sects and denominations but is of more importance to Catholic church men because of the relatively large number of Catholics in that country.

SEVEN BRITISH NAVAL MEN KILLED BY CHINESE TROOPS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8—(AP)—Three British naval officers and four seamen were killed and two officers and thirteen seamen wounded Monday by Chinese troops of Wu Pei-Fu's northern armies at Wanhsien, Cechwan province, 1,250 miles up the Yangtse river. The British gunboat Cockshafer returned the fire, doing considerable damage to Wanhsien, a city of 150,000. How many Chinese were killed or wounded is not known.

The conflict was begun when a British naval party of forty men on a river boat attempted to release two British steamers, the Wanhsien and Wantgung, seized by the Chinese in reprisal for the alleged drowning of fifty six Chinese soldiers August 9 when the British steamer Wanliu in attempting to escape from Chinese captors upset three native boats.

The British killed were: Commander F. L. Barley and Lieutenant A. R. Higgins of the gunboat Dispatch; Lieutenant C. F. Ridge and the gunboat Cockshafer and Seamen Farminer, Aslam, Marrott and Farrow. Dangerously wounded were Lieutenant Commander L. S. Acheson, commander of the Cockshafer and Seaman Beese of the gunboat Scarab. Others less severely wounded were Lieutenant J. O. Fogg Elliott of the gunboat Mantis and twelve seamen.

The Chinese troops were commanded by General Yang Sen, adherent of Wu Pei Fu, war lord of the central provinces who was at Hankow, hundreds of miles distant defending himself against Cantonese forces. Yang's men had seized the British steamers Wanhsien and Wantung, refused negotiations and threatened to fire upon the officers of the gunboat Cockshafer.

The British retired but the next day, Sept. 6, the small river steamer Kiawo with forty men of various British gunboats aboard, succeeded in rescuing the officers of the steamer Wanhsien before the Chinese lining the banks of the Yangtse began firing.

The British party under fire, attempted to approach the steamer Wantung but twenty two of the forty men of the British navy were killed or wounded. They stood by, however, with their unprotected native boat while the Wantung's officers leaped overboard and rescued all of them from the water except Chief Engineer Johnson who was wounded or drowned.

The British gunboat Cockshafer then bombarded the city of Wanshien, its shells doing much damage, with an undetermined number of Chinese casualties.

SENATOR MOSES OF NEW HAMPSHIRE RENOMINATED

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Senator George H. Moses, opponent of United States entry to the world court and president pro tem of the United States senate, was re-nominated by the republicans of New Hampshire by a two to one vote, returns from yesterday's primary indicated today. Returns from 367 towns and wards, with those from only 25 small towns missing, gave Senator Moses 33,823 votes, a plurality of 17,756 over former Governor Robert P. Bass, his nearest opponent. Bass polled 15,167 votes and former Judge James W. Remick of Concord, the third opponent, 872 votes.

Robert C. Murchie, Concord attorney, was nominated by the democrats to be the opponent of Senator Moses in the next election. Murchie had a plurality of about 3,000 votes over his opponent, A. W. Noone, of Peterboro.

Governor John G. Winant, who came out in support of former Governor Bass at the close of the campaign, was defeated by Huntley N. Spaulding of Rochester for the republican nomination for governor. The defeat of Winant assured continuance of a 48 year old New Hampshire tradition. Not since the two year term was adopted in 1878 has a New Hampshire governor been re-elected. Mayor Eaton D. Sargent of Nashua will be his democratic opponent.

The race for the democratic nomination for United States representative from the first district remained close tonight with Francis Clyde Keefe of Dover leading Freniand Farley of Manchester by a few hundred votes.

In the senatorial campaign, Senator Moses stood squarely upon his record in the senate while former Governor Bass contended that he had not cooperated with the policies of the administration and had not worked for the best interests of the state.

Two women members of the present legislature, Dr. Zata L. Straw of Manchester, and Mrs. Augusta Pillsbury of Manchester, both republicans, were renominated. Half a dozen other women were nominated for the legislature for the first time.

"STATE OF WAR" DECREE IN SPAIN HAS BEEN ANNULLED

MADRID, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Spain is again a kingdom subject t odictatorship. A royal decree today annulled the "state of war" decreed by General Primo De Rivera last Sunday when the Spanish artillery corps rebelled against the regulation providing for a new elective system of promotion.

The government claims that all artillerymen, chiefs, officers and soldiers, have abandoned resistance, and that all artillery establishments, barracks, parks and repair shops, are in the hands of forces which remained loyal to the government.

The supreme council of war and marine, under whose jurisdiction come all cases of military justice and who will try those responsible for the conflict, still is engaged in collecting evidence and assembling other data bearing upon the revolt.

King Alfonso planned to return to San Sebastian, his summer residence today. The monarch is credited with having brought about a peaceful settlement between the artillery which is loyal to the throne, and the government.

Thus while the military situation appears to have calmed down [illegible] period of expectancy, the political developments remain obscure.

Danielson was in this city to hold an inquest on the death of Victor Swichone, who received fatal injuries when struck and run over by a city street department truck, on Prospect street here, last Friday afternoon. Swichone died at the hospital about half an hour after he was received. Only two witnesses were questioned at the inquest, Mike Yurcsyak, driver of the truck and Patrick Shea, who was working with Swichone shoveling gutter-scrapings into the truck. Repeating their stories, the two witnesses said that the truck was proceeding at walking pace following Shea and Swichone as they went on from one pile of dirt to the other, the piles from ten to 12 feet apart. The truck was headed down-grade on Prospect street, near the head of Spruce street. The right front wheel mounted a large cobble stone which had become loose. When the wheel slipped off the stone, it caused the driver to lose control of the steering for a moment. In that instant the truck swerved against the curbstone. Shea jumped onto the sidewalk upon hearing the warning cry of the driver. Swichone was knocked down by the right fender and the right rear wheel passed over his abdomen, near the right thigh.

At the conclusion of the inquest Coroner Bill announced that he would make known his finding in a few days.

JEWET CITY, Sept. 8—A big monoplane passed over the borough shortly before noon today. At an altitude of not over two feet, its every detail was visible from the street, where many watched until the machine disappeared in the haze off to the east. In passing over the farming districts of Preston, one farmer declared that the machine was brought so low, that he thought the passing pilot figured to pick a pocket full of August sweetings, as the flight continued over his orchard.

As far as learned, none of the papers reported as having been cast over the side, was recovered in this section.

All about the fields and meadows of Griswold are to be seen the array of composite flowers with especial admiration going to the golden roads, joe pye weed, bone set and iron weed, which when meeting the eye together and showing at once the yellow, red, white and purple, presents one of the surpassing color schemes of nature.

Not in 10 years have tomatoes been so large and fair, plenty and prime in every way, as the present crop is showing.

Although there has been no inconvenience here, yet it is a pleasure to know that all times will be standard again the 26th of the present month.

A local man, who visited Buffalo this summer, and recalling the time when half this town hung to standard, while the other half adopted advanced time, said we had nothing on that town.

In Buffalo for several months, there are three times in operation practically all summer, he said. There is eastern standard, daylight saving and central standard time.

The former is one hour later than the second, and the latter is one hour behind the second.

Arriving in Buffalo on E. S. T. one leaves for the west on central time an hour before he gets there, and on advanced time he waits an hour to arrive on standard.

DRIVING WHILE DRUNK CONDEMNED BY JUDGE WILLIAMS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 8—Judge Oliver H. Williams held a special session of Third District court Wednesday noon when cases were disposed of as follows:

State, Frank H. Brown, chief of police of Hopkinton, vs. Francis B. Gilmore of Stonington, charged with the operation of an automobile on the Noosenack Hill road on Sept. 7th when intoxicated.

Gilmore, aged 25, a velvet weaver, entered a plea of guilty. Solicitor Ferguson told the court that the defendant had become objectionable in the evening at the Ashaway Fair ground and complaint was made to Chief Frank Brown, who arrested the man as he was about to drive away. Dr. M. H. Scanlon examined Gilmore when taken to Westerly and pronounced him intoxicated. Represented by Attorney Roche, the defendant claimed to have had a drink of liquor with other young men and to have proceeded but about 15 feet when arested. Judge Williams said that the operation of an automobile by a driver under the influence of liquor was a serious one and taking into consideration that the young man's father had been talked with and that this was the first time the defendant had been arrested, he imposed a fine of $100 and costs.

State, William L. Kay, deputy chief of police of Hopkinton vs. Tony Salimeno of Westerly, a complaint charging on Sept. 7th the unlawful transportation of whiskey, wine and gin and possession of same. The defendant at first pleaded "not guilty," through his Attorney Roche, but later this plea was changed to one of nolo. Solicitor Ferguson represented to the court that while in Hope Valley, a blow-out occurred and at the time the auto went into a side street. Officer Kay, suspecting the auto, went to investigate and found packages of liquor in the car. This liquor was reported as being transported for a party unnamed as a friendly act for which the occupants of the car were to receive no benefit. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs.

In the case of the State vs. Santo Nigrelli of Westerly, a carpenter, also an occupant of the same auto, the respondent pleaded nolo, when Attorney Roche appeared for him. The statement was made to the court that Nigrelli was honest, industrious and bore an excellent reputation and as an evidence of good faith had planned to take wife and children on the trip to Washington, D. C., where the packages were obtained. He claimed not to have anticipated any financial gain from his act and this was the first time he had ever come before court. He was fined $100 and costs.

The operation of busses from Providence to Westerly will result from the application of Clarence W. Cummings, 12 East street, Providence, notice of the pendency of which was given the Westerly town council at the September council meeting Tuesday. No action was taken in sending a representative, to operate interstate busses between Providence and Pawcatuck, Conn., which was granted Wednesday afternoon by the Rhode Island state board of public utilities commission. Mr. Cummings heretofore has operated busses between Providence and Narragansett Pier during the summer season.

Wednesday morning workmen in the employ of the Westerly highway department began taking up the old flagstone crosswalk between the post office and the St. Clair corner for the purpose of making a wider and smoother crosswalk. After the removal of the flagstone the granite block paving stones were taken up for a width of 15 to 20 feet. Hot mix surface was applied after a new foundation of crushed stone had been laid. When completed this will be marked with brass disks similar to the crosswalks at the head of Main street.

The Westerly highway commission at its Tuesday night meeting awarded John Bristow of Narragansett, R. I., the contract to rebuild the section of Wells street from East avenue to the westerly line of the Westerly hospital, which is the easterly line of the properties of Harry Gavitt and Roger Dunham.

The contract calls for an 18-foot asphalt road which will cost $9,755. The section of Wells street between the Gavitt and Dunham properties will not be rebuilt, as the highway commission has been unable to make satisfactory arrangements with the property owners on both sides of the road for the widening of the street.

The town owns a strip of land 60 feet wide from the Gavitt and Dunham places through to East avenue, and it is this section which will be rebuilt.

Work will commence on the contract next Monday morning and as soon as the road is finished practically all traffic to and from Westerly hospital will be via East avenue.

It was stated Wednesday that personal letters were sent to all of the property owners on Wells street regarding the proposed widening of the road, but only one responded. This party resides in California and is said to have agreed to anything reasonable that the highway commission might deem necessary, to widen the street at the west end.

During the past two weeks all the Westerly schools have been thoroughly cleaned and put in readiness for the opening of the term. The high schols and the Elm street, Park avenue and Quarry Hill schools have been repainted and a number of rooms in the elementary schools have been redecorated. Many desks in the schools have been refinished. A noticeable improvement at the Elm street school is a new granolithic walk that has been laid east of the building.

First Lieut. Elvin J. Andrews, Battery E, Two Hundred and Forty-third Coast Artillery, Rhode Island National Guard, of Westerly, has been honored by Governor Pothier with the appointment to attend the Coast Artillery school at Ford Monroe, Va., for the battery officers' course.

DANIELSON

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN THE TEXTILE FIELD.

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 8.—Any favorable news dealing with improved conditions in the textile field is of unvarying lively and general interest in Danielson, and this was particularly true of a press dispatch appearing in The Bulletin of Wednesday, reviewing improved conditions in the industry in New England.

This story carried a paragraph telling of a night force which this week has been put to work at the Globe yarn mills in Fall River. This plant is owned by the Connecticut mills of this town and yarn made there is trucked to Danielson to be used in the manufacture of tire fabrics at the local plant.

It was said at the Connecticut mills here Wednesday afternoon that the increased activity at the Globe plant of the company did not necessarily reflect greatly increased activities in the Danielson mills. The Globe mills have been closed much of the summer. Meanwhile the mills here have been drawing on the reserve supply of yarn that had been accumulated while the mills was producing. Reduction of this reserve has made it possible to start up the Globe mill in operation.

However, textile men in this territory say that, on the whole, business is somewhat better and the prospects for the fall and winter season better than the outlook has been for months past. There appears to be a general feeling of encouragement among the manufacturers though they are careful to stress the fact that this does not mean that any boom or great rush of business is in sight. Business is simply somewhat better than it has been, and it has been very poor.

HEBREW NEW YEAR, 5687, CELEBRATED IN BOROUGH

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 8.—At sundown the Hebrews of Danielson began the observance of the Jewish new year, the feast of Rosh Hashonah. Worshippers here gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal, Winter street, for the solemn ceremonies incident to the eve of the new year. There being no synagogue in Danielson, the services are being held at the Blumenthal home. The Jewish holy days extend through 11 days and will culminate in the Day of Atonement, the fast of Yom Kippur, the most solemn day in the Jewish year, which will be observed with fasting and prayer, beginning at sundown on Saturday, Sept. 18, and continuing for 24 hours. A Providence rabbi will conduct the services in Danielson.

PAINTED CHURCH PROPERTY. THREE TO BE TRIED BY JURY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 8.—The three Brooklyn young men who appealed from the penalties imposed upon them in justice's court in the town of Brooklyn last month, after they had been arrested and brought to court for painting signs on state highway monuments and on the charge of painting markings on the Sacred Heart church property, at Wauregan, have elected to be tried by a jury at the present term of the superior court in Windham.

In his journeyings about the county, Deputy I. Davis, county agent of Putnam, is to be at the John E. Tanner farm in Brook Hill for an hour this (Thursday) morning and at the Charles L. Brern place in Scotland at one o'clock noon. Information that is coming to him that farmers having problems or troubles with him may reach him at these places.

There will be no half-holiday for the store forces in Danielson this week, excepting those operating the local grocery stores. Since early in the year half-holidays have been the rule here, but the arrangement with the exceptions noted ends with Thursday. It will be business as usual this afternoon.

Tonight (Thursday) brings the re publican town caucus to nominate candidates for town offices. Once more republican leaders are urging republicans who can possibly do so to be at the caucus and prevent the stampeding of it by interests that seem to dominate both this and the democratic caucus of Friday evening. This will not be possible if enough members are on hand in numbers as a big attendance is what the republican town committee wants.

Members of Killingly grange enjoyed an especially fine program at this week's meeting. This program was conducted by the lecturer, assisted by Miss Helen Kelley and was designated as rest night and had for consideration vacations, holidays and travels. The program opened with a song by the grange. A paper, My Best Vacation, was presented by Mrs. Myrtice Dowling. Another song, Connecticut, I Love Her, was given by the grange. My Trip to Alaska was the subject of a paper by Miss Helen M. Kelley. Another interesting paper, in two parts, was Echoes from the New England Lecturers' Conference at Orono, Maine. A woman's report on this subject was given by Mrs. A. Tait Hope, a man's report by Ray W. Pellett. A vocal solo by Miss Doris Hope was an entertaining feature of the meeting, which closed with the singing of the grange chorus.

The approximately 500 children enrolled in St. James' school will assemble in St. James' church this (Thursday) morning to attend mass, prior to marching to the school building on the parish property on Franklin street, for the opening of another school year. Everything is in readiness for the beginning of the term at the school, which is in charge of the sisters of St. Joseph, who have conducted the school since it was opened in 1887, a matter of 39 years.

Jewett City has told its troubles relative to the booming of locomotive whistles on Bar Harbor expresses, that go shooting down the line through the towns of the Quinebaug valley, early these September mornings. Danielson has no such complaint to make as Jewett City has filed against the excessive use of the locomotive whistles, but Danielson does get an ample bit of noise from the same source, as the engineers blow for the various grade crossings within the limits of the borough.

Mrs. John E. Young and daughter, Miss Elsa Young, have returned here and re-opened their home on North Main street after nearly a year spent abroad. They visited in various continental capitals, including Rome, Vienna, London and Paris, in which city they remained four months. Their tours included a visit to Venice and in various parts of England and Ireland. They left here October 24 of last year.

There was more talk Wednesday about the possibility of a new theatre being built in Danielson. It would appear that the project, as it is now being considered, involves the forming of a stock company to finance the project in part and a stock selling campaign in Danielson and neighboring communities, after the plan that has recently given Willimantic a new hotel.

The current issue of the State Health Bulletin shows that there were 14 cases of reportable diseases in the town of Killingly during July. Of this number there were four cases of measles, one of scarlet fever, one of tuberculosis and one of pneumonia. Measles were quite prevalent in the state during that month, with a total of 394 cases.

An aeroplane of huge proportions flying over Danielson about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning was the object of prolonged scrutiny by residents of this section.

Malcolm M. Willey, a member of the faculty of Dartmouth college, but for the present in Putnam, was a visitor here Wednesday.

A "33" call brought out the firemen Wednesday morning to fight a blaze that was threatening a motor truck up at Davis park, but the danger was over and the fire out almost as soon as the alarm was in. The truck was not damaged.

Barbers who are members of the local covering all the territory between Putnam and Moosup have made their plans for a Sunday outing at which they will have a shore dinner. The outing will be held at Hopkins grove, near Putnam.

Automobile drivers continue to complain about motorcyclists who are making a speedway of the long, straight stretch of state highway on the route between Danielson and Wauregan. The majority of these offending riders, who race at breakneck speed, are residents of the town of Plainfield. Most of the speeding is done at night.

William Schuster of New York was here Wednesday to arrange for the sale of his farm on South street, a property he has owned for several years. The farm is to be taken over by a resident of Woonsocket.

There is such a tremendous crop of tomatoes in this vicinity that this product is being offered by many growers at unusually low prices.

Arthur G. Browning of Holyoke was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Liquor, already destroyed, seized from a New York car here during the early hours of Saturday morning is said to have had a sale value of about $1,000.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic Wednesday investigating automobile accidents resulting in fatalities. Findings in these inquests are now being prepared by Mr. Bill.

There is special local interest in the fact that Thomas Hughes, driver of a car that was wrecked at Attawaugan and resulted in the death of Lawrence Hughes, also of Webster, pleaded guilty to the charge against him in the superior court at Willimantic Wednesday and received a state prison sentence, as told elsewhere in this issue.

This was a preface to Rev. NEEDLESS WRECKS

All too frequently is it shown that despite the recognized dangers in the operation of trains there is a disposition to disregard responsibilities and dangers and to take chances trusting to luck that everyone else will fully do their part and a little bit more in the prevention of any serious consequences.

This is brought to light in the two recent railroad wrecks, that in Colorado where the engineer is charged with passing curves at a faster rate than is safe and that near Chicago where a head-on collision resulted in the death [illegible] injuries to 100.

In the latter case the engineer admitted that he ignored the signal set against him, continued to send his train along at such a rate that he was unable to stop it when a standing freight train was suddenly confronted. He [illegible] back on the claim that the brakeman of the stopped train had not gone back far enough and that the train had been stopped at a point where it was obscured by another train pulling out. Such excuses amount to little. The real point is that he did not obey the signal that was set against him, which would have prevented the crash had he responded. He was disposed to take a chance, hoping that the way would be cleared or that he could somehow avoid what happened.

In the case where the engineer of a Colorado railroad coaches [illegible] attention and compliance to the block limit had they been cars the result would probably have been much different. As to [illegible] is possibly true. Steel cars are a greater protection to the traveling public in an accident, but however much a series of conditions which [illegible] existed it is impossible to get away from the fact that [illegible] primarily the cause of the colliding [illegible] other factors in the wreck [illegible] contributed to nothing had [illegible] done what he was ordered [illegible] was not a case of oversight [illegible] carelessness and bad [illegible] and the price paid for such [illegible] altogether too great.

The amateur tennis association will undoubtedly miss her but there seems to be no reason for blaming her barring the error of judgment which they may consider she is making.

CONSERVATION EFFORTS

Wisconsin is [illegible] state where many new schemes are tried out on the dog. Some test is under way there most of the time. They may precede similar [illegible] in other states or they may be original.

Apparently Wisconsin is going in for conservation of natural resources on an enlarged scale if we can judge by the manner in which conservation organizations are sounding out the [illegible]

In the Badger state under a constitutional amendment enacted but a short time ago the practice of forestry was authorized and provision was made for the levying of a tax up to six mills. Authority was also granted for the establishment of a large federal forest. These moves seem to have aroused real interest in such activity if we can judge by the inquiries which are being made of all legislative candidates by ten state organizations which claim a membership of 200,000.

It is desired that candidates tell whether they favor the creation of at least four departments of the conservation commission, dealing respectively with forestry, state parks, game and fish and lakes, streams and marshes.

They are also asked to declare whether they favor the removal of such activities from politics and whether they favor the placing of conservation officials under civil service.

This indicates that there are many in that state who are strongly committed to greater conservation efforts along the lines indicated and that there are hopes of strangling any handicaps which politics may try to throw in the way.

Naturally it is to be expected that those answering the queries will fully express themselves and set forth if it is possible where the proposed plan would be detrimental to the interests of the state. Wisconsin would seem to be pretty well organized, or has a strong nucleus of an organization for getting results in a direction which is of no small importance there and in other commonwealths.

MEETING OIL SITUATION

One of the Standard oil officials is quoted as displaying no alarm at the report of the federal oil commission and saying that new fields, new discoveries and new methods will take care of the future.

It is realized, of course, that in the past there have been times when attention has been called to the possibility of the oil supply giving out and to the exhaustion of other resources, but such conditions have not actually occurred.

No one wants the time to come when there will be no more oil available, when the disappearing supply will bring about a constant advance in price or when there will be a wringing of hands because there has been no halt called on the great wastage which always creates undesirable conditions.

In view of the past it is entirely probable that the oil demands will be met in the future, even as the oil magnate points out by driving deeper wells, locating new supplies and reaching out into the foreign field, to say nothing of the increase in the supply through improved methods of handling the raw material in the refineries. But that doesn't justify waste and according to the commission's report there is a large loss each year because of the failure to appreciate the need of conservation. It is well to heed the conditions which are shown and the advice that is offered in view of them before it is too late. There is no use in crying for spilled milk, but there is good sense in preventing the spilling and that is what should be deducted from the study that has been made of the oil industry by the commission which was named by the president.

Any sudden of the kind pointed out can be ironed and met much more easily now than it can six years or a generation hence.

TROLLEYS VS. JITNEYS

Detroit has had some interesting experiences with its transportation lines and is now owns and operates its trolley system at considerable expense and without doubt considerable uncertainty as to the profits. But even the municipal trolleys of Detroit are finding it quite as difficult to meet the unfair competition of the jitneys as are "trolley" lines in other cities operated by private capital.

Resentment against the jitney is based upon the chance that it does not do what was claimed for it. Instead of confining itself to the sections of the city which are not served by the electrics, or to responding to the demands for faster service, the jitney has come to depend for its business upon cutting the patrons of the electrics. This might not seem possible of the service of the municipal system was up to requirements and yet it is always possible where an established transportation line is required to bear the unfair competition of those who operate under no franchise, who do business when they please and who can upon being on hand to catch the cream of the trade but absent when there is nothing to be expected in the way of income to offset the overhead.

The situation in Detroit is no different than it has been elsewhere. The experience is common where no attempt at regulation has been made and if it is a question in Detroit of [illegible] choice between the trolleys or the jitneys there is no question but that the decision will favor the trolleys. Cities which have decided otherwise at first have changed their minds and eventually subjected the jitney to regulations which are reasonable and fair to all concerned. It has taken Detroit some time to get in line but that would seem to be where it is headed.

MAY AND MAN

Could there be anything worse than a winter day—in spring?

Mounted Policeman Hagen, detailed to keep South State street emancipated of tarrying cabs and trucks, rode very straight in the saddle that morning, which meant disaster to the unwise. For even a mounted policeman has difficultiy sometimes in persuading people that traffic, like time, waits for no man.

Officer Hagen had been delivering white slips all morning; in fact, ever since the particularly sharp draft from off Lake Michigan had found a means of entrance beneath his trim blue coat. Hagen, it must be considered, was a suburbanite—little gungalow, shrubbery, lawns, and a stretch of newly spaded garden lovingly softened for the first lettuce and radish seeds.

Last night there had been no Lake Michigan piercers, no occasional snowflakes to wet blanket the smiling surgings of spring. Hagen laughed grimly as he visualized himself laying out hoe, line, seeds and overalls near the furnace for tonight's assault on the stretch of garden. Officer Hagen was no nonconformist to the rule of May and Man.

"Say there, son, what do you think this is anyway, an automobile dormitory?" A Blue Islander in town for the Cubs' game had attempted the heights of indiscretion by jumping out to get a paper, and leaving his cheerful red roadster to the tender tentacles of the street. The Blue Islander grinned.

The Blue Islander was a little too pleasant for Hagen. He carefully and smilingly laid a white slip of paper to rest between the leaves of his billfold.

"Thanks, officer," tipping his hat. "The weather's getting rottener."

Hagen snorted, and dashed an itinerant snowflake from his sleeve. He pulled his coat tighter as another zephyr from the lake found the means of ingress beneath his coat.

A truck driver was indulging in a smoke.

"Say there bud, the boarding stables are six blocks south. Put this in your boy graduate book for sweet remembrance." The truck driver added another to the collection of white slips beneath his cap.

The sweet young deb with the kitten gray coupe had loitered about the department store millinery section, Hagen decided.

"Say, miss, you've been in there long enough to buy all the fixtures in the place."

The sweet young deb sniffed.

"Oh dear! I wasn't gone two seconds. The new creations in from New York were so ravishing. Think of it, a sea-green cloche with pink rosebuds, officer—"

"Rosebuds—"

Good heavens! Last night a smiling thermometer and his own optimism had led him to unwrap the rose bushes from their winter covering. And now the sudden downward lurch of the mercury!

"Tell that to the judge, miss. He likes legends." And a white slip exchanged hands.

"I think you're horrid," with animation.

"I am," coolly.

Up ahead a certain motor truck had anchored its bulk before a hydrant. The driver was engrossed in sweet reveries.

"Hey, there, Johnny, State and Madison's no place to view scenery. Here, try the traffic court."

Thus Hagen had duly disposed of all the slips but one. A single victim more; the dappled nag calmly chewing oats near the signal light!

Hagen whipped out his pencil. Just then the dappled nag lost his hold on the feed bag; the strap broke. His hungry nose floundered helplessly in the air.

Hagen frowned, hesitated. The animal raised imploring eyes. That settled it. Hagen alighted and took up a position in front. He held the dilapidated feed bag, held it until the nag had licked up every oat from every crack. And then, only then, did Hagen see the name on the side of the wagon. "Smith & Son, Nurserymen. Overcome Weather Difficulties by Setting Out Our Half-Grown Seedlings."

Hagen wrote down the legend on the back of the white slip, the last slip.

From that moment on, curiously, the Lake Michigan piercers assumed a balmiest not their own.—Chicago News.

INFANCY—A TIME OF DANGER

W. L. Estes, M. D., Bethlehem, Pa., Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

With the average length of life at the 58 year mark, there is apt to arise an attitude of self complacency on the part of the public unless the tremendous waste of human life is realized. Three periods of wastage are found—infancy, adolescence and middle life.

Of approximately two and one-half million children born in the United States every year, 4 per cent. die before they reach 1 year of life. Taking into account the still born children, the United States loses about 300,000 infants every year. This includes only the infants who die before they are a year old.

At least one-half of these infant deaths could have been prevented. They are unnecessary deaths, sheer waste of child life.

If this very large continued loss applied to pigs or calves of the nation, there would be a wail from Maine to Florida and from New York to California. But as it is true only of human children, little is said. Nothing much is done to prevent this holocaust of infants, and the unnecessary deaths of the innocent go ruthlessly on.

The birth rate of the United States is steadily growing less. Even now the number of deaths is perilously near the increase of population by births every year. Without considering immigration, the population of our country, in a score of years, is apt to be decreasing. The rescue of infants, therefore, becomes an urgent social problem.

Proper mating is essential because heredity plays such an important part in the life of every child. No man or woman should marry who has a constitutional disease. It is criminal for marriage to take place when both partners to the contract are diseased.

Prenatal care for the mother is growing by leaps and bounds. This important life saving matter has until very recently received scant attention where human life was concerned. But in regard to lower animals it has been followed sedulously for years.

While bearing her child the mother should be governed by her physician and follow his orders as regards diet, exercise and the general tenor of her life.

Skilled attention at child birth, proper care of the new born child, especially proper feeding, are also essential if we are to cut down the high infant death rate. Wholesome home life and proper sanitary surroundings for mother and child likewise are necessary.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Henry Arthur Jones, who is receiving congratulations from friends and admirers on both sides of the Atlantic on his recovery from a recent critical illness, is one of England's most successful playwrights and at one time one of the most prolific, though of late years his plays have been few and far between. Mr. Jones began his career as a commercial traveler, and although he detested business he was so successful on the road that he was able to marry and settle down when 21. But he had already succumbed to the fascinations of the stage, although he never entered a theatre until he was 18 years of age. His first visit proved to be the turning point of his career, and he began to devote all his spare time to the study of the drama. The results of his study and efforts were The Middleman, Judah, Mrs. Dane's Defense, The Dancing Girl, and numerous other plays that have been enjoyed by two generations of playgoers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Suggestions

Mr. Editor: We read in the papers: That a certain official of the Salvation Army was coming to a city to look it over and learn what its needs were in order to lay out a plan for work. This organization afforded much comfort to our men in France during the late war, and, perhaps, accomplish aid and comfort to those who march up to the front when soup is ready, but, if this relief is necessary, it should be provided otherwise. We see them in various cities using the busiest corners for weeks before the holidays tinkling bells and gathering coins to furnish a Christmas dinner for the poor, while all kinds of labor was in demand. Seems to us these fat and able bodied men and women might be better employed at work, than in begging on street corners.

That the bank-and payroll robberies go merrily on. These gunmen whose names end with vowels, find conditions here much better than in their own country. Money is plenty, guns and ammunition easily procured, police organization insufficient, risk does not seem great, and gains are large. We sometimes think of accounts of San Francisco vigilance committees in the '50's. One thing is certain, these fellows are not to be held down by anything short of violence. Don Seitz suggests killing them off as fast as we can; that would help.

Meantime we see nothing to prevent local trouble. Why can't corporation employes be paid by checks which would be accepted by merchants and others?

That officials are spurring up our modest drivers to speed up, and get out of the way of others who are in haste to make calls, or get to dinner, or else pull out to one side and let them pass. We note a complete omission of any provision for hasty or violent removal from the street of simple-minded pedestrians who have always labored under the impression that they might use streets which they had paid for. Some twenty odd thousand people are being killed annually in the United States by automobiles and the number is constantly increasing. As this is almost entirely unnecessary, it seems as though something might be done to check the slaughter, especially when it might be done so easily, by any state whose legislature will pass some simple laws. For instance, every automobile operator causing the death of any person, to be debarred for life from driving any automobile on the highways of this state. Such a law must have teeth in it, make it a felony to break the law and fix the penalty by a definite term in prison, with a definite term in state prison for a second offense. Nothing left to court or commissioner. Would such a law seem harsh? How about the families of the 20,000 and their feelings? Should we excuse those of whom the coroners' jury return the usual verdict of "unavoidable accident"? Not a bit of it. One victim for one driver and only one. We drive, and we are quite willing to accept this penalty. Further, we will agree to pay to any charity nominated by The Bulletin $1,000 if the number of deaths in this state from auto accidents in one year, after the passage of such a law is not reduced one half.

We note in an esteemed contemporary, a call to arms for citizens to stop the leak of civic prosperity by buying in our home town. Assuming this to refer to a certain nearby city, we suggest to said esteemed contemporary, to use its influence in having certain policemen obliged to use courtesy, or if that is too much civility to people arriving in automobiles.

Stories That Recall Others

Dad Met the Test.

The minister and his son of 12 years are very close. The other evening they were strolling down the street and became confidential. The minister explained to his son that he had no ambition in life greater than that his word and deed would always meet the approval of the son.

And the son recalled that he wished to live so that his words and acts would always meet the approval of his father.

Several steps were taken in silence and the son remarked: "Well, dad, you are doing all right so far."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Sudden Disappearance.

The way some folk can disappear
You must admit is truly queer.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox and Jimmy Skunk were prowling along the beach, looking for something new and interesting, as well as for something to eat. Now, Reddy had learned by this time that there were quite as many interesting things to see in the water as could possibly be found outside the water. You will remember how he had seen Pa Stickleback in his home, and Pa Sea Horse and his family, and that queer fellow, the Barnacle, who stands on his head

"What do you know about that?" said Jimmy slowly and kicks his feet in the water to get his food. All these Reddy had seen in the water. So it was that he never passed a tide pool without approaching it softly and looking into it to see if he could find something new there.

As Reddy is much quicker than Jimmy Skunk in all his movements, he usually was some little distance ahead of Jimmy. So it was that Reddy was the first to reach a certain pool which the outgoing tide had left. When Jimmy Skunk came up with him, Reddy was staring down at the bottom of that pool, and there was a funny look on his face.

"What are you looking at?" asked Jimmy.

"You tell me," replied Reddy.

Jimmy came to the edge of the little pool and in his turn stared down. "I don't see anything," said he.

"Use your eyes," retorted Reddy. "There it is right down there."

Jimmy winked and blinked and stared, but still he couldn't see anything, and he said so. "I don't see a thing," he said, "but sand."

"You come around here; stand beside me," said Reddy. Jimmy did. "Now," continued Reddy, "you look right down there on the sand. Don't you see that queer, long thing with a whole bunch of feelers at one end, and that is broad and pointed at the other end?"

Jimmy winked and blinked again. Then suddenly he saw it. It was very much the color of the sand, and that was why he had not seen it at first.

"I see it," he cried. "What do you suppose it is?"

"That's what I want to know," replied Reddy.

"Do you suppose it is alive?" Jimmy asked.

"I haven't the least idea," replied Reddy, "but I'm going to find out."

"How are you going to find out?" demanded Jimmy.

"I'm going to roll this little stone in there and see what happens," replied Reddy.

"That's a good idea," said Jimmy.

So Reddy rolled the stone until it fell into the little pool with a splash, almost on the queer thing at the bottom. And then a very strange thing happened. Yes, sir; a very strange thing happened. All the water in that little pool turned black! It was for all the world as if someone had emptied a bottle of ink in there. They couldn't see the bottom at all. That strange thing they had been looking at had disappeared. It had disappeared because the water had turned black, and Reddy and Jimmy could no longer see through it. They had often seen a fish on a muddy bottom stir up a cloud of mud, but this wasn't mud. No, sir, this wasn't mud. The bottom of this little pool was pure sand. There was no mud in it. Reddy stared at Jimmy, and Jimmy stared at Reddy.

"What do you know about that?" said Jimmy, slowly.

"I don't know anything about it," retorted Reddy. "Why don't you ask sensible questions?"

Miss Sigourney conquered Miss Mildred Willard, Philadelphia 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Santa Monica, Cal., runner-up in the national champions two weeks ago, utilized her famous drop stroke off the back hand to defeat Mrs. M. B. Huff, Philadelphia 6-2, 6-1, while Miss Molly Thayer, Philadelphia, eliminated Mrs. Deane Thompson, Washington, Pa., by the same score. Mrs. George W. Wighton, Boston, gave up but four games to Mrs. Harrison Smith, of Philadelphia.

GOLFERS PRACTICING FOR NATIONAL TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The vanguard of the 151 links challengers who will seek to wrest the national amateur golf crown from Bobby Jones already has marched upon Baltusrol, the scene of the 1926 championship event next week.

Fifteen contenders played over the difficult New Jersey layout today, but one of the group was able to equal par 72 for the course, which never has been bettered in a championship tournament. George Von Elm, the Los Angeles star who reached the final round two years ago, posted the best mark at 76.

Other well known players who took practice rounds were Frank Dolp of Pittsburgh, Ore., the youthful star who recently annexed the western amateur title and Wood Dunn of Philadelphia. Kenfe Carle of Oklahoma City, Lawson Little of Englewood, N. J., Cosbe Wade of Cranford, N. J., and Jesse Lloyd of Greenwich, Conn.

Jones is expected to arrive tomorrow for two rounds workout.

SATRAP BRINGS $100,000 FROM AMERICAN BUYER

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The Satrap, last two-year old racing colt of the season in England, has been purchased for Foxcatcher Farms, owned by William DuPont, Jr., for a record price of approximately $100,000, E. J. Tranter of the Fastly-Tipton Company disclosed today.

The sale was concluded through the Fasig-Tipton firm only after a unique agreement under which the Satrap is protected from ever racing again in the United Kingdom. The Tranter syndicate, announcing that it had been the original intention of Foxcatcher Farms to leave the colt in England for turf classics next spring, Major Dermot McCalmont, from whom the Satrap was purchased, objected to having the colt raced against his stable, however.

The Satrap is son of the famous sire Hurry On, winner of the Two Thousand Guinea stake events in which he was entered this year. His victories were scored in the Chesham, July Chesterfield and Richmond stakes, while he finished second in the Rous Memorial stakes.

ACADEMY OPENS WITH ABOUT NORMAL REGISTRATION

When the Norwich Free Academy opened on Wednesday for the school year, it was not possible to give the exact registration of the entering class, according to Principal H. A. BALLOON, RACING AND ATHLETICS MAKE FAIR DAY ATTRACTIONS

Three horse races, athletic events, including seven boxing bouts, a splendid vaudeville programme, band concert and a balloon ascension with a double parachute drop, featured the afternoon at the New London county fair Wednesday. Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond announced Wednesday evening that the attendance for the day was between 2,000 and 3,000 men, women and children. The weather was ideal with bright sunny skies and a light breeze and the race track was in fine condition. All events were run off in good order, and in spite of the long athletic programme and extra heat races, the days events came to a close by 6:30 o'clock. It was just 6:30 o'clock when the balloon man Prof. Arthur Jewell made his trip to the clouds. The balloon was scheduled to go up about 4:30 o'clock but at that time there was quite a stiff breeze blowing and rather than take a chance on losing his balloon, Prof. Jewell decided to wait until the breeze died down. As on Tuesday the balloon went up in an almost straight line and then started to take a northeast course. Prof. Jewell made a double parachute drop, safely landing a short distance northeast of the fairgrounds.

Throughout the afternoon Swahn's band was again on hand and provided another of their splendid concert programmes under the direction of John M. Swahn. The various vaudeville numbers went off without a hitch, the Roman chariot race, hockey race, mule race and Cleopatra, the guideless wonder, being among the outstanding events of the day.

It was a busy afternoon for Announcer Edward T. Connelly, who in his usual capable manner, kept things moving in the vaudeville and athletic line, quickly staging the various attractions between horse race heats.

Cattle Parade

Among the many features of the afternoon was the annual cattle parade. Eight cattle owners, showing in all about 100 head, participated in the parade which took place about 3 o'clock. As the cattle were paraded in front of the grandstand, Announcer Connelly gave the names of the exhibitors and the breed of cattle shown, as follows:

Jerseys, J. E. Lathrop, Pine Loft Farm.

Jerseys, A. D. Barrett, Turn of the Road farm.

Guernseys, W. B. Lathrop, Sunnycrest Farm.

Holsteins, Thomas W. Wood, Camp View Farm, Waterford.

Ayrshires, George Grube, Montville

Milking Short Horns, George B. Gale, Massachusetts.

Aberdeen Angus, George G. Gale, Massachusetts.

Herefords and oxen, C. A. Gager, Norwich.

On Merchants' Row

The merchants' exhibits along the main way are attracting considerable attention and very favorable comment by the many visitors on the grounds. The Gas and Electric Department of the City of Norwich have a splendid exhibit in Merchants' row. At this booth are seen the Universal electric stove and the Universal electric oven cookers, these being demonstrated by Miss Fanny King, factory representative of New Britain. Miss King is a graduate dietician and home economist, in addition to the Universal products the gas and electric department shows an electric washing machine, vacuum cleaner, electric percolators, waffle irons and electric irons. Earle G. Tregent is in charge of the exhibit and is being assisted by Miss Eron M. Broadhurst and James Brassill.

Quinn and Desmond, local clothiers have an attractive exhibit in Merchants row. They are showing U. S. Raynsters, D'Iorio men's clothes and Knox hats. Souvenir key rings are being distributed to visitors at the booth.

The George W. Kies company, local shoe dealers, have an excellent fall showing of Queen Quality shoes. Pied Piper shoes for young folks, and woolen and silk fall hosiery. Souvenir nail files are being distributed to all who visit the exhibit.

The Porteous and Mitchell exhibit of Middleshade men's suits is attracting much favorable comment on the part of the many who have paid visits to this booth. F. T. Diggins is in charge.

Telephone Exhibit

One of the most novel exhibits at the fair is the toll demonstration of the Southern New England Telephone Co. This is the first time that this type of demonstration has been given in eastern Connecticut and it has received much favorable comment by the thousands of people who have watched it. By means of transparencies and flashing electric tubes the complex processes of handling toll calls are comprehensively explained. The demonstration is given continuously during the hours of the fair in the building to the right of the entrance and by a troupe of 16 toll operators who operate the demonstration board and explain in detail just how they establish communication between persons living in different towns.

Another feature in the telephone exhibit is a mechanical display which illustrates in a convincing manner the saving in steps and time that may be made by the installation of an extension telephone in your home or office at slight additional expense.

In another part of the telephone booth a continuous motion picture is displayed which portrays in graphic manner that cooperation on the part of telephone users will result in improved services to themselves.

Fair Notes

The Plaut-Cadden Co. provided visitors with programs of the fair events, also distributed as souvenirs useful papers of needles, was "pointers."

Some of the gladioli sharps who took orders for bulbs for next year got anywhere from $1 a dozen to $7.50 or $10. The interest in these flower spikes is very keen.

LEBANON PASTOR SPEAKS AT SIX CHURCH CONFERENCE

The September session of the Six Church conference was held at Pachaug on Wednesday with 107 present. Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of Newent church presided, as Pachaug is without a pastor. Mrs. Edward Geer opened the morning service with an organ prelude, followed by the doxology, Lord's Prayer and Gloria. After the responsive reading, Rev. Stanley Sellick of Lebanon, the speaker of the morning, read the scripture from Luke 7. Mrs. Howard Byles of Sterling Hill sang a solo accompanied by her sister Miss Florence Douglass. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. H. Clement of Jewett City. The offering was received by Frank Morgan and Rev. William Prentiss. A quartette Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Frank Wilcox, W. B. Montgomery and Harold Geer, sang an anthem.

The sermon by Mr. Sellick was based upon the topic The Prophet of Main St. adding, Main St. in Jerusalem runs nigh unto a place called Calvary. The prosperous people live in one end of the street, the poorer people the other end, and the market place between. These people live their own lives, and do not take other people's souls into consideration. The prophet saw into the depths of men's hearts. Most of us are as prejudiced as the rest of us. We are looking for people who can see both sides of the shield. Again, sin is sin, and until it is repented of, it is still sin, and we cannot be prophets until we really repent. We can move people either to Calvary or to where the prophet lived. Main street runs close to Calvary because we have failed to take sin seriously.

Dinner was served in Grange hall, Rev. Mr. Muttart of Hampton asking the blessing.

The afternoon service was opened by a praise service led by Rev. George W. Clark of Preston City, followed with a solo by Rev. Mr. Sellick. The report of the last conference was read by the scribe Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City. She called the roll which showed 9 from Lisbon, 19 Preston City, 4 Plainfield, 11 Jewett City, 9 Hanover, 25 Pachaug and 30 visitors. A notice was given by Mr. Prentiss of the meeting of the eastern district of the Woman's Home Missionary union of Connecticut to be held in Willimantic on October 14. Rev. Mr. Reeves of Central Village was present, and stated that he had been delegated by the Windham county conference to ask the six church conference to admit that conference to the latter, making a twelve church conference. It was moved by Rev. M. Clark of Preston City that a committee of three, appointed by the presiding officer be appointed to discuss the proposition and report at the conference in Preston City in October. The motion was seconded by Rev. Mr. Prentiss with the proviso that opinions might be expressed at the meeting then in session. Deacon William Lee of Hanover offered an amendment that the committee consist of six, one from each church of the conference. This was accepted and Mr. Reynolds appointed Miss Lucy Baldwin from Lisbon, Miss Margaret Eadie, Hanover, Mrs. Nathan Hall Preston City George Norman, Pachaug, Cecil Butler, Plainfield and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Jewett City. Mr. Prentiss and Mr. Clark then spoke in favor of the request. A rising vote of thanks was extended the church for its hospitality. Mrs. Byles sang another solo.

The talk in the afternoon was given by Miss Susan Armstrong. Her subject was Missions in China. Miss Armstrong has been a teacher in Foo Chow China for five years having been sent out under the American Board of Missions. Although Miss Armstrong was a member of the Baptist church in Jewett City, while at Mt. Hermon she took her membership to the Union church there. When in Oberlin college, she became interested in the mission work in China, especially as eight of her class decided to go there under the Congregational board. She described the beautiful situation of Foochow, and the condition of bondage by which the natives are held. The work there is evangelistic and educational. In her work as teacher she also visits the homes. She had many curios which people examined after the service. Rev. Mr. Reynolds closed the conference with the benediction. The display of flowers was gorgeous, for the whole front of the pulpit platform was banked with beautiful gladioli, phylox, cosmos, roses, fuschia, geraniums a gold handed lily, bachelors buttons and foliage plants.

Gulliver presided at the brief business session at the close of which she introduced Miss Henrietta Browning, director of physical education at Converse college, Spartanburg, South Carolina. Miss Browning spoke informally on "A Summer in Denmark." She gave most delightfully, personal reminiscences of her trip to Denmark on the Scandinavian-American liner; of her study with Director Niels Bukh of the Gymnastic Folk High school at Ollerup, Denmark; of her life among the Danish people on the island of Fyn, and of visits to the former homes of Hans Christian Anderson and the sculptor, Thorwaldsen, also Thorwaldsen museum in Copenhagen.

FELL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT AT CENTRAL BLDG.

Daniel Donohue, 72, who lives in Ferry street and runs the elevator at the Central building on Broadway, was severely injured there about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening by falling down the elevator shaft from the first floor to the basement. Police headquarters were notified when he was found and Capt. Murphy dispatched Officers Hugh McAvoy and P. Shahan with the patrol wagon to rush the man to the Backus hospital.

At the hospital early this (Thursday) morning it was stated that Donohue has passed a very uncomfortable night, complaining of bad pains in his head but it had not yet been determined whether his skull was fractured. He was suffering severely from shock.

Donohue, it was learned, had run the elevator to the top floor and left it there, walking downstairs to the street floor, and when he opened the elevator door at the main floor level again he walked into the open shaft and fell to the basement, a distance of about 10 or 12 feet.

RECKLESS DRIVING CASE CONTINUED SIX MONTHS

The case of Earl R. Frink of New London, which was before the city court on a reckless driving charge on Wednesday morning, was continued for six months in order that he might have time to settle for the damages in an automobile accident in Main street in front of the Boston store Tuesday night. Frink was driving the automobile which was jammed between a trolley car and another machine that was parked at the curb.

Three men paid fines of $5 and costs each for intoxication.

In the court Tuesday morning, Leonard Rollo of New London was fined $50 and costs for passing a standing trolley car on Laurel Hill Monday night, in doing which he struck Miss Maud Marshall who had got off the car. Rollo claimed that he saw two passengers get off and thought that was all, but Miss Marshall got off later and he couldn't stop in time.

CROWDED CONDITIONS AS PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN

Crowded conditions were revealed in some of the public schools when they opened Wednesday for the school year, this being particularly in the West Town street and Town street schools where there are three rooms with 50 pupils in each of them and no place for an overflow. Some of the lower grades in Broad street and Broadway school have a registration beyond their capacity. It is expected that the problem of accommodations will be worked out by the school authorities during the next few days.

STONINGTON REP. CAUCUS. WITH SEVERAL CONTESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 8.—Nearly 1,000 voters of the town of Stonington crowded borough hall tonight for the republican caucus to nominate town officers. James H. Weeks was elected moderator and Jerome S. Anderson, Jr., clerk.

Moderator Weeks, on looking around the hall and viewing the throng assembled, said, "It is only fair that we request our democratic friends to make all possible room for those entitled to vote in a republican caucus." There were perhaps 100 spectators present at the time, many of them democrates. Clerk Anderson read the call and Moderator Weeks called for the nomination of an assessor. William A. Maxwell of Pawcatuck was nominated by Alexander Marr, and endorsed by acclamation.

For board of relief, Lorenzo D. Fairbrother was named by Charles Ryan who said that his candidate had acted in that capacity for 11 years. The vote was by acclamation.

For first selectman John Fribance of Mystic was named by James Cooper; he said his candidate's record was his best recommendation, and that he was a man of practicaly ability and honesty. He was nominted by acclamation. For second selectman, Arthur Babcock of Pawcatuck was named by Charles J. Norris and he was voted by acclamation.

For agent of town deposit fund, John Fribance was named by James Cooper and was the choice of the caucus.

For auditor, Louis E. Hammond was accepted by acclamation.

The real contest of the evening came in the nomination of collector of taxes, when D. Everett Hoxie, present incumbent, was nominated by Joseph Scott. Edwin K. Parker was nominated by the republican town committeeman, Albert G. Martin. Mr. Martin said that Mr. Parker was a well known business man of Pawcatuck and an ideal candidate, who would look after the town's interests.

John B. Grinnell of Mystic inquired of the moderator, "Hasn't Mr. Hoxie collected our taxes?" I would like to know what the report is, so that I can vote intelligently."

Moderator Weeks said, "This is not a town meeting and we can't call for any reports."

A voice from the gallery nominated Charles Opie and he was the first nominee. L. D. Fairbrother moved that the vote be taken by ballot and Alexander Marr and Robert L. Burch were made tellers, and later Judge Snyder and Theodore Dewhurst were named as assistants. Someone asked that the count be made out in the hall and not in the back room, as at the last caucus. Several demands were made for the use of a check list and in the confusion Moderator Weeks announced, "We are going to have order, if we employ every constable and deputy sheriff in the county! This is serious business." Charles J. Norris asked what procedure should be taken through securing a check list. He thought, in the name of fair play, that it was necessary for the request be put in writing that the voters should know. Moderator Weeks ruled that a check list should not be used, so voting by paper ballot began, being completed at 5:45. Judge Wilcox moved that the caucus proceed with the remaining business and William Ostman of Stonington, named by L. D. Fairbrother, was the choice for constable.

C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck, second district, was nominated for a constable by acclamation, as was also John Jeffry of the fourth, of Mystic district and Urban C. Whitford of Old Mystic, for the fifth district.

For registrar of voters James H. Weeks was named by acclamation, for the first district.

A contest developed in the second, or Pawcatuck district, when L. K. Burdick was nominated by A. G. Martin of the town committee and Fred W. Boulter by William Bliven. Boulter declined and Henry Langworthy was named and it was voted that the election proceed by paper ballot. B. A. Babcock and Charles Ryan were named tellers.

For registrar of the third district, Seth N. Williams was nominated, for the fourth district John Jeffery and for the fifth district Albert Haley, all by acclamation.

For town school committee, Karl G. Stillman of Pawcatuck was named by Judge Wilcox. A Wilcox and his endorsement was by acclamation. For a second members of the town school committee Judge L. D. Fairbrother of Stonington was proposed by Charles Ryon.

While the ballots were being counted Mr. Grinnell of Mystic stated that Amos G. Hewitt fell dead today while in a field near his residence and that he had been an assessor of taxes for 15 years and a member of the board of relief. The caucus passed a resolution of sympathy, to be sent to his sister, Miss Sinclair, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Announcement was made in the contest for tax collector that the total vote cast was 737, necessary for choice 369. D. Everett Hoxie having 462, Edwin K. Parker 261, L. K. Burdick 2, Charles Opie 1 and one scattering.

Collector-elect Hoxie in a short speech said that one of the pleasures of his office had been to meet so many friends and that he thanked them for their support and would endeavor to do as well in the future as he has in the past.

In the contest for registrar of voters in the second, or Pawcatuck district, L. K. Burdick received 145 votes and Henry Langworthy 71.

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tarkroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tarkroot, one spoonful, and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and sagginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes!

The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.

SUPERIOR COURT SESSION MAKES NEW RECORD FOR THIS COUNTY

Without having a case come to trial, either before a jury or before the court, the September session of the criminal superior court finished its business here early Wednesday afternoon and took an indefinite recess. The court term had opened the day before at 2:30 in the afternoon. Not in 25 years at least, according to the recollection of Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton who has been a court officer for that time, has there been a session of the criminal court without a trial.

About 27 new cases were on the docket and in all but about nine of these, fines, jail, reformatory or state prison sentences were given. Such an unusual record for dispatch of court business did not fail to impress Judge Alfred C. Baldwin who presided and when he closed court for the day Wednesday he paid State Attorney Arthur M. Brown high compliment for his admirable and efficient preparation for the court session, resulting in a large saving of expense to the state, with justice being done at the same time.

Observers of criminal superior court sessions in this county have for some time been noticing the changed conditions in the conduct of criminal court sessions since Mr. Brown became state attorney for the county. Under former state attorneys it was the regular thing to find the court room jammed on the first day with a throng of witnesses in the various cases that were to come up, a crowd of the curious filled the seats assigned to spectators, deputy sheriffs bustled back and forth on business for the state attorney and many lawy

SPORT PROGRAM AT COUNTY FAIR BROUGHT FORTH SPIRITED RUNNING

Patrons of the New London county fair Wednesday were treated to one of the best field meets and boxing exhibitions ever seen in this city. The track program brought to this city many of the best dashers and runners in the state and in several events the finishes were extremely close. In the amateur boxing events, of which there were seven, the New Haven Harriers of New Haven provided four bouts and the stable of Shiek Leonard of Norwich three, a majority of them being as fast as have been seen in this city in many a day, called by many as good, if not better than professional bouts.

The field and boxing events attracted a much larger attendance than is usual at a third day of the local fair and although the boxing bouts were not over until nearly 7 o'clock, over 1,000 people remained in the grandstands and about the ringside to watch the bouts.

Keen rivalry was noticed in three of the track events, especially in the A. A. U. open and the closed eastern Connecticut 100-yard dashes. In these events, Joe Jackson of the Duwell A. A., Norwich, state amateur champion, was beaten twice by Gordon W. Winslow of Putnam, running unattached. The time in the A. A. U. 100 yard dash was clocked at 10 1-5 seconds, with Winslow leading Jackson by a single step at the take. In the closed to eastern Connecticut 100-yard dash, the finish was even closer, Jackson being less than six inches behind Winslow at the tape. Although this did not cost Jackson the state championship, it indicates that he will have strong competition at the state meet at New Haven next year if Winslow enters. Winslow seemed to get off better at the crack of the gun and this advantage was of great assistance to him in leading Jackson to the tape.

The only other closely contested field event was the one mile run, closed to eastern Connecticut. In this event John Jacoby of Storrs, Conn., unattached, was hard pushed by John Sullivan of Duwell A. A., Norwich, finishing but one-fifth of a second in the lead at the tape, the time being 5.14 1-5 for Jacoby and 5.14 2-5 for Sullivan.

The events in order of their running were as follows:

Closed Playground—100-Yard Dash

There were five entrants in the 100-yard dash for Norwich playgrounds and the dash was run in the time of 11 4-5 seconds, surprisingly good, considering the age of the runners. Joe Sadinsky of the Elizabeth street playground started in the lead but was overtaken at the 80 yard mark by Victor Flaherty of the Lake street playground, Flaherty finishing first and Sadinsky second. Walter Anton, another Lake street entrant, took third place.

Closed E. Conn. One-half Mile Run

In this event the four runners were all from the Duwell A. A. of Norwich, John Sullivan breezing home well in the lead of his club mates, the time for the half being 2.12 1-2, six seconds faster than the time of John Keely who finished in second place, in 2.18 4-5. John P. Murphy finished in third place, his time being 2.21 2-5.

A. A. U. Open 100-Yard Dash

This event was one of the feature races of the day as it brought together Joe Jackson, Duwell A. A. of Norwich, state amateur champion and Gordon W. Winslow of Putnam, unattached, who claims the state title. Jackson was favored to win the dash but Winslow got off to a better start and crossed the line a step in the lead, his time being 10 1-5 seconds and Jackson's time 10 2-5 seconds. Fred Tuttle of the New Haven Harriers finished in third position and Charles E. Murphy of Putnam, unattached, finished fourth.

A. A. U. Open 1 Mile Run

There were but three starters in the A. A. U. open one mile run and John Jacoby of Storrs, Conn., favorite to win, lived up to the expectations of the crowd. He took the lead from the first and gradually increased it over Maurice Weldon of the New Haven Harriers, finishing the mile in 5.00 4-5, while Weldon required 5.04 4-5. Oscar Mosesian of the Duwell A. A. of Norwich finished in third place, far behind the leaders.

Playground 400-Yard Relay

In the playground 400-yard relay the crowd at the race track were treated to one of the fastest finishes of the day when Joe Sadinsky, running the final hundred yards for the Elizabeth street team, overcame a lead of seven yards made by Lake street in the first 300 yards, passing Flaherty on the 90-yard mark, to finish a winner. The team time for the 400 yards was 50 seconds flat. Greeneville playground finished in third place.

Closed E. C. 100-Yard Dash

The closed eastern Connecticut 100-yard dash again brought together Joe Jackson, Duwell A. A. of Norwich and Gordon W. Winslow of Putnam, unattached. As in the first 100-yard dash, Winslow got off to a better start than Jackson, and although they came up the stretch together, Winslow flashed across the tape barely six inches ahead of Jackson. The time for the 100 yards was slower than in the first race, being 10 2-5 seconds. Charles E. Murphy of Putnam, unattached, finished in third position, several yards behind the winner.

A. A. U. Open One-half Mile Run

This event, coming after the mile run in which several of the runners had taken part, brought about a slower time than was expected, although the race was close until the final quarter. At this time Maurice Weldon of the New Haven Harriers began to increase his pace and soon had several yards on his club mate, T. Flood of the Harriers, who finished second. John Keeley of the Duwell A. A. of Norwich and his club mate, John P. Murphy, finished third and fourth respectively. The time of Weldon was 2.13 1-5 and that of Flood 2.16 2-5, Keely finishing in 2.18 2-5.

Special 400-Yard Relay

This event was arranged when the New Haven playgrounds challenged a picked team from the Norwich playgrounds. The relay was the fastest of the afternoon, requiring but 45 seconds and was won by the Jocelyn Square playground of New Haven, the Beaver park playground of New Haven finishing second and the picked Norwich playground team in third place.

Closed E. C. One Mile Run

This event brought forth the prettiest finish in any long distance event on the card, but two fifths of a second between the time of the winner and the second man. Jacob Jacoby of Storrs, unattached, was hard pushed by John Sullivan, Duwell A. A. of Norwich, throughout the entire run. On the home stretch both men increased the pace, Jacoby had gained a fair lead over Sullivan on the back stretch and although the local runner tried his best to cut it down he was unable to do so, finishing about three yards behind Jacoby. The time of Jacoby was 5.14 1-5 and that of Sullivan 5.14 3-5. John Keely, Duwell A. A., Norwich, finished in third place.

Boxing Bouts

Seven fine three-round, three minute boxing bouts completed the athletic card for the afternoon, four being arranged by the New Haven Harriers and three by Shiek Leonard of Norwich. Several of the bouts were hard fought affairs, treating the fans to no less than a dozen rounds of real fighting.

In the opening bout, the 100-pound class, Frank Donovan and Frank Lewis of Norwich were seen in action. Both youngsters were more than willing to mix it and both had drawn blood before the second roud had been in progress long. Lewis tore in regardless of jabs and landed frequently, winning the judges' decision.

In the 105 pound class, Nick Florentino of New Haven and Jack Dillon of Bridgeport mixed things up lively, the bout being declared a draw at the end of the three rounds. In the fourth round Dillon continued his worrying tactics, the left to the face, but Florentino bored in and got in telling blows, causing the judges to give him the decision.

In the third bout, the 112 pound class Tim O'Connor of New Haven had a shade over Eddie Mack of New Haven. O'Connor had the reach of his shorter opponent and used it to advantage in preventing Mack from landing a blow of force.

The fourth bout, the 126 pound class, was between Johnny Kapteyna and Adam Kakabelski, both of Norwich. Kapteyna was too much for the smaller lad and landed at will, holding back his punches to such an extent that the bout was stopped after five seconds of the second round, Kapteyna being declared the winner by a technical knockout.

The fifth bout, also in the 126-pound class, was the poorest of the afternoon, Charlie Sabatino of Bridgeport losing to Joe Carmen of New Haven by a technical knockout. Sabatino seemed to dislike the jabs and uppercuts Carmen was sending to his head and face. The bout was stopped after 24 seconds of the first round had passed.

In the sixth bout, the 135-pound class, Johnny Mack of New Haven, state amateur champion lightweight, was seen in action with Frank Wilson of Bridgeport. Both boys were well matched but in the second round Wilson twisted his elbow. He continued to fight, using his right arm almost entirely, sending in several telling blows. Mack showed his superiority in infighting and packed a wicked punch with his left to the kidney. The match was called a draw. Mack being awarded the fight when Wilson asked that the fight be called.

The final bout, the 145-pound class was between Young Leonard and Harry Allen, both of Norwich. These youngsters showed flashes of speed at times but mainly contested themselves with sizing each other up. The third and last round was used to advantage by Leonard, winning him the decision.

Following the boxing, the runners and boxers were called to the grandstand where the prizes were awarded. Silver cups were prizes for the track events, while Thermos travel kits were awarded for the winner in each bout, the loser receiving a small Thermos travel kit.

The affair was handled cleanly and evoked considerable praise from those at the track and ringside and the Duwell A. A. and the New London County Fair association came in for credit for boosting Norwich in athletics.

The officials for the field events were Courtland Whitney, starter; Myles E. Standish, Earle Brigham and Clifford C. Oat, timers; Jackie Wilson, John C. Donovan and Alex Charnetski, judges; Robert Woodmansee and Archie Spaulding, clerks; Duwell A. A. in charge.

Officials for the boxing bouts included Frankie Busch, popular Norwich light heavyweight, now connected with the training camp of Jack Dempsey, who was heavily applauded when introduced to the audience. Busch acted as judge, with John C. Donovan and Clifford C. Oat, Jackie Wilson, popular local fight promoter and proprietor of Jack's Sport Shop, was timer and Connelly did the announcing.

TAFTVILLE AND J. B. MARTIN BEGIN SERIES THIS WEEK

Taftville A. A. and J. B. Martin begin their annual series this coming week end, the game Saturday to be at Taftville and the Sunday game at the Velvetmill field. These teams have always been keen rivals and the series will be hotly contested from start to finish.

With one game in the Taftville-Riverview series tucked away in its belt, Taftville expects to add the scalp of the Velvetmen to their string this season. Manager Tromba of the Taftville A. A. is keeping his pitching staff in the dark at present but has announced that the remainder of the team will comprise the same men as that which took the measure of the hospital team last week. No announcement has been made by the management of the Velvet mill team but it is certain that the team in the field will be as strong as possible and one which will make Taftville travel its fastest pace if it expects to win.

PLANNING THREE CORNERED BATTLE FOR WORLD'S FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Pennsylvania and New York boxing authorities are ready to approve a three-cornered battle for the world's featherweight champion relinquished recently by Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., with Benny Bass of Philadelphia; Red Chapman of Boston and Danny Kramer of Philadelphia as the contenders.

This was revealed today after the Pennsylvania state athletic commission, at its regular weekly meeting, turned down a request from Phil Glassman, manager of Bass to have the latter proclaimed Kaplan's successor, so far as this state is concerned.

Consultation with the New York state athletic commission developed the suggestion from that body that Chapman and Kramer also be given consideration and that an elimination contest be held among them. This proposal was understood to meet approval of the Pennsylvania solons although they refrained from steps to bring about such a contest.

Babe Herman, of California and New York, who gave Kaplan several torrid battles, also is regarded as a title contender, although neither commissioner put his name on the list.

PIRATES MAKE GAIN ON LEAGUE LEADERS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Fighting desperately to remain in the pennant race, Pittsburgh came to life today and trounced Cincinnati in two games, 6 to 1 and 11 to 0. The double victory brought the champions to within a half game of the second place Reds and three and a half games from the league leading St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle today.

The Pirates were on a batting rampage. They collected 15 hits in the first game off Donohue and Lucas and 17 bingles in the second off Luque, Meeker, Lucas and Neis. Meadows held the Reds powerless in the first contest, keeping their hits well scattered. Carmen Hill, who came to the Pirates recently from the Indianapolis American Association club, was master of the situation in the second game, blanking the visitors.

Fred Brickell, Pirate recruit outfielder, won the batting honors of the day with three doubles and three singles.

The Pirates play another doubleheader here tomorrow with the Chicago Cubs as opponents. Score:

The Riverview club will have for their opponents Sunday on the Hospital grounds the fast Standard Oil Co. club of New London who have been playing great ball this season and have such players as Eddie Burns, Bill Barry, and Arthur Coubard all well known to local fans as star players, which should make an interesting game.

NAILDRIVERS WIN IN DANIELSON TWI LEAGUE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 8—After throwing a pretty ghostly scare into the Naildrivers camp and apparently having a safe lead at the end of the second frame of tonight's contest something exploded and by the time things had cleared up the Carpenters had five tallies chalked up on their side of the indicator. In the first of the third the Hammerwielders solved Bernier's heretofore puzzling cross fire and the barrage of blows, three doubles and a single, coupled with four errors, drove him from the hilltop and resulted in the five tallies. The Powermen then came back in their half of the round determined to win, and a walk and two singles resulted in two runs. Both sides garnered four hits and had four men retired by the strikeout route. D. Page, Joe LaBelle, Berthiaume, Guertin and Thomas, all swelled their batting averages with doubles. For the Naildrivers Chartrie caught and Alec LaBelle pitched while Bernier and Guertin shared twirling honors for the Kilowatts and Williams was on the receiving end. This win gives the Naildrivers the right to argue with the Buddies about the championship and they will fight it out in a nine round tilt at some future date. This evening at the Connecticut Mills park the Paco nine will battle with the Fabric Makers.

GIRLS GET AWAY FROM LONG LANE--SENT BACK TO FARM FROM NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 8.—Edith Hazlett, 16, and Amy Jackson, 17, girls at Long Lane farm, Middletown, escaped from the institution yesterday afternoon and came to New London, only to be arrested this morning and later delivered to an employe of the farm. After coming to New London the girls went to a house on Alger street where they were provided accommodations for the night. This morning they went to a house on Pequot avenue, where they sought to obtain further accommodations until they could communicate with relatives in an endeavor to receive funds by which they could go to their respective homes. An occupant of the Pequot avenue house acquainted the police with the fact that the girls were there and Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case. Going to the house he found the girls, who admitted having run away from the farm, and they were arrested. An employe of the farm came to New London and escorted the girls back to Middletown.

The Hotel Griswold closed for the season today. Following breakfast, the guests started to leave, either by automobile or by rail and by the middle of the afternoon practically all the help had departed for their homes or to other employment. The season at the hotel as at many other summer places was not very successful, due in a large measure to the unseasonable weather. Because of the small number of people arriving in New London by train and going to the hotel by water, the hotel operated but one of the two launches this year.

O. J. Rheume, 47 Oneco avenue, was driving his automobile on the New London-Norwich turnpike about 11:30 o'clock last night when he came upon a horse roaming about the highway near Quaker Hill. The automobile barely escaped hitting the animal. Rheume reported to the police the fact of the horse being in the highway, as Quaker Hill is outside the jurisdiction of the city police, the matter was turned over to the state police. An officer from Groton barracks came to Quaker Hill, but was not successful in locating the animal which it is believed, strayed from its owner.

Few, if any of the holders of concessions at Ocean Beach have made money during the season now at an end. The summer was cold at the beginning of the summer and there were few hot days after the start of the school term. The weather last Sunday and Monday was the most favorable of the year and little money turned toward the places where it was looked for. Rents are high at the beach, so that good business is all that will take lessees out of the season with a profit.

Temporary residents here leave the city at the time of years when the surroundings and the climate are at their best. Conditions for the enjoyment of life could not be better than they are during September and October and indeed the weather remains pleasant until well into November.

Several changes have been made in the facade of stores on Bank street within the last few days. There has been a change in the merchants but there have been several changes in the appearance of business places.

Mike Shea was arrested at the union station last evening very much intoxicated. He claimed he had lost his money and was anxious to return home. A railway detective and Officer Shea took into custody Thomas Sullivan, a man who some time ago was a frequent defendant in police court, was there today charged with being intoxicated. He said he was justly accused, but was penitent and regretted his predicament. He has a weakness for liquor that is hard to control, but he made a good effort to keep away from it. He has not been before the court for many months. His effort was worthy of encouragement so the court suspended judgment.

Jean Rockford got here from Gloucester and became intoxicated. He said he had never been in this city before yesterday and hoped to get out of it and stay away after his experience Tuesday. He was given that chance and some advice with it.

Harry Gordon was complained against for speeding, but his case was continued a week.

(Special to The Bulletin)

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The bogey of higher money rates hung over today's stock market, which broke sharply in the last hour after an early period of strength. The late selling was accompanied by rumors, which later proved to be unfounded that the Boston Federal Reserve bank would increase its rediscount rate, such action being considered possible because of the recent sharp increase in brokers' loans and the expanding commercial and agricultural demand for funds.

Bear traders had tried ineffectually to unsettle the general list soon after the opening, but operators working for higher prices absorbed all offerings, and continued to bid up prices, speculating on a select list of industrials and specialties. Rails were practically neglected despite the announcement that freight traffic established a new high record for all time in the week ended August 28.

The early bulk movement was aided by the raising of the regular dividends on Commercial Solvents B and Gen. Refractories, and the optimistic tenor of the weekly steel trade reviews which pointed out that operations were being maintained at the high rate of the two preceding months.

General Motors again changed hands in extensive volume. From a low of 147 in the morning, it rallied to 2[illegible] which compared to 217, where it was off 3-4 net on the day. U. S. Steel common dropped from an early high of 132 3-4 to 130 off 1 point net. Some of the late selling in these issues appeared to represent the closing out of accounts in preparation for the holidays, the Jewish religious observance begun at sundown today.

Some of the late selling was directed against U. S. Steel and General Motors, but recessions took place in such specialties as Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Pullman, United States Cast Iron, Westinghouse Air Brake, Woolworth and Yellow Truck. Jordan Motors ran into a new low at 19 7-8 on the announcement of the dividend.

Independent strong spots were scattered throughout the industrials and Warner Pictures were bid up over 3 points on the announcement that the company had leased a theatre in Atlantic City to show its films, and planned to open another in Chicago. Butterick was put up 7 points to a new high at 65 1-2 and gains of 2 points or more were recorded in American Machine and Foundry, First National Stores, General Asphalt preferred, Postum Cereal and South Porto Rican Sugar. Loose Wiles Biscuit common and second preferred each sold about 12 points above their high level.

With the exception of Kansas City Southern, which touched a new 1926 high at 49 3-4 the rails lost ground with the industrials. The recessions were fairly substantial in such issues as Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake and Ohio, Lackawanna and Illinois Central.

Cotton prices broke about $2.50 a bale on the publication of the government report estimating the yield of the crop at 15,166,000 bales, but recovered most of their loss before the close. Wheat futures dropped about a cent a bushel. Raw Sugar also ruled lower at a cent a pound, but later rallied 15 to 24 points.

Time money held steady at 5 per cent. Prime mercantile paper and commercial bills were unchanged.

The movement of sterling, which [illegible] the principal exchanges lost ground, French francs [illegible] 4 points lower around 2 1-4 cents. Belgian francs broke nearly 10 points to around 3.50 cents. Other rates [illegible]

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The pronounced strength of foreign bonds, more than a dozen of which sold at the year's highest prices, stood out today in striking contrast to the dullness of domestic issues. Because of the broadening demand for foreign obligations the market developed the greatest display of activity in several weeks.

The burial of war animosities with Germany's election to the league of nations and indications that France and Belgium would soon be able to arrange loans for stabilization purposes contributed to the revival of interest in European bonds. The best prices of the year were attained by an even dozen French issues, including the government's 8s, all the French railroad liens listed on the New York stock exchange, the French National Steamships 7s, the Lyons, Bordeaux and Marseilles 6s, Seine 7s and Frenchman 7 1-2s. Other strong features were the German Municipals, Upper Austria 7s and Tyrol Power 7 1-2s.

A survey by one set investment houses revealed that few important bond offerings were in prospect for the next month, although several routine corporate issues are scheduled for early appearance. Today's individual offerings were small but they aggregated about $40,000,000 and were subscribed.

The average price of domestic bonds was slightly lower but a few points or strength appeared. Most conspicuous of these were Andes Copper 7s, which rose more than a point to a new high record at 108 and Federated Metals 7s which advanced two points. Shelly Oil 6 1-2s reacted more than two points on profit taking.

New offerings scheduled for tomorrow include $3,000,000 serial six per cent bonds of the Seaboard Terminal and Refrigeration company, priced to yield better than six per cent., and 25,000,000 Shawinigan Water and Power company 20-year five per cent bonds, priced at 102 1-2.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Stock prices headed upward soon after the opening of today's curb market but the bull movement was checked in the late trading when a heavy selling movement swept over the "big board." Trading showed a market expansion in volume, several pools showing increased activity despite the growing uneasiness over the money situation because of the recent substantial increase in brokers loans.

Oils were sluggish on publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum institute showing another large increase in crude oil production last week, bringing the daily average for that period to the highest level of the year. Humble, Ohio and Pande fell back a point or so, and a number of others yielded fractionally. Carib syndicate showed independent strength on merger rumors involving that and other companies operating in the Venezuelan fields.

Nearly one-fourth or the day's entire volume of trading took place in the new stock of the General Motors corporation, which closed fractionally higher at 146 3-4 after having sold 3 points above that figure. Ford Motors of Canada advanced 2 points on a few odd lot sales but the other motors showed little change although the omission of the Jordan dividend caused some concern.

Baking and Coal shares held fairly steady. Pillsbury Flour soared over 9 points to a new high at 49 7-8. Elgin Watch touched a new high at 93 and Bucyrus jumped 12 points on a few odd lot sales. Balaban Katz, Foundation Co., Foreign and North American Cement were heavy.

Public utilities were irregular, moderate gains in Columbia Gas and Electric preferred, Middle West Utilities, Penn Ohio Securities and United Gas and Improvement being offset by the heaviness of American Gas and Electric Bond and Share.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 8—(AP)—Clearing weather in the Canadian northwest and weakness in the Winnipeg market brought about a sharp reaction in wheat values here today after a firm start. The action was reflected in other grains. Wheat closed weak at a new loss of 5-8c to 1 3-8c, corn was unchanged at 1-4c higher, oats finished unchanged to 3-8c off and provisions were 12 1-2c down to 10c up.

Initial strength in wheat was chiefly based on higher cables, and early reports of unfavorable weather conditions in the northwest. Foreign news also was considered bullish at the outset, when it was predicted that the heavy export business which was done over the holiday would continue. Overseas demand, however, showed a falling off, the Canadian rain clouds began to melt away and Winnipeg reported declines in northwest markets.

Corn displayed independent firmness, but friends of higher prices were hampered by the weakness in wheat which cooled the enthusiasm of buyers to a considerable extent.

Oats were affected by the action of other grains but moved within relatively narrow limits.

Scattered commission house buying of lard and a falling off in hog receipts gave provisions a slightly firmer undertone.

John Johnson, charged on two counts by Grand Juror Montgomery, was fined $15 and costs $33.95, case continued to allow him to earn the money. Mary Johnson of Canterbury went b

BRAKES ON TRUCK FAILED TO HOLD

Harry P. Loomis of 57 Summit street, driver of a motor truck for Harry Libby of 14 North Thames street, was placed under arrest about noon Wednesday by Officer John O'Neil after the truck had hit the touring car of Everett M. Fielding of 10 Prospect street at the corner of West Main and High streets and then continued down the hill on North High street till it was brought to a stop by running it against the curb. Loomis is charged with operating a motor vehicle with faulty brakes.

Loomis was driving down High street with the truck and reached the corner of West Main street just as Fielding drove along, headed easterly. Unable to hold his truck on the hill, Loomis crashed into the Fielding car, knocking it out of the way, and then kept on across West Main street and down North High. The Fielding machine was considerably damaged.

Officer O'Neil preferred the charges against Loomis and he will appear in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

Buys Hartford Residence

Among the real estate transfers noted in Hartford last week was one of interest to many Norwich friends of Frank T. Farrell, formerly of this city. It was the sale of the handsome residence of the late Moses Tamiser, the well known builder and contractor of Hartford, to Mr. Farrell. The property is known as Riverview and is beautifully situated.

Mr. Farrell was employed for many years by the Parker Davenport Co. of this city and New London in their two hotels the Wauregan House and the Crocker House of New London.

GIVES THE "WET" SIDE BEFORE ROTARY MEETING

Charles S. Wood of Philadelphia, campaign manager of the National Association against the 18th Amendment, was the speaker Wednesday at noon at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel, telling what the 18th amendment has not done. Last week the speaker was Rev. Ernest V. Claypool, superintendent of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League.

Grosvenor Ely, chairman of the programme committee for September, introduced Mr. Wood who spoke in part as follows:

First let me present my respects to the speaker of last week and say that he put his talk in exceptional good taste and with moderation. As we all know, when the prohibition amendment was first proposed many doubted the wisdom and propriety of the measure and among the most prominent men in the public eye to speak on the matter was Chief Justice Taft, who among other things, prophesied that if the prohibition amendment was adopted it would become a political issue before many years.

Now it looks as if Mr. Taft's foresight was correct and the matter of prohibition is becoming the dominant issue of politics. This, however, it not as desirable as might be expected for some men totally unfit for public office are getting in because of their stand on prohibition, either wet or dry.

Fails In Practice.

The prohibition amendment is a measure to regulate the habits of the people and is wrong in principle. A principle is either right or wrong and if it is right it works out in practice, but if it is wrong the reverse is certain. Now prohibition has not work.l out right in practice so what is the natural conclusion? Prohibition may be all right in small states with a sparse native population, but when you try to enforce it in the larger states where there is a strong foreign element, it is impossible. People are drinking just as freely today as before prohibition and there are more spirits consumed than before the amendment was passed.

It is no pleasure to sit back and say "I told you so" now. The question is too serious. There was no great opposition to the amendment when it was passed and this is probably one of the contributing causes to its failure. The Volstead act goes too far in many instances, two of which give government regulation to medicinal liquor and to the use of alcohol in manufacturing plants. Congress was given power only to regulate alcoholic beverages but it has stretched its power to include everything containing the slightest percentage of alcohol.

Country Not Benefited.

If the Volstead act had succeeded in its intent it would no doubt have benefited the country, but it has not. The prohibitionists claim but two things for it, the doing away with the saloon, and increased savings in the banks. The banking figures show a very small percentage of increase in savings accounts and the number of new depositors. The percentage is so small that it would be just as foolish for me to claim that the increase was due to the bootleggers putting their money in the bank as it is for the prohibitionists to claim it is the effect of prohibition. As for the saloon we admit it is gone from the street corner where a policeman could go in and arrest anyone making a disturbance or creating disorder. But in its place we have the speak-easy where the place is under lock and key and the law can enter only with a search warrant. Where there was one licensed saloon there are many speak-easies. I am no defender of the saloon but if I had to choose between the old saloon and the present day speak-easy, I would say give me the saloon.

Sees Modification Coming.

What are we going to do about it? The prohibitionists say give us time. They have had time but the conditions as shown in our daily papers are getting steadily worse. The 18th amendment is not interpreted by prohibitionists alone and there is plenty of room for modification. State option would be one remedy and the states would be more liberal. If we had light wines and beer it is safe to say that nine-tenths of the whiskey drinkers of today would go back to the beer. I don't believe we can have strict prohibition and therefore think the time is coming when there must come a modification of the amendment.

STRUCK MACHINE PARKED AT CURB ON BROADWAY

Becoming confused and losing control of the automobile she was driving around the Wauregan house corner into Broadway about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, superintendent of the Backus hospital, ran her new Buick coupe into a Ford coupe that was parked at the curb near the hotel entrance. Miss Abbott's machine struck the other in the left rear wheel, smashing the wheel and bending the mudguard. Her own machine suffered only a dented right front mudguard.

The Ford belonged to the L. E. Bogue company and was in charge of one of the salesmen, Leon Raymond, who was at lunch in the hotel. A repair truck put a new wheel on the Ford and it was ready to go again, while Miss Abbott's machine drove off with only a dent in the mudguard.

The National Council of Jewish Women, department of farm and rural work, has made arrangements to broadcast the services for the high holidays, Rash Hashonah and Yon Kippur, especially for the people living in the rural districts and farms, who otherwise would not be able to avail themselves of these services.

Under the auspices of the national council and through the courtesy of George E. Madden company of Norwich a radio has been installed in Bozrahville from Sept. 8 to 18. Rabbi Krass of Temple Emanuel of New York city will deliver a sermon and a choir will sing over Station WJZ Thursday morning from 10 to 12.30 o'clock.

PETITIONING FOR NEW ROAD AT NORTH PLAIN

Petitions for the improvement of the road from North Plain to the end of the present improved road at North Lyme, a distance of about 2.9 miles a project which the sponsors say will also complete a through highway from Norwich to Saybrook by way of Salem, North Plain, Hamburg and Saybrook Bridge, are being circulated for presentation to the state highway department.

Petitions already signed by about 75 of the year-round residents between Old Lyme and North Plain, and by others, are now being circulated. Among the signers are Senator Hiram Bingham and Mrs. Bingham. The proposal is being advocated in part by the good roads committee of the Automobile club of Hartford. Charles D. Alton, Jr., president of the street board is among the active supporters of the campaign.

Copies of the petition are at the Salem garage, at the post office in North Plain, at the North Lyme tea room, at the White Sand beach grocery, at the South Lyme post office and at Finley's garage, Sound View.

A statement of the good roads committee on this proposal follows:

"The project of a road from Hartford at the Connecticut river to Old Lyme on the Connecticut river running on the east side of the river has been under consideration for many years. The terrific congestion which now exists on the river road on the west side or the Connecticut river demands that something be done to relieve the congestion. In connection with a route on the east side of the river, there is an improved highway via East Hartford, Glastonbury, Portland, Cobalt and Haddam Neck.

"It would be a stupendous road job to carry the improved highway over to Moodus via Leesville. At Moodus it would connect with the Norwich-East Haddam route continuing as far as North Plain, where improvement of nine miles would be necessary to connect with the improved pavement on the road between North Plain and Old Lyme. Another alternate route would be on the New London turnpike to Marlborough and East Hampton, where it would be necessary to improve the highway to Moodus.

"A through improved highway can be obtained at the present time at very little expense. This route is via East Hartford, Glastonbury, Marlborough and Salem, where it would join with the East Haddam-Norwich road. This road would be followed to North Plain and then turn south to Old Lyme. A short stretch of 2.2 miles running south from North Plain is the only piece improved. This stretch of road could be improved at a comparatively small expense. This improvement would give, as stated, a completed highway on the east side of the river from Old Lyme to East Hartford. The distance from the Connecticut bridge via this route is approximately 48 miles against approximately 45 miles via the west side river road.

"This highway would serve the summer resorts extending from the Connecticut river east to South Lyme station and in cases of dense traffic it could also be used by those at the shore located on the west side of the river as far west almost as Westbrook.

POETRY

The Paternal Husband

Marriages of men of thirty with girls of twenty are the best, says a psychologist, because the man is more experienced and is able to take a paternal interest in his wife.

Says Jack, aged thirty, to Jill, aged twenty,
"Wife of my bosom, listen to me!
Years and experience have I in plenty
While you are as yet in your infancy.
I am your husband, my love, yet rather
More than a husband, as one might say,
Training and rearing you like a father,
All in a purely affectionate way.

"You, as is natural, lack discretion:
Your own conclusions are oft unsound,
You must rely upon my possession
Of worldly knowledge far more profound.
See through my eyes—you will gain in vision;
Weakness is strength if it stands corrected,
And, whatever arises for our decision,
Kindly remember papa knows best!"

Says Jill, aged twenty, to Jack, aged thirty,
"Thank you for nothing, old tin of fruit!
This is what I call doing the dirty,
Playing your age as your longest suit.
But you're rather behind in your reckoning, laddie,
In spite of your old-fashioned point of view,
The girl of today brings up her daddy,
And that is what's going to happen to you!"
—Touchstone in London Post.

Of Quiet Things

I marvel at the quiet things of earth,
How strong they are!
The pine that stands, but whispering, on the hill,
May journey far
And proudly bear its tiers of towering sails—
And what but frost
Could build a solid bridge so silently,
Its arches bossed
In carven crystal The quiet touch of rain
Can wear the hills
Into new shapes and change the ancient ways
Of stubborn rills.
And last is love—strong with the singing pride
That pines attain.
Like frost for beauty, and invincible
As patient rain.

MUTINEERS MET DEFEAT ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF ATHENS

Fighting Took Place Between Regular Troops and Republican Guards Supporting General Pangolas, the Ousted Dictator—Government Troops, Barricaded in the Streets, Opened Fire on the Advancing Rebels—Realizing the Failure of Their Attempt, the Guards Raised the White Flag—Many Casualties Were Reported.

ATHENS, Sept. 9—(AP)—Serious fighting, with many casualties, took place on the outskirts of the city today when regular troops and two regiments of republican guards supporting General Pangalos, the ousted dictator, met.

The Attica corps, which Pangalos had organized to secure his dictatorship, and which, it was heralded, Colonel Nicholas Plastiras, in command of the regulars refused to obey and withdrew from Athens with three armored cars to the encampments at the terminus of Patission Boulevard.

The regulars sent officers to demand their surrender before 11 o'clock this morning, but the mutineers ignored the ultimatum and advanced with the boulevard intending to occupy the city.

Government troops took up positions behind barricades in the streets and opened fire on the advancing rebels and a regular battle followed.

Fighting was soon in progress in one armored car which was destroying the car and killing a corporal, wounding a lieutenant and several soldiers.

Fighting continued, government airplanes joined in the attack on the mutineers. A Chalkis regiment reinforced the government troops and about 1 o'clock in the afternoon the mutineers, realizing the failure of their attempt, raised the white flag.

The Attica corps numbering about 1,000 men, officers surrendered and both Colonels Zervas and Dertsilis, were placed under arrest. It was decided to transfer them at nightfall to Salamis arsenal, the government declaring it was feared they might be lynched by the populace.

Further trouble developed when crowds of demonstrators parading the streets seized an armored car and an attempt by the soldiers to recapture it led to a clash, but order was eventually restored.

Premier Kondylis announced the mutineers had surrendered unconditionally and that the losses were not severe. The newspapers, however, estimat that 50 mutineers were killed and many wounded. The casualties among the regulars and citizens were not known.

FEAR MANY CASUALTIES IN STREETS OF ATHENS

LONDON, Sept. 9—(AP)—A Reuter dispatch from Athens late tonight says an armed mob attacke dthe central telegraph office and many shots were exchanged with the military guard, whose commander was wounded. It is feared there were many casualties in the streets. A state of almost anarchy prevails.

Crowds mobbed isolated soldiers and seized a number of tanks.

Some dispatches reaching London from Athens mention trouble with the communists, whom the troops are reported to have suppressed. All dispatches having reference to the fighting in Athens have apparently been delayed or modified by the censor.

SECRET INDICTMENTS FOR WARREN BROTHERS CO.

BOSTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Suffolk grand jury today reported secret indictments against the Warren Brothers company and the Central Construction company, 529 firms which have obtained large contracts from the city of Boston and against their officers. The indictments charge conspiracy to defraud, conspiracy to maintain a monopoly and conspiracy to destroy the trade and business of certain corporations and individuals.

The indictments grew out of a grand jury investigation of charges that officers of the two companies had conspired to defraud the city of $2,000,000 during a period of three years.

Charles G. Keene, president of the city council, was called as a witness.

Counsel for the Warren Brothers Company appeared before Judge Raymond in superior court today to protest against the action of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien in ordering the firm's books produced before the grand jury. It was claimed that the company had been treated "outrageously" and that the books had been taken unnecessarily. The books and all accounts and papers pertaining to them were subpoenaed, it was said, both from the Warren Brothers company of Massachusetts and from the Warren Brothers company of West Virginia, the present organization it was explained that the West Virginia company did a business of $5,000,000 a year, of which only a small percentage was in this state.

Assistant District Attorney Callahan said that if the company would furnish reports of every contract made by it in Boston and show disbursements such contracts, the grand jury would return the books.

TO PROBE CONDITIONS AT NOROTON SOLDIERS' HOME

HARTFORD, Sept. 9—(AP)—The situation at the Soldiers' home in Noroton, will be "well ventilated," and a complete investigation of conditions undertaken within a few days, declared Mayor Henry E. Babcock, following announcement of his suspension, as inspector and adjutant by Colonel Henry J. Seery, superintendent, today.

Major Babcock, who for 29 years was assistant postmaster in Hartford and served nearly 50 years in the postal service, denied the charges of "incompetency" and of causing "a great deal of trouble." "My record for efficiency and otherwise is well known in Hartford," he said. "And there is nothing to the present charges."

The investigation is already under way, Governor Trumbull said tonight. The governor said he was only waiting for further information before making a decision on the case.

Colonel Seery said today that the charge of "incompetency," against Major Babcock "covered a great deal of ground." "He is unable to do the work. We have had a great deal of trouble with him, and we do not intend to have any more. We have a big accumulation of evidence against him."

Governor Trumbull has been asked to remove Major Babcock. Before doing anything or this sort, the governor said tonight he would wait for complete information on the case. He was uncertain whether a hearing would be held on the matter at his office.

CHEMISTS ARE TO DEVISE MEANS FOR MAKING RUBBER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—(AP)—Rubber from the guayule shrub offers the United States its most favorable means of meeting the world rubber demands, the American Chemical society was told today.

This shrub, found growing wild on the rocky hills of northern Mexico and Southern Texas, is now under cultivation in California.

"With the advent of means for the stabilization and improvement of the rubber in the guayule shrub, the development of an agricultural guayule industry in this country takes on a new impetus, Dr. David Spence, vice president of the Continental Rubber company of New York, declared at a crude rubber symposium of the society.

"The major obstacles in the way of a successful development have been overcome," he said, "and we have every reason to believe that the United States will find in the improved product from the cultivated guayule a material which will meet the major requirements of manufacture."

WASHINGTON GETS VIEW OF THE SIKORSKY AIRPLANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Official Washington got a first hand view today of the new triple motor Sikorsky biplane in which Captain Rene Fonck, French airman, and Lieutenant Allan P. Snody, U. S. N. will attempt in about 15 days a non-stop flight from New York to Paris. Piloted by Captain Fonck and carrying 12 passengers, the special built giant of the air was flown from New York to Washington in two hours and 55 minutes elapsed time. The plane was not forced however, and time was taken to encircle the sesqui-centennial grounds in Philadelphia and the Washington monument and the capitol in this city before landing at Bolling field.

CLINICAL CONGRESS OF STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY

HARTFORD, Sept. 9—(AP)—The second clinical congress of the Connecticut State Medical society, is to be held at New Haven, September 21 to 23. Among those who will read papers will be Professor Edouard A. Rist, co-director of the Laennec Hospital and Dispensary for Tuberculosis, Paris, France. He will speak at the Wednesday night session, September 22. An enrollment of approximately 500 is expected at the congress.

No Labor Ticket For Elections This Fall

Connecticut F. of L. Refused to Endorse Movement For a Third Political Party.

DANBURY, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Patrick F. O'Meara, of New Haven was re-elected president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, his ninth term of office at the afternoon session of the federation convention here today. Middletown was selected as the 1927 convention city, New Haven and Meriden withdrawing, and the federation by a decisive vote refused to endorse a movement for a third political party in Connecticut to be known as the independent labor party.

All of the present officers of the federation were re-elected, as follows:

President, Patrick F. O'Meara, New Haven; secretary and treasurer, John J. Egan, Bridgeport; vice president, Daniel A. Gorman, Danbury; Arthur Wallace, Greenwich; Charles G. Moore, Torrington; Otto Schuetze, Hartford; Joseph E. Baker, Waterbury.

The federation by a vote of 88 to 23, declined to approve a resolution, introduced early in the session, which would have given the endorsement of the federation to the movement to form a third party in this state to be known as the independent labor party. The vote was taken after a long debate.

Several delegates spoke in favor of the resolution, among them being Morris Robinsky of New Haven, George Moffitt, of Stamford and John Vanietly of New Britain.

President O'Meara, stepping down from the chair, took the floor in opposition to the resolution, declaring that he would fight "to the last drop" all efforts of outside communists to bring a political element of this kind into the federation. The president said he believed in industrial organization rather than political organization. He had been accused, he said, of supporting one of the old line political parties, but denied this, declaring that his opinion had not been influenced by any political party. The working men of the state are better off today than ever before, president O'Meara continued, and he could not see how a new party could improve those conditions.

The convention, in a resolution adopted, indorsed the old age pension plan of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and instructed a committee to continue its efforts toward the formation of a state labor bank.

The convention will continue tomorrow, probably adjourning in the afternoon.

LIEUT. O. L. STEVENS WINS FEATURE OF AIR RACES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Lieut. O. L. Stevens, representing the United States army air corps, won the Liberty engine builders trophy, feature event today of the national air races at the city-owned model tarmis flying field. The race, with its 144 miles of dizzy rivalry, open only to military planes of the observation type, brought out keen competition.

Flying a Curtiss Falcon with a D-12-C motor, Lieut. Stevens covered the course in one hour and 43 seconds, an average speed of 142.26 miles an hour, forty-three one hundredths of a mile an hour faster than Captain Aubrey Hornsby, also of the United States army, who finished second. Captain Hornsby also flew a Curtiss Falcon. Third place went to a navy entrant, Lieut. G. C. Owens, who averaged 140.53 miles an hour in his special D, H. with a Packard 1500 horse power motor.

Winners of other important events were Robert P. Hewitt, Philadelphia, who captured the Aero Club of Pennsylvania trophy of $1,000 in cash, and Douglas H. Davis, Atlanta, Ga., who took the Valley Forge trophy for precision in landing.

Piloting a Waco plane equipped with an OX-5 motor, Hewitt averaged 107.516 miles an hou in the contest for the Aero club trophy. This event was the third and final of a free-for-all elimination race for low powered airplanes over an 84 mile course. Hewitt completed the distance in 48 minutes, 56 seconds. Basil Rowe, Keyport, N. J., flying a Thomas Morse, with an aero marine motor, finished second with an average speed of 104.32, completing the course in 43 minutes, 56 seconds. The veteran, C. S. "Casey" Jones, Garden City, L. I., was third. He also flew a Thomas Morse plane had averaged 96.9 miles an hour.

Owen's passenger was Leo Mohme, aviation chief machinist mate, who built the ship especially to compete against the super planes of the army. Mohme is 24 years old and rebuilt the ship single-handed from an obsolete DeHaviland plane.

The special contest for civilian fliers in a precision landing to a predetermined mark was one of the interesting events of the day. The planes were required to stop their motors between 1,000 and 1,500 feet and glide to the flying field. A gusty wind swept across the field and made landing difficult.

Davis in his Waco landed within five feet of the mark while J. Ben Faulkner of Philadelphia in an Orowing was seven feet away and C. C. Chamberlain, Hasbrounh Heights, N. J., in a Bellanca sport plane was 7.10 feet away, finishing second and third, respectively.

AGED PHYSICIAN TAKES LONG SWIM ANNUALLY

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Champion of the "boys" over three score and ten is Dr. A. P. Letherman who, at the age of 76, this summer swam more than two miles as his regular seasonal stunt.

For more than half a century the doctor, who has practiced medicine 52 years at Valparaiso, Ind., has each summer negotiated twice the length of Flint lake, a few miles north of his home.

The doctor prefers not to be accompanied by a boat, and strangers seeing his white head so far from shore often hurry out with an offer of assistance which he always refuses.

Clouds of sulphurous smoke rolled down the mountainside. Villagers, panic-stricken, fled for safety.

Germany to Become L. of N. Member Today

Great Crowds Last Night Welcomed the Germans Back Geneva.

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Great crowds tonight welcomed the Germans back to Geneva and tomorrow in this center of international effort the republic of Germany will be formally installed as a member of the league of nations.

Dr. Gustave Stresemann, the reich foreign minister, weary but smiling after an uncomfortable hot trip from Berlin, said as he stepped from the train:

"I am glad to be here. I am glad to be back in Geneva. I am glad to see such an optimistic peaceful spirit."

The expression "Back to Geneva," has its meaning, for Dr. Stresemann, with Dr. Hans Luther and his other German colleagues, were forced in March to leave Geneva disappointed, because Germany's admission had been blocked by demands made by Spain, Brazil and Poland for equal rank and privileges. But Germany has now won her cause and become a permanent member of the council of the league of nations, despite all such opposition.

President Ninchitch of the assembly of the league will welcome the Germans tomorrow morning and Dr. Stresemann will reply, speaking in German. This will not in itself "take the problem whether German will become equal to French and English as the official language of the league of nations, for a precedent was made for the use of a native language by the president of the Irish Free State, who spoke in Gaelic when Ireland was ushered into the league.

M. Briand of France will also welcome the Germans as a spokesman for the entire assembly.

The outstanding feature of the meeting of the league assembly today was the address by Sir George E. Foster of Canada who declared that millions of residents in the United States have a profound sympathy for the work of the league of nations. Many of his hearers interpreted one of his later remarks as an allusion to the difficulties encountered in the present negotiations concerning the acceptance of the American reservations to the world court.

LACK OF FINANCES CAUSE OF SUICIDE OF COUPLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Halsey Doyle, of Brooklyn, were found dead today in the New Willard hotel here, while friends or relatives in distant cities were beseeching the Washington police department to prevent their suicide.

Apparently having deliberately planned to die together because they had no financial means of "going on," the couple chose the hotel, only a block or so from the treasury and white house, as a scene for their deaths by poison.

It was indicated in telephone calls from Brooklyn and Providence, R. I., that the Doyles had notified some one of their intention to commit suicide for the hotel was urged in a call from Frederic Halsey in Brooklyn to locate them at once. He presumably is Mrs. Doyle's father or brother.

M. P. Chaplain, of Providence, whose connection with the Doyles is unknown, also telephoned the police requesting they immediately search all hotels for the couple. When he was told of the deaths, he asked that the bodies be given to an undertaker.

Two notes were found in the hotel room occupied by the Doyles who registered there last night. One addressed to the hotel management, and signed by Mr. Doyle expressed regret over causing the hotel trouble and enclosed $14 to pay the bill. The other addressed to the "Superintendent of Police" contained $10 and requested that the bodies be cremeated "and our ashes not kept." This note said, "there is no one to notify," and "the reason for our act is that we are without means to go on."

When found, the body of Mrs. Doyle was reclining easily on a bed, while that of her husband was sitting upright in a chair facing her. After having taken the poison, the two apparently had eaten candy to ease the taste.

The Doyles were of middle age and apparently were persons of culture and accustomed to luxuries.

Aside from the two telephone calls, efforts of police and the hotel management to further identify them failed.

MACMILLAN ARCTIC PARTY AT TENANT'S HARBOR, ME.

TENANTS HARBOR, ME., Sept. 9—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Donald B. MacMillan and his arctic expedition on board the schooners Bowdoin and Sachem tonight laid over here in order not to arrive in Christmas cover before the scores of friends who had expected them there tomorrow.

Unusually fast running time brought the ships to Tenant's Harbor early today, where the villagers discovered them as the mists rolled back from the water. This port was selected because of its shelter and because it is within three hours' sail of Christmas Cove, where the first of the official welcomes await the homecomers.

It was planned to sail tomorrow noon for Christmas Cove where the commander will be greeted by his sister, Mrs. Letitia N. Fogg of Freeport, Professor Austin H. MacCormick of Bowdoin college and relatives and friends of the expedition's personnel.

"NOT EVEN A DUCHESS" MAY RIDE MAN O'WAR

LONDON, Sept. 9—Announcement that the Duchess of York will accompany the Duke on his visit to Australia makes it certain that the royal party will travel on a specially chartered mail liner.

Had the Duke gone alone, a warship would have been used but the traditions of the navy are against any infraction of the rule: "No women, not even a duchess, allowed."

When the king and queen went to Australia in 1901 to inaugurate the Commonwealth Parliament they traveled on the liner Ophir instead of a warship. The duke is going out to Australia next spring to open the new Parliament at Canberra which becomes the federal capital.

TILSON'S VIEW OF POLITICS SUBMITTED TO COOLIDGE

Connecticut Congressman Declares the Republican Party Will Suffer No Net Loss in Their Working Majority of 35 in the House This Fall—Stressed the Prosperity That is Being Maintained Under the Present Tariff—Doubts That the Elections Will Make Any Appreciable Change in the Prohibition Sentiment in the House.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Sept. 9—(AP)—A picture of political conditions encouraging to the republican party in the face of the fall congressional elections campaign was brought to White Pine camp today by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, director of the eastern headquarters of the joint senate and house republican campaign committee in New York city.

Mr. Tilson accompanied President Coolidge to the executive offices today and was joined there by Senator Gillette, republican, Massachusetts, who is spending a few days near here and is his associate in the New York office.

The republicans, Mr. Tilson predicted, will suffer no net loss in their working majorit yof 35 in the house this fall while the elections will result in little if any change in the senate situation. The democrats, he added, would gain control the next senate.

Continuation of the republican nomination at Washington is the issue, he asserted, with a prosperity that is widely distributed to be maintained under the present tariff. The republican party, he emphasized, will be delighted to meet the democrats on the issue of the tariff, which he said, has done more than any other one thing to bring in and maintain "the present unprecedented era of prosperity."

It would appear, Mr. Tilson declared, that the democrats, "having no other issue," were "reverting to type and attacking business."

As for any active part Mr. Coolidge may take in the campaign, Mr. Tilson said it was not for the president to make any issues, adding that he was the chief executive of the nation.

The west looks "more hopeful" than ever, the Connecticut representative asserted, remarking that even in Wisconsin where Senator Lenroot, an administration republican, was defeated in the primaries Tuesday the returns were "fully as favorable" as he had expected, although they were "not quite as I would have liked."

He expressed doubt that the elections would make any appreciable change in the prohibition sentiment in the house.

As for the legislative program in the short session of congress, which begins in December, Mr. Tilson, who is the republican floor leader of the house, said it would be "quite enough" to pass the annual appropriation bills, complete some of the pending measures of a general type, and "stand guard over the treasury to preserve the administration's program of economy."

Radio control, rivers and harbors and Muscle Shoals legislation, if a bid for the Alabama power properties that is considered "proper" is taken up, were mentioned as some of the measures or a general type awaiting action this winter.

Discussing farm relief, Mr. Tilson said it was clear to him that congress was opposed to the principles of the defeated McNary-Haugen bill with its provisions for an equalization fee and stabilization of crop prices, and he could see "no need for any new farm bill in the short session."

While not declaring definitely his position toward any measure containing different principles that might be represented, he said no legislative method was possible to bring about stabilized prices at a high level, "as that was a matter of supply and demand that can not be governed by legislation."

Mr. Tilson also expressed doubt that any reapportionment of the house would be made before the 1930 census. There has been no reapportionment on the basis of the 1920 census, although the constitution provides for such action after every census. Mr. Tilson contended there was no action actually required by law, however, with penalties attached for non-fulfillment of the reapportionment provisions, and said he would favor delaying action until after the next census.

At the same time he made clear that he personally favored legislation making reapportionment mandatory after every federal dicennial census, beginning with 1930. Asserting that he had not discussed the matter with the president, Mr. Tilson said he believed the house membership should be limited to its present figure of 435 or even less, as, he contended, a higher number would make the lexislative body unwieldy. The law should provide for the census bureau to work out the apportionment by states automatically under the population figures, he assorted, while the states would do their own districting.

Rain greeted President Coolidge today and he spent the time at the executive offices and at White Pine camp with Attorney General Sargent who is a home guest. No visitors are on the president's engagement list for tomorrow.

WOMAN TO BE SOVIET MINISTER TO MEXICO

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, former soviet minister to Norway, it is now definitely declared, though not officially, has been appointed soviet minister to Mexico. She is Russia's only woman diplomat.

The appointment of Mme. Kollontay came as a surprise even to communistic circles in Moscow, where it was believed her recall from Norway a year ago rendered another diplomatic appointment extremely unlikely.

She will succeed Stanislaus Pestkovsky, the present minister at Mexico City.

Daughter of a famous czarist general, Mme. Kollontay was one of those belonging to the old Russian aristocracy who renounced their high lineage to embrace bolshevism. She is 54 years of age, was educated at foreign universities, and has lived abroad most of her life.

At the outbreak of the war, she was expelled from Paris for revolutionary activity. She went later to the United States, where she carried on a campaign in behalf of communism, women's rights and the international. Returning to Russia in 1917, she joined the communist party and became the first woman to hold a cabinet position in the soviet government, as a commissar of social welfare.

In 1924, Mme. Kollontay was appointed minister to Norway and successfully negotiated a commercial treaty between the soviet union and the Norwegian government. She was recalled in 1925 for some unknown cause.

FIVE LIVES LOST IN FLOODS IN INDIANA AND ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Five lives were known to have been lost and two million dollars worth of damage had been done at Terre Haute, Ind., and Jacksonville, Ills., tonight in the third flood to sweep the central west in ten days.

Terre Haute, Ind., one of the heaviest sufferers in last night's deluge, counted 25 coal mines idle, 18 railroads all but inoperative, and many industries smitten in a cloudburst, which brought more than six inches of rain into the city in the most serious inundation since the disastrous flood of 1913.

The Wabash river was at flood stage at Lafayette, Ind.

The Davis gardens, at Terre Haute, largest greenhouse gardens in the world, was inundated by backwaters of Honey Creek.

A big four engine buried itself in the mud and sand of a creek near Dudley, when rain washed out a bridge, and 17 cars followed it into the stream. The engineer escaped with a broken leg and a fractured arm.

At Hannibal, Mo., where floods raged last week, a new rainfall three inches put 300 homes under water.

UPSHAW DEFEATED IN GEORGIA DEM. PRIMARY

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 9—(AP)—Two new faces will appear among Georgias delegation in the national congress next March, one veteran of the house having been defeated for renomination in yesterdays statewide democratic party state primary, which is the equivalent or a state election, and another having failed to offer for renomination.

W. D. Upshaw, veteran Atlanta congressman, was unseated by Leslie J. Stele, or Decatur, Ga., in the fifth district while in the seventh district, Representative Gordon Lee did not seek the office again.

Upshaw, veteran of four terms in congress where he gained fame as a defender of the eighteenth amendment, ran a close race and his popular vote was only 997 behind that of Steele, as he polled 5445 votes to Steele's 6442.

Mayor Walter Sims of Atlanta totaled 4791.

Upshaw, an outstanding champion of the Volstead act, was defeated by a candidate of his own like as Steele, the nominee is dry. Mayor Sims, the third entrant in the race is also classed as dry. Upshaw's defeat was not due to the prohibition question.

TRIED TO CHOKE HIMSELF WITH HANDKERCHIEF

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 9—(AP)—Screaming for Bobbie, his seven year old son, and pummeling the walls of his cell, Arnold Widmere, held in connection with the automobile collision yesterday in which Miss Gertrude Hirst was fatally injured, refused tonight to listen to the advice of police that all was well and nearly choked himself by knotting his handkerchief about his neck. He then was placed in a straightjacket but succeeded in squirming out of it and once more began to rave and race about. Dr. W. A. R. Chapin, city physician, was called, but said he could see nothing wrong with the man. A guard was placed over Widmere, however and the man soon fell into a sleep.

Widmere, who gained publicity as a cross country walker, was arrested today in Hartford, Conn., where he tried to cash a check. Springfield police being notified immediately. He disappeared after yesterday's accident, taking the boy with him.

JEWEL BANDITS CAPTURED WITH NEARLY $500,000 IN GEMS

CHICAGO, Sept 9—(AP)—Corn belt police today captured three jewel bandits and recovered nearly $500,000 worth of gems within 12 hours after the perpetration of a $1,000,000 train robbery.

Police arrested last night three men and a woman on a crack New Orleans to Chicago train of the Illinois Central and found in their hats of gems, which a mail now near Buckingham, Ill., had surrendered to a bandit. Detectives and sheriffs rushed to the whole countryside to form a dragnet. Thousands of persons were aided by most of the thousands of Lodi, Ills., who combed the mud along the highway and discovered two brief cases hidden under the scales of village railroad yards, containing the forgotten stones.

Three of the jewel bandits were in custody in Champaign, while the three others who were robbed checked over the recovered jewelry with officials.

The men gave their names as George [illegible] and O. A. Burke of Chicago and [illegible] Leonard of Butte Mont.

Following the salesmen, the three bandits sat grabbed their packets of gems and jumped off at Champaign. They hired a taxicab to take them to Chicago.

Townsmen spread the alarm at [illegible] and which the bandit party [illegible] Farnsworth through Paxton, Gibson, Frank Curtis greeted it with a shot each.

The shot punctured the rear tires, and forced the robbers to abandon the car at Lodi, near Paxton. They ran on foot in the rain and the night toward Bellair farther north, where they broke open the mayor's garage and stole his car.

Meanwhile Curtis, state highway police and a hastily gathered posse, growing larger as the alarm spread, took up the pursuit.

The bandits took refuge in a corn field and laid down cedar after exploring every barn and outbuilding in Buckingham. The posse now was in quest of a farmer owning a car on the outskirts of the village.

"Let's shoot," a voice called. "Here he comes."

The three jewelry salesmen, Morris [illegible] and William Davidson of San [illegible] and Joseph Rubin of New [illegible] had left the train at Mattoon to join the pursuit, but came back to Chicago today. Hearing of the capture, they came to Champaign to identify the thieves and check the loot, but no definite action was taken.

TO RESUME TODAY THE TRIAL OF DAUGHERTY AND MILLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—United States District Attorney Buckner and his staff of half a dozen assistants spent today priming the legal battery which, will be directed against Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, when their trial resumes tomorrow.

Testimony of Richard Merton, German metal magnate, is expected to be the headlight of tomorrow's session. He started his story on the witness stand yesterday, as a government witness, but court was adjourned over the Jewish New Year after he had been on the stand only a short time.

Merton, before he left the stand, however, had told of having a meeting in New York with Miller, the late John T. King, once republican national committeeman, and the late Jesse D. Smith, aide and confidante of Daugherty, and who committed suicide in 1923.

Mr. Buckner contends it was King and Smith who "pulled the strings" that resulted in the transfer to allegedly German owners of $7,000,000 realized from the sale of American Metals company stock seized during the war as enemy property. Daugherty and Miller are alleged to have shared in the totaling $441,500 for their part in the transfer which the government contends, was in itself illegal, regardless of any graft factors.

WEATHERBEE-PYTKO CASE— BILL FIRST DEGREE MURDER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—The grand jury, the first to sit in session here for six years, returned a true bill of first degree murder against Raymond Weatherbee of Grosvenordale and Agnes Pytko, of Wilsonville, today, after three hours and fifty minutes of deliberation. Weatherbee and Miss Pytko now stand indicted for first degree murder and their cases are scheduled to come up for trial at the superior court session in Putnam next Wednesday.

Judge John R. Booth convened the criminal session of the Windham county superior court at 10:08 o'clock. The calling of the roll of the grand jury in the infanticide cases was the first business. Clerk of the Court Miss Marjorie Bradford called the roll. Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer was jury officer. All of the eighteen talesmen summoned by Sheriff Charles A. Gates answered present. They were:

The grand jury then retired to hear the evidence, returning at 2:30. The verdict was handed to Judge Booth by Foreman Charles N. Perrin. Judge Booth in turn gave it to Clerk Bradford for filing.

The allegations in the case are that the Pytko girl gave birth to a child on the bank of the French river, at Wilsonville, June 30. Three days later the body of the infant was found in the river. At that time the girl-mother was a patient at a Putnam hospital. She admitted being mother of the child and that the baby had been killed by throwing it in the river, first being strangled to death by Weatherbee.

State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford is being assisted by Attorney William A. King of this city. Attorneys I. H. Miron of Putnam and Samuel E. Harvey are for Wetherbee. County Protector Charles L. Torrey of Putnam is counsel for the Pytko girl.

Additional jurors for the term were drawn because of the number of prisoners who have pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by jury. The twenty-six new veniremen drawn make a total of fifty to serve for the term. Those drawn are:

J. W. HILLHOUSE DEAD— A NATIVE OF MONTVILLE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 9—James William Hillhouse, 73, prominent local business man and member of the firm of Hillhouse & Taylor died at his home, 185 Church street, here, early this morning after an illness with heart disease. Hopes for his recovery were practically abandoned early this week and members of the family had been called to his bedside.

In the death of James W. Hillhouse the community suffers an irreparable loss. He always maintained a wholesome interest in the town and he gave freely to public service, never seeking praise for his actions and remaining always loyal, practical and of sane counsel in the affairs of the civil government. Modest and unobstructive, he possessed a commonsense quality which was softened by kindliness and consideration and made his influence positive and lasting. His valuable services had been received in the committees of the Congregational church, the Y. M. C. A., the town school committee, town or city councils, the chamber of commerce, and various other worthwhile endeavors. In business, his gift of integrity served him well. At home he was the loving father of an ideal family circle, in which he shared the happiest hours of his life. He maintained a wide circle of friends who thought of him as did the class history of Yale, '79, which said, "He is a man of the very best sort, who minds his business and does much good." He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and of the Royal Arcanum.

Mr. Hillhouse was born in Montville, Conn., June 21, 1854, the son of James W. Hillhouse and Louisa M. Dolbeare. He was a descendant of Rev. James Hillhouse who came from England to New England in 1719. His mother's family were also of Puritan stock. He was a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, in 1875, of Yale college, class of 1879, and received the degree of LL. B. from Columbia university in 1881, the same year that his cousin, the late Dr. Theodore E. Parker was graduated from Columbia Medical school. Mr. Hillhouse, did not enter upon the practice of law, but in 1883 came to Willimantic and formed a partnership with George F. Taylor in the lumber and coal business. In 1887 Hillhouse & Taylor bought the wood-finishing business of the late Dwight E. Potter. The present plant on Milk street was established in 1901. The firm has shared in important enterprises of commercial and residential building in Willimantic and vicinity, also largely in New London and suburban towns.

Mr. Hillhouse married Annie Laura Niles of Newton, Mass., May 26, 1886. She survives him and there are four children, James Theodore, Yale '11, now a professor in the State University of Minnesota, at St. Paul; Kenneth Niles, Yale '13, associated with the firm of Hillhouse & Taylor; Eleanor, graduate of Wheaton college and Columbia, now Mrs. Harold Crowell, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Marion Strong Hillhouse, Smith college, '32, instructor in the public schools in Minneapolis, Minn.

Thomas Meikle, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meikle, of 128 Natchaug street, and Miss Martha C. Lux, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lux of Phelps crossing were married in New York Wednesday by the city clerk in the municipal building. The ceremony took place immediately after the couple had secured their marriage license.

Meikle and his bride are both graduates of Windham high school. The groom was a star athlete while at school, featuring in football, baseball, basketball and track during the past four years. He was a member of the school's undefeated football eleven for the past three seasons. The bride, well known and popular here, was a star guard on the high school girls' basketball team for several seasons.

JEWETT CITY

FORMER SLATER MILLS CLERK FINISHES 32-YEAR SERVICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 9—James Foley, who has a record hardly to be exceeded as a dry goods clerk, has left the employ of R. W. Dearnley. Thirty-two years ago, antedating the taking over the store by Dearnley and Clarke, Mr. Foley was employed on that counter by the W. A. Slater Mills.

Those from Jewett City who attended the sixty-ninth Union Bible school Noank Wednesday were: Rev. E. E. Scates, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. R. R. Church, Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. John Hanson and Miss Ida Tripp.

Special dinner today at J. C. Restaurant, Main St. 50c.—adv.

Mrs. Earl S. Hiscox, was among those who attended the conference in Pachaug Wednesday.

Rev. Albert Donnell, for several years pastor of the Second Congregational church here now pastor of the Congregational church in Newington, N. H., near Portsmouth, is closing his pastorate September 26. A part of a letter received by Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, is of interest to the townspeople by whom Mr. Donnell will be pleasantly remembered.

"Newington: Parish and Town, an Ecclesiastical Sketch," which I have compiled during the several months past, is being printed. It will be published by the Historical and Village Improvement society of Newington.

The present pastorate closes with this month of September. The five and a-half years we have spent in the place, have been pleasant years for us, and we hope of permanent benefit to the church, which today numbers more members than at any time for a hundred and fifty years.

I am retiring from the active ministry. Our home will be in East Lansing, Michigan. Our son, who does business in Lansing, resides there. Our home will be near his."

Since the passing of the big airship over the town, Wednesday noon, there has been no little speculation as to the reliability of the sight of those who viewed the unusual visitor from the level of the borough streets, some 500 feet below the great machine. People in this borough, as perhaps, like those in many other towns, have been reputed to see double, so, now comes the explanation from a reputable citizen, and a man versed in airplane lore, that Wednesday's ship was a bi-plane. One man who brought it close up through the tubes of a German binocular, says surely it was a monoplane when he looked at it. An effort is to be made, to learn from the Aeronautic World, why and what kind of an airplane passed over this section at noon of Sept. 8th. During the Stove Pipe Club' sargument about this matter, and it is of some account, too, for this small section of the Quinebaug valley, is so infrequented by airships, that Wednesday's visitor calls for more than casual or passing notice, there arose opinions as to the relative value of telescopes, likely to be owned in this unseafaring burg. High up in the peak of the backside of the Baptist church is a window with six small panes.

G. A. Ross, has a telescope, with which, from his distant Lisbon home, he is able to clearly count these little classes. His is not a binocular, hence the report of a monoplane is not from Mr. Ross.—Yet there are glasses owned in town of greater power, through whose tubes those wee windows, when viewed from Ross' hill, stand out like squares of plate.

The Riverside Grammar school has opened its fall term with the record of pupils at the highest figure, there being 650 enrolled Thursday.

Superintendent F. H. P. Clement, is of the opinion that with 75 pupils in Grade 8, the upper hall will have to do class room duty.

A big gang of men from the state road department, is making improvements on the Voluntown road. Fences are being erected where needed and the shoulders are being widened and banked.

Mrs. Joseph Ruszenda is at home after a week's visit with relatives in Lawrence and at Salisbury Beach, Mass.

Nearly all the milling plants at the old tin mines of Cornwall, England are now run by electricity, although steam is generally used for pumps and hoisting.

MYSTIC

About 30 members of the Old Mystic Social circle surprised their president, Amos M. Gallup, at his home in Quaimbaug, Thursday evening. He expected one to call on him, instead the whole delegation was at the door and he cordially invited them in. Games were played and a social time was enjoyed. Hot dogs, rolls, cake, coffee and ice cream were the lunch, later in the evening.

The village was shocked on Wednesday to hear of the sudden death of Amos Gallup Hewitt. He was apparently in his usual health. He left his home in his car to call at a neighbor's where he has a garden and has a horse which he has kept for years being a pet and kept for his love for it, as he has used an automobile since he retired from active business. As the car stood for nearly two hours, friends were alarmed and the two neighbors went in search of him. They discovered him just through the gate on the ground, near the wall, dead. Dr. W. H. Gray, medical examiner was caller and pronounced death due to heart trouble. Mr. Hewitt was born in North Stonington, March 7, 1853, the son of Dudley R. Hewitt and Martha Gallup. He is a direct descendant of Thomas Hewitt and Hannah Palmer who settled where Elm Grove cemetery is now; also from Thomas Stanton, the first Indian interpreter. Mr. Hewitt attended the public schools of his native town and taught many terms there. In early life he united with the Congregational church and upon his removal to Mystic, nearly forty years ago, he united by letter with the Road Congregational church and was deacon, treasurer, and clerk of the Ecclesiastical society at the time of his death. He was a member of Stonington grange and New London County Pomona grange. In politics he was a republican. He held the office of assessor for sixteen years and was in office at the time of his death. He was often called upon to inventory estates his judgments being considered sound and good. He was of exemplary habits, held in high esteem, and will be greatly missed in the village and town. He leaves a brother, Dr. Charles E. Hewitt of Pennsylvania, and a sister, Mrs. Fannie Sinclair of Brooklyn, N. Y., also nephews and nieces.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Mary S. Brown, High street Wednesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. C. E. Newbury presided. Willard; held a cake sale and a picnic; sent aprons to be sold at Norwich fair; contributed $16 for outside work and has done much local work, giving flowers, fruit and other things to the sick and shut-ins. The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, vice presidents, Mrs. B. F. Davis, Mrs. C. E. Gremley, Miss Emily N. Murphy; secretary, Mrs. Mary S. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. Byron Billings; evangelistic superintendent, Mrs. C. E. Newbury; flower, Mrs. E. W. Whiting. Mrs. W. A. Phillips; social meeting, Mrs. W. L. Rollinson; press, Miss Emily N. Mrs. E. A. Smith has invited the union to her home, Fair Acres for a social meeting, Sept. 29.

At the 69th annual meeting of Stonington Union Bible school held in Noank Wednesday, in the address of welcome by Supt. V. J. Spicer he stated the first Sunday school started in Noank was by Baptists, coming from Fort Hill, where the church was located 100 years ago and 17 years before the church was organized. Extracts were read from four other schools older than this: Plainfield, 1829, North Stonington, 1833, Old Mystic, 1834. The speakers were good and it was a privilege to hear Gypsy Smith, Jr. Those attending from the local Baptist school were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thorp, Clarence Mitchell, F. Stedman, Mrs. C. R. Heath, Mrs. H. C. Chesebro, Mrs. W. Burrows, Mrs. Amy Williams, Mrs. W. Phillips, Mrs. C. H. THE HANDY MAN

The handy man I much admire,
I envy him his skill.
I only wish I could aspire
At times his place to fill.
Whenever anything goes wrong
They summon him, and then
It does not take him very long
To make things right again.

Now I'm a dub at mending things
My fingers are all thumbs.
And yearning no new deftness brings Whenever trouble comes.
I only make the trouble worse
In trying to make things right,
Till, when I feel I'm going to curse,
I calmly say: "Good night!"

My hat's off to the handy man,
Not stumped by anything!
As eloquently as I can
His praises I would sing.
The man who never needs, like me,
Someone to show him how,
And I could find for such as he
A dozen jobs right now!

At Danville, Pa., Vincent Griffith, walking along the street, heard a cry. Looking up, half a block ahead, he saw a baby in a second story window in the act of overbalancing on the window sill. He raced forward, arms outstretched, like a fielder at a ball game, and made the catch just as it fell. The baby was no teven bruised.

Tom Gray, a farmer, near Hutchinson, Kas., raised a 1,760 acre crop of wheat this year with gasoline power exclusively. There is no ta horse or a mule on the farm. Gasoline tractors pulled plows, drills and discs across the fields. Four big tractors and three combines cut and thrashed it. A fleet of motor truck hauled the grain to market. The total yield was more than 45,000 bushels.

Plans are being drawn for the conversion of the Altiplano, of Bolivia, through irrigation, from its present barren state into a profitable agricultural region, according to Rudolf E. Schoenfeld, office of American consul, La Paz. The Altiplano, the high plateau, of Bolivia, which covers about one-quarter of the country's total area has up to the present, been practically dry waste land, but recent investigation reveals an underground water supply which may be conveniently tapped by artesian wells.

The American Indian is naturally immune to scarlet fever, believes Dr. N. P. Sherwood of the university of Kansas, who has made an extensive study of the disease among Indians. Dr. Sherwood bases his conclusions on observations made at Haskell institute, at Lawrence, Kas., on questionnaires sent to nearly 100 Indian agencies, and the testimony of eighty-four physicians who have had many years of experience in treating Indians. Only twelve of the eighty-four physicians reported ever having found the disease among Indians, six were in doubt and sixty-six reported that they had never observed it among their patients.

OPTHAMOLOGIST GIVES FORTUNE TO RESEARCH

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)If scientists of generations yet unborn ever succeed in transplanting human eyes, it may be due to the pioneer work done by Dr. Lucien Howe. The research in the science of opthamology which Dr. Howe carried on for 50 years in Buffalo will be continued long after he completes his personal work through his recent endowment of $250,000 to Harvard university for the establishment of a laboratory for further study of the mysteries of the eye.

Dr. Howe, a modest and retiring physician and scientist, who has long been known as one of the world's leading opthamologists, refuses to commit himself as to whether it will ever be possible to transfer human eyes so that the blind may see. He says, however, that it is hoped that a means may be perfected so that persons who are born blind may be relieved.

"Opthamologists have been experimenting for many years and it has been proven that normal eyes can be transferred from animals of the lower class to those of the same species that are blind," he said. "Many cold-blooded animals that suffered from hereditary blindness have been made to see."

The scientist said that no attempt has as yet been made to transplant eyes in human beings. He explained that so far experimenters have been unable to avoid, regardless of the precautions exercised, hemorrhages that destroy the vision of warm-blooded animals.

Dr. Howe is most reticent about his endowment of Harvard university. All he will say is that his experiments will be carried on at the new institution and that he hopes in years to come opthamologists will reach their objective.

The doctor is now dismantling his home here and will move to Boston to supervise the work of the new department. He recently removed his sign from his office door to signify that his half century of active practising of his profession is over.

DANIELSON

NEARLY 300 REPUBLICANS OUT FOR TOWN CAUCUS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 9—Between 250 and 300 republicans came to the town hall this evening to attend what had the looks of an old time party caucus. The attendance in a measure was attracted by an interest inclined to offset anything irregular that might upset organization plans. Chairman P. A. Jacobs congratulated the party on having gotten out such a representation. James N. Tucker of East Killingly had declined the nomination of chairman. Judge W. Fenner Woodward acted as clerk.

Every nomination was made by acclamation and unanimously. There were no contests and the list of candidates is approximately that of republicans now filling offices for which they have been renominated. The caucus was called to order by Attorney E. L. Daphie, chairman of the republican town committee. The nominations follow:

Assessor, three years, Fred L. Miller; board of relief, three years, Edwin P. Lawrence; selectmen, John A. Gilbert, Napoleon P. Gingras; for agent of town deposit fund Frank T. Preston; auditor, Elmer C. Wood; collector of taxes, James R. Walsh; constable, L. S. Barstow, Jessie B. Odell, George LaBelle, Martin Wolfe; registrars D. Fred Kenworthy, Frank L. Bennett, James E. Smith; members of the town school committee for three years, Mrs. Agnes H. Paine Frank E. Harrington, members for two years, Frank J. Bennett.

James R. Walsh, nominee of the caucus for collector of taxes is a democrat and receives the nomination from the republicans, as he has for several years past, on the strength of his record of high efficiency in office. He was nominated by Attorney Daphie.

STATE SENDS 2 TEACHERS FOR ENLARGED HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Sept. 9—Two of the members of the enlarged teaching staff at Killingly high school, when it opens the week after next, are to have their salaries paid by the state of Connecticut. These teachers are to be in the domestic arts department of the high school. The first of these teachers, Miss Margaret Hutton, of Winsted, already has arrived here.

Unless they are preparing for a college course, it is likely that all the girls in the freshman and sophomore classes will be required to pursue a domestic arts course.

School officials here are appreciative of the interest of the state board of education in providing two of the additional teachers that will be required in the enlarged high school. This will relieve the town of a very considerable expense on the salary list and will contribute to the making of the local high school one of the best in the eastern part of the state.

There is special interest for many persons in the announcement of the plans to organize the Moosup Trust company. Moosup is a unique village in that it has two new banks to have a capital of $100,000 and there is every indication now that this will be read y supported. All of the incorporators of the proposed company are well known in this section of eastern Connecticut. These incorporators are representative of the Union American Woolen and Grandoka mills in Moosup and business interests in that community and Central Village. Included in the list of incorporators is W. Irving Bullard of Danielson, who is an official of a bank here and who is entirely engaged in his business life with financial matters. Temporary quarters for the bank have been obtained and it is regarded as likely that in due course of time a new building will be constructed. The new trust company will be a decided convenience to the people of Moosup and territory surrounding that place. Its incorporators —Charles T. Aldrich, Lucius B. Cranston, J. W. Danks, Harry Richardson, Thomas J. Seaton, Attorney Bradford W. Danielson, F. W. Tillinghast, T. H. Hope and Alfred Champaigne—are able men and of established place.

Officers of the grand chapter came here Wednesday evening for the semi-annual first regular meeting of Danielson chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. This meeting included the annual inspection. Visitors were present from various chapters in the state and chapters in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York were represented. A supper was served at 6:30. A feature of the evening's work was the conferring of the initiatory degree. The grand officers in attendance were Worthy Matron Grace E. Childsey; Grand Secretary Harriett I. Burwell; Associate Grand Matron Nellie Stuart; Grand Conductress Mrs. Geer; Associate Grand Conductress Mrs. Abbie Bergman, Grand Marshal Mrs. Stevens and Grand Warder Mrs. Monroe.

One of the highways of the town that is receiving attention which has put it in better condition than the average dirt road of the town, is that leading northward from the state highway at the top of Dark Lantern hill to East Killingly. This road has come into very considerable use by people traveling between East Killingly and other sections near there to get onto the state highway. It offers a saving in mileage over the route down through Elmville to Danielson. It is a narrow road, but now has a very good surface.

In pupils enrolled in its schools Goodyear has made the best gain this year of any of the communities of this town outside of Danielson. There are 253 pupils in the school there this year, as against 214 in 1925. Goodyear has been a prosperous village during the summer with the mill working full time and this has kept the families there as well as bringing some additional population. The reverse is true in Attawaugan and Ballouville, where closed factories or factories working on limited scheduled caused numbers of families to move away, as being reflected in a decreased enrollment in the schools. The reopening of these mills will overcome this situation.

Miss Madeline Hanegan and Miss Pauline Chartier have gone to Marlboro, Mass., to enter St. Ann's convent.

Having spent two weeks with relatives here, Miss Elizabeth Hanlon has returned to Pittsfield.

This (Friday) evening a Rally social will bring members of the Baptist Sunday school together at the church. There is to be a program of entertainment, social, games and stunts. The Spark Plug and B. B. B. classes will be in charge.

The Danielson Trust company has sent out hundreds of invitations for the formal opening of the enlarged and finely appointed banking quarters on Saturday.

September 24, has been set as the date for a meeting of the Circuit league at Putnam. This league has membership in a number of Quinebaug valley towns. The meeting will be the first of the fall season.

The exterior of St. James' school building on Franklin street is being painted.

Mrs. A. V. Woodworth, who has been spending the summer at Pleasure Beach, will return here this week end.

A lively democratic caucus, probably the most largely attended in years, is in prospect for this (Friday) evening. The candidates for nominations for selectmen are understood to be Alcott S. Bagles, at present a member of the board of selectmen, A. E. Hill of South Killingly and John Ryan of Dayville. Only two can be nominated.

Mrs. E. H. Keach, after spending the summer at Kelsey Point, will return to Danielson during the coming week.

FIRST AUTOMOBILES NOT UNLIKE PRESENT

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (AP)—There's nothing new under the sun, especially age as viewed by those in motor cars, a visit to the Ford Historical collection at Dearborn shows.

A fad, presumable of more or less antiquity, is the sport model roadster with the rumble seat. "Rumble" is the seat in the rear, just large enough for one couple. For a roadster, venture of less size and a seat perched on the rear, for the same purpose although it wasn't possible to conceal this seat.

The trimmings were resplendently brassed, and a horn, rivaling the latest "moo cow" creation with its rubber projector as motive power, was part of standard equipment.

Returning to the rumble seat: A touring model went this one step better. One of the cars in the collection is fully equipped touring model. On first glance, it appears to be only a sturdily built car, seemingly well constructed; but release a nut here, a screw there—and the back seat comes off, leaving a seductive roadster for two which resembles a cross between a caterpillar truck, a tractor, and a tandem of a little earlier period.

Those were the days of the sidewinders; and the buggy public, skeptical of the ability of a cincher girth to hold the place straddled, demanded extra lugs placed at intervals between the spokes, on the inner side of the wheel.

A prophecy of the sweeping lines of present day plus ultra models is found in the 1906 touring car, there, the hood and cowl are reminiscent of the rest of the car. The fenders sweep in a slow curve to below the doors, where they are replaced by small "step-ups." The headlights are ponderous. Only the top, which extends at sharp angles when lowered, and the high square seat backs dissonnate the harmony of the whole.

PUTNAM

WATER COMMITTEE WAITS FOR NORWICH ENGINEER

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 9—The city council of Putnam is adhering to its policy of expending no money that is not absolutely necessary. A good deal of business was done at the regular meeting held in the council room at the Municipal building this week.

An application for a fire hydrant and a fire alarm box, put in at the Arch bridge and South Meadow street near the gas tank, was referred to a committee to investigate, but the sentiment seemed to be against it, because of the cost, as was the proposal to buy a motorcycle for the police department. R. E. Thurston, fire chief, spoke in favor of protecting the gas plant because of its value to the city; he thought that it was not adequately protected. After discussion, the matter was referred to the fire committee.

A number of building permits were asked for, the majority being for garages on private property. Mr. Thurston was of the opinion that the city should have more power in regulating new buildings so as to afford better protection against fire. The matter of an amendment to the charter to provide the necessary authority was suggested but no definite action was taken.

In discussing the motorcycle asked for in order to better regulate motor traffic, objections were raised on the grounds of economy—the outlay for the machine, the upkeep and the salary of the extra man that would be needed to operate it.

Alderman Rogers, chairman of the special committee on the improvement of the water service, said that his committee was still without a report from Shepard B. Palmer, hydraulic engineer of Norwich, further than that he had suggested a conference of the committee and the water commissioners, to talk over the situation.

An offer of $50 was received from the state highway department for a piece of land near the pumping station at Harrisville. The state needs it for the state road improvement there. As it would do away with the "old swimmin' hole" the council decided not to accept the bid unless there is some way to provide other bathing facilities.

A sewer extension to the property of Alfred Street was asked for by Lee H. Weeks and was referred to the highway committee.

Alphonse Bubenaid was elected a member of the fire police to fill the vacancy caused by Joseph Pare moving on the [illegible] force.

THURSDAY'S INDICTMENTS EXCITE WIDE INTEREST

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 9—Residents of Putnam and North Grosvenordale are intensely interested in the indictments returned by the grand jury at Willimantic this afternoon charging Raymond Wetherbee and Agnes Pytko with first degree murder. The charge grows out of the death, June 30, of Miss Pytko's new-born infant. Wetherbee is a resident of North Grosvenordale and the girl's home is in Wilsonville a few miles distant.

Both are well up in years, the girl is but seventeen and evidently hadn't had a very fair chance in life.

She testified that she had been accused when but fifteen of theft, but denied the truth of the charge, but she admitted that while still fifteen she had had intimate relations with a man twelve years her senior. Three years ago, barely a few weeks ago before Justice of the Peace Tourtellotte she said that on the night the baby was born she had gone to bed, sleeping from 10 o'clock until 2 in the morning, then she had dressed, went out of the house and met Wetherbee by previous arrangement. They had gone to a little brook, a tributary of the Quinebaug river where she had lain down on an old rain coat. There the child was born, and with her knowledge or at least tacit consent, Wetherbee tied a rope around its waist, weighed it with a heavy stone and had thrown it into the stream. At 3:15 she was back in bed again, she said, having been away from the house less than an hour.

Her physical condition was such the next day that she was taken to the Day Kimball hospital. There she told a member of the state police the story she outlined, alleging that Wetherbee was the father of the child. He was taken into custody and held at Brooklyn jail. As soon as her condition would permit she also was removed to the jail. At a hearing before Justice Tourtellotte both remanded to jail on a charge of murder in the first degree, to await the action of a grand jury.

Officer Stressman of the state police told at the hearing of finding the body of the babe near the spot where the girl defendant told him to look.

Dr. R. C. Paine of Thompson made an examination of the child, finding that it had a fractured skull, but expressed his belief that the child had been alive at birth and dead when thrown into the water.

Both Wetherbee and Miss Pytko were held to await the action of a grand jury. The evidence in the case was presented to it today at Willimantic by H. C. Bradford, state's attorney, and true bills were returned against both of the accused.

At the opening of the fall term of the public school in the town of Putnam there were 870 pupils enrolled.

This is but 24 less than last year and is a much larger number than was expected, in view of the business depression and disasters in the city in the past two years. It is also significant that nearly all of this falling off is in the Sawyer district and the rural schools.

There are but 8 less enrolled in the Putnam high school than in 1925 and at the Israel Putnam school the number is just the same.

The enrolment furnished by Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools follows: Putnam high school—252 pupils, a loss of 6 over 1925, eighth grade (which is in the high school building)—62 pupils, a gain of 1, Israel Putnam school—378 pupils, the same as 1925, South street—63, a loss of 1; Sawyer district—91 pupils a loss of 6; rural schools—24, a loss of 19. Total 870 against 894 in 1925.

The recent death of Miss Nellie Egan, 63, came as a distinct shock to people of Putnam. For more than a quarter of a century she had conducted a millinery store on Main street and all her life in Putnam, with the exception of a few years spent in Worcester.

Her health had not been good for some time and she was actively desirous of taking an automobile trip to Canada, but yielded to the urging of her brother and his family, who thought she would benefit from it.

In company with her brother William Egan and a party of Worcester friends left here Monday and had a very enjoyable motor trip through the state of Vermont to the Province of Quebec, Canada. On Sunday they motored to Lake Memphremagog, where they had a delightful visit with friends. They were still there when they received the sad news of the death of Miss Egan's sister. She was not able to get home before the funeral, which was held in her home on Pleasant street Saturday afternoon and was largely attended by friends and relatives, who came to pay their last tribute to her interest and fineness.

Mrs. Ida Mae Johnson, widow of Edward E. Johnson who died at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester on Tuesday, morning, was married to Edgar Clarence Mabee Carpenter and Mrs. Edith Mae Carpenter of Putnam and Mrs. Hazel Angell of East Greenwich, R. I., and two sons, Arthur E. Johnson and Earl E. Johnson both of Putnam. The [illegible] are also three sisters and three brothers.

Wednesday, Mrs. William Holland quietly observed her ninety-second birthday at her home in the Sawyer district. Greetings, messages of congratulations and gifts from friends far and near added to the happiness of the day. One of the surprises was a huge surprise basket filled with remembrances and floral greetings from [illegible] and Mrs. Holland that [illegible] in receiving them.

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett and two daughters Miss Frances and Miss Ruth and Miss Gertrude Jones leave today (Friday) on an automobile trip to Utica, N. Y., where they will visit relatives.

Fresh twice a day—

Dietz Bread better than ever!

A FEW years ago Mr. Dietz thought he had realized his ideal in the bread he was baking.

For it had the perfection which only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could give.

But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements which his purchase of the Dolly Madison bakery has given him an opportunity to carry out.

Among other things, he has installed the very latest type of oven—a modern marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm, rich loaves—greater crispness to the evenly browned crust.

This new oven makes possible two bakings a day, so that the delicious new Dietz Bread now reaches your grocer twice a day—a fine, firm loaf, so fresh and tender it fairly melts in your mouth.

GET DIETZ BREAD from your grocer today and enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

DIETZ BREAD is made of the same quality of ingredients you would use if it were baked in your own kitchen—but the loaf has a finer texture, richer wheatiness and body, because instead of just the one kind of flour you use at home, several fine flours are blended to give unvarying gluten strength and full wheat nourishment.

All ingredients must measure up to a rigid standard of quality and purity.

TWO PRIMARY RESULTS

Results in two primaries in particular this week have been awaited with [illegible] while they are just [illegible]

While there was a hard fight for the nomination of United States senator made in New Hampshire Senator Moses was an easy winner, showing a large majority of the people of that state have confidence in him and desire to retain his services in Washington. It may not be [illegible] indicates that [illegible] supported him [illegible] when he opposed [illegible] apparently [illegible] state and [illegible] vote that they [illegible] his services.

[illegible] to be regret that the voters of that state [illegible] to get along without Senator Lodge as the head and [illegible] of the party in the senate, but opposition [illegible] ordered to [illegible] the president [illegible] to be extended for [illegible] to refuse to [illegible] a Republican the wall some time ago, [illegible] made a good fight and his [illegible] felt in the senate chamber.

[illegible] viewed the La[illegible] nomination as [illegible] but [illegible] to the gubernatorial nomination situation was different. Zimmerman, who had broken with the LaFollettes, was successful and that threatens the long maintained LaFollette state control. This shows that the [illegible] is vulnerable and [illegible] elected and Blaine [illegible] LaFollette influence [illegible] in Wisconsin and Wisconsin will [illegible].

The nomination of Blaine means an [illegible] of the administration [illegible] will be quite as much out [illegible] as Coolidge. [illegible] Democrat. Lenroot [illegible] with the administration [illegible] was consistently [illegible] regarded as one of the strong members of the senate [illegible] having been [illegible] leading republican [illegible].

GERMANY JOINS LEAGUE

There is reason for elation, both on the part of Germany and the league of nations, that the final step has been taken that makes Germany not only a member of the league but gives it a permanent seat in the council.

Although it [illegible] eight years since the world [illegible] Germany [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] to do its part for the peace [illegible] the world. In spite of the efforts that were made last spring to make Germany's entrance into the league dependent upon the [illegible] of other nations permanent seats in the council they did not succeed. For a time it looked as if the Locarno pacts might not be carried out but respect for that was regarded of more importance than the threatened retirement of other small nations from the league and the result is that the league is today the stronger and the [illegible] in Europe for more [illegible].

The league would have preferred that Brazil had not retired and that Spain did not stand as it does today [illegible] out of the league, but it regards the membership of Germany as more important. On the other hand [illegible] the situation created by the Locarno conference which could not be [illegible]. That has now been [illegible] Germany as in the league and it [illegible] on the level with the other powers and there is reason for believing that the result will be [illegible] to all concerned [illegible] now joining with the [illegible] of the league has gone [illegible] in the same position toward them as they have been [illegible] other. Instead of striving to restrain and encompass Germany the time is now ripe for all to move forward for general peace and progress.

The attitude of Brazil and Spain [illegible] necessarily mean that they will [illegible] reconsider and return. But even though they do not the league has reason for feeling that even though it lost two while gaining one new member it is the stronger.

PARDONING POWER ABUSED

There are times when sensible use is made of the pardoning power that [illegible] in the governor of a state, but there are times when it is greatly abused and its purposes grossly misinterpreted.

Attention has been recently directed to this by the recent report which showed that during the 20 months she has been in office Governor Ferguson of Texas has granted 2333 clemency proclamations to all kinds of cases ranging from commutation of death sentences to the minor cases. It is always possible for such action to be brought to attention for political purposes but even that seems to have been justified in this case when it is shown that there were at least 600 of these pardons granted since the recent campaign for renomination opened.

The Ferguson regime has been under fire from many directions. Freeing prisoners for the good effect it is expected to have upon the electorate is by no means confined to Governor Ferguson. Other states have witnessed just such action, but when the safety and protection of the general public are so completely ignored, by the turning loose of those who have committed all kinds of crime, it is strange if a popular reaction does not follow.

All kinds of apologies are offered for the Ferguson regime because of the fact that Jim Ferguson was the power behind the throne, but even [illegible] such wholesale pardoning could not have been resorted to without the knowledge of the governor herself, and even if she put full reliance in her husband the whole matter reflects bad judgment on her part.

It has been said before, but it will bear repeating, that Texas got only what it deserved under the Fergusons. It should have had warning enough when Jim Ferguson was actually governor no to have taken any chances whereby he would get the reins of government again in his hands. When it made that possible it invited all that has since been received in the way of bad government. The second [illegible] should suck.

STRAIGHTENING THE ROADS

The state highway department is devoting much attention and much money to the elimination of grades and the taking out of curves, that the heavier traffic of the future may be easily handled.

Such is unquestionably doing much to improve the highway system of this state but it is not prompted by such accidents as that at East Granby this week where a party of four went over a 30 foot embankment when the driver of the car failed to make the curve at the foot of a grade, or by that fatality near New Haven last spring when the driver who was speeding crashed into a tree because he was unfamiliar with the locality and did not make the curve.

For those who disregard the highway conditions and fail to keep their car under control so that they can meet such conditions as they arise, there is no call for making a speedway of the highway system of the state any more than there is for elimination of railroad crossings, well warned and signaled, for those who refuse to abide by warnings and disregard all precautions for self protection.

The straightened highways and the reduced grades will be warmly welcomed, however, by the drivers who are concerned in contributing to the safety of the highways, as well as by those who understand what large reductions in distance are made by the straightened rather than the curved roadway. Distance is a matter which has to get some consideration in these days of much road building and the construction of roads to handle greater and heavier traffic.

INTERSTATE MOTOR TRAFFIC

For the purpose of reaching a decision as to what should be done in the way of regulating the interstate auto truck and auto bus traffic, if anything, the interstate commerce commission is hearing what those favoring and those opposing it have to say in Boston. It is engaged in the task of determining whether there should be federal regulation and there no doubt but what it is a very interesting test.

When the New Haven road estimates its losses because of busses at $3,227,000 a year, and the Boston & Maine $75,000 on one of its lines, the situation is surely one to command attention. The New Haven [illegible] that all automobiles [illegible] and private, have decreased its revenue by nearly $25,000,000 and that a $10,000,000 loss has been felt in the freight revenue.

While regulation would not mean a restoration of all of such revenue, it is apparent that there is justification for the protest being made against the failure to regulate interstate motor traffic. For the railroads to be subjected to regulations and the competitors free to do as they please doesn't seem to be just. Then there should be similar regulation for all transportation lines, whether they are roads operated by steam, electric or gasoline engines, seems reasonable. The real question seems to lie in how much regulation shall be undertaken. It will mean a huge task for the interstate commerce commission to undertake such supervision for the great number of interstate lines throughout the country, but the work needs to be done and if the commission cannot tackle it it could be given authority to delegate its power if congress is urged and feels disposed to give it that right, which does not exist under the present law.

MRS. JARRING'S ADVICE

"Husbands," announced Mrs. Jarring to the pretty young bride, whose eyes were a bit red, "husbands are queer things, aren't they, my dear?"

The pretty young bride paused on her way out of the lobby of the Fern family hotel, glanced at the clock and sniffed faintly. But she made no response to Mrs. Jarring's conclusive remark.

Whereat Mrs. Jarring smiled softly and leaned back in her rocker. No doubt the pretty young bride felt that she could not trust her voice just then without betraying the fact that all was not well in the bridal suite on the second floor. However, if the three weeks' bride thought that she could pull the wool over the eyes of Mrs. Jarring. . . . !

"I sometimes wonder why we women ever marry at all," went on Mrs. Jarring sympathetically. "Goodness knows most of us can get along quite well without husbands. Especially today. Of course, in my time a girl couldn't earn her own living, and it was considered a very terrible thing for her not to marry. But today! Why, my dear, I'll bet you could walk out of this hotel this minute and get back the position you had before you married. Couldn't you, now?"

"Haven't thought about it," stated the pretty young bride, producing her handkerchief.

"Well, you ought to think about it, my dear child. The days are gone when the husband could act just as mean as he wanted to, knowing that his wife had to stay on hand, no matter what he did."

A gleam of interest shot into the gray eyes of the bride and she sat down beside Mrs. Jarring.

"I've about ten minutes to spare before my appointment," she said. "You won't mind my sitting here? You were saying——?"

Mrs. Jarring smiled again and moved her own a bit closer to the couch. There was no fog, though, and she quickly saw that she possessed an understanding people. Here was the girl married three weeks and, really, despondent over it! More than despondent. For had the young bride not glanced at the clock three times within five minutes? With that sturdy little chin of hers, Mrs. Jarring was sure that the young bride was not the kind of girl who would stand for much from her husband. For all any one knew, the disappointed bride had already arranged for an engagement with another man—no doubt an old friend.

"To keep a man interested you have to keep him guessing," advised Mrs. Jarring, warming to her task. "And not only that, my dear, but sometimes you even have to do something—something a little—ah—you know what I mean."

Mrs. Jarring's keen eyes pierced the other's face. Once, several years ago, the good lady had seen a very French play in English. She never forgot it.

"Now, with your kind of husband, child, I would say that you had to actually do something clever to wake him up. He feels so sure of you. You mustn't let him get that way. It's sheer suicide."

The eyes of the pretty young bride widened, but, outside of dabbing a bit of powder on her nose, which was shiny, she made no sign of responding.

"However," laughed Mrs. Jarring with the wicked stage chuckle of the scheming old aunt in the French play she had seen, "I guess there's no need for me to advise you. The moment I saw you come down today I said to myself: 'Ah, our little bride is no man's fool. Not she!' And when you kept glancing at the clock I knew immediately that you were going to a little luncheon for two—somebody that you knew back in the old days before you'd met friend husband. Well, my dear, be careful, that's all. Bring that man of yours to time. Perhaps if you contrived to take a little drive in your friend's car——"

The pretty young bride stood up and patched her face about her. "Thanks all ever," she sniffed, for she could be very tangy when she chose. "All wet, Mrs. Jarring. My eyes are red because I've got a fierce cold and my appointment is with my nose and throat doctor. I'll be late now, but I couldn't pass this up. It was too good. So long, Lulu."

And the bride departed, leaving a whiff of violet perfume poised to menace Mrs. Jarring behind her.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Joseph Cook, whose five-year term as Australian high commissioner in London has been extended for six months in order that he may represent the commonwealth in the imperial conference next month, has been an outstanding figure in Australian politics and public affairs for the past thirty-five years. Like many other Australian statesmen Sir Joseph sprang from the ranks of the laboring class. Left an orphan at the age of nine, he worked in the mines of his native England until early manhood, when he decided to try his luck in Australia. Arriving in his new home he again went into the mines to earn a living while he fitted himself for better things. By hard study he qualified for a clerical position and soon became secretary to the association of mine owners. In 1891 he was elected to the New South Wales assembly. Some fifteen years after found him leader of the opposition in the commonwealth parliament and with the next change in government he entered the premiership.

[illegible] 12 years [illegible] period of the [illegible] [illegible] the young [illegible] [illegible] of body [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] may be expected, with assurance, to become a useful citizen and an efficient unit in the productive forces in the community.

All the nervous tendencies of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] period. The response sometimes is well nigh overpowering, and it is now that the character and stability of the child is put to a terrific test.

A hitherto careless, frank, open-hearted youngster may develop restlessness, self consciousness, secretiveness, imaginativeness and unhealthy nervousness; vicious habits and conduct, sometimes insanity.

Criminologists tell us that the former age of criminals in our penal institutions has gone down from 35 years to 21 and less. Most of the daring outrages published in our daily papers have been perpetrated by boys and girls, not yet 20 years of age, who have "gone wrong" in this peculiar stage of development.

What may be done to prevent the lapses of young people?

Proper home training and example is one of the things. The moral loosening influence of the World war has its worst effect on parents, not on young children. The "flapper" is simply a product of our present cycle of "styles," but at heart sound and perfectly amenable, providing her parents are well mannered, wholesome people.

Too many men and women are not real friends to their children; they are only their parents. Parents should so act as to be regarded as the best friends of their children. Adolescence needs kindness, sympathy and forebearing patience. Many a boy or girl has been started on the wrong road by hasty, angry and boisterous correction and upbraiding. Too few parents realize the great influence for good or bad they can exert on their children in this period.

These young people are high strung, exceedingly nervous and by the very nature of their physiologic cycle cannot control their behavior nor bearing to calm, cool judgment. They need [illegible] judicious friendship and direction. If they obtain these things in time, they rarely fail to respond.

Wholesome diversions, especially outdoor life and active sports, are needed during the adolescent period. These young sters need to work off their nervous effervescence. Outdoor sports properly regulated are best for this purpose.

The Boy and Girl Scout organizations, the drills and training they give, are the most beneficial measures ever conceived for adolescent children. These organizations are serving thousands of girls and boys, and moulding their bodies and character for useful citizenship replacement units which will make the United States a more wholesome and better land.

Stories That Recall Others

How Times Change

Jean, age ten, living in the city had been in the habit for several years of visiting her cousin Oliver in the country for a week each summer. This summer she said nothing about going. She showed none of her former enthusiasm for making the journey and finally one night said: "Well, Jean, how about the visit to the farm this summer?"

"Oh, I don't think I'll go," she replied.

"Why not?" asked the mother.

"Well, it's not the same town since the goat died," she said.

"Pickles!"

A few days ago, Bobby, age three, went to the grocery with his mother. Seeing a row of watermelons on the floor he stood and looked at them for a while, then much to the amusement of others in the store he said: "Oh, mamma, look at the great big pickles!"

substitutes if you seek the famous Quaker flavor

THE point to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want.

One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfasts for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly. Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats has it. Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed.

Get Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known.

Your grocer has both kinds.

Super-Slot Machines

A hat report from Paris about the Frenchman who put slot machines at his mercy by freezing ice in the shape of coins must have aroused the slot machine makers here, for at the recent exposition of the National Vending Machine association there was exhibited a machine which, it is said, can tell the difference between an honest coin and a piece of lead or between an American quarter and a French franc piece.

The secret of the thing appears to lie in its ability to distinguish coins by both their size and their weight. The exposition showed machines that sold everything from gum to clothes by the slot system, and one which returned correct change after deducting the purchase price.

Curious Way to Pump

It is said that an English inventor has constructed a pump without cylinders or buckets that will lift 1,000 gallons of water an hour from a depth of 300 feet even when worked by hand.

It consists simply of a spiral spring belt, a grooved weight that turns with the bottom loop of the belt and holds the belt in place, and a driving crank and pulley for turning the belt. The coil-like cable is carried down to any depth by the grooved weight. The water is held in the meshes of the spiral spring by capillary attraction as it is drawn up, and discharged only when the coils turn over at the top. One authority has called the improved pump "a mechanical impertinence."

BROUGHT BACK SOUVENIR OF HALIFAX EXPLOSION

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Whiteley of Yantic have returned home from a two weeks, automobile trip during which about 2000 miles were covered. Their objective point was Halifax, Nova Scotia, where they visited Mrs. Whiteley's relatives, but several points of interest along the way were visited in the New England states. A souvenir brought back is of special interest and as far as is known is the only one in existence. The souvenir represents part of the English ship Mount Blanc which was blown to smithereens by TNT in the harbor at Nova Scotia during the World war. This catastrophe took the lives of 1,500 persons, while several hundred were injured. A peculiar incident of this explosion was the fact that before the accident there were seven fathoms of water in the harbor, but after the explosion the depth of the water had reached 70 fathoms, a difference of 63 fathoms. It was said that if this explosion had occurred in the city of Halifax it would have destroyed the entire city. The souvenir, which is an irregular piece of steel and evidently part of the plating of the ship, was found by Mrs. Whiteley's brother, Robert Horton, shortly after the explosion.

Thursday evening at 6:30 a farewell party was given at the Y. M. C. A. in honor of E. J. Fritz, physical director for the past six years at the Norwich association, by the members of the senior leaders corps and the Red Cross life saving corps. Twenty members sat down to a delicious supper which was prepared by Charles Pallocha. The menu consisted of tomato consumme, saltines, lobster salad, rolls, chocolate, apple pie a la mode.

Following the supper, DeWitt Parsons, president of the senior leaders corps, called on Emory H. Davis, boys secretary, who gave a very interesting talk on leadership and spoke of the progress made by various members of the clubs in athletic activities under Mr. Fritz. A token of the esteem of the members, in the form of a handsome week-end bag, was presented to Mr. Fritz by Alfred Pineault, who spoke in behalf of both clubs. Theodore Wyman of the Red Cross life saving corps spoke for the members of the corps, voicing their appreciation of the aid and interest of Mr. Fritz. Plans were discussed for a swimming and life saving exhibition, to be held Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A., to which all friends of the association are invited. This will be the last athletic exhibition under the supervision of Mr. Fritz and it is expected that a large number will attend.

THAMESVILLE MAN HAS LEG BROKEN WHEN HIT BY AUTO IN GREENEVILLE

While crossing North Main street, near Ninth street, about 8 o'clock Thursday evening Ignatz Niederman, 60, of No. 333 West Thames street, received a broken right leg and injuries about the face, when he was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by J. Albert Dominque of No. 349 Yantic street. Mr. Niederman had gone to Greeneville in an automobile driven by his son, and alighting from the machine, started to cross the street. Mr. Dominque, driving a Paige sedan, was headed in the opposite direction. Mr. Niederman was almost across the street, and about to step onto the sidewalk when he was struck by the right front mudgard of the sedan and thrown to the street.

Dr. Paul F. Gadle was called to attend the injured man and had him taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance. Mr. Niederman's son claimed that Dominque was driving at a rate of between 30 and 35 miles an hour and that he came to a stop about 300 feet from where he hit Mr. Niederman. Mr. Dominque claimed he was driving at about 20 miles an hour. He was ordered to appear in the city court this (Friday) morning.

LANMAN-TRUMBULL STORY IS OF NORWICH INTEREST

There has been privately printed for distribution to personal friends an account, in pamphlet form, of an address at the centenary celebration of the Asiatic Society of France delivered by a distinguished native of Norwich, Prof. Charles Rockwell Lanman. This celebration was an event of world-wide significance. The founding of the Asiatic society of France, in 1822, coincides with Champollion's discovery of the method of deciphering the hieroglyphic inscriptions of Egypt.

The two events were celebrated at Paris from July 10th to 13th. There were about 150 delegates, men prominent in educational circles in England, India, Switzerland, Belgium, Scotland, Holland, Norway, Japan. From America came Breasted of Chicago, Gotthelf and Jackson, of Columbia, Lanman and Jewett of Harvard. The address of Professor Lanman was delivered in French, at the formal session in the amphitheatre of the Sorbonne, an after-dinner speech at the final banquet.

The program was carried out with the good taste, skillful care and generous hospitality which the world is wont to expect from the French. It is chronicled that the incidental glimpses of French family life that the centenary afforded are among the choicest memories of the gathering. A banquet at the Palais d'Orsay was a fitting finale for a series of dignified conferences and beautiful fetes. There were 250 guests, the minister of the colonies, Mr. Sarraut presiding. Professor Lanman responded for the United States.

In the name of the Oriental society of America, the American Academy of Arts and Science, also the universities represented, the learned speaker tendered the Asiatic society felicitations the most cordial on its achievements and glorious services rendered, not only to France, but to the world. After summarizing these services very ably, Professor Lanman went on to explain just why he himself felt such a keen interest in the impressive proceedings of the celebration. To these professions he gave clever point, by narrating a little story told him more than sixty years ago, and with pride, by Miss Abby Trumbull Lanman (born 1806) a sister of his father, Peter Lanman, 3rd (born 1807).

Abby and Peter Lanman 3rd were children of Peter Lanman, 2nd., and of Abby Trumbull, granddaughter of the Revolutionary governor Jonathan Trumbull. Both mother and children had personal acquaintance with prominent figures of the American Revolution.

Prof. Lanman, speaking of course in French, cited the incident as an evidence of the friendship existing for France even during the troublous times when the little American colonies were in such dire straits. The French forces came to the aid of the struggling American forces, marching from the port of debarking, Newport, R. I., as far as Lebanon, as the speaker describes it, "a little town in the state of Connecticut." The governor-general of Connecticut was Jonathan Trumbull, the faithful and dependable friend of Washington. It is the tradition that Washington bestowed on Trumbull the name "Brother Jonathan." Trumbull set to work to provide quarters for the French officers—Count Rochambeau, the Duc de Lauzun and others.

Governor Trumbull hurried to the home of his son, David Trumbull, whose house was the largest and most comfortable in the village, inquiring of his son if the latter felt like placing his home, also, at the disposal of the French visitors.

All this happened in December of 1780, said the speaker. The climate of North America is often extremely severe. The cold, the deep snows, difficult roads leading to Norwich, the nearest large town, all contributed to make moving at that season of the year especially serious and uncomfortable. But that was not all; from day to day the household was awaiting the birth of a child to Madame David Trumbull.

Nevertheless, David Trumbull inquired of his wife if she would be willing to give up their home to the French. "Certainly," was her prompt, spontaneous response. "And when?" inquired her husband. "In an hour, sir!"

So with a patriotism truly noble, she collected her clothing, undertaking the hazardous and uncomfortable journey through the snow. The infant was born at Norwich, on the night of Jan. 1st, 1781.

That infant became, 26 years afterwards, the mother of Prof. Lanman's own father. As he reminded his hearers during his eloquent peroration, the friendship between his ancestors and the brave and generous French who had come to the aid of struggling and distressed America was no new thing; but through five generations the most cordial amity had existed between the representatives of the two nations. Nor was this all—two sons of the American family fought in the last war, one, side by side with the French in the Argonne, the other, in the North Sea where he could behold the vanquishing of the German fleet. "Behold," the speaker exclaimed, "six generations the firmest friends of France! I hope, I feel sure, this friendship is going to endure through all generations to come!"

CHICAGO OPERA TENOR SINGS AT THE PALACE

Music lovers of the city enjoyed an unusual attraction provided for them at the Palace theatre Thursday in the appearance of Guido Ciccolini, famous tenor of the Chicago Opera Co., who was given a most enthusiastic reception at the afternoon and evening performances.

Ciccolini was given curtain call after curtain call at each performance, singing first a favorite melodious aria from Verdi's opera La Traviata, following this with Just A Cottage Small. In response to many requests made to the management he rendered as an encore number Elgie by Massanet which he sang at the funeral of Rudolph Valentino. In all his selections he was given artistic support by the theatre orchestra under the direction of Walter W. Lang.

Ciccolini displayed a voice of brilliancy and power, of wide range and velvet smoothness, which he used with the understanding of a true artist. His appearance was a musical treat such as is rarely enjoyed in this city.

Nothing worries some wives like the absence of worry in their husbands.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN STURTEVANT AVENUE SUIT

An injunction against further obstruction of right of way on Sturtevant avenue, this city, and damages of $25 are given in favor of Frank Awiayo in his suit against Mrs. Josephine Isbicki in a decision handed down by Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court. The injunction is subject to certain restrictions as noted in the memorandum of decision in which Judge Waller says in part:

The plaintiff in his complaint alleges that the defendant since Jan. 1, 1920, has obstructed said right of way or road and has deprived him from the use of it and asks for damages and that an injunction issue restraining the defendant from maintaining obstructions within the limits of said way.

The defendant in her answer admits that she and her predecessor in title have erected sheds and garages within said way and placed logs, wood and brush therein so that the plaintiff has been deprived of any and all use of said way; in her second defense the defendant alleges that she has acquired title by adverse possession, for a period in excess of 15 consecutive years, to said land or alleged private way upon which said buildings are standing.

The conclusions I have arrived at, stated briefly, are as follows:

The defendant is the owner of the land upon which stands the structures referred to as the addition or ell to the barn and the shed directly opposite, and acquired title to the same by adverse possession.

The defendant has acquired by adverse use the right to maintain a fence across the opening of said way into Sturtevant avenue with the gateway to same between the posts.

In all other respects the plaintiff is entitled to a free and unobstructed use of the way in question.

BLOOD STAINED SUIT FOUND IN TAFTVILLE WOODS

Why a blood stained suit of men's clothing and a Boston bag should have been left in the woods near the old ice house on the road between Taftville and Occum is a mystery that state police from the Groton barracks are investigating.

The articles were discovered Thursday afternoon by a traveling salesman and his wife who were driving along the road in his automobile and had stopped for a walk in the woods. Besides the bloodstains on the trousers, there were marks of blood on the ground close by, it is reported, and when the Boston bag was opened a mill pay envelop was found in it which may furnish a clue. The envelope bore the date Aug. 13, with the number of the employe to whom it was issued.

The find was reported in Taftville and when the pay envelope was disclosed it was found to bear entries of charges for board and a store bill. It was known among mill men that the Wauregan Co., was about the only mill in this part of the state that issues pay envelopes of this character, and it is understood that the Wauregan mill office gave the information that a man named John Handsell had been employed there, but had left about Aug. 13, and that his pay envelopes bore the number on the one found in the bag.

State Policeman Whitmarsh was here Thursday evening making an investigation in the case and taking charge of the articles — had been found. It was reported from the Groton barracks that the investigation so far had not disclosed how the trousers and the bag came to be in the woods.

The place where the articles were discovered was near the spot where the body of a man was found hanging to a tree some time after he had disappeared from his home in a hut several years ago.

After being partially tried before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran, the twice continued case of Max Novogroski, Westerly and Providence shoe dealer, who is criminally charged by the government with obstructing navigation in the Pawcatuck river at Westerly, scheduled to be renewed at New London Thursday, was again postponed by the commissioner to Sept. 16, at the request of Assistant United States District Attorney George H. Cohen of Hartford, who is prosecuting the case for the government.

The continuance has been made necessary by the failure of engineers of the war department at Providence to furnish maps of the Pawcatuck river, and data concerning the building of caissons, through the erection of which the charges against Mr. Novogroski arose.

L. E. McLaughlin, the contractor, who had charge of the Novogroski building program in Westerly, is under bonds awaiting hearing on similar charges, but his case will not be disposed of until the Novogroski hearing has been completed and a decision has been rendered as to whether probable cause exists for holding the latter for trial in the federal court on the charge.

WILL GIVE SWIMMING DEMONSTRATION AT Y. M. C. A.

An interesting demonstration of swimming is scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool for Saturday evening of this week, when the recently formed life saving corps at the Y. will give a program of swimming and life saving activities, including several competitive events along the line of fancy diving and racing.

The local life savers have just been granted an official charter to act as a standard Red Cross corps and the list of life saving events in Saturday's program will give spectators an idea of the work required by those who are enlisted in the work of the Red Cross life saving service.

The demonstration will be open to the general public, men and women being especially invited, and no admission is to be charged, the events will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

FEWER EGGS LAID IN 44TH WEEK AT STORRS

There was another slight decline in egg production in the Storrs contest during the 44th week, the 1400 pullets laying 4067 eggs, or almost 42 per cent. This is 116 eggs less than last week, but 199 eggs more than the corresponding week a year ago. Total production to last Saturday was 202,408 eggs, which is an average of 145 eggs for each bird in the competition.

Every place on the week's honor roll was taken by White Leghorns, and for the third consecutive week George B. Ferris's entry from Grand Rapids, Mich., made the best score, this week with a lay of 56 eggs. Hanson's Leghorn Farm entry from Corvallis, Ore., was second with a lay of 52 eggs, and the pen owned by Adam Glass from Mobile, Ala., was third with a production of 50 eggs. Three Leghorn entries were tied for fourth place, each with a score of 47 eggs. They are the entries of Toivonen Leghorn Farm from Girard, Pa., the Kerr Chickeries from Frenchtown, N. J., and Willegrodt Bros., from Red Bank, N. J.

Two changes took place among the leading pens. In the Barred Rock class, the entry of R. W. Davis & Sons from Rockland, Me., went into first position, displacing the entry of Ontario Agricultural college from Guelph, Ont. In the White Leghorn division, the entry of Adam Glass went into fifth position, displacing the entry of Roy H. Waits from College Park, Md.

Two pens went by the 2000 mark this week, bringing the number of pens with that distinction to a total of three. They are both White Leghorns, the entries of R. W. Colman from Medina, N. Y., and Dudley Poultry Farm from Webster, Mass. The entry of Hanson's Leghorn Farm is within 50 eggs of the 2000-egg mark while John Z. LaBelle's Reds from Ballouville, Conn., has only to lay 40 eggs to reach that goal.

Using the "even lunch" system, artificial lights were turned on the contest flock September 1, and will be continued throughout the remainder of the present competition. Lights are turned on at nine o'clock at night, and the birds are given a heavy feeding of scratch grain. At ten o'clock the lights are dimmed and turned out 15 or 20 minutes later. A comparison of figures for the three years lights have been used on the Storrs contest as against the period when lights were not used shows that during the fall the use of artificial illumination is an important factor in maintaining high production.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes.

The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn.	1709
Winlay White Wyandottes, Colebrook, Conn.	1732

Barred Rocks.

R. W. Davis & Sons, Rockland, Me.	1776

AMERICANS NEED BUT ONE VICTORY TO GAIN POSSESSION OF DAVIS CUP

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—America's hold on the Davis Cup, emblem of world tennis supremacy, seems secure for at least another year in the hands of her famous veterans "Big Bill" Tilden, and "Little Bill" Johnston. Holding the ramparts today against the challenge of France on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club, the two "Bills" beat back the invaders decisively in the opening two singles matches of the challenge round.

Tilden, in one of his rampant moods, overwhelmed the "bounding basque," Jean Borotra, ace of the French forces, in straight sets 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, in the concluding match after Johnston, overcoming more spirited resistance, had taken the measure of the methodical stroking—Rene Lacoste at 6-0, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0.

These two convincing triumphs, witnessed by a colorful crowd of 9,000 spectators, including donor of the trophy at stake, Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, gave America a commanding edge in the championship series. With only one victory out of the three remaining matches needed to clinch possession of the cup for the seventh year in a row, the United States will pin its faith in the doubles tomorrow upon the team captain, Richard N. Williams, and Vincent Richards. Their opponent will be Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, holders of the Wimbledon doubles title.

The final singles contest will be played Saturday with Johnston opposed to Borotra and Tilden facing Lacoste.

Although America entered the battle today a decided favorite, clear cut character of her victories in leaving no doubt as to the relative superiority of the players, came unexpectedly and as something of a shock to those who had held out hopes for a more spectacular fight from the challengers.

Neither Frenchmen, however, was a match for his more experienced and resourceful American rival. La-Coste furnished the challengers their only ray of hope when he staged a rally that gave him the third set of his match against Johnston at love. "Little Bill" was obviously tiring and losing the fine edge of his control at this stage of the match but the refreshing influence of the rest between sets gave him the zest he needed to race through the fourth set and clinch the match.

Except for the third set Johnston's powerful driving off his forehand, his skillful tactics and volleying enabled him to pierce La Coste's defensive armour with little difficulty. The sombre visaged French stylist called on all his versatility of stroke in attempt to turn the tide but he was seldom able to sustain his attack in the face of Johnston's blistering counter drive.

Tilden's devastating defeat of Borotra seemed prompted by a desire to wipe out the memory of his torrid struggle with the basque in the Davis Cup play last year as well as to offset the defeat administered by the French ace indoors last winter. The tall titleholder smothered his opponent with an onslaught of such baffling versatility and ferocity that the French ace stood helpless and bewildered in his tracks as Tilden's drives whistled past.

Except for a brief flash or two Borotra never scaled the brilliant heights which mark his usually colorful game. He tired rapidly, too, in his efforts to check the American's attack, his resistance apparently being broken completely when he fell headlong to the turf in the sixth game of the final set in an attempt to reach a cross-court shot. He lost this game and the next three in a row as Tilden put on pressure sufficient to clinch the set and the match.

Tilden dominated each of the three sets but his greatest flash of wizardry came in the second, after Borotra, by a courageous stand, had taken the first two games. The National champion, at this juncture, let loose such a torrent of back-hand slashes, forehand drives and cannon-ball service aces that he swept through four games in a row with the loss of only two points while Borotra, shook his head sadly and shrugged his shoulders with an expression that conveyed the utter futility of trying to match such strokes.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Elizabeth Ryan, Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. C. H. Chapin, Springfield, Mass., will meet in one of the semi-final matches tomorrow for the middle states lawn tennis championship as the result of their victories today in the fourth round of the tournament here today. Mrs. George W. Wightman, Brookline, Mass., will meet Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., in the other semi-final.

Miss Ryan had little trouble today defeating Edith Sigourney, Boston, 6-2, 6-2. Mrs. Chapman eliminated the 1st Philadelphian in the competition when she defeated Molly Thayer 5-3, 6-3, 6-4.

The match between Miss Anderson and Katherine Porter, Philadelphia, was warmly contested and went three sets before Miss Porter was defeated, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Mrs. Wightman had an easy time disposing of Miss Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, 6-2, 6-3.

Other matches were:

Third round: Women's doubles:

Feret, who has never played in this country, will participate in the men's and mixed doubles matches planned as added features to the singles exhibitions of Mlle Lenglen, Pyle said.

HANDICAP TOO MUCH FOR THE ARGENTINES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Giving away eight goals on handicap, the Argentines today made a desperate fight to catch up to the Anglo-American hurricanes, but were unable to overcome such a heavy impost, and lost by a score of 14 to 10. In their second game of the Sesqui-Centennial polo tournament at the Philadelphia County club.

CHICAGO RUNS WINNING STREAK TO SIX GAMES

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Chicago ran its winning streak to six straight today by taking both games of a double header from St. Louis by scores of 3 to 1, and 5 to 1. Both games were won by opportune hitting. Cedric Durst was spiked by Miller of the Browns during the first game and had to have three stitches put in his leg. The Browns were handicapped in the outfield. Williams was left at home because of a three day suspension and Rice was summoned home because of illness in his family. Pitcher Winard played in the outer garden for the Browns.

BOBBY JONES SEEKS TO BREAK GOLF RECORDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Bobby Jones came to Baltimorol today in quest of two records.

Next week the stocky Georgia amateur will attempt to win the national amateur golf championship for the third successive season, a feat never before accomplished in the history of the 31 year old event.

He also will seek the unparalleled achievement of capturing three major titles in a single year, for he already has amazed the world by finishing first in both the British and American open events.

Baltsurol, scene of the amateur test next week, rebuffed the brilliant Atlantan and his friendly enemy, Watts Gunn, in their first practice rounds late today. After starting with four birdies on the first nine, the champion was unable to steer between the yawning sand pits on the incoming journey and had to be content with a 75, three over par. Gunn was six strokes worse than the champion, whom he opposed in an all-Georgia final last year at Oakmont.

WHITNEYS CROYDEN WINS THE JEROME HANDICAP

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Harry Payne Whitney's Croyden added another stake to the long list already garnered by the stable this season at Belmont, when he galloped home under wraps to win the Jerome handicap today by four lengths over Edith Cavell. Bumpkin was a length behind in third. Only seven three year olds faced the starter. Croyden ran the mile in 1:38.

Tromping today added color to the Lincoln field card, winning the race for claiming two year olds at odds of $53.20 to $2. Fire Water, the favorite, was second and Shasta Butte third.

PIRATES AND CHICAGO HOLD SAME POSITIONS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Pittsburgh and Chicago dividing a doubleheader here today, both received slight set backs in the efforts to catch up with the National league leaders, St. Louis and Cincinnati, who were idle. The Pirates, won the first game 3 to 1, but made a poor showing in the second contest which they dropped ten to one.

The opening fray was a pitcher's duel in which Bush bested Percy Jones. Three walks and an error gave the Cubs their lone tally, which was driven in by Jones in the second set. In the same round the Pirates put the game in the winning column when Bush doubled down the right foul line, sending Taynor and Cronin across the plate.

Osburn finished the game, going in after Jones had been relieved by a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The champions' defense collapsed in the final game, and the Cubs had things pretty much their own way. They pounded Koupal, Yde and Mahaffey for twelve hits, while Kaufmann held the Pittsburghers to seven. Five errors were also chalked up against the Pirates.

The Cubs had their big inning in the seventh, when they scored four runs. Scott hammered out a three bagger, sending in Adams. Wilson accounted for the fourth maker when he singled and registered on errors by Cronin and Wright.

The hitting of Kaufmann and Wilson, each of whom made three hits and one run, featured the second game. Scores:

PHILLIES LOSE FINAL GAME TO BROOKLYN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Phillies closed their season's series with Brooklyn by losing today's game by 12 to 6 after the Robins put on a nine-run rally in the final inning. Cy Williams hit successive home runs off Grimes in his first two times at bat which gave him a feat of three consecutive homers that started with his last time at the plate in yesterday's contest.

Runner-up to Babe Ruth for lifetime circuit swats, Williams now has a total of 202 homers to his credit. In four consecutive games in the series with the Robins, Williams banged five home runs that accounted for 11 tallies.

Five pinch hitters delivered hits for the Robins today.

GIANTS TOOK EXTRA INNING GAME FROM BRAVES

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—(AP)—After tying the count with one-run race in the ninth, the Giants nosed out the Braves in the 11th inning, 3 to 2, in the final game of the series today. Frisch inserted a triple that scored Mueller with the winning run. Jackson hurt his leg sliding to second base in the eighth and had to be relieved by Farrell at short.

Foster Edwards, former Dartmouth pitcher, recently acquired by Boston from the Providence Eastern league club, started for the Braves and was relieved in the ninth.

Yale Freshmen Schedule

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Yale freshman football schedule for 1926 announced tonight follows:

October 9, Exeter; 16, Andover at Andover; 23, Lake Forest (Ills) academy; 30, Roxbury; November 6, Princeton at Princeton; 13, Harvard.

DEMPSEY WANTS REFEREE CAPABLE OF HANDLING HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey has been assured of a square deal in the question involving the selection of a referee and two judges to decide his championship battle against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia two weeks from tonight.

The world's heavyweight champion, it was learned tonight, has submitted a list of six officials to Frank Weiner, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic comission, any one of whom, Dempsey considers, will be qualified. It is Dempsey's wish to have Chairman Wiener give consideration to the list in making the selections.

The names Dempsey is reported to have submitted include Frank McCracken, Pop O'Brien, Tommy Reilly, Arthur Nolan and two others.

Chairman Weiner has informed Dempsey the selections will be made in advance of the contest, but the choices will be kept secret until a few moments before the contestants step into the ring.

Dempsey particularly wants the referee to be physically capable of handling a heavyweight fight, that is, he wants the third man in the ring to be nearly the size of himself and Tunney.

Under the Pennsylvania laws, a majority vote of the three officials decides the contest. If the two judges agree, the referee has nothing whatever to say. But if the judges disagree, the referee may cast the deciding vote.

THOMAS PITCHES THIRD NO HIT, NO RUN GAME

DANIELSON, Sept. 9.—Thomas hurled in fine form for the Pacos tonight turning in a perfect game allowing none of the Connecticut Mills men to reach first, while his teammates pinned a 9 to 0 whitewashing on them. He also added to the glory of victory by socking out two doubles. The Pacos scored in every inning, four in the first and two in each of the second and third frames. This no hit, no run game was the third to be turned in this season by Thomas but is the first in which not an opposing batsmen got a peek into the contest from the first sack. Lagace led the stick work poling out two triples in deep right field, the ball landing in almost the identical spot both times, while Spud Stockton got two singles. For the Pacos, Stockton caught and Thomas pitched. Pelequin received for the Connecticut Mills and Morin did the hurling. This evening the Cleavers play off a tie contest with Connecticut Mills at the Paco grounds, this being the last game of the league.

The Naildrivers and Buddies will play a nine inning game Sunday, Sept. 19, to decide the league championship, each team having won 11 and lost 4 games. At present it is undecided at which field the game will be played. The series between the All Stars combination of Danielson and Wauregan twi-light leagues is to be played this weekend, the first being played at Wauregan Saturday afternoon and the second at Connecticut Mills, Sunday. At the last meeting of teams picked from these two leagues the game needed in a scoreless tie, and interest in this series is running high.

The big league blowout for the players and officials of the local twi-light league is scheduled for Wednesday evening, Sept. 29. The program includes a show in Providence followed by a dinner at an Inn on the Providence road.

DUNDEE KNOCKED OUT BURNBROOK IN 3RD ROUND

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Joe Dundee of Baltimore, leading contender for Pete Latzo's welterweight crown, knocked out Eddie Burnbrook, army champion of Camp Holabird, Md., in the third round of a scheduled ten-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Dundee weighed 146, Burnbrook 145 1-2.

Two rights to the stomach after two minutes and 13 seconds of fighting in the third put Burnbrook down and he was counted out after a vain effort to regain his feet. The first two rounds were slow with Burnbrook covering constantly in an effort to fathom Dundee's attack.

John P. Sullivan, of New York, won the decision over Jack Horner, of St. Louis, in a six round preliminary. The weights were Sullivan 146 1-2, Horner 147 1-2. Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, brother of the welterweight contender, defeated Charlie Satko, of New York in a four round match. Dundee weighed 141 1-2, Satko 144.

Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, Ohio fought an uninteresting ten round draw with Jack Hood, welterweight champion of England. The bout was marred by much clinching. Jones weighed 148 1-2, Hood 146. The bout marked the British boxer's first appearance in this country.

TEAM WORK COUNTS CONTENDS JESS B. HAWLEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Rhythm is the secret of successful college football, contends Jess B. Hawley, coach of the Dartmouth eleven which came through the 1925 season undefeated to win the national honors.

"Timed unison in thinking and acting gives eleven eager men on a football team an almost irresistible advantage over another eleven that has not learned to co-ordinate the actions of individuals into team rythm," writes Hawley in the October issue of Popular Science Monthly. He cites a play of the Chicago-Dartmouth game for example.

"Dartmouth kicked off to Chicago. A Chicago player tried for it (the ball) but missed. The ball struck his headgear and bounded toward Sage of Dartmouth.

"Every Dartmouth player was acting in timed unison. Sage saw the break, knew that if he broke through and tried for it, he probably would recover the ball for Dartmouth. But he also knew that the Dartmouth line was three or four strides behind and that Captain Parker was in unison and movement with him. He would throw Parker's playing off if he broke unison.

"Sage continued his play, which was to get his man out of the way for Parker. Sage passed up the opportunity to grandstand. The result was that Parker ran 30 yards for a touchdown."

MUDDY TRACK SLOWS UP GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The grand circuit races here today were slowed up, so far as time performances were concerned, by a muddy track, and slippery turns as a result of heavy rains last night.

The feature event, the Ploto water purse of $3,000 for 2:10 trotters brought out only two starters. Guy Trojan and Hollyrood Leonard, the former winning in straight heats.

Highland Scott took the three year old race in straight heats and Sayde Worthy repeated the performance in the 2:18 trot. The 2:18 pace was carried over until tomorrow for final decision after Marg. Simmie Azoff and Al B. had each won a heat.

LEGION MEMBERS SEE TUNNEY IN EXHIBITION

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—(AP)—With more of the rough and tumble element injected than has been the case in recent workouts, Gene Tunney and his sparring partners worked in six rounds between showers here today. There will be no boxing tomorrow, the ring being occupied, however, both Saturday and Sunday.

Bryan Downey, Cleveland middleweight, made his first appearance, leading off the first Wednesday morning, at 4 o'clock, on Main street John Ashly the local mail carrier saw a young deer standing in the middle of the street. The animal would not run but seemed quite tame. When Mr. Ashly went over where he was, then Mr. Deer put on full steam ahead, jumped a neighbors fence and took a course toward the river. This is the first deer seen in the center of the village in several years.

Alfred Ballertinsi attended a dance with some of his friends recently in Buchaus, Voluntown, when the hall was crowded. Mr. Ballertinsi gave a Charleston exhibition and received a great hand from the crowd. He was called back three times to repeat the dance during loud applause. William Mack taught him the Charleston.

SELFISHNESS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Let's get down to fundamentals, for a change.

Let's talk a little about what is at once the most universal, the most controlling, the most absolutely essential and at the same time the most beastly of all human characteristics—

Selfishness.

It is just as dominant in financiers as in farmers; just as paramount with flappers as with gutter-drunkards. There's no more reason for criticizing it in one set than in another. But you and I are neither financiers, flappers nor sots. We're just a bunch of farmer folks chatting half-idly with each other and only once in a while searching each others' souls a little. We couldn't make the financiers, the flappers and the topers over again, even if we should try our hardest. I gravely doubt if we could influence them in the slightest degree. They really don't care any more what we think about them than we do what a doodle-bug thinks about us.

But we can, if we see fit, take charge of our own souls. We cannot, probably, remake them completely. But we can, if we really want to, trim them up a whole lot.

You can't transform a Concord grape vine into a Scuppernong by any trick known to the vineyard. The law of its origin forbids. But, if you strongly hanker after bigger, sweeter, better Concord grapes, you can so prune and fertilize and train your vine that it will produce them.

Furthermore, you haven't either the moral or the legal right to break over into your neighbor's grapeyard and cut and slash among his vines. You are not responsible for them or for him. Nor he for yours and for you.

But you have the right to do about what you will with your own; standing in your own garden-patch. You can let them grow into a tangle, producing only imperfect clusters of poorly flavored fruit, or you can trim and trellis and fertilize and train them into bearing big bunches of the primest quality it's all up to you.

Likewise, you can let your own soul develop into a scraggly thicket of futility and waste, or you can prune it into productive shape and tendency. Again, it's all up to you.

So, of you please, we'll omit from our consideration theother fellows, and talk for a few minutes about our own egos.

If ever there were a set of men in the world who could put up a plausible excuse for being consistently and persistently selfish, it's we farmers. What with markets shrewdly manipulated and managed to catch us, going or coming; what with untimely frosts and dreaded blights and hostile hordes of insects; what with "big business" squeezing us between its upper and nether millstones—we need not travel far to find excuse for ourselves accepting selfishness as the rule for life.

"They a' do it," why not we? It's "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost" in other vocations, why not in ours? When those to whom we must sell and those from whom we must buy are all openly looking out for No. One, all the time, why shouldn't we?

Oh, it's easy enough to find excuses for being selfish. It is by no means easy to find motives for being unselfish. In fact, selfishness is so universally accepted as the law and gospel of the work-a-day world that usually any exhibition of actual unselfishness is hardly comprehensible to the ranks. They can't understand it.

If you don't believe this, just try it a few times. You'll find that one will look on you as a bit "weak in the upper story;" that another will sneer at you as "doctrinaire;" that others will denounce you as a "hypocrite;" and that a good many will simply grin and take you for "an easy mark." There will be very, very few who will recognize your true motive and meet you half-way.

But we started out with the intention of getting down to fundamentals, in this talk. And fundamental morality doesn't consider what seems so; what others say and think and do, but what actually is, and what we ourselves know to be right. It is often said that we must fight the devil with fire. But there are two kinds of that element. There's hell-fire—and the who undertakes to fight the devil with that ought to know beforehand, that he's up against an expert and doomed to defeat from the outset. On the other hand, there's the celestial fire which Mr. Satan, for all his bluff, is mortally afraid of. According to Milton, it was with lolls of that divine flame that he was originally hurled "with hideous ruin and combustion down" to his own place. Looking at it solely from the point of view of common sense, it would seem wiser to fight evil with a weapon it is not used to and is afraid of than with one in whose use it is, by nature and training, supremely expert.

It doesn't make any difference whether we're evolutionists or fundamentalists in this matter. Whether selfishness is a trait inherited from inferior and more grossly animal ancestors, or one grafted upon humanity when it fell from a state of primal perfection through the machinations of the Father of Lies, is of no importance. It is a vile trait, as every one of us will admit when he is asked to consider it by itself. It is a trait whose eradication would tend more than any other one could name to the amelioration of human life.

"If only we didn't starve to death trying to get along without it!"

Ah, yes, that's the common retort. "When in Rome do as the Romans do," is the maxim of cowardly opportunism—and always has been. "If I don't look out for myself, who'd look out for me?" is the easy question to ask. Its askers think they've got you all tied up when they've said it, too.

But we're trying to get below the surface, this time. We're trying to get at the truth, no matter where it leads us. We're considering whether selfishness in itself, as a theory of life, is the best and highest that can be devised. If, however, that is too fine-spun a web for you to attempt, reflect upon some of the outstanding results which universal selfishness has achieved. You express fear of what might happen if selfishness were ignored as a law of life. Per contra, list over some of the things which selfishness does or is responsible for.

It is the origin of every one of our so-called "labor troubles." It is the actuating spirit which moves either one side or the other—oftentimes both sides—to seek selfish advantage over the other.

It is the main cause for unequal distribution of wealth, and, therefore, of poverty.

It is the chief reason for falsehood and cheating and swindling.

It's the father and mother and grandmother of drunkenness. For your drunkard is simply a self-indulgent toddler of his own appetite, regardless of his duties or responsibilities to others.

It's the explanation for every prodigal son and every flapper daughter.

It's the incentive to all crimes against property and a large part of those aimed at life.

It's the provocative source of nine wars out of ten.

You may add as many more counts to the indictment as your mental perspicacity may suggest. But the above are enough for one day. If the apologists for selfishness pretend to foresee dangers from its disuse, the prosecutors of the vice can point not merely to possible dangers but to actual disasters which attend its practice. They can't get the better of us along that line.

But now steps forward Mr. Worldly Wiseman, from out the pages of Pilgrim's Progress, and wants to know what is the use of bucking against the immovable? He intimates that Mrs. Partington with her broom, trying to sweep back the Atlantic ocean, was attempting something no more fatuous and futile than the moralist who essays to sweep selfishness out of human nature. Granting that selfishness is a vice, Mr. Worldly Wiseman defer entially suggests that it is practically so universal that the best policy is to accept it and make the best of it.

Well, making the best of a bad egg won't produce a really desirable omelet. In truth, the best use I ever found for a bad egg was to throw it as far and as hard as I could into the back pasture, where the next skunk that happened along could enjoy it all by his lonesome.

Anyway, who expects to reform and purify human nature in its entirety, from India to Peru, with one gesture or one preachment?

You and I haven't been assigned to that job. We HAVE been authorized and empowered to reform and purify our own individual natures. I can't turn you into a seraph by brusquely telling you how unseraphic you are, now. You can't cure me by retorting "Physician, heal thyself." But down at the bottom of your heart—if you happen to have such an organ concealed about your person—you're just a teeny-weeny bit ashamed of yourself every time you've done something particularly hoggish. Now, aren't you?

Very well, then: leaving the rest of the race out of the question, mightn't it be a relief to you, personally, to avoid that shamed discomfort by the simple expedient of declining to be a hog, next time the opportunity pigfers?

The very fact that you and I disapprove of selfishness in others is imperative reason why we should refuse to be guilty of it, ourselves.

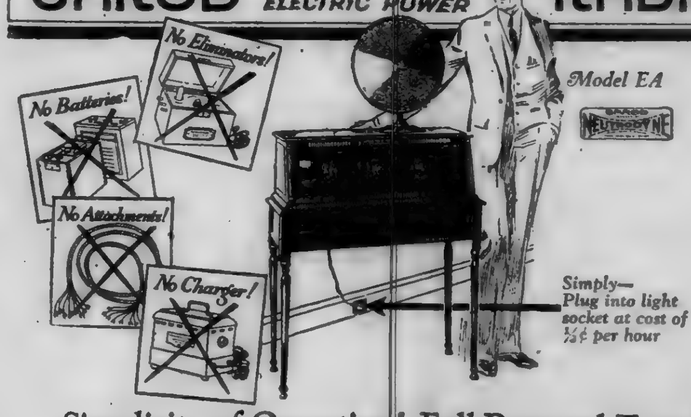
attains marvelous new tone!

Never run-down and weak as with battery-type receivers. No objectionable hum of eliminator-types. Every day of the year, full-strength. Clear as a bell. And no more recharging and replacing of useless batteries.

GAROD ELECTRIC POWER RADIO



Simply—Plug into light socket at cost of ½¢ per hour

Simplicity of Operation! Full-Powered Tone!

In two basic ways, the new-era Garod is an amazing advance over old types of receivers. In fairness to yourself, see and hear this new invention before purchasing.

Why You Need More Power

First, lean back and listen to the tone alone. At once you detect a live, firm, crystal-clearness totally unlike old-type battery receivers. Realism. A rounded richness of tone with new subtleties of shading. Power tubes, exclusive units of construction and the fact that Garod now taps energy from an inexhaustible source, gives you distance, overtones, low bass notes and a conscious feeling of reserve power.

Thunderous volume may be secured without distortion. The gentlest, sweetest tones come through a simple turn of the control.

Now, examine Garod for innovations in design. Note the entire absence of batteries, eliminators, chargers and attachments. See the power tubes that insure long life for all tubes, held in flexible sockets. How simply you plug Garod into a light socket at negligible cost for "juice." How many other advances!

WESTERLY

SCHOOLS GETTING UNDER WAY—NEW PARISH SCHOOL OPENED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 9—With the opening of schools on the Pawcatuck and Westerly sides of the Pawcatuck river for the fall term, there is found to be a total of 3,277 pupils attending school. In Pawcatuck, the first day's attendance showed a total of 2,-, divided as follows: West Broad Street Grammar school, 588; Lower Pawcatuck school, 16; and St. Michael's Parochial school 300, making a total of 2,375 on the East Side and 1,- on the West Side.

In the town of Westerly there is a total of 2,375, Westerly public schools, 2,284, and the new parochial school of the Immaculate Conception parish, 91, as shown on the first day's enrollment.

The Westerly public school total of 2,284 is somewhat less than the 2,311 total of 1925. The decrease this year is doubtless due to the fact that the parish of the Church of the Immaculate Conception has opened a new school of its own.

The high school attendance Wednesday was 25- under that with 343 on the first day of the past school year.

The enrollment of schools, as announced by Supt. William H. Bacon, follows: High school, 0-3 Elm street, 42; Pease at street, 2-- Park avenue, 184; High street, 4-- Quarry Hill, 204; Beach street, 49; Pleasant street, 305; Bradford, 226; White Rock, 44; Dunn's corners, 30.

The new parochial school of the Church of the Immaculate Conception which opened this week for the first time, has a present enrollment of 91 pupils, according to information given out Thursday by Rev. STONINGTON DEMOCRATS NAME THEIR TOWN TICKET

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 9—Nearly 200 democratic voters of the town of Stonington filled the rooms of the Neptune Hose company in borough hall tonight for the caucus to nominate town officers. No contests developed. The meeting was called to order by Joseph H. McGuinness of Pawcatuck and Charles Foley of Mystic was made chairman and James Shea of Pawcatuck, clerk.

Chairman Foley called for nominations for assessor and Alfred C. Chapman of Pawcatuck was nominated by J. H. McGuinness and voted the candidate by acclamation.

For board of relief, Chairman Foley announced that a vacancy had occurred in the Mystic district, Cornelius Crandall of the boro, stated that there was a vacancy, he thought the selectmen had power to nominate, but that this was a different case; nomination could be made for one year and the matter had been taken up with the Connecticut secretary of state; in other words, they had everything to gain and nothing to lose by selecting a candidate but if the Pawcatuck told the republican caucus of that the night before failed to nominate anyone for this vacancy although it knew one existed. Dr. Owen O. Dennehey presented the name of Harry B. McKenzie of Mystic and he was the choice for the one year vacancy.

For the regular nomination for the board of relief, William McGowan of the borough was named.

For selectman, Joseph A. Vargas proposed by Cornelius Crandall and he was elected; Joseph C. Lee of Pawcatuck was nominated by L. C. Purtill, who said that a board of selectmen could well have a young man and there is need of young blood.

For agent of town deposit fund, Joseph A. Vargas was named, William C. Robinson being nominated for town auditor. For tax collector, George A. Wheeler of the Road district was nominated. For constables, the nominations were Christopher J. Ledwith, C. B. McCoart of Stonington, Alex Palazzolo, Pawcatuck and Everett F. Wilson of Mystic.

For registrars of voters the nominees are: First district, William C. Robinson of Stonington borough; 2nd, Joseph H. McGuinness, Pawcatuck; third, James F. Main of Road district; 4th, Harry B. McKenzie Mystic; 5th, Richard C. Walbridge.

For school committee Thomas W. Hickson or Mystic and Karl G. Stillman of Pawcatuck were the choice.

Authority was vested in the democratic town committee to fill vacancies which might occur.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NOANK, Sept. —James Ashbey, little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ashbey, was on his way home from school Thursday afternoon with schoolmates and when near his home on Elm street a trolley car from Mystic came along. The lad escaped being hit by the trolley, but at the same time a passing automobile knocked him down. BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Foolish Swimmer

Who will insist on going blindly.
Doth tempt a fate that's far from kindly.

—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox and Jimmy Skunk were still staring down into that little pool of black water when Graywing the Gull happened along. "Well, what are you fellows so interested in?" called Graywing.

"In that black water," replied Reddy Fox. "I rolled a stone into that little pool and the water turned as black as I never have seen anything before in all my life. I should like to know where all that blackness came from."

Graywing the Gull chuckled. "You fellows follow me and I'll show you a way," said he. "Perhaps you haven't known there I want to see." And off he flew.

Reddy and Jimmy [illegible] great [illegible] follow. They caught up with Graywing [illegible] shallow part of the pool. It [illegible] a sandy bottom. "Can you see that fellow over there?" inquired Graywing.

Reddy and Jimmy looked. There was another one of those queer things which they had seen in the little pool before the water turned black. "We've seen one of those before," said Reddy.

"I know you have," replied Graywing.

Reddy looked up quickly. "How do you know?" he demanded, for Graywing had not been around when they discovered that queer thing up in the little pool.

Graywing chuckled, but didn't answer the question. Instead, he told them to watch what they called that thing. So they sat down to watch. Presently this queer thing began to move. Meanwhile Reddy had discovered that it had two big eyes. They were round and staring, and gave him a creepy feeling, for they had no lids. And there was a mouth, which [illegible] peculiar beak as it looked as if it could be most uncomfortably. From around this beak stretched out ten [illegible] or more, two of which were longer than the others. How surprised Reddy would have been had any one told him that these were really a kind of feet. Can't you just hear him exclaiming, "Feet growing out of a head? The idea! The vest idea!" Yet, this really was the case.

As Reddy and Jimmy watched, this queer creature changed color. It was swimming along very slowly. Suddenly it began to go fast. Those long arms trailed out behind it, and it dove down on Reddy that it was going tail first.

"Look!" he exclaimed. "Look! That thing is swimming backward!"

"Well, why not?" inquired Graywing. "If a lobster can swim backward, why shouldn't that thing swim backward? Personally, I don't think much of it myself. I want to see where I'm going. This fellow can go forward if he wants to, but it seems to be easier for him to go backward, and so he does. I've seen over and over so many of them dead on the beach, because the silly things ran ashore not knowing where they were going. They didn't know how to get back into the water again."

"I don't see how he swims," said Jimmy Skunk.

Graywing chuckled. "I don't wonder," said he. "He doesn't swim like regular fish. He swims by taking water in and driving it out again with such force that it shoots him through the water. Old Mother Nature has provided him with what is called a 'siphon' just for this purpose. That fellow looked to me as if he were hungry. If we watch him perhaps we shall see him catch a meal."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

If you haven't read "The Green Hat" (and there may be one or two such persons in town) you're going to see the play, that is, you're going to see it if you make it a point to be right up to snuff in your play-going. "The Green Hat," Michael Arlen's dramatization of his own popular sensational novel, will be acted at the Broadway theatre tonight only; curtain at 8.15.

The play progresses through four episodes—from that Deauville morning soon after Boyd Fenwick has killed himself rather than face his honeymoon, on ten years later to the night of Gerald March's death and the sweeping of Napier Harpenden and Iris into each others' arms, on through the day nine months later in the nursing home in which Iris has gone close to death in her futile desire for motherhood, and on to the time, still four months later, when on the eve of her going away with Napier, she sees her dream of happiness fade and drives her roaring yellow car at seventy miles an hour into the old trysting tree at the turn of the road.

Some good seats are still available.

The Keeper of the Bees, the delightful new novel by Gene Stratton-Porter which appeared recently in McCall's, and which is now sweeping the country in book form, will begin a three-day run at the Broadway theatre in its motion picture garb on Sunday, when it has its first showing locally. J. Leo Meehan, who made a tremendous reputation with The Girl of the Limberlost, directed the new production, which threatens to hang up new records of popularity even for a story from the pen of such a famous writer as the late Mrs. Porter. Mr. Meehan was assisted on the picture by his wife, Jeanette Porter Meehan, daughter of the celebrated author; so it is but natural that the charm and color of the original story has been adhered to with fidelity throughout the screen version. The Southern California backgrounds against which the action and romance are projected prove lovely, and the work of little Gene Stratton Monroe, granddaughter of Mrs. Porter, is of particular interest in that she is the actual "Little Scout" of the story.

Including the above masterpiece, there will also be a second feature, which will make this the outstanding picture program in months.

AUTO THIEF AT NEW LONDON HAD REGISTRATION PLATES CHANGED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9.—An attempt was made last midnight to steal one of three automobiles owned by the Abbott Motor company, 42 Montauk avenue, the thief being scared away as he was in the act of taking the car. The three automobiles were parked in the yard of the sales service company because of inability to store them in the garage. An employe was maintaining a watch of the automobiles and hearing a strange noise in the yard, approached where the automobiles and hearing a strange to see the thief run to a fence disappear over it and run to Shaw street. The automobile which the thief attempted to steal was an Essex and the engine had been started. The thief also had taken registration plates from another automobile and attached them to the auto which he endeavored to steal.

WM. G. BISHOP IN JAIL— COULD NOT RAISE FINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 9.— William George Bishop of New London was committed to the county jail today because he could not pay a fine of $100 imposed upon him in the police court this morning for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. That means that William was drunk and was running a car about the city. Bishop made an effort to raise the money with which to escape jail, but was unsuccessful.

Mashetta Gordon was charged with having been careless in the operation of an automobile which she was driving Wednesday. She sped down Bank street, according to Policeman Clarence Martin, heedless of the fact that she was running her car 30 miles an hour. The young woman was quite self-possessed in court and did not mind her predicament. She said, "Why, I did'nt realize I was going so fast!" Judge Prince was lenient and suspended judgment on a charge of passing intersecting streets without reducing the speed of her car.

Joseph Kassacavitz, a young man who has driven cars in Worcester, was charged with having parked his car more than a foot away from the curbing at Meridian and Church streets. He said he was guilty and recalled that there were parking ordinances in Worcester that forbade just what he was accused of doing here. He was fined $5.

Three drunks up for prosecution, included Michael Sullivan, a fellow with a thirst that seems insatiable. He has appeared in court for the same offense 42 times in a dozen years. He earns a living on farms at laboring work and when he can abstain from liquor is a good worker. When he imbibes at all, he drinks until he becomes intoxicated. He was in that condition yesterday a few hours after he was released by the court on a charge of intoxication.

All the places of business conducted by Hebrew resident were closed today, that their owners and operators might participate in the ceremonies of Rosh Hashannah, the new year of the Jews. When the stores were kept open, the business was carried on by clerks who are not Hebrews. Ocean Beach, where the business places are maintaind chiefly by Hebrews, was a deserted place, so far as any activity was apparent.

TUNNEY MARKED BY UNUSUAL PERSONALITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Mild-mannered and of studious frame of mind, Gene Tunney, challenger for Jack Dempsey's world heavyweight title, represents an unusual type in the boxing game.

Except for his fine build, the brisk step and tanned, rugged appearance of the trained athlete, Tunney would scarcely be taken by the casual observer as one of the foremost pugilists of his day. In spite of seven petty active years in the professional ring, the former marine has few outwardly visible marks to testify to his conflicts in the roped arena. His nose is straight—naturally and not by any synthetic process—and his ears are far from the cauliflower variety so common among veterans of the padded fists.

Frank blue eyes and a mop of brown hair, worn in closely-clipped pompadour style, complete Tunney's pleasing facial characteristics—handsomeness in a square-jawed, gladitorial fashion.

At 28 Tunney is the picture of health and vigor. Army life with marines hardened his muscles, trained his eye and nerves before he was of voting age. Outdoor life has kept him in robust condition.

Gene prefers as much quiet and solitude as he can get when he is training for an important fight.

"I like the woods for my conditioning," he says. "Rough and ready work, away from the crowds and any excitement, is the thing that puts me in shape. Under such condition I plan out my battle, figure what I'm going to do. Then when I'm ready to go into the ring, my mind is clear and my body ready. I'm not bothered by any last minute doubts or indecisions."

Tunney dodged bullets in France at Belleau Wood. Consequently he had little fear of an opponent's punches.

"Bullets can floor you without any chance for a counter," he remarks, "but fists can be blocked and punches absorbed without taking a count. I never worry about them."

Gene is an ardent golfer although he hasn't yet given Old Man Par much to worry about. Hitting the little white missile is good training for the eye, he thinks.

The challenger is something of a book-worm too. Mornings, out on the road at sun-up, he usually tucks a volume under his arm to read when he takes a rest. Omar Khayyam, Emerson and H. G. Wells are among his favorite authors. He can fling quotations from them with as much ease and facility as he tosses his punches.

Good luck is hard to catch, but bad luck is more likely to chase you.

AMERICAN SINGLES MEN PREEMINENT 44 OF 45 YEARS' PLAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—America's racquet cohorts rally to defend the international Davis Cup this year with international Davis Cup trial year with a remarkable record of past triumphs against threatening foreign invasions.

Not only have they retained the team trophy for six successive years against vigorous foreign opposition, but records reveal that only once in 45 years of singles play has the National crown passed from American shores: Hugh L. Doherty, one of the two famous English brothers, lifted the title in 1903. With it, he also took the doubles championship, partnered with his brother, R. F. Doherty.

Since then, the foremost racquetes of the world have sought in vain to break through America's formidable tennis bulwarks. Norman E. Brookes, James O. Anderson, Anthony Wilding, Gerald Patterson and other famous players from the Antipodes, Ichiya Kumagae and Zenzo Shimizu of Japan, F. Gordon Lowe of England, Manuel Alonso of Spain, and, more recently, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste of France, have led futile foreign drives for what is now looked upon as the most coveted singles trophy in tennis.

Moreover, a review of performances in this historic competition discloses that since the conquest of Doherty no foreign star has advanced even as far as the final round. Frequently the invasions have penetrated to the semi-finals, however. Two years ago, Patterson progressed to the round before the final, where he suffered decisive defeat at the hands of Billy Johnston, who had vanquished Rene Lacoste of France in the preceding round. In the previous year, Brian I. C. Norton of South Africa was stopped in the semi-finals by Tilden in straight sets.

Three foreign players were in the round of eight in 1922, but two went out in straight set defeats, James O. Anderson of Australia before Vincent Richards, and Manuel Alonso before Johnston. Patterson hammered his way past another member of America's "Big Four" defeating R. Norris Williams in straight sets, but he bowed to the mastery of Tilden in the semi-final after capturing the first set.

F. Gordon Lowe and James O. Anderson made plucky fights in 1921, the latter reaching the semi-finals. There he was disposed of in four sets by the chop-stroke veteran from Philadelphia, Wallace F. Johnson, who later was overwhelmed by Tilden.

In the round before the semi-finals, Tilden had accounted for Lowe in straight sets after having put out the soft-moving Shimizu of Japan.

VICTORIA'S BATH TUB OFFERED FOR SALE

LONDON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Queen Victoria's marble bath is for sale. Although it cost more 550 pounds it can be purchased for 200 pounds.

When Sir Robert Peel was Prime Minister he invited Queen Victoria to stay at Drayton Manor, his mansion near Tamworth, and went to enormous expense in making his home fit to receive his Royal guest.

His main attention was directed to the bathroom and he engaged Italian craftsmen to construct a bath cut out of a solid block of white marble. The bath was made five feet seven inches long and as Queen Victoria's height was generally accepted as being under five feet she had ample room for her ablutions. No one else has ever used the bath, which is still in its original setting.

STOCK MARKET FLUCTUATED

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized today's stock market, with final quotations disclosing considerable irregularities. Business showed a marked falling off in volume, due to the observance of the Jewish religious holiday by many traders. Although the retention of the 4 per cent rediscount rate by the Boston federal reserve bank late yesterday helped to revive speculative confidence, the credit situation was still a source of uneasiness to many operators and investors. The New York federal reserve bank, directors of which met after the close of the market today, also announced the maintenance of the 4 per cent rediscount rate.

There was nothing in the day's news to influence the movement of securities prices, aside from the publication of a few earnings and sales reports which provided cumulative evidence of current prosperity in many lines of business. Trading was largely of a professional character, with neither "bears" nor "bears" able to gain any decided advantage.

Rails developed a temporary outburst of strength under the leadership of Chesapeake and Ohio, which advanced 4 points to 162 1-2, duplicating the record high price established a few days ago prior to the deduction of the quarterly dividend. The preferred touched a new top at 161 3-4. New 1926 peak prices also were established for Kansas City Southern common and preferred, and Chicago Great Western preferred.

U. S. Common and General Motors two of the recent market leaders, closed fractionally higher at 150 1-2 and 167 3-4, respectively. Several of the low priced motors, including Chandler Cleveland, Dodge, Hupp, Moon and Jordan were heavy, the last named touching a new low for the year at 19 1-2.

Despite the continuance of the 5 per cent renewal rate for call money, pool operations were vigorously conducted in a select list of specialties. Radio Corporation was bid up over 2 points to a new high at 52 1-2, but later lost half its gain, on buying influenced by rumors of important developments at the radio exposition which opens here next week. Warner Pictures soared over 7 points to a new record high price at 60 1-2 in further announcement of the announcement of the opening of new theatres in Atlantic City and Chicago. Substantial gains also were recorded by Burroughs Adding Machine, Eastman Kodak, Onyx Hosiery and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

Sugar shares gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength on account of improved trade prospects. American Sugar Refining was the leader with an extreme gain of over 3 points at 77 3-4, part of which was lost in weakening.

Selling pressure was effective against such issues as DuPont, Mack Trucks, National Enameling, Union Tank Car, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry, Aeroplane, all off 2 to 4 1-2 points.

Call money held steady at 5 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity prices were mixed. Cotton went futures advanced slightly more than 1 per cent a bushel in sympathy with higher Liverpool cables and unfavorable foreign crop advices. Cotton closed 18 to 24 points lower on selling inspired by predictions of better weather. Raw sugar was unchanged, but coffee quotations yielded 3 to 13 points.

Foreign exchanges were heavy. Demand sterling ruled fractionally lower at around $4.85 and French francs fell back about 5 points to around 3.86 cents. Spanish pesetas advanced 5 points to around 15.20 cents, but the other European rates showed nominal fluctuations.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—With most of the trading activity again centered in foreign obligations, the bond market maintained a firm tone in today's less arduous dealings. The passing of another week without any change in the federal reserve rediscount rate relieved the anxiety of many traders, who feared that several important banks outside New York might advance their charges.

The recent strength of European bonds, particularly the French and Italian issues, was explained by statements in authoritative banking quarters that financial conditions in France, Belgium and other continental countries were more promising than at any time since last spring and might permit the undertaking of stabilization measures before the end of the year. At the same time bankers disclaimed any knowledge of reports that Germany would attempt the flotation of an international loan of a gold mark basis.

French bonds failed to duplicate yesterday's striking performance, that carried a dozen of these issues to new high records, but a lively demand was still evident for the railroad liens and the National Steamship 7s. Italian 7s crossed 92 to the highest price since the dissolution of the loan syndicate.

Domestic railroad issues, after an early period of irregularity, strengthened toward the close, with special strength shown by Louisville & Nashville, Northern Pacific, Iowa Central, Illinois Central and Minneapolis & St. Louis mortgages. New York Central 3 1-2s and International Great Northern Adjustment 6s were heavy.

The announcement of an oversubscription for the $350,000,000 United States treasury note issue had a steadying influence on the government bond list although it failed to arouse any exceptional buying activity.

Reports were current in investment circles that an $18,000,000 bond issue for the Canada steamship lines would soon appear in the market.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

TROTTER FALLS IN RACE BUT WINS SECOND MONEY AT FAIR GROUNDS

Three track events, a 2.24 pace, 2.30 pace and a special pace, marked the closing of the New London County Agricultural society's 27nd annual fair Thursday afternoon at the local fairgrounds. The attendance for the day was announced Thursday evening as about 1,000 by Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond, this bringing the total attendance for the four days up to the 10,000 mark. The vaudeville and racing programme was run off in good order, the final heat of the afternoon being finished at 4:30 o'clock. All of the vaudeville numbers were again repeated with the exception of the exhibition race by the mare Cleopatra, known as the guideless wonder. Cleopatra was slightly lamed Thursday and her owners felt that it would not be wise to put her on the track. The balloon man was absent, owing to the fact that the balloon company had signed up for three days only and had to leave to fill another engagement for the last three days of the week.

Won Pasture Event

The feature event on the race card was the 2.24 pace, stake, for a purse of $800. Ovation, owned by F. D. Whitcomb of Springfield, Mass., won the race and first money, second money going to Black Thunder, owned by S. T. Turner of Providence. Joe Marlowe, owned by Belcher Williams of Hartford, was distanced in the first heat. There were four starters in the race and the summary follows:

2.24 pace, purse $800:

Ovation, b g, by San Francisco, F. D. Whitcomb, Springfield (Small) 1 1 1.

Black Thunder, blk g, by Edw. Fedarno, S. T. Turner, Providence (Page) 3 2 2ro.

John L. B., br s, by Bincas, N. Girard, Southbridge, Mass., (LeCuyer) 2 3 3ro.

Joe Marlowe, br g, by Peter Volo, Belcher Williams, Hartford (Williams) Dis.

*Placed.

Time, 2.18 1-4; 2.19 1-4; 2.16 1-2.

In the third heat of this race John L. B. broke repeatedly, especially in the last half mile and was placed third by the judges, Black Thunder being placed second. In the previous heat John L. B. made a bad break on the south turn during the last half mile, and in a collision with one of the other horses smashed a wheel on the sulky. Driver LeCuyer finished the heat with the smashed wheel dragging and came in third.

Took Second After Spill

In the 2.30 pace G. L. Buxton, driving Daniel Lee, had a miraculous escape from injury when the horse stumbled just after finishing the heat and fell almost in front of the judges' stand. Buxton was hurled headlong to the track but immediately picked himself up and assisted in unharnessing the horse. Neither driver nor horse was hurt and the sulky was undamaged. In spite of the tumble Daniel Lee was on hand for the next two heats and got second money. First money in this race went to Judge Leybourn, driven by H. Brusie. Bessie Coastman was distanced in the second heat. The summary:

2.30 pace, purse $500.

Judge Leybourn, br g, by Judge Maxie, G. M. Rice, Providence, (H. Brusie) 1 1 1.

Daniel Lee, b g by Twinkling Dan, G. L. Buxton, Pascoag, R. I. (Buxton) 2 2 2.

Zetne B blk m, by Walter Cochato, W. G. Kenyon, Burnside, Ct. (Pearl) 3 3 3.

Bessie Coastman, blk m, by Coastman, Joseph Gendron, Southbridge (Gendron) 4 Dis.

Time, 2.16 1-4, 2.18 1-2; 2.17 1-2.

Won In Straight Heats

The final event on the card was a special pace, for a purse of $300. There were four starters and as in the cases of the previous races was run off in three straight heats, first money going to Earl Gratton, a Worcester horse. Elinor Wilson, owned by S. L. Turner of Providence, got second money. The summary.

Special pace, purse $300.

Earl Grotton, by Grotton, Ed. M. Gilles, Agt. Worcester (Gilils) 1 1 1.

Elinor Wilson, b m, by Bohemia Boy, S. L. Turner, Providence, (Page) 3 2 3.

Milton M, b g by J. Malcolm Forbes, T. R. Sherman, Wickford, R. I. (Sherman) 2 3 4.

Peter Gayton, b g, F. W. Barnes, Pascoag, R. I., (Buxton) 4 4 2.

Time, 2.18 1-4; 2.16 1-4; 2.17 2-4.

Mule Race

The racing programme came to a close at 4:30 o'clock but the crowd remained to witness the mule race, the concluding number of the entertainment given by the Culverton Circus. As usual four mules took part in the race, with volunteer drivers on the sulkies. One of the mules refused to start in the race in spite of frantic efforts on the part of the driver to get the animal going. The mule suddenly decided to race in the opposite direction, swung around on the track and started toward the south turn. Meeting the other mules coming down the home stretch the mule swung around again and joined the race.

Exhibited At Fair

The Hanover-Curland Co. of Franklin street had a fine display of radios, phonographs and pianos in the main exhibition hall which received considerable attention throughout the four days of the fair. Their exhibits included the Magnovox and Freed Eisemman radios, Ampico Reproducing and Gulbranson pianos and Brunswick Panatrope phonograph. Harry Rosenberg was in charge of the exhibit, assisted by Miss Hannah Curland.

Fair Notes

A quantity of the materials used for the better baby contest were donated by The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

Several property owners near the fair grounds took in more than sufficient money to pay their land taxes this week by renting parking space.

Fair exhibits remained on the grounds until late Thursday afternoon, the last day attendants having full benefit of them.

Compliments concerning the vaudeville at the fair this year were heard on all sides this week and they were well merited.

The Silent-Glo oil burner which was on exhibition in the booth of the Silent-Glo oil Burner Corp. of Hartford, is now the property of B. Cohn of No. 229 Laurel Hill avenue and will be installed by Edward Rousseau of Jewett City, local representative of the company.

The total membership of the County Fair association is 326, including 2 honorary members, 89 $25 members, 93 $15 members, 41 $10 members and 1 $5 member.

Recognizing their long term of faithful work in the department of domestic arts, the fair association heads its list with two honorary members, Miss Lucy Geer and Mrs. Mary G. Webster, both of Norwich.

The judge of the flowers, in the department in charge of George M. Charbonneau, was Prof. Roland H. Patch, from Storrs college.

The entry clerk, Arthur E. Shedd, was one of the officials who put in long and busy days before and during the opening of the fair.

A familiar phrase missing this year was "Rideaway to the Fair ground!" Jitney drivers were conspicuous by their absence—possibly due to the fact that in recent years they asked a 25-cent fare, while now Norwich taxi drivers get a uniform rate of a half dollar for trips in the city.

UNDERTAKER LOSES SUIT FOR PERRY FUNERAL CHARGES

Suit of a New London undertaker, Samuel M. Prentis, against John Perry of that city for the funeral expenses of the defendant's father, John F. Perry, a claim for $100, is decided against the undertaker by Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court before whom the case was tried. A complication in the case is that the deceased, although a Protestant and expressing a desire in his will to be buried in a Protestant cemetery was buried in a Roman Catholic cemetery by order of his daughter, Rita K. Oliver.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Waller says:

The plaintiff conducted the funeral and burial of John Perry at the request and direction of Rita K. Oliver, a daughter of the deceased, with whom he was residing at the time of his death. The deceased left surviving him the daughter and two sons, one of whom is the executor of his will and was sued the defendant in this action.

A controversy arose between the daughter and the two sons concerning the arrangements for the funeral of the father. The daughter being of the Roman Catholic faith and having actual custody of the body of her father, insisted upon funeral services in accordance with the rites of that church and interment in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The two sons were Protestant Episcopalians and claim that the father was of the same faith and that it was his wish to be buried in accordance with the rites of that church.

The day following the death of the father, the two sons served upon the daughter written notice signed by both to the effect that it was the father's request, expressed in his will, that his funeral take place from St. James' Episcopal church in accordance with the rites of said church and that interment be made in Jordan cemetery. A copy of the will was attached to the written notice.

The daughter, with full knowledge of the provisions of her father's will and against the objection of the two sons, proceeded in her determination as to the method of burial, and in compliance with her directions the plaintiff caused the funeral to be conducted in accordance with the rites of the Roman Catholic church and the body of the father was interred in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

I found that the plaintiff had knowledge of the objections of the two sons and that he rendered the services and furnished the materials set forth in the amended complaint as the sole request and upon the credit of the daughter, Rita K. Oliver.

As I understand the claim of the plaintiff, it is that he is entitled to recover in this action because the daughter had the actual knowledge of the body of the deceased, and that under the statutes her employment of the plaintiff bound the estate of the deceased. The general statutes provide that the custody and control of the body of a deceased person if there be no husband or wife surviving, shall pertain to the next of kin; and that under the statutes it is the duty of the person to whom the custody and control of the remains of a deceased person are granted by law to see that such body is buried within a reasonable time after death.

But the daughter, as one of the three surviving children, had no right to the custody and control of the body of the father which was superior to the right of each of the two sons. The rights of the three children under the statute were equal.

The plaintiff, however, argues that if the two sons were not satisfied with the arrangements made by the daughter, that under the statutes they should have petitioned the probate court for New London toward the control and custody of the body to one of them, and because of their failure to do so they waived any right they might have had and that the expenses of the funeral are therefore a charge against the estate.

The purpose of these statutes is undoubtedly to avoid unseemly controversy over the remains of a deceased person by fixing the right to the custom and control of the body, providing a means for prompt action of conflicting claims and thus avoid unreasonable delay in the burial.

Upon the facts before stated, I do not think the plaintiff entitled to recover by reason of any provision of the statutes. It seems true that the claim of the plaintiff is disposed of by the fact that the services and materials were furnished at the sole request of the daughter with knowledge of the objection made by the two sons and that under the circumstances credit was extended to the daughter and not the estate of the deceased.

The question whether or not the daughter may be entitled to recover from the estate for any part of the amount she may be obliged to pay to the plaintiff is not involved in this action.

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN EMPLOYMENT IN STATE

A slight increase in employment during August over conditions in July is noted in the monthly report of the five free employment bureaus conducted by the state department of labor. There were 4,039 applications for employment, a number below the July total, and the bureaus were able to secure situations for 67.1 per cent. of the applicants as compared with 65.8 per cent. in July.

The greatest number of applications were made to the bureau in Hartford, 1,151. The Bridgeport office received 975, Waterbury 846, New Haven 678 and Norwich 451. Employers of the state made 3,103 applications for workers and 88.6 per cent of the requests were filled.

DISMISSES CLAIM OF WORKER IN RESTAURANT

In a decision made by Compensation Commissioner J. J. Donohue, the workmen's compensation claim of Paul Finestone of Bozrahville, an employe of the "Coffee Pot," a restaurant in New London, is disallowed and dismissed. Finestone was a dishwasher in the restaurant and made the claim that on Aug. 5, 1926, he sprained his left arm by lifting some heavy boxes and that he has been disabled ever since thereby.

In his finding the commissioner says that from medical evidence it has been determined that Finestone is suffering from an infection of undetermined origin, involving the carpal bones of the left hand and the medical attendant is unable to state definitely that any such injury as claimed by the employe could be the cause of his present condition or that his desirability is traceable in any way to his employment.

Because of the inability of the medical attendant to definitely connect the claimant's condition and disability with his employment, also because of the manner in which the said employe has handled his case, in view of his failure to substantiate his claim by a fair preponderance of evidence, it is impossible to award in his behalf.

HOSPITAL NURSES VOTE FOR 12-HOUR DUTY

At a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Backus hospital, the Nurses' Alumnae association voted to go on 12-hour duty in the future instead of 20-hour duty as has been the practice. This applies only to nurses at the hospital as the new schedule is optional with the registered nurses of the city.

The matter was brought up by Mrs. Ruth Raymond, president of the association. It was stated that the Backus hospital was the only one in the state where the 12-hour schedule was not in force. The new time schedule will relieve the nurses of the hardship of being in almost constant attendance, day and night. By the new arrangement night and day duty will be done by two different nurses.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

BAPTISTS TO MEET AT EAST LYME NEXT YEAR

Rev. E. L. Nield was re-elected moderator and Mrs. E. Jean Mosier, of Waterford was re-elected clerk and treasurer at the 103th anniversary meeting of the New London Baptist association which was held Wednesday with the First Baptist church in Waterford.

The place of meeting for next year will be with the East Lyme Baptist church, which has extended an invitation to the association as the church is to celebrate its 175th anniversary in 1927. The anniversary date is in August but the celebration will be held in September to make it conform to time of the annual meeting of the New London association.

Approximately 250 persons attended the meeting of the association Wednesday. Practically all the Baptist churches in this county were represented by delegates. The scheduled program was adhered to except in two instances. The Rev. H. B. Sloat, who was to speak on Our Denomination in the afternoon was unable to attend and the Rev. P. P. Campbell, who had been scheduled to speak in the evening on Our Young People, took his place. Hence Mr. Campbell did not lecture in the evening.

The Rev. E. L. Nield, pastor of the First Baptist church of Montville, was moderator. The meeting opened at 10 a. m., with a devotional service in charge of Rev. E. C. Dunbar of Norwich. This was followed by words of greeting by the Rev. George H. Strouse of Waterford. Then came the reading of rules of order, reading of church letters and the offering. GIRL GAINED 7 POUNDS NINE YEARS AN INVALID

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co. or any druggists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 6 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues, I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

SPAIN WITHHELD NOTE TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS TILL GERMAN ADMISSION

French Understand That the Spanish Government Did Not Wish to Embarrass the Entry of Germany Into the League—Germany Yesterday Was Received Into the League of Nations With the Applause of Thousands—German and French Representatives Were Shy in Dealing With the Problem of Disarmament.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 10—(AP)—The French delegation to the league of nations announced tonight that it had received information from Paris that the Spanish note of resignation from the league has left Madrid.

The French understand that the Spanish held up the letter of resignation because they did not wish to embarrass the entry of Germany into the league.

GERMANY RECEIVED INTO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, Sept. 10—(AP)—Faith that loyal cooperation will keep Europe far from war and safe in the paths of permanent peace and happiness continued tonight to be the dominating note of this memorable day when Germany was received into the league of nations with the aplause of thousands.

Doctor Stresemann, the German representative, in a striking address before the assembly, had prayed that the destiny of the league of nations be fulfilled on the basis of its lofty conception of peace, freedom and unity and Former Minister Briand in moving language pledged the support of France to policies that would thrust war aside forever.

The one outstanding feature of the day was the rather gingerly manager with which both Stresemann and Briand approached the problem of disarmament, giving the impression that both statesmen realized that this is the most difficult problem of all confronting Europe.

Dr. Stresemann, counselled "tactful work" in achieving disarmament while M. Briand, practically gave notice that Europe could not shake off her heavy burden of armaments until equilibrium was restored both economically and morally and until people were convinced of their security.

Tonight the statesmen of various nations are conferring how best to treat problems still outstanding which might prove to be possible menaces to complete concord. Dr. Stresemann told newspapermen at a banquet in honor of the council, at which he clinked glasses with Briand, Vandervelde and Chamberlain, that all must bear in mind that every day is not a Sunday or a holiday and that daily efforts is necessary to make peace secure."

Dr. Stresemann said that nothing in M. Briand's speech before the assembly had touched him more than the assertion that the peoples who had shown such heroism on the battlefield should now seek other and constructive outlets for their energy.

Mr. Chamberlain warning against excessive optimism told the German journalists tonight not to forget that the path ahead is long for suspicions must be allayed and wounds of the past more fully healed.

Meanwhile the concrete effect of today's work is that the Locarno accord is officially merged into the mechanism of the league of nations. Dr. Stresemann made it perfectly clear also that any German objection to the Versailles treaty hereafter be handled at Geneva. With Poland probable elected to a semi-permanent seat, Germany and Poland will have an opportunity peacefully to adjust their problems also in Geneva.

Another consequence being commented upon here is the importance that Japan will now assume in the council as a mediator because of the fact she is not a signatory to the Locarno pact. She therefore has no direct interest in the problem which may arise among European states.

At a reception the Swiss government gave to the delegates of the league, President Motta was congratulated by all on the failure of the plot against his life. It appears that a Russian named Solomon Greenberg arrived here last Monday, according to the newspapers the prisoner has confessed that he had wished to assassinate Dr. Guiseppe Motta, former president of Switzerland, to avenge the killing of M. Vorovsky, Russian's representative during the Lausanne conference in 1923 by Maurice Conradi, a Swiss, who was acquitted. The prisoner will be sent to Zurcih, where he is wanted on another charge. The police think he is mentally unbalanced.

NEGROES SHOT YOUTH DEAD AND ATTACK TWO GIRLS

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Two masked Negroes, who last night shot and killed a 19-year old youth and attacked two girls on a lonely road near here have thrown Delaware county into an uproar that has brought police from half a dozen cities and posses throughout the countryside in a desperate man hunt.

The Negroes accosted two girls sitting in an automobile with Walter Harden, and William Hamilton, both 19. The Negroes forced the girls out of the car, and when Harden resisted he was shot twice through the chest, dying instantly. Hamilton attempted to flee with the girls but was overtaken and the girls dragged off, while he escaped and ran to a farm house and telephoned Chester police.

The girls were Anna Kemsley, 17, and Florence Scott, 14. Both were treated at their homes today by physicians, who reported them in serious condition.

The assailants appeared in a motor car, which had been stolen and which later was found abandoned in Philadelphia.

Within half an hour after Hamilton had given the alarm Chester and Delaware county police were on the scene with an ambulance. Searchers beat through the woods nearby and today were watching roads out of Philadelphia.

Four Negroes were arrested today, two in Media and two in Philadelphia, but they were released when authorities failed to link them with the crimes. The descriptions of the two men were meagre, owing to their masks and also because the darkness and rain made identification difficult. After the girls had recovered partially from their shock they were taken to the scene of the crime late today but broke down when they arrived and were unable to give the police much information.

ALLEGED SAFE-BREAKER CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—After a chase participated in by two lawyers, a police inspector and a representative of a brokerage house, Carl O. Harding, alias John Taylor, of Allston, was arrested late today charged with looting a safe in an office building of $60,000 in securities last night.

Police said he arranged for the sale of the securities today and asked a broker he called on the telephone to send him a check at the Tremont building. A trap was laid but when he saw the inspector he fled from the building. After running several blocks he was caught by Attorney Richard McCabe, who had seen the pursuit and made a flying tackle as Harding passed him. McCabe's former associate, Attorney Francis Goodale, had joined the chase when Harding fled from the Tremont building.

APPEAL FILED BY CAPTAIN OF THE CITY OF ROME

BOSTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Captain John Diehl, commander of the steamship City of Rome when it struck the Sisil off Block Island last year, today filed an appeal against the recent findings of the steamship inspectors which recommended his suspension for a period of nine months. T. L. Dreyer, the third officer of the City of Rome, whose suspension for the same length of time was likewise recommended also filed an appeal.

$137,000 PAYROLL ROBBERY ON GRAND TRUNK TRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Three robbers today held at bay two mail clerks, seized $137,000 in payroll money, on a Grand Trunk train at the southwestern edge of Chicago, and raced back into the city in a waiting automobile.

All of the loot was contained in a single mail pouch carrying $47,000 from the First National bany of Chicago and $90,000 from the Continental and Commercial National bank both consigned to banks at Harvey, a suburb, for the payroll of three firms. At least $150,000 in another pouch was overlooked.

Timing their work with the train schedule, two of the robbers who entered the car got off at Evergreen Park and ran to a third member of the gang waiting in an automobile. They disappeared by driving through a cemetery.

Investigators could find but one or two witnesses. The robbers were away before the train had come to a full stop, and although the clerks at once gave the alarm, itw as too late.

Deputy Sheriff Francis J. Caraher, of Palos, nearby, owner of an airplane, was notified and immediately rose in the air for a search of the surrounding teritory, without avail.

Kelly and McCook were able to give but a meager description of the robbers.

The shipments were insured, and employes of the concern were saved delay by an immediate duplicate shipment from Chicago banks.

SPECULATION CONCERNING ELECTIONS IN ONTARIO

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10—(AP)—With the election only five days away there is much speculation in political circles regarding the possibilities of another stalemate developing after the votes have been counted. In the last two elections neither the conservatives nor the liberals were able to command a clear majority in the house or commons.

In 1921, the liberals elected 117 members in a house of 235 members and were in a minority of one, the progressives electing 65 members, the conservatives 50 and labor 3. W. L. Mackenzie King formed a government, however, after fusion negotiations with the farmers failed. He carried on successfully for four years with farmer support.

The same situation followed the election last year, except that the conservatives, with 116 members in a house enlarged to 245 seats, had the largest group, arrayed against them, however, were 101 liberals, 24 progressives, two independents and two laborites.

Premier King decided to carry on under the circumstances and meet his fate in the house. Again the farmers enabled the King government to continue by giving him sufficient support in passing legislation.

Prospects For Late Crops Have Improved

Abundant Crops of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Grapes, Orange and Grapefruit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Marked improvement in prospects for various late crops, including corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, buckwheat, flaxseed, pasture, late hay crops and eastern fruit crops, as a result of more liberal rainfall during August, was announced today by the department of agriculture in its forecast of production based on September 1 conditions.

Prospects for cotton, oats and beans, and for various California, Florida and Louisiana crops are not so good as they were a month ago. The composite condition of all crops on September 1 was only two per cent below the ten year average on that date, representing an improvement of more than two per cent since August 1, and nearly five per cent since July 1.

Corn improved to the extent of 121,000,000 bushels over August 1 indications. The crop is late and the yield and quality still dependant largely on the date of the first killing frost.

Spring wheat prospects are about the same as a month ago with a production of about 212,109,000 bushels indicated. The estimated yield of 10.2 bushels an acre is the lowest since 1919, and is attributed largely to drought.

Rain damaged the oats crop in the shock to the extent of 47,540,000 bushels during the month and the quantity has been much reduced while the hay crop is the shortest since 1918 and may be the smallest since 1914.

Relief from drought caused a substantial improvement in the potato crop, sending the forecast about 6,000,000 bushels above that for August. Nearly 110 bushels an acre is indicated, compared with the ten year average of 101.6 bushels, but the yield is still largely dependent upon the lateness of frost and the extent of losses from blight.

Tobacco was greatly benefited by rains throughout most of the growing territory and the forecast increased to the extent of 104,000,000 pounds during the month. The indication production is still 63,000,000 pounds below last year's crop.

Abundant crops of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges and grapefruit are indicated.

MISS TULSA WON BEAUTY CONTEST AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10—(AP)—Miss Tulsa is Miss America tonight. She is Miss Norma Smallwood, semi-blonde wearer of the beauty crown that has set with but few exceptions in the past six years on blonde heads.

The wearer of the regal robes of beauty for 1926 is again a western girl, and again, a long haired, blue eyed beauty, whose chestnut hair is slightly darker than that of the Miss America of 1925.

Her features are Grecian in the clean cut evenness set off by the almost severe coiffeure of her straight long hair. She is a sophomore in the Oklahoma State College for Women at Chickasha, and will finish here course there, she said tonight, regardless of the opportunities that are in store for the nation's one crowned head to whom everyone bows. Chosen for beauty, intelligence, personality and beauty, Miss Tulsa, as the representative American girl, is a type entirely apart from the bobbed hair, boyish flapper, popularly acclaimed as the exponent of American girlhood.

Miss Tulsa last night was acclaimed the most beautiful girl in the evening gown among the beauties and received, beside that award, a $1,000 diamond watch, a silver loving cup and a $5,000 golden mermaid. Fay Lamphier, the 1925 queen received fifty thousand dollars in prizes after her triumph here last year, and, as she afterward confided some thirty-two proposals. The title, she acknowledged tonight in relinquishing the crown, had had compensations.

Miss Norma Smallwood, of 424 West 32nd street, Tulsa, Okla., is 18 years old, weighs 118 pounds and is 5 feet four inches in height. She has dark brown hair, blue eyes and fair skin.

Testified That He Paid King $441,000

Richard Merton on Witness Stand in the Daugherty-Miller Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Although bound for only half that sum under his agreement with the late John T. King, Richard Merton, German metal baron, testified today he paid a "commission" of $441,000 for the Connecticut politician's services in obtaining the release of $7,000,000 by the United States government.

This testimony and the statement that a champagne dinner celebrated the transfer of the checks featured Merton's second day as star witness in the trial of Harry S. Daugherty, once attorney general of the United States, and Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

Merton testified, that he paid King, a former republican committeeman from Connecticut, the $441,000. District Attorney Buckner said he proposed to show that the bribes were shared by Daugherty, Miller, King and the late Jesse Smith of Washington Court House, Ohio described as Daugherty's "man Friday."

William Rand, counsel for Miller, plied Merton with questions in cross examination in an effort to show that the claims Merton made for restitution of nearly $7,000,000 of stocks of the American Metal company, which had been seized during the war as enemy property, were valid and just claims.

Under the searching cross examination of Rand, Merton testified that he believed at the time he made the claims and that he believes now that the claims were valid. He said every statement are made in papers filed with the alien property custodian were true and that there was no intent to defraud the government or to evade the terms of the enemy trading act under which the stocks were seized.

Speed, Merton testified, was the governing factor in the payments of the $441,000 to King.

The alleged bribes Merton said, were paid at different times. Before the claims were paid he gave King a check for $50,000. After the claims were paid he gave bim $391 000 in Liberty Loan bonds. He did not know what was done with the check or the bonds, his last sight of King being that of the former republican committeeman getting into a taxicab with the bundle of bonds under his arm.

The $391,000, Merton said, was paid King under an agreement made prior to the granting of his claims. This agreement was to the effect that if the claims were paid prior to August 15, 1924, five per cent of the sums paid were to be given King for hastening consumation of the deal. If the claims were paid after August 15, but before September 15, two and one half per cent of the total was to be the fee. Merton admitted that although the money was not paid until September 30 he paid on the five per cent basis.

Buckner said that the government proposes to show that this money was traced to the bank and brokerage accounts of Daugherty, Miller, Smith and King.

The government also proposed to show that the claims submitted by Merton, and which it is alleged were given King in New York and taken by him Miller's office, were rushed through the alien property custodian's office in less than 72 hours. This, Buckner alleged, was a much shorter time than that required for the payment of other claims.

The actual payment of the $6,453,979.97 was made at a champagne dinner in the Ritz-Carlton hotel, Merton told the jury. Miller, King and Smith were presented. He had hired a special room for the event, he said, and after a while King appeared, with Smith, bringing two bottles of champagne. As they sat at a table he presented each with a gold cigarette case. Miller, he said, took from his pocket an envelope containing the checks.

The examination and cross examination of Merton occupied the whole day, and court guards clashed frequently with massed crowds in the corridors that struggled to get inside.

Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Smith, was among the spectators at the morning session, but left for Washington in the afternoon. She said that she had obtained permission of Buckner to make the journey and that she would return Monday, when session will be resumed. Buckner had previously state dthat she would not be called as a witness.

NEW YORK WELCOMED THE MOTHER CHANNEL SWIMMER

Through Rounds of Ceremonies Mrs. Clemington Corson Smiled Behind Tears—At Quarantine Mayor Walker's Reception Committee Officially Welcomed Mrs. Corson—At the Battery Thousands of Persons Awaited the Arrival of Mrs. Corson, Who Praised Gertrude Ederle and Georges Michel, the Frenchman Who Created a New Channel Record Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Clemington Corson, the first mother to breast the waves of the English channel, returned to her adopted city today with her arms around her two children and received a rousing welcome.

Through the rounds of ceremonies she smiled behind tears, for her thoughts turned back to the day seven years ago when as Millie Gade she came to America from Denmark and earned a living as swimming instructor. Then came her marriage and her two children, Clemington, Jr., now four years old and Marjorie, aged two.

She had been a swimmer of note in her native land and wore three medals for rescuing drowning persons. Swims around Manhattan Island and from Albany to New York gained her local fame and then she tried to swim the channel and failed.

Last summer she decided to try the treacherous channel again for the sake of her babies and she won. She frankly admitted that she hoped her efforts would bring her money in order that her children might have things she had been denied. And her hope will be fulfilled for already she had stage and other contracts that will net her a quarter of a million dollars. In addition she found a newly furnished home awaiting her, the gift of a merchant.

The modest, quiet spoken woman was not prepared for the welcome that Father Knickerbocker gave her. Nor was her husband, who had followed her on her historic swim with a row boat and came back with her on the Aquitania. He radiated his pride, but kept in the background of the ceremonies.

When the Aquitania arrived at quarantine today the mail decorated city tug Macom with the mayor's reception committee on board, gave her an official welcome. Followed a delay when she was besieged by newspapermen, who plied her with questions. In swimming the channel, she said, she made up her mind that if she didn't make good she would have "an awful lot" of dishes to wash.

She said the thought of her babies back home in Virginia with relatives moved her up and gave her courage. "I trusted by mind rather than my body," she said.

She praised Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the channel and admitted that her spirits fell when Rudy accomplished the feat before she did. Mrs. Corson also had praise for Georges Michel, the Frenchman who created a new channel record today.

Meanwhile the Macom steamed toward the battery where thousands of persons were waiting. Harbor craft tied down their whistles as she neared shore. Smilingly she looked through the port holes—not for the welcoming crowds but for her children.

Soon she saw them held high on the arms of relatives waving their hands at her. Then her eyes filled with tears and she buried her tanned face in a bouqut of American beauty roses sent by Mayor Walker.

Kiddies and mother hugged and kissed each other when she touched foot on soil. Bands blared and thousands cheered. Danish societies, anxious to do her honor, marched behind her automobile. The noon day Broadway crowds cheered. From the windows of the tall skyscrapers in the canyons of lower Broadway were tossed ticker tape and confetti—a miniature snow storm.

Arriving at city hall, there was another welcoming crowd. Mayor Walker presented her with a scroll and a gold medal. Briefly the mayor recounted New York's pride in her achievement, and she responded with a few words of thanks.

Afterwards she was driven to the old battleship Illinois, tied up at 96th street and Hudson river, where she once had been a swimming instructor for the naval reserves. And her welcome greeted her and she was presented with an American flag and a wrist watch. She was overwhelmed for a time, but later recovered her pois.

"In Denmark, as a child," she said, "I always wanted to swim the channel, but I didn't have the car fare. I had to come to New York to get that.

FRENCHMAN MAKES RECORD TIME FOR CHANNEL SWIM

BOULOGNE, France, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Georges Michel, French baker whose advocation is swimming, returned from England tonight to find himself famous.

Leaving Cape Gris-Nez at 8:26 last night, Michel thrashed the billows to such effect that 11 hours and 5 minutes later, or at 7:31 o'clock this morning, he clambered ashore over the slippery rocks at St. Margaret's bay, near Deal.

He had broken the record established scarcely two weeks before by Ernst Vierkoetter, of Cologne, Germany, by an hour and 38 minutes.

Boulogne received him tonight with open arms, not only as a record-breaker, but as the first Frenchman to swim the channel.

He also found that the 15,000 or so francs he had spent in making his ten channel swims—he failed nine times before he succeeded—were likely to prove bread thrown on the waters. Scores of telegrams awaited him, offering real money for appearances in France, England and various continental countries.

To cap the climax it was announced that the citizens of Boulogne would give a ball in his honor next Tuesday, the receipts to be turned over to him to repay his training expenses.

The whole town turned out to greet him when he arrived on the steamer from Folkestone. The mayor, deputy mayor, the town council and the general public met him at the quayside and he was given an ovation combining the screams of the harbor whistles and the roaring of the great crowd.

The new record-holder, 26 years old, is remarkable for his size. He is well known in French swimming circles, and recently won a 26-mile international race in the Seine river.

BOSTON MAN STARTS ON ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Sept. 10—(AP)—Louis Timson, of Boston, started to swim the English channel at 10:05 o'clock. He had been awaiting favorable conditions for some time. An attempt he planned for last Friday night had to be postponed on account of fog.

The weather was ideal for the attempt tonight. The channel was as smooth as a millpond. Light southwesterly breezes would help the swimmer. Timson was very cheerful as he took to the water and said he was confident of accomplishing the feat.

Timson was assisted by the advice of Captain Killingley, who was Mercury's trainer, and on his swim he will be convoyed by a motorboat commanded by Harry Pearson, the Dover pilot, who guided Mrs. Corson across the channel.

COL. ROOSEVELT REVIEWS WORK OF REP. ADMINISTRATION

WATERVILLE Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—The work of the republican administration in Washington the last six years was reviewed by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy, here tonight in the first of three speeches in the republican campaign for Monday's biennial state election. Later in the evening he spoke along the same lines at Augusta, and tomorrow night will be at the closing rally in Portland.

"Six years of republican rule have passed," he said. "We have made not mistakes, some of them bad ones. Some of our public office-holders have been worthless men. If I told you otherwise, I would be simple, old fashioned political liar. The gross results, however, have been remarkable.

"Our achievement is evident practically every-where. The old proverb runs 'The proof of the pudding is in the eating.' By the same token is proof of the republican administration in the condition of the government and the country today."

NORTHERN LIGHTS DO NOT AFFECT RADIO RECEPTION

TENANTS HARBOR, Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—The more presence of northern lights has no effect on radio reception, Paul Magee chief radio operator of the Arctic expedition schooner Bowdoin said today. Magee who has just returned from Greenland with Commander Donald MacMillan did say however that changes in the altitude of the apex of the lights seemed to have the effect of temporarily blanketing and cutting off all receptions." Throughout the 4,000 mile journey through northern waters Operator Magee was working against static in Alaska and Europe.

For the greatest test of the powers of the Aurora Borealis he chose a spot near Seaglekbay in northern Labrador. Radio work on the ship he found lacked the accurateness which he desired. He enlisted the aid of Kenneth Rawson of Chicago who served as boatswain of the Bowdoin and Mate Ralph Robinson of Menemac, Massachusetts.

ALL IS QUIET IN ATHENS WITH BUSINESS NORMAL

ATHENS, Sept. 10—(AP)—The city is quiet now and business is normal. Semi-official statement states that an inquiry into yesterday's revolt has confirmed the government's suspicion that the populace had been ready for an insurrection by citizens belonging to the old monarchial party.

Admiral Kondouriotis, the regent of Greece after a conference with Premier Kondylis told newspapermen that he had fully approved measures taken by the government to suppress the revolt and that the victory achieved was a victory for the Greek republic.

Premier Kondylis in a statement to the press emphasized that the suppression of the dictatorship and the imprisonment of Pangalos offered a guarantee of the liberty of the people so long as the republican guard was allowed to exist as an organization.

SPAIN WITHHELD NOTE TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS TILL GERMAN ADMISSION

French Understand That the Spanish Government Did Not Wish to Embarrass the Entry of Germany Into the League—Germany Yesterday Was Received Into the League of Nations With the Applause of Thousands—German and French Representatives Were Shy in Dealing With the Problem of Disarmament.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 10—(AP)—The French delegation to the league of nations announced tonight that it had received information from Paris that the Spanish note of resignation from the league has left Madrid.

The French understand that the Spanish held up the letter of resignation because they did not wish to embarrass the entry of Germany into the league.

GERMANY RECEIVED INTO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, Sept. 10—(AP)—Faith that loyal cooperation will keep Europe far from war and safe in the paths of permanent peace and happiness continued tonight to be the dominating note of this memorable day when Germany was received into the league of nations with the aplause of thousands.

Doctor Stresemann, the German representative, in a striking address before the assembly, had prayed that the destiny of the league of nations be fulfilled on the basis of its lofty conception of peace, freedom and unity and Premier Minister Briand in moving language pledged the support of France to policies that would thrust war aside forever.

The one outstanding feature of the day was the rather gingerly manner with which both Stresemann and Briand approached the problem of disarmament, giving the impression that both statesmen realized that this is the most difficult problem of all confronting Europe.

Dr. Stresemann, counselled "tactful work" in achieving disarmament while M. Briand practically gave notice that Europe could not shake off her heavy burden of armaments until equilibrium was restored both economically and morally and until people were convinced of their security.

Tonight the statesmen of various nations are conferring how best to treat problems still outstanding which might prove to be possible menaces to complete concord. Dr. Stresemann told newspapermen at a banquet in honor of the council, at which he clinked glasses with Briand, Vandervelde and Chamberlain, that all must bear in mind that every day is not a Sunday or a holiday and that "daily efforts is necessary to make peace secure."

Dr. Stresemann said that nothing in M. Briand's speech before the assembly had touched him more than the assertion that the peoples who had shown such heroism on the battlefield should now seek other and constructive outlets for their energy.

Mr. Chamberlain warning against excessive optimism told the German journalists tonight not to forget that the path ahead is long for suspicions must be allayed and wounds of the past more fully healed.

Meanwhile the concrete effect of today's work is that the Locarno accord is officially merged into the mechanism of the league of nations. Dr. Stresemann made it perfectly clear also that any German objection to the Versailles treaty hereafter be handled at Geneva. With Poland probable elected to a semi-permanent seat, Germany and Poland will have an opportunity peacefully to adjust their problems also in Geneva.

Another consequence being commented upon here is the importance that Japan will now assume in the council as a mediator because of the fact she is not a signatory to the Locarno pact. She therefore has no direct interest in the problem which may arise among European states.

At a reception the Swiss government gave to the delegates of the league. President Motta was congratulated by all on the failure of the plot against his life. It appears that a Russian named Solomon Greenberg arrived here last Monday, according to the newspapers the prisoner has confessed that he had wished to assassinate Dr. Guiseppe Motta, former president of Switzerland, to avenge the killing of M. Vorovsky, Russian's representative during the Lausanne conference in 1923 by Maurice Conradi, a Swiss, who was acquitted. The prisoner will be sent to Zurcih, where he is wanted on another charge. The police think he is mentally unbalanced.

NEGROES SHOT YOUTH DEAD AND ATTACK TWO GIRLS

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Two masked Negroes, who last night shot and killed a 19-year old youth and attacked two girls on a lonely road near here, have thrown Delaware county into an uproar that has brought police from half a dozen cities and possee throughout the countryside in a desperate man hunt.

The Negroes accosted two girls sitting in an automobile with Walter Harden, and William Hamilton, both 19. The Negroes forced the girls out of the car, and when Harden resisted he was shot twice through the chest, dying instantly. Hamilton attempted to flee with the girls but was overtaken and the girls dragged off, while he escaped and ran to a farm house and telephoned Chester police.

The girls were Anna Remasley, 17, and Florence Scott, 14. Both were treated at their homes today by physicians, who reported them in serious condition.

The assailants appeared in a motor car, which had been stolen and which later was found, abandoned in Philadelphia.

Within half an hour after Hamilton had given the alarm Chester and Delaware county police were on the scene with an ambulance. Searchers beat through the woods nearby and today were watching roads out of Philadelphia.

Four Negroes were arrested today, two in Media and two in Philadelphia, but they were released when authorities failed to link them with the crimes. The descriptions of the two men were meagre, owing to their masks and also because the darkness and rain made identification difficult. After the girls had recovered partially from their shock they were taken to the scene of the crime late today but broke down when they arrived and were unable to give the police much information.

ALLEGED SAFE-BREAKER CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—After a chase participated in by two lawyers, a police inspector and a representative of a brokerage house, Carl O. Harding, alias John Taylor, of Allston, was arrested late today charged with looting a safe in an office building of $60,000 in securities last night.

Police said he arranged for the sale of the securities today and asked a broker he called on the telephone to send him a check at the Tremont building. A trap was laid but when he saw the inspector he fled from the building. After running several blocks he was caught by Attorney Richard McCabe, who had seen the pursuit and made a flying tackle as Harding passed him. McCabe's former associate, Attorney Francis Goodale, had joined the chase when Harding fled from the Tremont building.

APPEAL FILED BY CAPTAIN OF THE CITY OF ROME

BOSTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Captain John Diehl, commander of the steamship City of Rome when it struck the S-51 off Block Island last year, today filed an appeal against the recent findings of the steamship inspectors which recommended his suspension for a period of nine months. T. L. Dreyer, the third officer of the City of Rome, whose suspension for the same length of time was likewise recommended also filed an appeal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Three robbers today held at bay two mail clerks, seized $137,000 in payroll money on a Grand Trunk train at the southwestern edge of Chicago, and raced back into the city in a waiting automobile.

All of the loot was contained in a single mail pouch carrying $47,000 from the First National bank of Chicago and $90,000 from the Continental and Commercial National bank both consigned to banks at Harvey, a suburb, for the payroll of three firms. At least $130,000 in another pouch was overlooked.

Timing their work with the train schedule, two of the robbers who entered the car got off at Evergreen Park and ran to a third member of the gang waiting in an automobile. They disappeared by driving through a cemetery.

Investigators could find but one or two witnesses. The robbers were away before the train had come to a full stop, and although the clerks at once gave the alarm, itw as too late.

Deputy Sheriff Francis J. Caraher, of Palos, nearby, owner of an airplane, was notified and immediately rose in the air for a search of the surrounding teritory, without avail.

Kelly and McCook were able to give but a meager description of the robbers.

The shipments were insured, and employes of the concern were saved delay by an immediate duplicate shipment from Chicago banks.

SPECULATION CONCERNING ELECTIONS IN ONTARIO

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10—(AP)—With the election only five days away there is much speculation in political circles regarding the possibilities of another stalemate developing after the votes have been counted. In the last two elections neither the conservatives nor the liberals were able to command a clear majority in the house of commons.

In 1921, the liberals elected 117 members in a house of 235 members and were in a minority of one, the progressives electing 65 members, the conservatives 50 and labor 3. W. L. Mackenzie King formed a government, however, after fusion negotiations with the farmers failed. He carried on successfully for four years with farmer support.

The same situation followed the election last year, except that the conservatives, with 116 members in a house enlarged to 245 seats, had the largest group, arrayed against them, however, were 101 liberals, 24 progressives, two independents and two laborites.

Premier King decided to carry on under the circumstances and meet his fate in the house. Again the farmers enabled the King government to continue by giving him sufficient support in passing legislation.

Prospects For Late Crops Have Improved

Abundant Crops of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Grapes, Orange and Grapefruit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—(AP)—Marked improvement in prospects for various late crops, including corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, buckwheat, flaxseed, pasture, late hay crops and eastern fruit crops, as a result of more liberal rainfall during August, was announced today by the department of agriculture in its forecast of production based on September 1 conditions.

Prospects for cotton, oats and beans, and for various California, Florida and Louisiana crops are not so good as they were a month ago. The composite condition of all crops on September 1 was only two per cent below the ten year average on that date, representing an improvement of more than two per cent since August 1, and nearly five per cent since July 1.

Corn improved to the extent of 121,000,000 bushels over August 1 indications. The crop is late and the yield and quality still dependant largely on the date of the first killing frost.

Spring wheat prospects are about the same as a month ago with a production of about 212,109,000 bushels indicated. The estimated yield of 10.2 bushels an acre is the lowest since 1919, and is attributed lagrely to drought.

Rain damaged the oats crop in the shock to the extent of 47,540,000 bushels during the month and the quantity has been much reduced while the hay crop is the shortest since 1918 and may be the smallest since 1914.

Relief from drought caused a substantial improvement in the potato crop, sending the forecast about 6,000,000 bushels above that for August. Nearly 110 bushels an acre is indicated, compared with the ten year average of 101.6 bushels, but the yield is still largely dependent upon the lateness of frost and the extent of losses from blight.

Tobacco was greatly benefited by rains throughout most of the growing territory and the forecast increased to the extent of 104,000,000 pounds during the month. The indication production is still 68,000,000 pounds below last year's crop.

Abundant crops of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges and grapefruit are indicated.

MISS TULSA WON BEAUTY CONTEST AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10—(AP)—Miss Tulsa is Miss America tonight. She is Miss Norma Smallwood, semi-blonde wearer of the beauty crown that has set with but few exceptions in the past six years on blonde heads.

The wearer of the regal robes of Beauty for 1926 is again a western girl, and again, a long haired, blue eyed beauty, whose chestnut hair is slightly darker than that of the Miss America of 1925.

Her features are Grecian in the clear cut evenness set off by the almost severe coiffeure of her straight long hair. She is a sophomore in the Oklahoma State College for Women at Chickasha and will finish here course there, she said tonight, regardless of the opportunities that are in store for the nation's one crowned head to whom everyone bows. Chosen for beauty, intelligence, personality and beauty, Miss Tulsa, as the representative American girl, is a type entirely apart from the bobbed hair, boyish flapper, popularly acclaimed as the exponent of American girlhood.

Miss Tulsa last night was acclaimed the most beautiful girl in the evening gown among the beauties and received, beside that award, a $1,000 diamond watch, a silver loving cup and a $5,000 golden mermaid. Fay Lamphier, the 1925 queen received fifty thousand dollars in prizes after her triumph here last year, and, as she afterward confided some thirty-two proposals. The title she acknowledged tonight in relinquishing the crown, had had compensations.

Miss Norma Smallwood, of 424 West 32nd street, Tulsa, Okla., is 18 years old, weighs 118 pounds and is 5 feet four inches in height. She has dark brown hair, blue eyes and fair skin.

Testified That He Paid King $441,000

Richard Merton on Witness Stand in the Daugherty-Miller Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—Although bound for only half that sum under his agreement with the late John T. King, Richard Merton, German metal baron, testified today he paid a "commission" of $441,000 for the Connecticut politician's services in obtaining the release of $7,000,000 by the United States government.

This testimony and the statement that a champagne dinner celebrated the transfer of the checks featured Merton's second day as star witness in the trial of Harry S. Daugherty, once attorney general of the United States, and Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

Merton testified that he paid King, a former republican committeeman from Connecticut, the $441,000. District Attorney Buckner said he proposed to show that the bribes were shared by Daugherty, Miller, King and the late Jesse Smith, of Washington Court House, Ohio, described as Daugherty's "man Friday."

William Rand, counsel for Miller, pilled Merton with questions in cross examination in an effort to show that the claims Merton made for restitution of nearly $7,000,000 of stocks of the American Metal company, which had been seized during the war as enemy property were valid and just claims.

Under the searching cross examination of Rand, Merton testified that he believed at the time he made the claims and that he believes now that the claims were valid. He said every statement he made in papers filed with the alien property custodian were true and that there was no intent to defraud the government or to evade the terms of the enemy trading act under which the stocks were seized.

Speed, Merton testified, was the governing factor in the payments of the $441,000 to King.

The alleged bribes, Merton said, were paid at different times. Before the claims were paid he gave King a check for $50,000. After the claims were paid he gave him $391,000 in Liberty Loan bonds. He did not know what was done with the check or the bonds, his last sight of King being that of the former republican committeeman getting into a taxicab with the bundle of bonds under his arm.

The $391,000, Merton said, was paid King under an agreement made prior to the granting of his claims. This agreement was to the effect that if the claims were paid prior to August 15, 1921, five per cent of the sums paid were to be given King for hastening consumation of the deal. If the claims were paid after August 15, but before September 15, two and one half per cent of the total was to be the fee Merton admitted that although the money was not paid until September 30 he paid on the five per cent basis.

Buckner said that the government proposes to show that this money was traced to the bank and brokerage accounts of Daugherty, Miller, Smith and King.

The government also proposed to show that the claims submitted by Merton, and which it is alleged were given King in New York and taken by him to Miller's office, were rushed through the alien property custodian's office in less than 72 hours. This, Buckner alleged, was a much shorter time than that required for the payment of other claims.

The actual payment of the $6,453,379.97 was made at a champagne dinner in the Ritz-Carlton hotel, Merton told the jury. Miller, King and Smith were presented. He had hired a special room for the event, he said, and after a while King appeared, with Smith, bringing two bottles of champagne. As they sat at a table he presented each with a gold cigarette case. Miller, he said, took from his pocket an envelope containing the checks.

The examination and cross examination of Merton occupied the whole day, and court guards clashed frequently with massed crowds in the corridors that struggled to get inside.

Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Smith, was among the spectators at the morning session, but left for Washington in the afternoon. She said that she had obtained permission of Buckner to make the journey and that she would return Monday, when session will be resumed. Buckner had previously state dthat she would not be called as a witness.

NEW YORK WELCOMED THE MOTHER CHANNEL SWIMMER

Through Rounds of Ceremonies Mrs. Clemington Corson Smiled Behind Tears—At Quarantine Mayor Walker's Reception Committee Officially Welcomed Mrs. Corson—At the Battery Thousands of Persons Awaited the Arrival of Mrs. Corson, Who Praised Gertrude Ederle and Georges Michel, the Frenchman Who Created a New Channel Record Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Clemington Corson, the first mother to breast the waves of the English channel, returned to her adopted city today with her arms around her two children and received a rousing welcome.

Through the rounds of ceremonies she smiled behind tears, for her thoughts turned back to the day seven years ago when as Millie Gade she came to America from Denmark and earned a living as swimming instructor. Then came her marriage and her two children, Clemington, Jr., now four years old and Marjorie, aged two.

She had been a swimmer of note in her native land and wore three medals for rescuing drowning persons. Swims around Manhattan Island and from Albany to New York gained her local fame and then she tried to swim the channel and failed.

Last summer she decided to try the treacherous channel again for the sake of her babies and she won. She frankly admitted that she hoped her efforts would bring her money in order that her children might have things she had been denied. And her hope will be fulfilled for already she had stage and other contracts that will net her a quarter of a million dollars. In addition she found a newly furnished home awaiting her, the gift of a merchant.

The modest, quiet spoken woman was not prepared for the welcome that Father Knickerbocker gave her. Nor was her husband, who had followed her on her historic swim with a row boat and came back with her on the Aquitania. He radiated his pride, but kept in the background of the ceremonies.

When the Aquitania arrived at quarantine today the gaily decorated city tug Macom, with the mayor's reception committee on board, gave her an official welcome. Followed a delay when she was besieged by newspapermen, who plied her with questions. In swimming the channel, she said, she made up her mind that if she didn't make good she would have "an awful lot" of dishes to wash.

She said the thought of her babies back home in Virginia with relatives buoyed her up and gave her courage. "I trusted by mind rather than my body," she said.

She praised Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the channel and admitted that her spirits fell when Rudy accomplished the feat before she did. Mrs. Corson also had praise for Georges Michel, the Frenchman who created a new channel record today.

Meanwhile the Macom steamed toward the battery where thousands of persons were waiting. Harbor craft tied down their whistles as she neared shore. Smilingly she looked through the port holes—not for the welcoming crowds but for her children.

Soon she saw them held high on the arms of relatives waving their hands at her. Then her eyes filled with tears and she buried her tanned face in a bouquet of American beauty roses sent by Mayor Walker.

Kiddies and mother hugged and kissed each other when she touched foot on soil. Bands blared and thousands cheered. Danish societies, anxious to do her honor, marched behind her automobile. The noon day Broadway crowds cheered. From the windows of the tall skyscrapers in the canyons of lower Broadway were tossed ticker tape and confetti—a miniature snow storm.

Arriving at city hall, there was another welcoming crowd. Mayor Walker presented her with a scroll and a gold medal. Briefly the mayor recounted New York's pride in her achievement and she responded with a few words of thanks.

Afterwards she was driven to the old battleship Illinois, tied up at 96th street and Hudson river, where she once had been a swimming instructor for the naval reserves. Another warm welcome greeted her and she was presented with an American flag and a wrist watch. She was overwhelmed for a time, but later recovered her poise.

"In Denmark, as a child," she said, "I always wanted to swim the channel, but I didn't have the car fare. I had to come to New York to get that."

FRENCHMAN MAKES RECORD TIME FOR CHANNEL SWIM

BOULOGNE, France, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Georges Michel, French baker whose advocation is swimming, returned from England tonight to find himself famous.

Leaving Cape Gris-Nez at 8:26 last night, Michel thrashed the billows to such effect that 11 hours and 5 minutes later, or at 7:31 o'clock this morning, he clambered ashore over the slippery rocks at St. Margaret's bay, near Deal.

He had broken the record established scarcely two weeks before by Ernst Vierkoetter, of Cologne, Germany, by an hour and 36 minutes.

Boulogne received him tonight with open arms, not only as a record-breaker, but as the first Frenchman to swim the channel.

He also found that the 15,000 or so francs he had spent in making his ten channel swims—he failed nine times before he succeeded—were likely to prove bread thrown on the waters. Scores of telegrams awaited him, offering real money for appearances in France, England and various continental countries.

To cap the climax it was announced that the citizens of Boulogne would give a ball in his honor next Tuesday, the receipts to be turned over to him to repay his training expenses.

The whole town turned out to greet him when he arrived on the steamer from Folkestone. The mayor, deputy mayor, the town council and the general public met him at the quayside and he was given an ovation combining the screams of the harbor whistles and the roaring of the great crowd.

The new record-holder, 26 years old, is remarkable for his size. He is well known in French swimming circles, most, the sales manager.

and recently won a 26-mile international race in the Seine river.

BOSTON MAN STARTS ON ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Sept. 10—(AP)—Louis Timson, of Boston, started to swim the English channel at 10:05 o'clock. He had been awaiting favorable conditions for some time. An attempt he planned for last Friday night had to be postponed on account of fog.

The weather was ideal for the attempt tonight. The channel was as smooth as a millpond. Light southwesterly breezes would help the swimmer. Timson was very cheerful as he took to the water and said he was confident of accomplishing the feat.

Timson was assisted by the adv. of Captain Killingley, who was Mrs. Corson's trainer, and on his swim he will be convoyed by a motorboat commanded by Harry Pearson, the Deal pilot, who guided Mrs. Corson across the channel.

COL. ROOSEVELT REVIEWS WORK OF REP. ADMINISTRATION

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—The work of the republican administration in Washington the past six years was reviewed by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy, here tonight in the first of three speeches in the republican campaign for Monday's biennial state election. Later in the evening he spoke along the same lines at Augusta, and tomorrow night will be at the closing rally in Portland.

"Six years of republican rule have passed," he said, "We have made our mistakes, some of them bad ones. Some of our public office-holders have been worthless men. If I could say otherwise I would be simply that old-fashioned political liar. The general results, however, have been reasonable.

"Our achievement is evident in practically every line. The old proverb runs 'The proof of the pudding is in the eating.' But the same proof of the republican achievements in the condition of the government and the country today."

NORTHERN LIGHTS DO NOT AFFECT RADIO RECEPTION

TENANTS HARBOR, Me., Sept. 10—(AP)—The mere presence of northern lights has no effect on radio reception, Paul Magee chief radio operator of the Arctic exploration schooner Bowdoin said today. Magee who has just returned from Greenland with Commander Donald MacMillan did say however that changes in the altitude of the apex of the light do have the effect of completely blanketing and cutting off all receptions." Throughout the 4,000 mile journey through northern waters Operator Magee was working amateur stations in America and Europe.

For the greatest test of the powers of the Aurora Borealis he chose a spot near Seaglekhaven in northern Labrador. Radio work on the ship as found, backed the accurateness which he desired. He enlisted the aid of Kenneth Rawson of Chicago, who served as boatswain on the Bowdoin and Mate Ralph Robinson, of Mount Dimac, Massachusetts.

ALL IS QUIET IN ATHENS WITH BUSINESS NORMAL

ATHENS, Sept. 10—(AP)—The city is quiet now and business is normal. Semi-official statement states that an inquiry into yesterday's revolt has confirmed the government's suspicion that the populace had been organized for an insurrection by officers belonging to the old monarchial party.

Admiral Kondouriotis, the president of Greece after a conference with Premier Kondylis, told newspapermen that he had fully approved measures taken by the government to suppress the revolt and that the victory achieved was a victory for the Greek republic.

Premier Kondylis in a statement to the press mentioned that the suppression of the dictatorship and the imprisonment of Pangalos offered a guarantee of the liberty of the people as long as the republican guard was allowed to exist as an organization.

14 year old girl does family wash

"I got clothes whiter than mother ever did — with much less work"

WHEN my mother was sick, I had to do all the housework. The woman who lives upstairs told me to use Rinso so that I wouldn't need to worry about the wash.

She said, "Just soak all the clothes in Rinso suds and you won't have any hard rubbing to do."

So on Monday I did just as she told me, and the clothes came out beautifully.

Mother said they were whiter and cleaner than she ever got them with her hours of rubbing! Even badly soiled spots got snowy white after a tiny rub between my fingers. I had no hard work at all.

Now mother always uses this new granulated soap instead of bar soap. Mother's hands are never red or rough any more. And she says the clothes last longer, too, because there's no scrubbing against a board. Ask your grocer today for

It Takes Nerve to Lead

HERE is a child's history of the automobile industry for the past ten years. Simple to read—in telegraphic terms.

In every paragraph is the seed of an idea which made some company successful.

Any child who knows the trade marks on the radiators—and most of them do—will know what we are talking about even if we do not mention names.

Between the lines is the history of the Jordan. There has been only one difference between Jordan and the rest. Jordan built not for quantity and price, but for permanent position in the industry. Most of the others just built for volume.

Here is the story:

1916 3,600,000 automobiles in use. Saturation point supposed to have been reached. Most automobiles were black or blue and alike. Jordan produced a fine chassis with distinctive style and optional colors. That started Jordan.

1917 Women tired riding in the back seats of open cars. Closed cars leaping into favor. Jordan produced four passenger, two door closed model—a revelation at that time. Count the coaches today.

1918 Two million girls waiting for two million boys to come back from France. Jordan built the Playboy Roadster. Girls happy. That started the roadster craze.

1919 Same boys and same girls married. Jordan produced first completely equipped, four passenger sport model—and that started that.

1920 Glossy paint on all cars scratched, cracked, chipped and fell off. Cars looked shabby. Jordan introduced Crane Simplex dull finish. Now 95% of all cars are finished in something other than varnish.

1921 Coach type produced in enormous quantities. Loses style appeal. Jordan produces four door Brougham.

1922 Square rigged highboy type of car passing away. Jordan introduces Silhouette body. Departure from conventional lines.

1923 Tremendous six cylinder production bringing all sixes to the second hand market with great depreciation, in direct competition with new cheap six cylinder cars. Jordan produces the Great Line Eight.

1924 Public demands more power, greater engine flexibility, and better quality. Jordan develops first low priced Straight Eight.

1925 Smaller cars in demand. Big bulky cars disappearing from the roads. Jordan built the first high grade medium priced Straight Eight with all-steel, all-vision body.

1926 Still a year ahead. Watch developments in all-steel and Straight Eights.

It takes nerve to lead—manufacturers know—dealers know—Salesmen know—that the Public will demand Straight Eight motors and all-steel, all-vision bodies.

Here is what the public likes—that smooth—velvety—fascinating—whisper of the eight—all cylinders in silent unison with a powerful pull—soft—positive—noiseless—the sensation of steam.

Five passenger Sedan $1945 . . . . Four passenger Victoria $1945 . . . . Playboy $1845
Great Line Eight Custom Style Sedan $2495 . . . Great Line Eight Custom Style Victoria $2495

BALLOT-BOX STUFFING ALLEGED AT DEM. CAUCUS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 10—Called to nominate candidates for town offices, the largest democratic caucus in Killingly in many years broke up in a turmoil tonight. There were accusations and counter-accusations, charges and counter-charges, but the outstanding feature of the whole surprising affair was the cry that the ballot box had been stuffed.

The storm broke over the contest for the nomination for second selectman. A. D. Sayles of East Killingly, present democratic member of the board of selectmen and John H. Ryan of Danyille were the candidates. Before the balloting started, a motion was put through that the vote be by check list and ballot. Nearly an hour was consumed in checking the votes and counting them. At the close of the count it was evident that something had gone wrong among the counters and a minute later it became known that Mr. Sayles had 136 votes and Mr. Mr. Ryan 109, a total of 245, while the check list showed that there should have been only 205 votes in the ballot box. This excess of 40 votes over the number the check list called for precipitated an argument that took on a considerable degree of excitement for a few minutes. In the midst of the hubbub, chairman F. E. Bitgood announced the result of the ballot as shown by the count and declared Mr. Sayles the nominee. There were shouts of protest over this, but to do avail. In the meantime some of Mr. Ryan's friends seeking the check list that had been used found that they had disappeared. While the excitement was at its height a motion to adjourn was made and put through with only a few paying attention, and the amazing caucus came to a close.

Considering the situation, it was pointed out that there was no accounting for the excess votes as to whether they were put in by friends of Mr. Sayles or friends of Mr. Ryan. This is matter beyond definite proof. The fact of the matter was that they were there. What the effect of the caucus on the party will be is difficult to forecast, but there was exceedingly high feeling about it, after the affair was over.

Aside from this, the caucus was harmonious and named the other candidates without any contest. Amos E. Hall of South Killingly was nominated for first selectman. The remainder of the ticket follows: Assessor, James P. Aldrich; board of relief, Joseph Hall; agent town deposit fund, John W. Gallup; auditor, Miss Marguerite Dunn; collector, James R. Walsh; constables, Peter J. Stone, A. D. Sayles, George Alvord; registrars, Anna E. Goulet, A. F. Cavanaugh, James P. Aldrich; town school committee, for three years, J. W. Gallup, Mrs. Ella Woodward.

A. J. Cavanaugh was clerk of the caucus and the counters in the contest were Claude and George Moran, James P. Aldrich, T. J. Quinn.

JAMES WILLIAMS DIED WHILE ON WAY TO WORK

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 10—The body of James Williams, colored, a former resident of Danielson, remained unclaimed at the undertaking rooms of Cunningham and Sons in Central Village, this morning, while an effort was being made to get in touch with his relatives. Mr. Williams died suddenly Thursday morning in Moosup while proceeding, in company with another man, toward the Shepard Hill farm of W. S. Brown, where they were to be employed as farm hands. It is years since Mr. Williams left Danielson and in the meantime he has lived in a number of places in eastern Connecticut and in Rhode Island. He is believed to have come originally from somewhere in Rhode Island.

SKUNK UNDER BUREAU— PROBLEM HOW TO GET HIM OUT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 10—There was work for an odd job man in Danielson this morning, or for anyone having a knack of doing unusual things in a careful, successful way. This particular chore had to do with getting a skunk out from under a bureau in a home where the animal was an unwelcome visitor. How the polecat, full grown and active, happened to be in the house is a matter for conjecture, but it is regarded as probable that it came upstairs from the cellar, after getting in through an open window. Camped temporarily under a bureau, there were serious conferences while he remained undisturbed. Getting the skunk out without ruining the place was the problem that had to be solved and just how the proposition worked out was not information in possession of the world at the time this was being written.

A little baseball classic is in store for Danielson and Wauregan fans this week end. At Wauregan this (Saturday) afternoon a team of the starring players from various teams of the Danielson Twilight league will match skill against a similar combination picked from teams of the Wauregan Twilight league. The teams are scheduled to meet again Sunday afternoon field in Danielson. Interest in this little series is heightened because two teams representing these leagues played each other to a stand-still some time ago—a scoreless tie when darkness came to end a splendid contest.

Joseph LaBelle of the Nail Drivers is managing the Danielson team. He has picked Williams and Gaslorek as his catchers, Thomas, LaBelle, Lagace and Bernier as pitchers, Lambert first, Joe LaBelle second, Page short, Dagenias, third, Peter LaFave left, George LaBelle center, Brundage right; Neal Guertin, Perreault utility.

Tommy Corcoran, Jewett City, former member of the Cincinnati Nationals, will be the arbiter.

East Killingly still mourns its loss of regular transportation service and is inconvenienced by the lack of it. Limited revenues on the route have kept transportation companies from establishing a service.

Interested members of the school point out that the enforced delay in the opening of the high school this season will handicap those interested in forming a school football team and getting the players into condition until very late, as football seasons go.

WOMAN CONQUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!'"

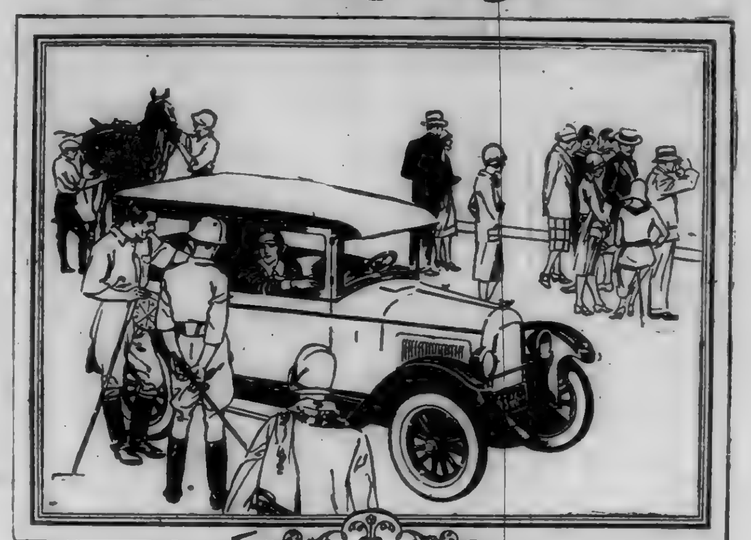
Novel Landing Lights

Glass-covered parallel trenches in which "neon" light tubes are installed have been dug across the British landing field at Croydon to aid flyers to descend safely in fogs. The reddish glow of the lamps, it has been found, penetrates the mist more effectively than other kinds of light. Between the tubes is a "leader cable" which affects a sensitive instrument in an airplane flying above it. Having been guided to the field by radio the pilot, after picking up the boundaries of the area by means of the cable, can circle around, gauging his altitude by means of the action of the cable on the instrument until the lights themselves are visible and the landing can be made with little or no risk or accident.

TODAY—

America has its first high-speed European-type Light Car



THE Whippet is the first American light car designed to meet modern traffic conditions.

A car engineered specifically for parking at jammed curbs—for lightning get-away at congested traffic crossings—for instant stopping in pedestrian-crowded city streets. It will pickup in 13 seconds from 5 to 30 miles an hour. It will stop in 51 feet from a speed of 40 miles an hour. It will turn in a 34-foot circle—park in a 14-foot curb space.

STREET DANGERS

This week a five year old Providence boy was struck by a motor truck while playing in the street near his home. He was seriously injured as is so often the case, but the affair attracted increased attention because a three year old brother had been killed at almost the same spot a little less than three months ago.

In commenting upon this accident the Providence Bulletin says: "Lightning may never strike twice at the same place, but crowded cities are dealing with something far more dangerous than lightning when they make an effort to cut down the number of automobile accidents. The Valley St. accidents constitute a reminder and a challenge which must be met."

This is a new reminder that the streets of a city are not the place to play. The report of the accident states "The police were told the youngster was at play on the sidewalk and ran into the street suddenly, giving the operator of the truck little opportunity to avoid him."

Where children play in the streets, or rush into the street in their play without looking, the narrow escapes are many. The inability to miss them all is emphasized in this particular case. Too many are the occasions when children in such streets are getting their fun from daring drivers to hit them or trying to see how close they can get to the wheels of a moving machine.

The reckless driving of motor vehicles may well come in for attention but there is the responsibility which also rests upon parents to see that children are properly restrained and kept from places where, in too many instances, they are responsible for their own deaths or serious injuries.

Street dangers today are real. It is folly to try to think otherwise and trust to chance that nothing will happen or that the fate which has overtaken some can be avoided by others in these days of motor vehicles the risk of playing in the streets must be anticipated and guarded against at all times.

UPSHAW DOWNED

Perhaps no primary result will cause greater interest than that in Georgia where Congressman Upshaw was defeated for renomination. The congressman is of course a democrat, a dry democrat and one who has been thrashing about the country in behalf of prohibition.

There was a hard contest waged against him at home, but not because he was a democrat, or a dry, but because he was giving so much of his time to the prohibition cause when it was believed he was neglecting his work in congress. Instead of being in Washington he was frequently far away trying to send home the argument in behalf of the dry law and its enforcement, for which he was receiving recompense from dry organizations.

Georgia has nominated in his place, and nomination invariably means selection, another dry democrat. That in itself makes it clear that Upshaw has not been turned down at home because he is dry and it is impossible to point to that congressional district as replacing a dry with a wet. It is a rebuke because he has been placing prohibition before all else and to the neglect of other things. That at least is a fair inference from the treatment he has received.

That Upshaw will be missed in the halls of the house after the completion of his term can be expected. He is a fiery advocate and the dry cause never had a stronger champion. There have been times when it is a question if his methods didn't do more harm than good for his cause. It is made evident that his efforts so unfavorably impressed the district he represented in Georgia, dry though it is, that it decided he should be replaced by another. This it does without making a move that can give any great satisfaction to the wets barring such rejoicing as they may do over the fact that his particular advocacy will be eliminated. It is one of those situations which may make some other representatives give heed to their work and realize that it is not so much what they are enthusiastic about personally as what the districts wants that counts with the constituency.

SEEING NATIONAL PARKS

Along about the opening of the World war special emphasis was laid upon seeing America first. It was a time for calling attention to our many attractions and the desirability of getting acquainted with them instead of thinking it necessary to go to Europe to see something which might or might not equal them.

Along about that time, or in 1916, there was a reorganization effected whereby the national parks service was established in the department of the interior. Prior to that time there were 14 national parks and 18 national monuments, but with the additions which have been since then there are now 19 national parks and 32 national monuments with the prospect that four other parks will be added soon in accordance with action already taken.

What the effect of the "See America First" movement has had, along with a general awakening to the beauties of such places, is furnished by the contrast in records kept of the number of visitors. There was a total of 356,097 visitors in 1916 while the figures thus far this year indicate that there will be a total of over 2,300,000 who have visited the national parks.

With accommodations provided for visitors in the way of hotels and camps and provision made for guides and transportation facilities there is an eagerness on the part of a greater number of people to see their own country, while the automobile and the improved roads have made it possible for tourists to reach these places with greater ease and freedom.

With the number of visitors increased seven times in a period of ten years there is evidence of the interest in the natural attractions the country affords. What the annual record of visitors will show ten years hence no one would dare predict, but it is apparent that satisfaction has followed the advice about looking over this country before visiting Europe and it will be a long time before those anxious to see have all had the satisfaction of viewing the beauties of the national parks right here at home.

DEPARTMENTAL REORGANIZATION

Departmental reorganization at Washington has not been abandoned, although it is said that the president believes that there will be slight chance in the coming session of congress to get any action on it. That means that it faces a prolongation of its stay on the shelf and that those who are in favor of such a change as the reorganization bill calls for are not in sufficient numbers to push it through.

Reorganization of departments has long been needed. Surveys have shown that there is duplication of effort and much greater expense than is needed. It has been disclosed that inefficiency in handling government business is encouraged by the continuance of present practices, but bringing about a change is no easy task.

In the matter of this reorganization the situation is not so different as was the fight against free seeds and some other long established customs in which congress has become entangled. It was only by persistently pounding away at the free seed wastage that it was finally stopped, and yet no congressman feels that he has been irreparably injured by such action.

With government departments deserving radical shakeups and the placing of their activities on a business basis the fight for reorganization must be continued until results are obtained. The mere existence of the present unbusinesslike arrangement in numerous instances should provide sufficient reason for the improvements that are called for. The need has been set forth and the plan for getting desired results set forth. Such being the case the responsibility for doing nothing and tolerating the undesirable must rest entirely upon congress.

IN SOUTHERN CHINA

Difficulties between the factions in China have been creating an undesirable situation in that country for a long time. It has been going on until it arouses little interest outside until something happens to directly concern other nations, like the seizure of foreigners or the attacking of other nationals.

It could not be expected that the clash at Wanhsien, where British vessels were seized and the death of several British subjects resulted, would be covered up or overlooked. That was evidence of direct defiance of the British by the red forces of southern China.

Just what action will be taken by the British in addition to sending the armored cruiser Hawkins to Hankow has not been announced. The British are well in touch with the situation, they understand that the reds are responsible and will undoubtedly act accordingly. But regardless of that there is bound to be concern for the future since two merchantmen were seized by the reds, a half dozen officers detained and attacks made upon British gunboats which left no question as to the attitude of the attacking Chinese.

The stuation has reached its present condition in China because the Peking government cannot exercise its authority. Not being able to control the rebels they are disposed to do about all they can that will make it embarrassing for Peking regardless of the effect it has upon those under attack.

British action will not be overlooked, but some time may elapse before the adjustment a finally completed. Temporary measures will be followed by diplomatic action. Just such affairs have proved to be the turning points in similar civil struggles.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

"When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Boy Scouts will take me up." This, of course, is a parody on Psalm 27: 10, and yet it finds only too frequent fulfillment in modern life. The author of this expression is unknown to me, but whoever it is, he sizes up a situation that is true to life. When we see the utter indifference on the part of some parents in giving adequate training to their boys, and, on the other hand, how much splendid work is done by the Boy Scouts, we can imagine some boys saying this very thing. It is well, however, to remember that no organization can ever take the place of a real home in the important work of child training. The Boy Scouts is a splendid organization and may supplement the training of the home, but it can never be a substitution for it. When Sir Baden-Powell brought this organization into existence he meant it to be auxiliary to the home training. It can never be more than that.

Of all the problems a person is called upon to solve, the one most difficult of solution is himself. Every honest person can fervently say "amen" to one sentence found in one of Dwight L. Moody's sermons: "I have had more trouble with myself than with any other man I ever met." This is doubtless a very common, if not a universal, experience. We cannot go very far in any direction in this world, or engage in any kind of pursuit without, sooner or later, bumping up against ourselves. Whatever is our thinking is decidedly muddy, whatever in our speaking is trembling and hesitant, whatever in our doing deviates from a straight line, is all due to the unfortunate fact that we are all tangled up with ourselves. This is not largely due to influence from the objective world but to the little world of ourselves. This may come from the fact that we have too much unseasoned lumber in our heads, and too little love in our hearts.

Foodick in his Twelve Tests of Character says, "Democracy is not all clear gain. For one thing, its method of reaching decisions by voting creates the impression that the majority is right." Is there not a great deal of truth in the statement? For instance, take a matter about which a community is divided nearly equally, possibly making it an ordinance by a majority of one vote. Take if you please the more serious matter of buying enough votes to pass a certain measure. We know perfectly well that ward politicians know pretty well how the voting stands shortly before the voting closes. If the side they champion is lacking in enough votes to carry it they hustle about the community and secure enough votes to gain their point. Is there any question as to how they do it? Does the majority stand necessarily for righteousness? There was a time—and it is not wholly abolished—when people truckled to autocracy. In these days do we ever truckle to majorities?

Work is the putting forth of energy for the purpose of accomplishing definite results. The main difference between work and play is in the end sought. We play because it gives us pleasurable exercise such as both mind and body require. It is not for the purpose of bringing forth fruit that has a money value. The man who digs a ditch labors, so also does the man who plays golf, but there is a difference. The end in view with the golfer is the pleasure he gets in the bodily exercise. The man who digs a ditch is not thinking about the bodily strength he is getting but rather the wages that will support himself and family. It is this latter that we call work, and it is the most important and necessary in the world order. It always has been and it always will be.

The above paragraph was written on Labor day, a day that is universally recognized and more or less worthily observed throughout the country. It is worthy of all the careful attention that the people are likely to give to it. Our whole economic order rests upon the labor of the people, and times are good when the people as a whole find employment; they are bad when there is widespread unemployment, when the soup kitchen is in evidence. The explanation of the gloom that exists in England and the cheerfulness in the United States at present is due to the fact that in the former country there is vast unemployment, and otherwise in this country. I say this in full knowledge that with us there are large and important industries that are very slack, but taking the country by and large we are in a prosperous state. Apart from our great cities where there is always a class that must be more or less helped by charity our people find employment.

Every thoughtful person must be impressed with the antiquity of toil. Whether one accepts the literal explanation of the Bible as to the formation of the earth and the coming of man, or the scientific hypothesis, he will find that the difference is more one of process than of fact. The Bible begins its explanation with these words, "In the beginning God". You will also notice that the fundamental position of science is the same. Both statements begin with the words, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." To my mind it was perfectly reasonable to suppose that God should allow the physical laws which he had established to work out their own problem. But what I could emphasize is that it was work whether God did it directly or through the efficiency of secondary causes.

It is evident that God intended man to cooperate with nature in advancing the world order. As soon as man came into existence he realized that there were some things that he must do. He found that he must breathe if he was to live, and that he must breathe himself—nobody could do it for him. He also learned that he had an appetite for food, and that he must get food and eat it; that he must put forth some effort to get it. He soon discovered that his hands and whole muscular system responded to toil and that toil made him stronger. The first man Adam, was told to subdue the earth, and even in that day it must have been some job. We are told more explicitly just what his two sons had to do: "And Abel was a keeper of sheep and Cain was a tiller of the ground." That is what the second generation had to do, and, as a matter of fact, men have been keeping flocks and tilling the ground ever since. It is clear that work came with man and it will last as long as man does.

This workshop in which man toils is a mammoth concern with an infinite variety of departments. There is a place in this workshop for all of us, and with comparatively few exceptions we are all in it. It may be that all are not there from choice, but necessity makes the people of the world for the most part companions in toil. Why is it that we should ever think of limiting the human workshop to the manual laborers exclusively? Does not the man who writes a sonata, composes a poem, sings in opera, plays a musical instrument, delivers an oration, teaches Latin, pleads in court, edits a newspaper,—with all such and many others like them expend as much vital energy as the man who shovels coal or tends a loom. Many a college man would like to get the wages of bricklayers and plumbers. Let us rejoice that we can all dignify this workshop.

WAYS THAT ARE DIFFERENT IN PARIS

Americans recently have been reminded on high authority that they will find many things that are different in Paris, and that it is the part of courtesy as well as common sense, to accept the Parisian ways of doing things when one is in Paris.

"There is no doubt about the difference in many customs," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Sometimes the Parisian way seems most welcome, at other times it seems strange, but in either event, one has not far to look to find there is a reason back of every custom.

A Novel Meal Check Device

"At times the Parisian seems to have outdone his American friends in efficiency. For example there in the billing device of some of the larger sidewalk cafes. Each plate and cup bears a price mark, 50 centimes, one franc, and so forth, and the refreshments are served in containers bearing the proper cost mark. If a second cup of chocolate is ordered, the empty cup will be set to one side, and another cup bearing the price mark served.

"When the customer is ready to pay he does not have to depend on the memory of the waiter, or scan a bill of fare, nor does the waiter have to juggle with checks. The addition of the empty containers is obviously the amount of his bill.

"In contrast is the rather cumbersome method of booking a seat in a Paris theater. In some theaters, at least, one must first purchase the right to sit in a certain part of the house, the orchestra, balcony, or a box. This coupon then must be taken to another desk to have a seat assigned. Even if one buys a designated seat, this exchange always is necessary.

Finding a Theater Seat

"The patron next turns to a head usher, who leads him to the program seller, and after he has purchased a program, a custom which also prevails in English theaters, he encounters the peculiar Parisian practice of having an usher charge to show him to a seat. And there is little hope of his finding his own seat because seats are identified only by numbers, not by rows which are lettered, and then numbered by rows.

"The American, impatient at his circuitous progress to his seat, and having reached into his pocket three or four times so far, is apt to become annoyed and conclude he is being overcharged. This often is his feeling even when he was buying a seat which at an exchange rate of about 3 cents for the franc, cost him less than $1., even adding in the price of program, the price of being shown to his seat, and the 50 centimes collected if he went to a lavatory between the acts.

Theater Prices Very Low

"This price is for the best orchestra seat in the best theaters in Paris, when comparable locations would have cost him $4 or $5 in any New York theater, even without the speculators' tax which he would have to pay there for popular shows.

"And the Parisians have reasons for each of the charges; for there is not one, but there are several taxes, levied on theater seats and these vary with the locations in the house.

"Several features of the best Parisian theaters, however, must appeal to even the casual visitor. One is the large amount of standing room provided for and sold at a low price, so that anyone who is alone wishes to remain only an hour, or is skeptical about the merits of a show, may go in for a short time, and go on his way without having expended the full price of a seat. Another feature which adds to the enjoyment of Paris theater attendance is the large promonade and refreshments rooms which permit a stroll between acts and make it possible to sit down at a table and enjoy a beverage or a smoke, or to walk about and do some 'window shopping' at the many displays and exhibitions which merchants have contracted for in these super-lobbies. The length of intermission, of course, is much longer than those in American theatres, frequently being from 20 to 30 minutes.

The Search For Soap

"Another difficulty which the visitor in Paris might as well make up his mind to accept is that his hotel room, no matter what the price, nor how elegantly it may be furnished and provided with every other comfort, is not going to have any soap. One explanation of this lack may be in the fact that all toilet articles are expensive, being heavily taxed; a more plausible one, in view or the fact that good Paris hotels stop at no expense or pains for their guests' comfort, is that the Parisian regards the soap he uses much as we do a toothbrush, as a peculiarly personal and individual thing, not to be provided by someone else.

"Ice is scarce in Paris, as it is in England. In neither London nor Paris is the climate such that cold drinks are necessary to comfort; anyway the Europeans may be right in their belief that chilled drinks impede the processes of digestion. Many American doctors concur and nobody will argue with the French about gastronomic topics.

"It is almost unnecessary to inquire, 'Where is a good place to eat in Paris?' One can hardly go wrong if he visits a Paris cafe, serving Parisians, and having the earmarks of a reasonably good establishment. Here again the Parisian habit, which prevails all over Europe, of allocating small charges which we simply sum up in 'overhead' may give rise to misunderstanding. At the price of the frane in recent months one may eat, in any French hotel or cafe, which is not one of the few places especially designated to cater to 'foreigners,' a bountiful meal, prepared by the world's best chefs, at a price which seems ridiculously low. At French cafes which are world-famous for their cuisine it is hard for one to spend more than the equivalent of a dollar for a meal. Yet the charges on the bill, included in that amount, for cover, service and even for napkin being unexpected, look large in the visitor's mind.

"The extreme thrift of the French is nowhere better illustrated than in some of the smaller cafes where regular patrons file their napkins in a sort of rack, suggestive of the rows of shaving mugs in old-time barber shops, and pay once a week for the laundry of that bit of linen.

"On a street car in Paris one pays only for the distance he wishes to ride. This is done by zoning the routes, and requires considerable bookkeeping on the part of the conductor, and also obliges the passenger to keep his receipt to be shown on demand, if he remains on the car to another zone.

Where Taxi Troubles Arise

"Few visitors patronize street cars; the taxis are too convenient and too cheap. The tariffs are ridiculously low. Here again, however, arise misunderstandings because, after 11 o'clock at night taxi drivers can put down their white metal flag (which ordinarily means that the taxi is empty and is required to accept any fare at the regular tariff) and may charge double fare. Unfortunately the meters do not register the excess fare, the driver usually cannot speak enough English to explain the reason for asking twice as much as the meter indicates, and there ensue frequent arguments.

"No one can be in Paris long without being impressed by the courtesy of the policemen; Americans, however, may fail to note, or noting the fact they may rebel at the custom, which is to touch one's hat to a policeman when asking him a question. Now the Frenchman, who is one of the most liberty-loving and independent persons in the world, sees nothing demeaning in that practice. And anyone who does it receives a salute and a 'bow' in return which more than atones for his pains.

"A visitor in Paris cannot help wondering what would happen if the policemen, public officials, shop keepers, and many pedestrians on the downtown streets of any American city were some month suddenly to be accosted all day long by foreigners who either addressed them in a strange tongue or bombarded them with questions in lame efforts to speak their own language. But that is what occurs in all the boulevards and principal streets of Paris during the heavy tourist seasons; and the courtesy with which the Parisian, official or layman, tries to understand and, understanding, the trouble he takes to give information or directions, is one of the finest evidences of his innate courtesy."

FISH ABLE TO CHANGE INTO DIFFERENT COLORS

The common killifish of the Atlantic coast is a chameleon among fishes, able to change his color to red, yellow or blue, as well as the neutral shades of the ocean bottom. Dr. C. J. Connelly of the Catholic university of America, in an exhaustive study of the pigment cells or the scales of these fishes, has conducted a series of experiments which demonstrate some surprising facts about their color sensitivity.

Sunday Morning Talk

SERVICE

Paul also was able to say, though in a modified sense, and without including his earlier years, "I have finished my course," any many another since his day has lived the life that enabled him at the end of life to repeat Paul's tribute to the power of divine grace as manifested in his or her life; but no one except Jesus was ever able to present to God a perfected life. The world needs at the present time more than all else some more like Paul, others with more of the Christ spirit, putting Christ first in everything, instead of so much of self life which with some is first and last. One John Wesley, one Moody, what a monument of good one man erected whose life was given to the right cause. John Wesley was not looking for the riches of this world or the pleasures, but to help a sin-sick world in the only way it could be done to lead them "to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, who today enters upon his 70th year, is one of the foremost Catholic educators in America. For seventeen years he has been rector of the Catholic university of America and during the same period, save for a brief interval, he has held the presidency of the Catholic Educational association. Bishop Shahan is a native of Manchester, N. H., and received his education at Montreal college and at the American college in Rome. For five years after his ordination he was connected with the diocese of Hartford, Conn. In 1891 he was called to the Catholic university as professor of church history and patrology, which position he occupied until appointed rector of the institution in 1909. In 1914 he was consecrated bishop of Germanicopolis in the Baltimore cathedral by Cardinal Gibbons.

A New Way of Fishing

It always seems to me that wishing is rather more than half of fishing.
—Reddy Fox.

I suspect that Reddy is right about that. However, Reddy isn't much of a fisherman. There are some fishermen who do very little wishing. Billy Mink, for instance. Little Joe Otter is another. So is Barker the Seal at the seashore. When they want fish, they just go get them. They don't waste any time wishing.

Reddy Fox, Jimmy Skunk and Graywing the Gull watched the queer creature swimming in the water just a little ways from where they were. Presently he stopped swimming and lay quietly on the sand. He was so nearly the color of the sand that, had they not seen him stop right there they very likely would not have seen him at all. It was Graywing's sharp eyes that discovered a little school of small fish swimming that way.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Jimmy Skunk

"Watch now, and see what will happen," said he.

The little fish came darting along through the water until they were directly over that queer thing on the sand. Then one of those long arms shot up and touched one of those little fish. Struggle as it would, that little fish couldn't get away. Another arm came up and fastened to it, and another; then they drew it down to the beak-like mouth, and a piece was bitten out of the back of the neck.

"Well, I never" exclaimed Jimmy Skunk. "Why couldn't that fish get away? What made it stick to that arm that first touched it?"

"Suckers," replied Graywing. "Little suckers. Those arms, or feet, or whatever you want to call them, are covered with little suckers on the underside. Once they touch anything, they certainly do get hold of it. That little fish didn't have a chance in the world."

"I guess it is a good thing that things isn't any bigger than it is," said Jimmy Skunk.

"Well," replied Graywing, "there are some so big that if it ever wrapped one of those arms around you, you wouldn't have a chance in the world. But none of those big ones live around here. Why, if one of them should get hold of you, it could pull you into the water just as easily as that fellow down there caught that fish.

Reddy stared down into the water. "I don't like the looks of him," said he. "I don't like those wriggly arms. And I don't like the way he stares. And I don't like the way he swims backward instead of swimming forward like an honest person."

At that Graywing laughed right out when he saw how Reddy was looking at the fish. "What difference does that make to you, Reddy?" he cried.

"It doesn't make any difference, but I don't like it just the same," replied Reddy. "And I don't like the looks of him, because he doesn't look as if he had any bones or any shell."

"Well, he has," replied Graywing. "He has a sort of shell inside, instead of outside."

"If it's inside, it must be bone," exclaimed Reddy.

"There's no must about it," retorted Graywing. "It isn't bone; it is a sort of shell. He doesn't look it, but he belongs to the mollusks. You know, the clams and the shells and the scallops and the oysters are all mollusks. So that fellow down there is related to them in a way."

"Huh! He doesn't look it," exclaimed Reddy, staring down into the water.

Little Talks on Thrift

PRACTICAL VALUE OF THRIFT

Official reports show that never before in the history of the country has there been such a vast amount of building in the suburban districts of our cities as has been the case this summer.

This is an evidence of the practical value of thrift. For a very large percentage of the present suburban construction represents individual home ownership. Instead of being huddled together in uncomfortable, unwholesome and often unsanitary quarters in the cities, people more and more are saving their money and getting homes of their own in the semi-rural sections.

While it is not possible to tell how many millions of dollars will have been absorbed by new home-owning projects this year, it can be said that more Americans are now owning homes of their own than ever before.

Good roads and the automobile have enabled people to gratify their desire to enjoy better standards of living—to live amidst the beauties and comforts or a semi-rural existence where they may have their own gardens and flowers and ample room for rightful recreation and pleasure.

As the result of this great movement thousands of Americans are becoming home owners today who would never have taken this step otherwise.

It is a fortunate circumstance that this great movement—this migration to the suburbs, which is bringing with it such a tremendous amount of home ownership—has been started. It has a general stabilizing effect, the value of which is beyond calculation.

PEERING OVER YOUR GLASSES

indicates a head of bifocal lenses—perfect far and near vision in the same pair of glasses.

Many bifocal lenses have a division line in the lens, which is not only disfiguring and annoying to the wearer but also conveys to most people the idea of advancing age. Our invisible bifocal lenses do not have this division line and to the casual observer are indistinguishable from an ordinary lens, but they enable you to read or see distant objects perfectly.

Come in and let us show you these lenses and explain their advantages.

"THE GREEN HAT" GIVEN FOR ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE

A gripping presentation of "The Green Hat", the dramatic romance by Michael Arlen, was given Friday evening at the Broadway theatre before a well filled house that was enthusiastic in its applause for the original New York cast from the Broadhurst theatre. Filled with love and passion and a frank discussion of sex problems, but lightened with telling shafts of humor, the play was splendidly presented, Dorothy Overend portraying the difficult role of the heroine Iris March, with complete satisfaction to her audience who gave her numerous curtain calls. Terrence Neil as Napier Harpenden, her lover, was well cast and Geraldine Browning gave an apealing portrayal in the role of Venice Pollen. Two of the characterizations that were given with outstanding merit were by Courteney Travers as Gerald March, the devoted but dissolute brother of the heroine, and by Boyd Davis as Hilary Townsend, man of the world.

Complete stage settings contributed to the success of the whole for the four acts which were staged as follows:

Act I—Summer 1913. The sitting room of a suite in the Hotel Vendome, Cannes.

Act II—Ten years later. Napier Harpenden's flat in Mayfair, London.

Act III—Nearly one year later. A convent nursing home on the outskirts of Paris.

Act IV—Four months later. The library of Sutton Marie, Sir Maurice Harpenden's country house, not far from London.

The coming of "The Green Hat" was promising indication for the programme attractions which the Broadway has for its season this year.

RIVAL TAFTVILLE TEAMS MEET IN ANNUAL SERIES TODAY AND SUNDAY

War has been declared by the rival teams in the village of Taftville and this week end will see one of the toughest battles of the baseball year, the Taftville A. A., rival claim of the upper village being determined to subdue the J. B. Martin claim of the lower village. These two camps have produced many good ball players and both have records this season hard to beat. Rivalry has always been keen between the Taftvillites and the invasions of today (Saturday) and Sunday are destined to bring the forces of the rival teams into action.

Both teams have announced in no small terms that they have the better ball team of the two. No arbitration board could ever settle the baseball argument advanced by the teams for neither would give an ounce of credit to the other. The only manner of settling the argument is in battle and the series which starts today at Taftville and continues on Sunday at the Velvetmen's field is the only possible method of settling the argument for all time, meaning 1926.

Taftville has argued that the Velvetmen haven't a chance in the series and that the Taftville A. A. will cop the series before the Jackson Park west has hit them. On the other hand the Velvetmen claim that they have secrets manufactured a year ago with a purpose in view and that purpose, size and shape to carry the Taftville A. A. into to carry home the bacon.

For the Saturday fray the Velvetmen have placed the burden of battle on Lamoreux or Pepin, two star pitchers, backed up by J. Murphy and they state that the Northend contender will have to strengthen his team considerably if he wants to save a defeat on his home grounds on Providence street. Taftville A. A. has taken a decisive edge in the first meeting of the rival teams and has lined up the heaviest pitching artillery including Buckland and Lees with the latter on the backstop end.

For the opening game today (Saturday) at the Providence street grounds, Taftville will present the following team: Lees, c; Pepin, p; Lamoreux, p; J. Murphy, 1b; Lanning, 2b; Bristol, ss; Krause, lf; Buckland, cf; Eccleston, rf; Fisher, rf; Berg, p.

For the Sunday afternoon game, the second game of the series, at the J. B. Martin field, Manager Cecil Nye of the Velvetmen has lined up a team of strictly J. B. Martin players with the exception of one pitcher. This will be taken care of by Lamoreux of the New Departure club of Bristol or the past three seasons. The remainder of the team for the contest will be J. Murphy, c; J. Murphy, 1b; T. Murphy, 2b; P. Gilbert, ss; J. Bellies, 3b; J. Gilbert, lf; Grasso, cf; W. Gravel, rf; Lamoreux, p, with be Pepin, Lamoreux, Judkins or Smith.

Taftville for the second contest will present the same lineup as on Saturday's opener, the pitching to be handled by Fisher, Buckland or Eccleston, the manager not having decided as to who will be the battery mate of Fisher on the mound. Henry McGee of the Hale and Ambler Boy on bases. Sunday at the J. B. Martin field, Smoor at the helm with Roy on base. Both games are scheduled for 3:15 p.m., standard time.

CINCINNATI STILL HOLDS LEAD OVER PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Cincinnati retained its three point lead over Pittsburgh for second in the National league pennant race by holding the Pirates to an even break in a doubleheader today. The champions, behind the steady twirling of Ray Kremer, captured the opener five to two, and the Reds turned the tables by the same score in the night-cap. Both clubs, however, gained ground on the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals whose defeat at the hands of Boston today left them two and one-half games ahead of the Reds and three in front of the Corsairs.

The first game was a pitcher's battle between Kremer and Ezra Rixey until the Reds' star left hander collapsed in the eighth. Pittsburgh then bunched four hits with two errors to register three runs.

The pitching of Red Lucas was the outstanding feature of the closing contest, the champions gathering only four hits off him, while the Reds were pounding Morrison at opportune moments.

The Reds knocked Morrison out of the box in the seventh when they scored their last two runs. He was followed by Yde, Aldridge and Songer.

The Stegemeier Cafeteria 2:12 trot went to Barney Oldfield, when he took the first two heats, placing second in the third. Twinkling Bells won the $1,000 Chamber of Commerce purse for 2:05 pacers and Mel Rea took the 3-year old trot in straight heats.

GLENNA COLLETT WINS THE ADIRONDACK TITLE

UPPER SARANAC, N. Y., Sept. 10—(AP)—Glenna Collett, of Providence, national champion, won the Adirondack women's golf championship today by defeating Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, 3 and 1. The champion gained the title after waging a courageous uphill struggle over the Saranac Inn course.

Miss Collett clinched the match at the sixteenth by driving the green, 180 yards, and scoring a three. The match broke the tie between the two in the qualifying round, Miss Collett scoring 94 to 96 Mrs. Hurd's 94.

AMERICA'S DAVIS CUP DEFENDERS AGAIN REPULSE THE FOREIGN ATTACK

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10—(AP)—For the seventh consecutive year and the tenth time in the history of Davis cup competition, America has established her world's supremacy at tennis.

The defense of the historic trophy was settled today as decisively as it was begun when the American doubles combination of Richard N. Williams and Vincent Richards smashed their way to triumph over France's pair, Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet in a sparkling three-set tussle, decided by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

This was America's third straight victroy over France, whose bright hopes as the survivor of 24 original national challengers, have been blasted for the second year in a row. Coupled with the convincing triumphs of "Big Bill" Tilden over Jean Borotra and "Little Bill" Johnston over Rene LaCoste yesterday, today's decision gave America the three points necessary to settle the challenge round series on the courts of the Germantown cricket club.

Although their outcome cannot accept the team result, the final two scheduled singles matches will be played tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2.30 p. m., with Johnston opposing Borotra and Tilden meeting LaCoste.

Plucky as was France's fight to stave off defeat today it came to naught against the superior team-play tactics and volleying of the American combination. Cochet and Brugnon, attacking with sparkling dash, gained leads of 4-2 in each of the first two sets but their defense crumbled each time as the Americans, with Williams leading the charge, unleashed attack that overwhelmed all opposition.

The last set saw the Yankee offensive at its high water mark and the Frenchmen were brushed aside quickly, except for a brief spurt in the seventh game which they won on Brugnon's service after being three times within a point of defeat.

Such brief advantages as the Frenchmen enjoyed, however were due more to lapses of their opponents than to any sustained effectiveness in their own attack. Richards particularly was erratic. He lost his own service twice in the first set and it was only Williams' magnificent sharp shooting that pulled the Yankee pair through. The American captain, his racquet flashing brightest in nearly every rally, also dominated the last two sets although Richards rallied at times to volley with his greatest skill.

In a exhibition doubles match, Tilden and Manuel Alonso, the Spanish star, defeated Ed Chandler of California, the intercollegiate champion and Alfred H. Chanin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., 4-6, 6-3.

BALTUSROL HAZARDS PROVE HARD FOR PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—The struggle for the national amateur golf crown next week at Baltusrol will be waged in the sand.

The famous course in the foothills of the Orange mountains stretches out 13,000 square yards of traps to catch the wandering shots of the 152 players who will tee up Monday in the first half of the 36-hole qualification test.

If the New Jersey lay-out places a premium on accuracy, it also demands powerful hitting. Only the longest of drivers will be able to survive, for the links have been lengthened to 6,750 yards, with thirteen holes of more than 350 yards each. The fourth hole, a mashie pitch of 126 yards, is over water.

The field which will tackle Baltusrol's problem next week offers a variety of opposition for the two time titleholder, Bobby Jones. An international complexion has been given the event by the entry of two well known British players, Eustace P. Storey, former Cambridge university captain, and Major C. E. Ormerod.

Story has given indication of being a serious threat. In his practice rounds yesterday and today the English player post 73s, the best cards turned in thus far.

Jones and Gunn payed around together today, but both frequently resigned to Baltusrol's hazards, picking up their balls on several holes.

The banner of youth will be carried by larger entry than was on hand at Oakmont last year, and the names of eight former champions appear on the entry list.

EXTRA BASE HITS WIN FOR YANKS IN EXHIBITION

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 10.—(AP)—A barrage of extra base clouts in the eighth and ninth innings which netted seven runs today enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders of the International league, by 8 to 2 in an exhibition game.

DEMPSEY VERY WILD IN TRIES AT LONG RANGE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10—(AP)—Jack Dempsey weighing close to 200 pounds, resumed training today after a three-day's lay-off.

The world's heavyweight champion, after breezing through four rounds of boxing, gave the impression to expert observers, that he will need plenty of hard work within the next ten days for his intensive training to put him on edge for the defense of his title against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia, September 23. He appeared to be slow and boxing clumsily as a result of his idleness.

Dempsey concentrate dhis attack to body punching, but when he attempted deliveries to the head at long range, his punches were so wild they caused astonishment from close observers. The title-holder paid no attention to defense. He was hit hard and often, but apparently was willing to take a punch so he could reach his objective of driving blows to the body at close quarters.

Doc Bagley, Tunney's first manager, and who is credited with the early development of the challenger, believes Dempsey will be certain winner, and that the bout will likely be so one-sided it will not be much of a contest.

"If Tunney lasts three rounds I'll be the most surprised man in the world," Bagley said, after the workout. "Dempsey looks good. Of course, he is a little slow after loafing for three days, but another week should put him on edge. He convinced me today that he can take a good punch. Tate hit him flush on the chin and Dempsey took it, without batting an eye. Dempsey will tear Tunney to pieces with shots to the body."

Benny Leonard, retired world's lightweight champion, said Dempsey looked marvelously strong and was hitting hard, but asserted the champion needed considerable more hard work to get into fighting shape.

TWENTY-SEVEN HOME RUN MADE LAST WEEK

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Home runs were few and far between in the American league last week, the four base drives being only ten in the American league's official figures while the National league's heavy hitters deposited seventeen of the pellets outside park fences.

Babe Ruth added until Friday to register a four-ply swat that brought his American league total to 41, more than twice the number of his closest pursuer.

Hack Wilson, the Chicago outfielder, got one yesterday and kept his runner-up leadership with twenty.

In their drive for the National league pennant Bell and Hornsby of St. Louis accounted for five of the senior organization's homers.

The records of hitters whose totals require double figures:

American league: Ruth, New York 41; Simmons, Philadelphia 20; Webb, Detroit 19; Gehrig, New York 17; Combs, Washington 16; Meusel, New York 12; Hauser, Detroit 10.

National league: Wilson, Chicago 20; Bell, St. Louis 17; Hornsby, St. Louis 16; Southworth, St. Louis 11; Williams, Philadelphia; Fournier, Brooklyn; Kelly, New York and Hornsby, St. Louis 11; Heathcote, Chicago.

Fireproof Straw House

A new fireproof building material consists of a recent French invention, as described in Popular Science Monthly. It is made of straw and is said to be cheap, light, durable and fireproof.

The straws are pressed into large panels of four feet by 6 feet wide and 4 inches thick, bound together lengthwise with wires 6 inches apart. The material has been found excellent for side walls, ceilings, all partitions and makes a fine surface for plaster and stucco.

The Hymns of Long Ago

They tell us, every little while,
These men who claim to know,
The good old hymns are out of style;
Ah, well, it may be so!
And yet somehow my heart will cling
To those old hymns they used to sing—
"He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Thought,"
"This Is the Way I Long Have Sought"
And "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me,"
Or, "Depth of Mercy, Can It Be?"
It may be newer songs will please
The critic's careful ears,
But let me have old songs like these,
All hallowed o'er with years.

They tell us that the proper hymn
To meet the modern need
Should have a lot more style and vim,
With ample "punch" and "speed."
But, oh, the hymns they used to sing—
What tender memories they bring!
"On Jordan's Stormy Banks I Stand,"
"Refuge," "There Is a Happy Land,"
"Just as I Am Without One Plea,"
The evensong, "Abide With Me."
They may be crude and simple airs;
I don't pretend to know,
But how they charmed away our cares
Those hymns of long ago!

Live and Let Live

Live and let live, 'tis the great law of nature,
Man to his fellow should ever be kind—
He whose high bounty protects every creature,
Taught us to practice this precept refined.
Wide is the world and though various in station
Each to his neighbor good wishes may give.
We all belong to humanity's nation,
Nature's great law is, to live and let live.

Live and let live, 'tis the law of our being,
The rich and the poor on each other depend—
All are equal before the All seeing,
Each on his turn stands in need of a friend.
Be not a foe in distress like a brother;
Oft is a sweet to forget and forgive—
Love all that's lovely, be kind to each other;
Nature's best law is, to live and let live.

September "Again"

Who says it's "again"? This is new!
This equinox wind never blew.
This yellow drouth-haze
Through the sunshiny days,
This distance beginning to blue—
None of this ever has happend before;
God has no holdover stock in His store!

"Again!" Why this morning's the first
Of its nature that ever has burst
On a summer-tired earth;
It has just had its birth—
It had never been even rehearsed!
Moons aren't returning again and again
To gladden the eyes and the spirits of men.

God breaks up the mold, when He's made
A day full of shine and of shade;
Plans new each tomorrow,
And never needs borrow
From patterns He once had displayed.
So draw on your wisdom and please to remember
It isn't "again," though 'tis surely September.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

PAL'S DAUGHTER: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

RECIPES FROM MAJESTIC

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: What funny weather we have been having: first it is hot then it is cool.

Bloody Louise: Where are you? Write just a line to the folks in R. I need.

Kitty Lou: How are you? Enjoy reading your letters.

Well sisters the summer is almost over and fall will soon be here. I am sending a few recipes, also a poem.

Breakfast Muffins: One and one-half cups of flour, 3-4 teaspoon of salt, 2 egg yolks, 1-2 cup or sugar, 1 tablespoon of melted shortening, 1-2 teaspoon of soda, 1 tablespoon of hot water, 1 cup thick sour milk and cream, 2 egg whites whipped stiff. Combine as usual, adding the soda dissolved in hot water with the sour milk, and fold in the stiffly beaten white at the last. Pour into hot greased gem pans and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Huckleberry Pudding: The necessary ingredients are 2 cups flour, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sour milk, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, 1-4 teaspoon mixed spice, 1 heaped cup of chopped huckleberries. Mix as for gingerbread. Spices may be cinnamon, clomes, cloves or ginger. Pour in greased mold. Steam 1 to 2 hours. Serve with sauce.

Spice Drop Cakes: One egg, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup sour milk, 1-2 cup melted shortening, 4 cups pastry flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon of baking powder 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon powdered ginger, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon powdered cloves. Combine in order given, after sifting flour twice with dry ingredients. The batter should be stiff enough to drop from greased baking sheets by heaping teaspoons. Bake in moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Sour Cream Biscuits: Two cups of flour, 1 teaspoon of salt, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon of soda, 1 cup of sour cream. Combine as for any biscuit, adding enough cream to make a soft dough. Bake in hot oven from 12 to 15 minutes.

Best wishes to the Social Corner sisters and editor.

AMONG THE TOBACCO FIELDS

Dear Social Corner Members: I haven't written for some time and I guess it's about time I started. I miss the letters too, as I don't get the paper what am here where I'm having my vacation.

I had never seen a tobacco field until I came up here but the moment I saw them I knew what it was tobacco. It grows about three or four feet high and is a difficult thing to raise. Some is grown under netting or cheesecloth and some is not. It is very interesting to know about it. I am having a very pleasant vacation and hope that all the Cornerites have had a very pleasant one also.

I shall give space for better letters and will try to write something better myself next time.

HELPS, REQUESTS AND SUGGESTIONS

Dear Editor and Members: Am writing to thank the editor for prize. It was an agreeable surprise to me. What shall I buy with it, you ask? Bless you! It is already in the funds of the Connecticut Humane society, Hartford. I wish we could have the names of every Social Corner member on the roll of the Humane society.

Regret we could not attend Twice Twenty's picnic on account of the rain.

To prolong the usefulness of your silk stockings purchase hose feet that come in black or white at less than 10 cents per pair. The white one can be dipped in any color dye to match your silk stockings. Place the new foot inside your silk one and sew neatly onto the cotton one. It acts as a lining and if one-half size smaller than the silk hose, will take most of the wear.

To clean fall garments sponge with denatured alcohol: wrap the garment in a sheet for 5 hours then hang on the line to air; later press with medium hot iron.

For tired, aching feet pour two quarts, boiling water over three cups of bran and three heaping tablespoons soda. Add cold water until right temperature to soak the feet and limbs. To toughen the feet soak every night in strong alum water. Dry and apply vaseline.

Ann Tenna's letter on "cats" was a masterpiece, to those who "read between the lines." Am sure we all admired the useful house cat. It is the "biped cat," we detest.

Will some one send in a poem called Be Kind? The first verse starts. Be kind to your father and continues to tell the reason why. Second verse begins, Be kind to your mother, with reasons why. Other verses begin with, Be kind to brother, sister and friend. This poem was in favor 70 years ago.

Kitty Lou's purse-pin-disk makes a fine place to put our Social Corner pins when not in use.

Has apy one some "Australian bees" (a kind or yeast) for making a healthful, temperate drink? I would like to obtain a few.

Geraldine: Could not think who you were, until you had vanished.

Balsam Fir: Have a heart and call to take a pair of pigeons home with you.

Now, Eve, don't be a slacker. Write us a letter about "dear old Hingland," and send in some good poems.

Hope Club 2 and 5 will arrange to meet on different dates this winter, so members can visit each club.

Best wishes to all,

A VISIT WITH BALSAM FIR

Dear Social Corner Friends: Autumn is at hand, and almost every one is home, back on their old jobs, but with many interesting thoughts to think of.

I must tell you of my visit with Balsam Fir of Dry Mills, Me., and those who have not met her in person have missed a great pleasure. Last week while she was this way visiting her children, I was invited to visit her and spend the afternoon. The day was appointed and it proved to be a misty one but, never the less, old Elizabeth was got into action and away I started for Hunter avenue in Taftville and I found the brown house, with a beautiful lawn well cut, and a charming landscape garden of flowers, which was the work of and greatly admired by Balsam Fir's son-in-law, who I soon found out to be one of my friends when I was in my teens. It was more then a quarter of a century since I had seen him. Well the afternoon and evening were pleasantly enjoyed by us all for Balsam Fir, proved every entertaining, telling us of her trip to New Haven, and the interesting places she visited while in that city. Balsam Fir, had her voice with her and during the evening her alto voice echoed on hill and dale, while your humble servant accompanied her at the piano.

I will assure you I was more than well paid for my trip there and back; I found her daughter very pleasing to meet and I asked Mrs. G. why she did not write for the Corner and she replied maybe I do, for she knows so many of the writers, and if she does what's her pen name? I shall not forget my visit to Taftville, no never.

Joan: You dear soul. I have learned who you are at last and am in hopes of getting more acquainted with you. They tell me your son does a line of art craft that I am quite interested in.

I suppose Ma of Greene Gables and Cappie are, like myself just now, busy preserving all the good things they can for winter. I am getting almost finished in that line.

Rosy Posy: So you are some one I once knew years ago when you once lived in a village called Glasco, Conn. I learn you are well and are living up the line, in a village that begins with a W. I am afraid I am using too much space and will ring off. Best wishes to all.

ANASTASIA SEEKS HELP

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: It's a long time since I wrote to the Corner but I have not lost interest in it. I read the letters when I have time if not till Monday or Tuesday.

Now I am coming for help. There are so many who read the Corner that I am most sure of getting an answer. Sisters, have made jam and jelly and my wax gets loose. I had it in the cellar and some one told me maybe the dampness of the cellar would do it. So I took them up and took the wax off, melted it and waxed them over again and put them up-stairs in a spare room and they are loose again. I will be more than glad if some one can tell me the trouble as I'd hate to lose all I've got made. It is made with Certo. There are so many helpful hints in the Corner for us housekeepers that haven't been at it quite so long. I sure would be lost without my paper on Saturday at least.

Crimson Rambler: I haven't seen a letter from you in a long time. Hope you are well. Some time I'll find time to write to you. I sure meant to write to you long ago and tell you that I would have been glad to have what you offered in your last letter but I never got to it.

Sister Ready: I always read your letters. Although I don't really know you I feel as if I did. I have heard a relative of yours speak of you so often. Can you tell me where your Aunt Joe is now, and is she just on a visit? Were you at the funeral of an aunt lately, you know who I mean? When I first found out who you were your woodbox was much talked about in the Corner.

Well here's hoping to hear from some of the sisters.

With best wishes to all members.

CLUB NO. 5 STARTS SECOND YEAR

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Sept. 1st with its bright sunshine and invigorating breezes, was Club No. 5's anniversary day. As it members returned to their old social barracks, Buckingham hall, it seemed like getting home. Ducky was hostess and with many co-workers, the work was carried forward with much ease. At noon we gathered around the well spread board of a Social Corner table; very forcibly it came to mind of the pleasant hours spent here in the past year in sociability. Just entering upon the new year we are looking forward to many more enjoyable times in the future. Before partaking of the dinner it was announced that ladies attending the Social Corner and who stay to dinner and who do not bring food or fruit of any kind shall pay 25 cents for their dinner and for those who contribute to the dinner the price shall be the same as in the past.

At our first meeting many quarters dropped into the cup. After the dinner hour was over, by a unanimous vote, Alta was placed in office again as secretary and treasurer for the ensuing year.

The afternoon program was then taken up by our inspiring entertainment committee, Calamity Jane, and a well rendered program was given. At its close, the dainty little Miss Grace Austin, four years old, from Mystic stepped forward and in a very charming manner danced the Charleston to the delight of all. We all hope she will come again.

Before closing I would like to add a few lines about the growth of the Social Corner Club No. 5. In the year 1925, Sept. 2nd a company of Social Corner ladies met at Buckingham hall. The day was hot and sultry with every indication of a thunder shower but happy to say the black clouds rolled away. The morning work was carried on as usual. At noon a very appetizing dinner was served. The afternoon program was very good; at its close open discussion took place to the advisability of forming a new club with a secretary and treasurer. A unanimous vote elected Alta to that position; under new management new rules were adopted and the efficient leader worked for the interest of the club and there are many faithful workers in the club with willing hands that cater to our pleasures or a day. In a short time chatty letters of No. 5's appenred in the Social Corner column. The increasing membership of the past year has been exceedingly gratifying. In closing we thank God for a happy and prosperous year of 1925. Long live the Corner.

GUSTA. (Club No. 5)

OLD RUBBER RINGS

Dear Sisters: One thing I think is worth knowing that the rubber rings that you would throw away can be melted and used in mending different utensils. They also make an excellent mat tied together with string or cord for the sink or flower pots. Pieces cut from old hot water bottles and glued on the bottom of chair legs saves the hardwood floors. When rubbers are worn at the heel, cut off the heel and half the sole and use them for sandals.

A hot water bottle makes excellent mats. Prick the edges; also they are nice to place under flower pots. Cut rubber heels and soles out of an old hot water bottle.

Save all your old castors; they are good to put on a wood-box or on a home-made baby pen, made from an old dry goods box padded with cretonne inside and a thick rug in the bottom.

The old flat sticks from the bottom of window shades are such a help. Fasten them to the wall with 3-4-inch brads, sinking the brads a little below the surface of the wood. The sticks can be painted and are very useful over the sink. Put in hooks to hang up pans, etc.

Old broom handles I cover with flannel; they are fine to run under seams when you want to press. When you haven't much room put a broom handle up across the back of the closet about a foot from the wall. It will hold 15 coat hangers. Cut them from old barrel hoops, about 20 inches long. Save all pieces of broken china and glassware. Buy 10 cents worth of plaster of Paris (ground fine) five cents' worth of carpenters' glue, and two clean earthenware jars of odd shape. Rub the plaster of Paris on the jars, put on the broken china or glass, shellac them over and they look like mosaic work.

Jar tops from milk bottles make very nice pin balls for the purse or shopping bag. Cover two tops with thick cotton cloth, put pretty cretonne or silk on the outside, over-hand them together and fill with pins.

ENJOYED AUTO TRIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Well it is a long time since I have written to the Social Corner. I haven't forgotten the sisters although I am not personally acquainted with them but would love to go to the meetings. When I read all the nice times they all have at their picnics and nice things to eat, I know I would enjoy the eating part all right.

Well I must tell you about my trips to different beaches that I went to two weeks ago. It was on Sunday through the kindness of my brother who owns a machine. With him, his wife and son I started early after church and drove to Watch Hill, had a fine dinner with another party and then at 4 o'clock we started for Atlantic beach, then to Weekapaug then back home again. Very tired, but did enjoy myself? Well I certainly did. It was a great day and I have another brother who lives in Norwich and meets us there with his wife and mother-in-law and son, and if I am not mistaken a Social Corner sister by the name of Julie. She hasn't written lately. She was too busy to write but all her children go to school now so I hope she will find pen and ink and write and tell us all about her trips that she took this summer.

I would love to have a pin if there are any more.

I see where Balsam Fir is visiting around here. I used to know her when a little girl going to school.

Will close with love to all.

UKELELE LADY.

WAYSIDE MIXED PICKLE

Dear Social Corner Friends: Have just returned from Club No. 4's picnic. It was certainly a social one with a fine dinner, ever if it did rain. Was requested to send in this pickle recipe.

Wayside Mixed Pickle: 2 qts. green tomatoes, 1 large ripe cucumber, 2 qts. ripe tomatoes, 1 large ripe cucumber, 2 bunches celery, 3 green peppers, 3 large onions, 1 small cabbage. Chop celery and cabbage and dice the rest, cover with 1-2 cup salt and let stand over night. In morning drain off all liquid. Add 3 pints vinegar, 8 pounds brown sugar and 2 tablespoons of mustard. Cook for one hour or until tender and seal. Best wishes for all.

CLUB 4 TO MEET OCTOBER 7 AT EAST KILLINGLY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Club No. 4 will meet at the Union Baptist church in East Killingly, Thursday, Oct. 7th.

Our annual flower show will be held here on Sept. 18th, Saturday. Hope you can all come then, too, and bring some of your beautiful flowers or delicious canned goods for exhibition and we'll sample them too, without your permission.

Black Eyed Susie: Thank you, and all who have remembered the birthday. Wish I could be with you at Aunty No. 1's or dear Bumble Bee's but it is so near to many other things and we can't always do as we would. How often I think of an old pair of pillow shams my mother had on which were "worked".

"I slept and dreamt that life was beauty,"
"I woke and found that life was duty."

Our modern version reads,

"When duty and pleasure clash,"
Then I let duty go to smash."

Auntie Bee: I can hear you "humming" about the many tasks, and you know how to keep "sweet."

C. C. E.: Wish you all could come to E. K. on Oct. 7th. Sorry you are ill. My sympathy is with all the suffering ones.

Mohawk River: Would love to see you. Have not forgotten your kindness to me, while in hospital.

Twice Twenty: How we all enpoyed our day at your home. Rain cannot spoil a Social Corner day. Don't forget Oct. 7 and Sept. 18. We'll make plenty of salad.

Mrs. Dan: Where art thou? The lovely plant is growing, and beautiful. How are you much better now?

WHEN TO SAY, "NO"

Dear Corner Friends: The ability to say no is a real gift and one that saves much trouble.

One of the first lessons for the mother to learn is when to say "no," and, having once said it, to stick to it. What she regards as a trifle may seem like a mountain to a child. Use thought in the matter. Don't let temper, haste or bother be the guide.

She should be honest with her children, in small as well as in large things. If unable to tell them what they want to know, she should say so rather than to deceive them. If they entrust her with a secret, it should be respected, not repeated, because it is funny or cute.

But the big lesson is how to keep close to the children's hearts. She should go with them to plays and so make perfectly sure they are not getting into bad company.

It is precious memory in after years for children to look back on the good times they had with their parents on such little outings.

She should allow them to have opinions of their own and should listen to them with the same courtesy she would show an adult. Treat them as a companion whose opinions have weight. They may be little, but they soon learn to have worthwhile opinions under the kindly influence of a mother who respects their budding, if immature, judgment.

These lessons learned and practised faithfully make her children her glory and joy. I really think as much of amusing children as grown ups. Here are a few helps for children.

When a small boy is anxious for a pet of some kind why not get him a gold fish. An aquarium with plants, a few snails, tadpoles and two or three gold fish would prove very little care and would be amusing as well as instructive to your child. Get some fish food and teach the children how to feed them. Just a little at a time. They will become very much interested if they think you care.

IOLA'S SENTIMENTS ON CATS

Dear Sisters: I am glad to find in Pussy's Friend another friend of the much maligned cat. Although I know that Jennie and Kitty Lou and Ethelyn and several other sisters who have given us directions on caring for cats are cat lovers as well as myself. I don't belong to the lone sisterhood either, as Sister Ann Tenna seems to think cat lovers should, and I never can understand why one should call a cat treacherous. I never had one that wasn't friendly and lovable, and how many times when I have been sick, or troubled, have they come and looked up lovingly at me and cuddled up and purred as if trying to say, "I know something is wrong and I would like to help you if I could."

So many get them and then grow tired of them and go off and leave them to shift for themselves and find fault because they steal or catch a bird or a squirrel which is no worse than for hunters to kill them for pleasure. If a cat is always well fed and cared for it will very seldom steal and then others will say they should catch their living but they can't always find game if they go hunting any more than hunters always can and yet they must have something to eat. Yet they get abused if they help themselves and if one teases and bothers a cat long enough he will strike back the same as we should under like circumstances.

But after all I don't know of any more lovable animal than a cat. And kittens are such soft, pretty, playful things, I love to watch them. Of course we can't all be expected to have the same tastes in this world and it would be a curious sort of world if we did, and deadly flat and monotonous, but "them's my sentiments." Good wishes to all.

CLUB NO. 2 OPENS SEASON OCT. 6

Dear Cornerites: Just an inspiration to write a few lines to the Corner after a summer's rest, out of the Social Corner page. First I want to say to Club No. 2 that I have attended to the duty you entrusted to me to obtain the Odd Fellows hall for our meeting beginning the first Wednesday in October which is Oct. 6. Bring plate, cup, fork, knife and spoon and food for the table. Scottie is hostess for October and thanks to my other Social Corner sisters November and December hostesses are already. So, E. L. M., I am in easy luck for balance of the year regarding hostesses. We hope to have as good an attendance as last year and let's do like the Shore Line club, each bring one or more new members to join and set Club No. 2. 'Get busy or that club will be the banner club for size in membership.

Well, Hope, we surely had a surprise when Balsam Fir visited us in our homes. I surely spent a pleasant afternoon with her at my home. It was a surprise birthday for you. Hope there are lots more in store for you.

Chocolate. With you moving away and our Cady moved to California, we will feel the loss but trust you being near will step on the gas headed for Norwich each month.

With Aunty No. 1 and Bumble Bee having picnics the 15 and 16 of Sept. fun good for two days running. We think nothing of going three days running to the county fair and it's lots more pleasure at a Social Corner picnic, so if the dates stay the same we'll be to both and make both hostesses happy.

Chauffeur: It was a pleasant party at the Lettingwell church Social Corner picnic. I enjoyed it, didn't you?

Mayfair: Get the table cloths to I. O. O. F. hall on time. Give to the man in charge and he will take care of them for us until Oct. 6.

Remember everybody, fall meetings begin for Club No. 2 Oct. 6, 1926 in Odd Fellows hall, Main street, near post office. Come, any club member and find who wants to join is welcome. Remember the food and dishes for each and all to bring.

Best wishes.

THE LAST QUARTER

Dear Social Corner Friends: As we begin another school year it is necessary to plan our work for the year so as to make the greatest possible improvement over former years' accomplishments.

We have specialized on teacher training; and on improved school buildings and equipment; and increased the number of the subjects taught in school and introduced the school nurse and school mothers and visiting teachers; so about those three things we need not worry any more, but in the fourth department, the benefit to the child we yet have to organize and establish the system and bring it into general use everywhere.

With compulsory school attendance and with school nurses and school mothers and visiting teachers to see that every child has the right attention from the beginning there is no longer any excuse for children being allowed to grow up undeveloped physically or mentally or socially.

The subjects as now taught in school seem perfect and impossible of improvement, but the proportion of the child's time needs to be entirely changed. It is entirely wrong to try to have the beginners do the same work in the same way and the same time.

There should not be any such system of study and promotion until at least the sixth grade is reached.

Each young child should work in his own natural way, some are very slow and thorough, some very quick and not so accurate, some learn slowly and require a long time to study even a short lesson, but once learned it is always known, some learn quickly without much study and forget as quickly and have to look it up again. It is right and best that we have people of all the different mental abilities suited to the different kinds of work.

The school should help to develop the variety of gifts instead of trying to run them all into one mold. The great work is to see that each child gets full benefit, developed in every quality of mind and body. Primitive conditions of living in which brute strength was the greatest need is past and our need now is for people capable or adapting themselves to the changing needs of present conditions of living, safe and useful citizens.

Wild animal human beings are still much to numerous as the criminal reports in any newspaper will prove.

"Every child a cultured child," is our slogan from now on. There is no reason why human development should not advance as rapidly as mechanical development. Every child has to be started individually to do by himself because he knows that is the best way to do it and understands the reasons why it is the best way. Untaught mothers do not know how, so there is where the local school nurse or school mother or visiting teacher must put in her work.

THINGS FOR THE CHILDREN

Dear Sisters and Readers of the Corner: I think you need all the advice you can get for clothes savings during creeping age.

Young mothers, here is a good way to use men's woolen stockings badly worn at toes and heels. Cut the feet off one pair. Open the seam and sew pieces together, leaving a place for arms and neck, which makes a warm, slip on for baby. Take another pair, cut, sew the same as the first pair, gather the top, make a tassel of yarn on top and it makes a nice stocking cap. Use the feet to make mittens. This makes a nice knitted set, and the expense very little.

Mrs. H.: This is a good way to amuse a little boy or girl. Take a piece of white cloth, trace some kind of a bird or flower on it, thread an embroidery needle with silkateen and teach her the simple stitch. She will be very anxious to work it.

Little boys like to write with a pencil so give them a piece of paper and a little book with an alphabet and let them copy the letters. After many days they are able to say them by memory.

The same thing can be done with their name: write it on a piece of paper and let them copy it.

Here is some good fun for the children on a windy day: Take a piece of string and tie a sheet of newspaper on it. The children from two to four years of age will think it great fun to see the paper blow. It serves the same purpose as an expensive kite and the children think just as much of it.

No stocking will stand the wear of baby's creeping. Make kneecaps from the top of worn out long kid gloves. Cut out a square of the kid glove large enough to cover the knee, sew pieces of elastic on one side long enough to reach around the leg under the knee and fasten them to correspond on the other side. These can be slipped over the knee and pulled up to protect the stocking.

Here is an excellent cough medicine for baby or little children: One ounce of syrup or squills, one ounce of syrup of tolu at the drug store and add two ounces of honey. Shake it well and give baby some two or three times a day. A one year baby I would give 1-2 teaspoon.

KITTY LOU.

DATE CAKE AND FILLED COOKIES

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Still the nice interesting letters keep pouring in with descriptions of the pleasant vacation trips. As I have quite a large correspondence I did not think I would write for the Corner this time but met one of the Corner sisters on the street this week and promised her a recipe for date cake. So, Dahlia, here is my recipe for Best Ever Date Cake: 1 cup chopped dates, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg, pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cup flour, 1-2 cup nut meats.

First, sprinkle the soda over the dates and pour the boiling water over them, and let stand until cold and then add to the other ingredients. Bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes.

Filled Cookies: 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup milk, 3 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Filling: 1 cup chopped raisins, 3-4 cups of cold water, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 large spoon flour. Boil until it thickens, and let cool, then cut cookies thin, put filling in center or one, and salt one and place on the top. Bake in a quick oven. They make a nice lunch with a cup of tea.

Greetings to all. Best wishes to all shut ins and sympathy to all in sorrow and trouble of any kind. Ever and always,

ECLIPSE.

STARTING SOCIAL CORNER COOK BOOK

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am home from a summer vacation and ready to do work on the Social Corner cook book that I started when some one suggested the idea in their Social Corner letter, some time ago, that we start a Social Corner cook book. I worked at it now and then ever since and hope there are others likewise employed.

First I bought a thick pad 8 by 5 and nearly two inches thick made up of very thin paper as I decided to go into it all the Social Corner recipes I would want in it. I copy only the best simple recipes after I have tried them and find them wonderfully good and reliable and at short notice ready for the table, because I like them best. To the recipe that I copy I attach the name of the donor and the date.

The rest of the Social Corner page, with its economic help, its motto and poetry and social welfare is kept as food for though and good cheer.

Best wishes for our Social Corner and spoed to the Social Corner cook book.

Hope I will find today on this page a recipe for apple pie made without an upper crust. I have seen pies finished with flavored and sweetened whipped white of egg but never on apple pie nor tried it myself. Maybe not a possible way of baking an apple pie.

Please may I change my name to

COLLEEN M.

GREETINGS FROM RURAL DELIVERY

Social Corner Friends: The summer is fast fading away and the Social Corner picnics will soon have to be postponed until another season. There have been many good gatherings by the different clubs of the Corner during the past summer which have been of much comfort and profit to the great family of the Social Corner. While many have been away from home on vacations the writers have done well to keep the Corner page full of interesting letters. The Social Corner is one of the best features of The Bulletin and many subscriptions are secured and copies sold to make sure of the Saturday paper for which the editor is pleased; also the writers.

Kitty Lou: Please accept our thanks for the pin ball received several days ago. I find it very handy and useful many times.

Balsam Fir: I was sorry I could not see you while you were visiting friends in Norwich but my plans all failed to make the trip. The fall term of school has begun and the little ones will be missed from home also the larger ones who will be teaching among strangers far from home. I will not take any more space as there are hundreds with pen in hand to add their mite to the Corner page. With best wishes to all from,

RURAL DELIVERY.

ANTICIPATING OCTOBER MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How I wish I might commence this with a remark about the beautiful weather but alas it is raining pitchforks, tines down. I am under cover and dry, but feel sorry for those that had planned to attend the fairs. Have not received Saturday's Bulletin as yet and feel that something is lacking. I do enjoy the sisters letters so much.

Lucille Drew: Hope you had a most enjoyable birthday the 5th and may there be many more.

Dorothy Bradford: Did you reach home safely from grange meeting? My "fall suit" is laid away in moth balls for future reference.

Lady Lou: Was glad to see you and Mr. Lou. Come again.

Am looking forward to the October meeting of the Social Corner Club No. 6. Will watch the paper for the time, the place and the girl. Such good times, and the sisters are all so cordial it seems like a family party. Shall be glad to meet the new members.

Your evergreen sister,

NANCY PECK.

GREETINGS FROM MILKY WAY

Dear Editor and Sisters: Please accept my thanks for the yellow slip I received. Am sure I didn't either expect or deserve it and was very much surprised to get it. I had the pleasure of meeting with Club No. 5 in Norwich last Wednesday and enjoyed both the dinner and entertainment.

Bee: Although I don't know you, I think when you get the can of Babbits potash that you will need for your soap you will find the recipe on it, and add two tablespoons of ammonia and half cup or borax. I have had very good success rooting roses by taking new shoots, putting them in glass bottles of water and leaving in the sun. Then when the roots start put in dirt.

American Girl: We sure are the winners. I don't often see you, only just a glimpse now and then. You are always in a hurry.

Dorothy Bradford: Won't you send in the recipe for nut bread that you make and is so good?

B. Natural: Did you find your silver spoon? I hope you did.

Hoping to meet you all at our next meeting if not before I will stop writing now.

MILKY WAY.

HARD SOAP RECIPE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Have not written for about three months I guess so thought I would send in a soap recipe I make often.

Bee: They are coming slowly, the young ones I mean. The father died Sunday afternoon. That makes two this summer I have lost. Garden has repaid me. I think if you will bend rose bush down to dirt and put a stone on to hold it down it will root that way. Just try and see if it doesn't.

Hard Soap: Melt and strain five pounds grease, dissolve 1 can of potash in one quart cold water, stir until all dissolved with a stick. It gets quite hot. I use a granite kettle in sink. Strain warm grease in dish pan of granite also set in sink. Dissolve three tablespoons of sugar in hot water and add to lye. Stir well. Add one cup of ammonia, or 1 cup kerosene oil to lye, then pour lye into warm grease, stirring all together. It will be like honey. Wet a dripping pan in cold water, stir soap good and pour in dripping pan. Let stand until set, then cut in bars. Can be put in box or on shelf in two days.

TAFTS.

GOOD RECIPES

Dear Corner Members: Here are a few more recipes for the pages of your cook book:

Mocha Gems—1-4 cup shortening, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 1-4 cups pastry flour, 1-4 cup cocoa, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk or water, and 1 teaspoon essence of coffee. Cream together sugar and shortening; add egg and beat well. Sift in a little of the flour, then add part of the liquid and continue adding dry and liquid ingredients until the desired amounts have been used, sifting baking powder and cocoa and salt with the last half cup of flour. Add flavoring. Bake in gem pans at 375 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Or in a moderate oven.

Mocha Frosting and Filling—1 1-2 cups confectioner's sugar, 3 tablespoons hot strong coffee, 2 teaspoons cocoa and 2 tablespoons butter. Cream the butter, add cocoa, some of the hot coffee and beat. Add sugar, remainder of coffee and beat well. You can cut the gems in halves and spread, then frost the top with the same.

Mock Angel Cake: Three level teaspoons baking powder, 1 level cup sugar, 1 cup hot sweet milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites. Sift baking powder, flour, sugar and salt five times. Heat milk, pour it over flour mixture slowly, stirring carefully until smooth; add vanilla and fold in egg whites stiffly beaten.

Cabbage Omelet: One cup chopped boiled cabbage, 2 well beaten eggs, 1 1-2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon cream, salt and pepper to taste. Heat the cabbage in the cream; add seasoning and the eggs well beaten. Pour into a warm omelet pan containing butter, and cook until a delicate brown on the bottom. Set in the oven long enough to cook the top. Fold and turn out onto a hot platter. Please try and report to GUESS WHO.

CAKE AND SOAP RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Members: I would like you to try these recipes and see if you like them.

A Perfect Chocolate Cake: 3 tablespoons cocoa, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 1-4 cup flour 1 cup sugar. Sift all together into a bowl and add 2 well beaten eggs and 1 cup sweet or sour cream. Bake in a moderate oven.

Hard Soap: 5 pounds grease 1 can Babbit's lye dissolved in three pints of cold water. Pour the lye on grease when grease is blood warm and stir all the time. When melting together add 1-2 cup ammonia, 1-2 pound borax and 2 tablespoons of sugar and scent with anything you choose. Stir till thick so it will just drop from spoon. Pour into dripping pan and mark off before it gets cold.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

FLOATING WHITE SOAP

Dear Cornerites: To the sister who wishes to know how to make soap. Shellac will help to make your paint stick but I would prefer preparing the paint so it wouldn't peel.

Yes, I will be pleased to send you the recipe for soap which I have used.

Floating White Soap: Five pounds of grease strained and warmed. Dissolve 1 can of lye 1 tablespoon borax, 1 cup ammonia in 3 cups cold water. Stir with a stick. When cool pour slowly into warm grease, stirring constantly for ten minutes. It will be like honey. Pour into dripping pan and set to cool. Cut in bars, dissolve and set to dry. It is a hard white soap and I never knew it not to float. I did not use quite so much ammonia and added 1 teaspoon of sugar to make a free lather. Which I had it made it looked so nice and white I thought I would make some more, so doubled the recipe.

IMOGENE GRAEF.

GOING SLOW AND GETTING WELL

Dear Social Corner Folks: It is a long time since I wrote to the Corner but I have been sick all summer. Was in the hospital part of May and June and have not got so I can do my work yet. Did get pretty good, but overdid and had to go to bed again. Now am trying to go slow and get well again.

Social Corner Club No. 4: Thank you much for the box you sent me from the meeting at Twice Twenty's. It is a comfort to know others are thinking of you when in trouble.

Ino: Thank you for the card you sent when I was at the Day-Kimball. I learned while there how much the cards mean to one.

Bee—I have moved rose bushes, not ramblers, by sending a new growth branch down, put a stone on it to hold it there, cover with dirt.

I was glad to see a letter from Ma of Greene Gables, too!

ROBERTA.

ANTICIPATING OTHER MEETINGS

Dear Social Corner Members: Since attending a Social Corner meeting of the Shore Line club I read the letters of the Corner sisters with added interest and am looking forward to B. Natural, with the new members in Mystic, having another meeting here in the coming months. Am told it was the members living in Stonington who started the club and for one I thank them for doing it. It is a pleasure to be a member of such a friendly organization where all greet each other so kindly.

DENNY.

RECEIVED ON BIRTHDAY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Desire to thank you for the page clock which I found in my rural mail box when I returned home at night from a most delightful trip to Willimantic on my birthday Sept. 1st. This is a dark rainy lonesome Sunday, but I find it a great pleasure to write to the Social Corner on such as this.

ANN TENNA.

NOT TO MEET TILL OCTOBER

Dear Social Corner Members: There will be no September meeting of the Shore Line club as several of our members will be yodeling at the North Stonington grange fair that week. We shall hope to have a large attendance at our October meeting the place or meeting to be announced later.

BUMBLE BEE POSTPONES PICNIC

Social Corner Editor and Members: Inasmuch as Aunty No. 1 is to have her picnic the 15th, the day before the date fixed for mine, and with so many other things going on next week I think it best to postpone the picnic at my home until some later date which I will announce in due time.

BUMBLE BEE.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Druggist proves a friend in need

Kalispell, Mont., March 1:—"Two years ago my face was an awful sight. The skin broke out with pimples and blackheads and itched all the time. I washed it frequently and applied various salves, but they helped little. One day I asked a druggist for a good cure for my case, and that night I took home a small jar of Resinol Ointment. Every morning and night I washed my face and applied the ointment, rubbing it in good. After a few treatments I noticed the pimples were starting to decrease and in two or three weeks they were practically gone. I was so well pleased with the results that I now keep Resinol on hand and recommend it whenever I can." (Signed) Elkin E. Berry, 1028 Third Ave. West.

Chief Frank Brown testified to the speed trap or 1320 feet beginning at the Wells Filling station and ending at the Palmer street intersection of the state highway, in which a speed of 40 miles per hour was recorded. PEACE ADVOCATES CONTINUE CONFERENCES

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 10—The two societies, Fellowship of Reconciliation and the Fellowship of Youth for Peace, opened their annual conference Thursday afternoon at the Plimpton hotel, Watch Hill. Friday began the second day of the conference when among the active participants were Rev. Paul Jones of New York, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation and formerly Bishop of the Episcopal church in Utah; Prof. Seishi Idei of Waseda university, Tokio, Japan; Henry R. Mussey, professor of economics at Wellesley college; Roger N. Baldwin of New York, director of the American civil liberties union; Mrs. Maud Richards of Elizabeth, N. J., who has long been active in various types of peace work; Wilbur K. Thomas, secretary of the American Friends' Service committee, Philadelphia; Anne L. Vernon of Providence, secretary of the social service commission of the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island; Anne P. Dingman, a librarian of Cleveland, O.; Rev. Paul G. Macy, pastor of the Washington Congregational church of Cleveland; Mary I. Hussey, a professor at Mount Holyoke college; Eleanor D. Brannon of New York, secretary of the Women's International league for peace and freedom, and Devere Allen of New York, editor of The World Tomorrow.

John Nevin Sayre, Episcopal minister of New York speaking on "Militarism in the United States," denounced the growing tendency to build bigger guns, strengthen the air fleet, invent new death-dealing devices and otherwise advance the cause of militarism. He lamented the fact that without a dissenting voice the last congress passed the aircraft bill, appropriating $85,000,000 for the navy's air fleet and $150,000,000 for the air branch of the army.

"Race Conflict" was the subject of Miss Crystal Byrd, a former Y. W. C. A. secretary for colored girls in Boston. Miss Byrd, who is herself of mixed blood, made a plea for inter-racial harmony and a better understanding between whites and negroes.

Another speaker was Norman Thomas, candidate for governor of New York on the socialist ticket last year. Mr. Thomas is a director of the league for industrial democracy and one of the contributing editors on the staff of the nation. "Industrial Strife" was his topic. He urged mutual understanding and harmony in industry, as opposed to force.

The conference holds sessions at the Plimpton hotel (Color) Saturday and concludes its work Sunday.

The death of John B. Morris, for many years a resident of Potter Hill occurred at his home, 1 Lincoln ave. Thursday following three weeks illness.

Mr. Morris was a native of Potter Hill but early in Potter Hill's history was employed by the mills there. He had not worked for the past few years. He was the husband of the late Ellen Morris and is survived by one child, his daughter, Miss Nellie Morris of Potter Hill.

Friday afternoon about 12:30 a fleet of automobiles with Providence Tall Colors, headed by Grand Tall Cedar Harry A. Sanderson of Providence, passed through Westerly, coming by way of Noose Neck Hill, and headed for the fifth anniversary of the New London Tall Colors. Rollin Rathbun went fishing for smelts and got 25—the season's first catch. He was at the railroad bridge. Thirty gallons of chemicals was used before the blaze was put out.

Breed Theater

Elinor Glyn now supervising her own productions for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer — perhaps the world's greatest authority on love and marriage — and a famous author as well. Her latest story brought to the screen is an original called The One Thing, which is coming to the Breed theater on Sunday. Jack Conway directed this newest offering and Conrad Nagel and Eleanor Boardman are featured in the cast.

Madame Glyn believes that truth is the greatest of all attributes in a man. Though she believes that a woman has not the right to demand more than two things in the man she is going to marry, she does give the following as figuring importantly in the make-up of an ideal man:

He must have the pluck not to lie.

He must have the courage to keep his own personality and not allow the woman to submerge it in hers.

He must be courteous.

He must be innately refined.

He must be more intelligent than the woman.

He must always be the master.

He must have sympathy of thought.

He must never flinch from duty.

He must never show a strain of weakness of any sort.

And he must tell you in words that he loves you.

Miss Glyn immortalizes her perfect male in The Only Thing. He is the acme of everything that a girl should expect to find in a man.

Broadway Theater

It is doubtful if any more gratifying announcement could come from the Broadway theater than the one conveying the information that the popular star, William Hodge, will appear here on Wednesday, Sept. 15, for one night in his latest comedy, The Judge's Husband.

The play, which has had long runs in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago and comes here prior to the New York engagement, is said to sparkle with wit and laughable situations but beneath the surface there is a story with a human quality that reaches across the footlights to touch a responsive chord in every husband and wife, in every mother and father and all who hold dear the American home as an institution.

Mr. Hodge will be seen in a keen-witted, lovable character, Joe Kirby, whose wife aspires to high honors in local and state politics. She is elected to judgeship. Her duties engross her and she becomes involved in the machinations of unscrupulous politicians. Joe finds his home at sixes and sevens, his daughter neglected and himself accused of infidelity. The climax of the action takes place in a court when Joe appears before his wife, the judge, in her action against him for divorce.

Gladys Hanson plays the judge and others in the excellent cast are Ruth Lyons, Jessie Crommette, Dorothy Walters, Marie Haynes, Francesca Hill, Charles F. McCarthy, Alexander Clarke, Jr., Richard Gordon and Irene Blare. This is the same cast that will open at the Maxine Elliott theater on September 27.

Box office will be open today from 10 till 10 for the reserved seat sale.

Broadway Theatre

For the first time in the history of motion pictures, so far as is known, the character created by a great novelist may be seen in the flesh, just as she was when her personality inspired Gene Stratton-Porter to write her into a novel. Or rather, she may be seen on the screen—not in the flesh. For Gene Stratton Monroe, eleven year old grand-daughter of the famous author, is appearing in "The Keeper of the Bees" in the part which the late Mrs. Porter wrote around her—the "Little Scout." It was the boyish, tom-boy, lovable personality of little Miss Monroe which originally caused "The Keeper of the Bees" to be written and literally millions of readers who followed this fascinating tale in McCall's Magazine may now know just what the "Little Scout" looked like and compare her with the mental pictures they have drawn of her. "The Keeper of the Bees" comes to the Broadway theatre on Sunday for a three day run. It is brilliantly cast, directed by Leo Meehan with the distinction which characterized "The Girl of the Limberlost"; and more than adheres faithfully to the spirit and letter of the original story.

And the second feature on the double program for Sunday night is "The Tough Guy", an upheaval of mammoth thrills warmed by as sweet a love story as the screen has ever known!

Fred Thompson, stalwart idol of the films—the apostle of cleanliness in motion pictures—the pride of our boys and girls—comes again to thrill us with red-blooded drama of the open West! And what a show it is!

Imagine Fred as a tough guy—as tough as whale steak—and as hard-boiled as a picnic egg! And his conversion under the soul-warming influences of an orphan boy and a pretty school teacher!

And how you will cheer when Fred and Silver King race through the pitch-black tunnel and rescue the boy from death under the wheels of the engine!

Fred's here again, folks, and better than ever in this picture!

Strand Theatre

"The Tough Guy" at the Strand Sunday proves to be Fred Thomson; and those who know the history of this remarkable personality will be perhaps a trifle surprised to find him so very tough. But what the automobile experts call the "torque strain" of life as the foreman of the hard-boiled denizens at the Bar-O ranch accounts for that; and there are many other things accounted for in a most amusing and sensational manner. "The Tough Guy" is Mr. Thomson's best picture to date; —which is praise by the faceful! A splendid story is lighted with the most uproarious Thomson comedy, and Silver King has an even more prominent part than usual. Dave Kirkland directed the picture from the original by Frank M. Clifton. Lois Todd is splendid as June Hardy, and Robert McKim proves a worthy villain, while the work of little Billy Butt stamps him as one of the most sympathetic child actors of the screen.

Ravart Pictures has labeled "Broadway Billy," starring Billy Sullivan, a boxing comedy-drama and it is just that. In addition, it is entertaining from first to last, especially so to those who enjoy a good scrap in the ring. For "Broadway Billy" has for its climax one of the most spine-thrilling ring fights that has yet been brought to the screen. Young Sullivan, reputed to be a direct descendant of the famous J. L., certainly shows himself a beautifully scientific boxer. This is the second big feature at the Strand Sunday night only. A new comedy completes the bill.

Palace Theatre

Norwich people will have their last opportunity today to hear Guido Ciccolini famous tenor of the Chicago Opera company who closes his engagement here with performances this afternoon and evening. It is only on rare occasions that we have in Norwich an artist of such note. His magnificent voice has thrilled all who have been fortunate enough to hear him and his singing will be long remembered by th emusic lovers of this city. The picture program is also worthy of more than passing notice headed by Dorothy Gish in her charming production of "Nell Gwyn" and Gene Tunney in the first chapter of his serial success "The Fighting Marine" in which the challenger for the world's championship proves he can also make good as an actor. The Palace Topical Events bringing important news of the world and a corking comedy, Smith's Baby completes the program. The Palace Concert orchestra will be heard again in numbers that have won for them many compliments. Sunday, Gilda Gray in her elaborate production of "Aloma of the South Seas" begins a four day engagement. The dancing star is supported by Percy Marmont, Warner Baxter, Julanne Johnston and a host of favorites. The comedy is a riot of fun entitled "Bromo and Juliet" with Charlie Chase as laugh maker in chief. While the stage presentation is still a secret something new and novel is promised and fully up to the standard of those that have won much favorable comment from Palace patrons.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

A glowing love story, well acted is always an event. Such the The Green Hat. Michael Arlens brilliant dramatization of his best selling novel of the same name, to be seen at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, tonight.

This racy story of Iris March, the girl who couldn't control her emotions, has proven to be one of the most colorful of stage heroines.

The Green Hat is not baby food Rather it is a diet made for feeling men and women, made strong because it pulsates with all the ingredients which go to make up the very foundations of life.

Iris March, the last of the mad Marches, finds herself the butt of suspicion because her husband falls from a window while on his honeymoon. Iris becomes a notorious woman of humor—but she always retains her overwhelming love for Napier Harpenden, whom she loved before she married.

Almost on the eve of Napier marrying a beautiful society girl, Iris comes to his apartment after ten years' absence. She says she has come to claim her heritage and, after sweeping aside the barriers raised by loyalty to the woman Napier is to marry, Iris gives herself to her former lover. The consequences of that act form the ending of a most unusual play which deals with the raw materials of which life is made.

Mr. Knox Resumes Teaching

Benjamin M. Knox of Hartford, teacher of singing, will begin his sixth season of teaching in Norwich on Tuesday, Sept. 14th, and will be at Room 19, Alice building, 321 Main street, on that day, and on Tuesday of each week thereafter during the season. Mr. Knox will be glad to meet anyone interested in learning how to sing, and will give a frank expression of his opinion as whether or not it would seem wise for one to take up the study of voice culture. There will be no charge for voice trials.

POETRY

TRAVEL

Autumn brings the tourists home
From Paris, London, Munich, Rome,
Their trunks tight-packed with souvenirs
Of Venice, Budapest, Ahiers.

How worn they look! How sad and thin
From tramping Florence, Tours, Berlin!
But view the splendid hiking-muscles
Acquired in Pisa, Baden, Brussels!

Within three fleeting months they did
Vienna, Naples, Ostend, Madrid,
And their survey was no less thorough
Of Deauville, Prague and Edinburgh.

From Hamburg, Brest, Palermo, Cork,
They now sail homeward to New York,
Eager to get the first good look
At Queens, Nantucket, Sandy Hook,
And see their friends and parents line
Piers, 36, 46, 59!

With happy faces they entrain
For Georgia, Minnesota, Maine,
Resolving never to forsake
Grand Rapids, Council Bluffs, Salt Lake.

—Norman R. Jaffray, in Life.

Beyond the Wall

Bend down and slip beneath the pasture gate
(Thus close to earth we breathe the sunsweet grass.)
Up now and tread with happy feet elate
Daisies and buttercups, a blazing mass.
Until we reach the farmost shaded edge
Of the bright meadow, where great oak trees lift
Deep viridescent arms across a ledge
Of an old tumbling wall, and thore a rift
Served as a threshold to our land of dreams.
Thus clambering to the boulders' lichened top,
Then, sinking through la leafy sea, it seems
Out of the glare deep into shade we drop.
From sunlight and the round of busy hours
To cool, dim twilight and a word just ours.

—Caresse Crosby, in Graven Images.

Women have their hair shingled among the Australian aborigines in the region of Gregory sea, and it is a husband's prerogative to cut his wife's hair with sharpened stones. Such is the story of hairdressing in Austria, which Michael Terry, explorer, has brought back to London after a trip through little-known parts of northern Australia. Female hair is much prized by the aborigines, as it is used in weaving belts and making various sorts of ornaments.

This fish story hails from Sangerville, Me., and is a true story, the usual as it is, says the Boston Globe. While Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mithee were fishing on Lake Mathanmosk, Mr. Mithee got a large pickerel on his hook. Before he could land the fish it broke away. Then a most peculiar thing happened. In the fish's struggle to get away it fastened its teeth into its tail, forming a hoop of itself, and falling upon the water, could neither swim nor dive. Mr. Mithee reached from the boat and caught the fish with his hands.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the new Greeneville bridge across the Shetucket river was completed and opened for travel. The new bridge replaced the one washed away in the flood in the spring of that year. The same week a Hayes and Wheeler club was organized in Norwich and H. H. Osgood was elected as president of the new club. Interesting items taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of September 1876 are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 4, 1876—Much solicitude is felt lest Norwich be unprovided with high toned entertainments this winter. How would it do to open a subscription for a series of concerts by the Boston Philharmonics?

A large number of people will visit the centennial during this week and next. Nearly all the state rooms on both boats have been engaged to the sixteenth of the present month.

After a delay of months, the Rev. Dr. Walker, who was called to the Broadway church, has at length signified his inability to accept. Much regret and disappointment are accordingly felt, as the church was encouraged to believe that they would at length secure him.

Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1876—The Greeneville bridge was completed yesterday and is now open for travel. The western approach is to be further raised and improved. The work has been performed by the Cincinnati Bridge company, who erected the structure which was swept away by the flood last spring. The iron is largely that of the old bridge having been raised from the bed, where it was deposited by the current.

At a meeting of citizens, which was held at Grand Army hall last evening to organize a Hayes and Wheeler club, the Hon. Lucius Brown was chosen chairman and Charles E. Dyer secretary. A committee was appointed to report the form of the organization and did so as follows:

President, H. H. Osgood

Vice presidents, L. F. S. Foster, A. W. Prentice, John Mitchell, Henry Peale, James Gilmour, R. H. Pitcher, Edward Harland, E. Winslow Williams, Edward T. Harrington, V. O. Freeman, being two from each voting district.

Secretary, Charles E. Dyer.

Treasurer, Charles Webb.

Finance committee, James Lloyd Greene, E. S. Bishop, J. W. Carpenter, W. R. Austin and C. W. Filer.

The Ella brought home a lot of passengers from Block Island last night. The sea was rough and everybody was pretty well shaken up.

Wednesday, Sept. 6, 1876—The Sunday school connected with the Taftville Congregational church gave a centennial concert Sunday evening, Sept. 3rd. Everything passed off in a very pleasing manner. The children deserve great praise.

The colored citizens of Norwich organized a Hayes and Wheeler club last evening, numbering thirty-three to begin with. The following are the officers: Paul Brewer, captain; Luther Harris, first lieutenant; Zadoc Norris, second lieutenant.

The ladies of the Mohegan church hold their festival and fair today and tomorrow. Teams will be in readiness to transfer passengers from the train to the church and a bus also runs from the city.

Thursday, Sept. 7, 1876—Street Commissioner Cole is receiving the applications of all the workmen who desire work under the city at $1.25 per day and as soon as he can make proper arrangements for their employment, they will be put to work.

A force of 25 workmen are now employed upon the new Catholic church. The stone work of the two smaller towers will be completed in about a month. The large tower will not be erected this fall.

PIANKA GIRL TRUSTS $3,020 TO ZALESKI, WHO SKIPS OUT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 10—It was a sorry day for Miss Josephine Pianka, 27, of 91 Winthrop street, when she consented to marry John Zaleski, 37, of 175 Front street, Worcester, Mass., after having refused him, for Zaleski not only did not intend to marry the young woman, but he robbed her of her life's savings of $3,020 and then hastily left the city, the young woman awaiting his return at Zaleski's rooming house. The robbery took place last Tuesday, but not until this morning did Miss Pianka make complaint against Zaleski to the police.

Zaleski, a clever talking Polander, came to New London last week and he evidently had obtained knowledge of the fact that the girl had money in the savings bank of New London. After reaching New London he ascertained the address of the young woman and went to the Winthrop street house, but Miss Pianka was not there, being at the home of her cousin, Miss Mary Grobowski, East New London. Zaleski went to the home of Miss Grobowski and introduced himself. The young woman welcomed the stranger. Zaleski at once made known his purported mission, stating that he had been informed that Miss Pianka was desirous of marrying and that he was in the same mood and believed their marriage would be a happy one. Miss Pianka informed Zaleski that she was not anxious about marrying, but that did not deter Zaleski from following out his scheme to get possession of the money. Zaleski left the house, but called upon Miss Pianka daily, stating that he was stopping at a hotel and would be in New London two weeks. On one of his visits to Miss Pianka he displayed a passbook, issued by the First National bank of Webster, Mass., which purported to show that he had $3,500 on deposit there. This wealth apparently interested Miss Pianka for she consented to marry Zaleski. Last Tuesday Zaleski requested the woman to withdraw her money from the savings bank, that furniture and other necessities to enable them to start housekeeping might be purchased and within a few days he would go to Webster and withdraw his money. This Miss Pianka consented to do. The couple then went to the municipal building, where a license was issued to them. Then they went to the bank and withdrew the money. Miss Pianka accompanied Zaleski to a Tilley street house where he had a furnished room and where they discussed their marriage plans, after which Miss Pianka gave Zaleski the money. A few minutes later Zaleski stated that he desired to make a small purchase and that he would return shortly. Zaleski left the house with the woman anxiously awaiting his return, but he failed to reappear, leaving the city. Miss Pianka waited at the Tilley street house about two hours and when Zaleski failed to return she went to her home, but failed to complain to the police until today. During the day the police communicated with the bank at Webster where Zaleski claimed to have $3,500 on deposit and were informed that the only deposit standing in the name of Zaleski was $5. The entries indicating deposits in the passbook had been fraudulently made by Zaleski was part of his scheme to victimize Miss Pianka.

HOTEL NIGHT CLERK NODS— CANDLE STARTS A FIRE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 10—A slight fire occurred this morning at the Hotel Winthrop, State street, and an excited taxicab driver caused an alarm to be sent in and giving the fire department a needless run. During the night a fuse blew out, causing a part of the lights in the hotel to be extinguished. One section of the hotel affected was the office and Night Clerk Allen Beckwith used a candle to light the place. About 5 o'clock while the candle was burning on the desk, the clerk fell asleep in a chair. About the same time the candle toppled over and ignited a small quantity of paper. The blazing paper was observed by the taxicab driver, who rushed to the corner of State and North Bank streets and rang in an alarm from Box 23. In the meantime Sergeant Patrick Murphy had rushed into the hotel and hurled the burning paper from the building, so by the time that the firemen arrived the fire had been extinguished.

If Mike Shea had demonstrated to Judge Prince that he was deserving of leniency when he was presented in the police court Thursday as a drunk he would not now be confined in the county jail, to remain till he will realize that Thanksgiving is at hand. He was found drunk twice in 4 hours. Thursday he told a plausible story of being employed at Fishers Island where he had money saved up and where he had employment as soon as he should seek it. Instead of going back to the island, if he had ever been there, he filled up with booze and was scooped up when the police net was dragged, last night. He attempted to hand some improbable talk to the judge this morning, but the latter informed Michael that he was to spend the next 60 days in jail and that in addition he was to pay the costs of $10 of his arrest and trial. That will keep Michael sober during the next seventy days.

Curtis Brasier was fined $10 for operating an automobile through the streets as if he did not realize that other machines might at any moment come out upon the highway where he was speeding. Policeman Martin, who trailed Brassler, said the car was going at 35 miles an hour. The driver had no excuse to make.

Freemont Perkins, of Groton, was fined $10 for intoxication. He represented that he met a sailor and that the latter gave him some doped booze. He also imparted the information that he was relieved of a $10 bill during the short time he was with his new-found friends. Perkins has some money in the bank and was allowed to go to Groton to get his bank book to secure the funds to settle for his spree.

Carl Noren is to appear in the court next week Saturday to answer for the alleged reckless operation of an auto. He ran over a child on Main street some weeks ago when the little one left the sidewalk to cross the highway. Whether Noren was careless or whether the child was at fault will be determined when the case is heard.

The Hebrew holiday of Rosh Hashana, which has kept the stores of Jews closed the past two days, came to an end at sunset, and the dealers will be at business again as usual Saturday. This holiday is very generally observed among the Jewish people though there were a few exceptions and in these cases the non-observers were after the cash, as usual. Scores of business places were closed and the adherents to the faith of their fathers kept from labor of any sort.

Seldom has such a number of flowers covered a grave as those massed above the body of Fitch L. Comstock, in Jordan cemetery last evening. The grave was hidden by blooms that were conspicuous from the highway, because of their exceptional beauty and the variety of colors. Mr. Comstock was treasurer of the city many years and in that position made the acquaintance of a very large number of people who appreciated his courtesy, willingness and ability.

A bankman is authority for the statement that debtors find it more difficult than ever just now to secure endorsers for notes. Of course there is a reason for this condition of credits, and he believed it was to be found in the fact many who made notes did not keep their promise to take care of them.

The statement is made that there are a greater number of automobiles owned in New London than in any place in the state, in comparison to population.

REACTION IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Speculators for the decline succeeded in forcing a sharp reaction in today's stock market, but not until after "bull" pools had lifted about a score issues to new high records for the year. The decrease of over 60,000 tons in the August unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation and a cut in automobile prices by a large manufacturer provided the "excuses" for the selling movement, but the market previously had shown signs of going stale, due to the lack of public participation on a large scale.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported further improvement in many lines of industry, with retail business stimulated by the close of the vacation season and the opening of schools and colleges. Bank clearings this week were larger than the corresponding period a year ago, and commodity prices showed a stiffening tendency. Dun's price index for September showing the first advance in eight months.

Although steel mill operations are reported to have increased about 2 1-2 per cent during the past week, bringing them to around 86 per cent of capacity, and the decrease in unfilled tonnage was attributed to larger shipments rather than a falling off in new business, steel shares were in supply most of the day. U. S. Steel common closed 2 1-2 points lower at 148 and Bethlehem, Gulf States and Youngstown Sheet & Tube yielded a point or so. Colorado Fuel touched a new 1926 high at 48 3-4 and then dropped back to 47, up 1 1-4 on the day.

Railroad shares yielded with the industrials in the late selling although Chicago & Northwestern and Great Northern preferred had been bid up to new high prices for the year in early trading. Such recent favorites as Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central and Seaboard Air Line were depressed 2 points or so.

General Motors broke from an early high of 221 to 215 and then rallied fractionally for a net loss of 2 points on the day. Mack Trucks was weak throughout, breaking over 5 points to 117 1-8 and then rallying freely. Hudson, Yellow Cab and Willys Overland all lost ground, but Studebaker was well supported, closing a point higher at 59 1-4 after having touched 60 2-4.

Weakness of Continental Baking issues was based on rumors that earnings in the first half of the year were insufficient to meet dividend requirements which would have to be met, in part, out of surplus. Brooklyn Edison broke 5 points on the official denial of rumors that new interests were seeking control of the company. Oils were pressed for sale in large blocks despite an increase in Mirando Crude by the Humble Oil company.

Contrasting with the general heaviness was the renewed activity and strength of Warner Pictures A, which again soared over 7 points to a new record high at 67 1-2 and then slipped back to 64 1-4. Independent strength also was shown by Abitibi Power, American Ice, Burroughs Adding Machine, Case Threshing and Public Service of New Jersey.

Commodity prices moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Cotton drifted lower on southern selling. Wheat prices held fairly steady, with the September option rallied around $1.31 1-2 a bushel. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound, bringing spot prices to new high levels for the season. Coffee futures dropped 19 to 33 points on more liberal offerings of the product in Brazil.

Call loans held steady at 5 per cent all day but funds were reported to be available in the "outside market" as low as 4 3-4 time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading, a jump of 10 points in Spanish pesetas to 15.58 cents being one of the few features. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85 and French francs were firm above 3.86 cents.

TAFTVILLE

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN TAFTVILLE MYSTERY

There were no new developments Friday in the mystery of the Boston bag and wearing apparel clothing found Thursday on a heavily wooded lane leading into the woods at a point directly opposite the site of the old tea house on the Shetucket road. The articles are believed to be the property of one Iolan Handsel a textile worker. They were discovered Thursday by a traveling salesman and his wife who ventured into the lane.

The place where the Boston bag and clothing were found is but a few feet from the main state road, near a spring. Blood was found on the clothing on the ground and on a piece of paper near the spot. There are several clews from a memorandum book scattered at the place. What became of the owner of the articles remains a mystery. Only a few feet from the Shetucket river one theory is that he removed his clothing to take a swim in the river, and did not return. But in doing this he would have to cross the main road which is a heavily traveled highway until late at night, and this would not account for the bloodstains. A thorough search of the bushes and woods in the locality failed to reveal any further articles of clothing or clues that might lead to the finding of the owner.

About three years ago not far from this spot a body was found hanging to a swing and the identity of the man and how he met his death has remained a mystery to this day. Features of the hanged man were unrecognizable but he was identified by a knife in his pocket as Peter Pappas, a well known character of Johnson Park. The identification was made by Pete Delisk, popularly known as "Frenzy Pete" who at that time resided in a camp in the vicinity of Riverside Grove. Some months later, Mr. Skoufalos put in his appearance in the village, thereby proving that the report of his death had been greatly exaggerated. The mystery as to the identity of the man and as to how he met his death therefore remains unsolved.

Examination of the spot where the clothing and bag were found shows that the grass is trampled down, as though a person had lain there. The paper found at the spot resembles ordinary wrapping paper and there are many blood spots on it as though the blood had been spattered. An old cake tissue paper wrapper shows that someone had probably eaten a lunch there some days ago.

SPLINTS TWICE REMOVED FROM BROKEN THIGH; VERDICT FOR $2,300

A mother's action in twice taking casts and splints from the broken thigh of her son brings comment from Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court in rendering judgment for $2,300 damages in the suit of Benjamin Pyzo, 13, of this city against William J. Zahaba, also of this city. Judge Brown handed down his decision here Friday with the clerk of the superior court.

Pyzo was fixing a tow rope on the night of Sept. 2, 1925 on an automobile that was parked on the shoulder of the road on North Main street, when he was struck by an automobile owned by Zahaba and driven at the time by Edward Popham. He was dragged about 12 feet, his thigh was broken, and he received other injuries about the body and head. Through his mother, Anna Pyzo, he sued Zahaba for $10,000 damages.

The case was taken from the jury and tried to the court.

In his memorandum of decision, Judge Brown says:

"In this case in which the defendant's liability was conceded at the hearing upon the question of damages on March 16, 1926, a surprising and most unusual situation was disclosed. The plaintiff, a vigorous young man 19 years of age, whose left thigh had been fractured September 2, 1925, when the defendant ran him down with the automobile, appeared in court with the fracture still unreduced and the two parts of the fractured femus unknit together. It was undisputed that after the plaintiff had twice been given proper treatment shortly after the injury, first at the hospital and subsequently at his home, he had upon each occasion, in response to the suggestion of his mother which arose apparently from her gross ignorance and superstition, undone the work of the surgeons who had reduced the fracture by removing the cast or splints and so permitting the ends of the broken bone to separate and again slip by each other preventing any union of the bony structure.

At the conclusion of the hearing on March 16th, at the court's suggestion, counsel for both parties agreed that the matter be continued until the plaintiff had submitted to the operation necessary to overcome the existing condition and restore his leg to usefulness, and ultimately the plaintiff was persuaded to undergo this treatment. At the continued hearing on September 8, when counsel stipulated that the evidence taken in March should be a part of the evidence in the case on this second hearing, it appeared that the necessary operation had been successfully performed and that in due time the plaintiff will apparently enjoy a complete recovery aside from a slight shortening of the left leg. For this result, counsel for both parties, and all who co-operated to overcome the practical difficulties which were unusual, are entitled to commendation.

The law is clear that for so much of the plaintiff's damage as has been caused by his own fault in failing or refusing to submit to usual and proper treatment which was reasonably available, to accomplish his recovery, the defendant is not liable.

Applying this rule in assessing the plaintiff's damages for his injuries, including his fractured thigh, the wound on his head, body bruises, etc., I find that he is entitled to recover of the defendant the sum of $2,300, for which amount judgment may be entered.

COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT CLAIM FOR COMPENSATION

A compromise settlement for the sum of $275 has been made in the workmen's compensation claim of Abe S. Beit of 30 Pearl street, employe, against S. Beit and Son of this city, employer, according to a judgment and finding made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue.

A claim for injury to his back while moving merchandise on Feb. 14 or Feb. 15 was made by Abe Beit but the commissioner found that there was considerable doubt from the medical testimony as to how the strain is responsible for his disability and present condition. The compromise was effected on a ten-week payment and payment for hospital and medical bills. The former amounted to $210 and the latter to $156. It was agreed that the payment of $275 should be in full settlement for the claims.

Announcement was made that the Wunderlich-Krohn class would be initiated Saturday, Sept. 25 with the usual pomp and ceremony and the blue goat will be used for the first time in Norwich on this occasion.

STOECKEL WILL REPORT ON CONNECTICUT'S PLAN

Safety activities of the Connecticut state motor vehicle department will be described to the 15th annual safety congress Wednesday, Oct. 27, at Chicago. Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has accepted an invitation to give an address on the subject.

Many states, especially in the middle west, which have no drivers' license law are considering the adoption of such legislation, along lines recommended by the Hoover committee which has been working to secure a uniform motor vehicle code throughout the country. Since Connecticut was one of the first states to require applicants for operators' licenses to pass an examination, the national safety council has requested Commissioner Stoeckel to devote part of his time to a discussion of that subject. The national safety council has been active for some time in an effort to convince officials of some of these states that a strong central bureau is a requisite to the proper administration of a drivers' license law. Some states which are larger than Connecticut geographically and have a less homogeneous population have given consideration to a modified form of law which would divide the administrative work among local officials.

Such a departure would complicate interstate arrangements for co-operation in controlling motor vehicle operators, such as the reciprocal relations in that respect which have been established by member states of the eastern conference of motor vehicle operators. The desire of eastern states is to extend such relations to other states in the Union and there have been attempts to organize similar organizations of motor vehicle administrators in various other groups of states in the country. It is felt that several such groups representing various sections of the country could be very effective in all movements looking toward uniformity of motor vehicle legislation.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN ROATH STREET SUIT

By a decision given by Judge C. B. Waller of the common pleas court judgment for $25 and an injunction against Pawel Stecewicz of 34 Roath street are given in favor of Mrs. Mary Donovan, also of Roath street in her suit against Stecewicz over a boundary line between their properties.

Judge Waller's memorandum of decision says:

I find that the true boundary lines between land of plaintiff and defendant are shown on the map of plan prepared by George E. Pitcher, civil engineer, and marked defendant's exhibit 1.

Upon the evidence, and after a view of the premises, I am not satisfied that the plaintiff has established that the claimed wrongful acts of the defendant specified in paragraph 14 of the complaint as amended or any other claimed acts of the defendant set forth in the complaint, were the proximate cause of the damaged condition of the foundation wall of plaintiff's building.

I also find that the plaintiff has failed to establish that the defendant has neglected to maintain a reasonable fence along the north side of his property as alleged.

The retaining wall along the westerly portion of the south line of defendant's lot is within his boundary line, and the fence posts set along said wall are upon land owned by the defendant (Stecewicz).

I find therefore that the plaintiff has failed to establish the matters alleged in paragraphs 9 and 10 of this complaint.

The defendant has maintained a ditch across his lot in a southerly direction, constructed in such a manner that surface water is collected thereby and discharged upon land of plaintiff on the south. There is before me no evidence from which I can fairly compute the damage caused to plaintiff by these acts of defendant which I find the plaintiff has established. However, it is apparent that the collection and discharge of surface water by defendant upon plaintiff's property is causing damage and inconvenience, and I think the plaintiff is entitled to an injunction restraining the defendant (Stecewics) from maintaining a ditch in such a manner as to collect and discharge surface water upon plaintiff's property.

NORWICH TOWN

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Sage, Sachem Plain road, Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5, a company of children was entertained in celebration of the third birthday of their little daughter, Shirley Ruth Sage. Those present included five little cousins, Barbara and Merton Sage and Joseph, Glady's and Eunice Larkin, also Allan Tibbitts, Lloyd and Shirley Seiffert, Marie and Franz Schaeffer, Muriel Laskowski, Priscilla Huntington and Edward Sage, Jr., a group of 14.

Besides several out-of-door games, the children had a jelly-bean hunt, the prize for this being awarded Lloyd Seiffert.

At 4 o'clock the children were seated at a table where the center of attraction was the decorated birthday cake with three candles, the decorations being pink, with pink roses. Mrs. Sage, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Irving Larkin of the East Side, Norwich, and Miss Dorothy Sherman of Harland road, served sandwiches, cake, fancy wafers, lemonade and candy. The little girl received many pretty gifts.

After passing a week at East Beach, Quonochontaug, R. I., Mrs. S. I. Bonney and daughter, Miss J. C. Bonney, returned Wednesday evening to their home on Harland road. Upon their arrival at the shore nearly every cottage was occupied, ut on their return nearly all the dottages had been vacated. While there, the Friday, Saturday and Sunday preceding Labor day, the surf on East Beach was wonderful to look upon, and was considered the highest in the experience of the cottagers. The swelling waves pitched and tossed as never before.

Near the old Adams tavern, on West Town street, Wednesday night at 12 o'clock, there was a collision of automobiles, involving a New York truck, registration No. 933613, and a touring car, Connecticut registration No. 6474. The truck which was driven by Gerhard Husarzensky of 1285 Third avenue, N. Y., suffered the loss only of a hub cap, while the touring car driven by Clarence A. Gweazeowski, of 130 North Main street, Norwich, was the more seriously damaged. His machine, which had five occupants, two men and two women, also a child, received a bent front fender, side of car scraped and one tire exploded. Constable Luther A. Fenton of Norwich Town was notified and made an investigation, also took measurements at the location where the cars collided. Both were reported to be insured. None of the passengers was injured.

Rev. and Mrs. Albert E. Whitten and little son, Maurice, have returned to Norwich Town from a vacation of two weeks in Rhode Island, covering in all 350 miles by automobile, during their stay. One week was spent at Nansauket, while the remainder of the time they were at Pascoag.

At the Methodist church the pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten will have charge of the Sunday morning worship, after a vacation of two weeks. During his absence, the pulpit was supplied by a former pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich of Norwich and by Howard Bushnell, of Occum.

Having been called to Boston by the death of Mrs. Eva Foster, which occurred suddenly last Saturday morning while sitting in her chair, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jillson have returned to their home on West Town street. The death of Mrs. Foster, aunt of Mrs. Jillson, followed closely the death, six weeks ago, of her sister, Mrs. Bruno Tiesler, who resided with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jillson.

Friends of Mrs. Albert Birdsie of Elm avenue, Norwich Town, were pleased to learn Friday afternoon that she is convalescing steadily. She recently underwent a serious surgical operation at the Backus hospital, where she was taken last Sunday morning.

After passing several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoppman of Town street, Miss Grace Kolbus has returned to her home in Jewett City. Mrs. Hoppman and Miss Kolbus are school mates.

Miss Dorothy Sherman of Harland road, accompanied by her aunt, Miss Lillian R. Conant, of Hartford, returned the early part of this week, after a week's visit in Philadelphia where they attended the sesqui-centennial.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Robbins and son, Master Burton Robbins, Jr., of Providence, motored to Norwich Town Thursday, and were dinner guests of Mr. Robbins' sister, Mrs. David M. Dean.

At his residence on Elm avenue Constable Luther A. Fenton is constructing a modern garage, 20 by 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Flemming have rented the lower tenement in Miss Nellie McGarry's house on Town street. Mrs. Flemming, formerly Mary Burns, is a niece of Miss McGarry.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE WANTS PROHIBITION PLANK

The Connecticut League of Women Voters will present to the resolutions committees of the republican and democratic state conventions the following planks:

"Obedience to laws is a fundamental requisite of orderly government, and only by enforcement of existing laws can the nation command the respect of its citizens. Obedience to the constitution and the written law of the land is the duty of every man and woman in the United States. Therefore we favor an administration which will use to the fullest extent the power conferred upon it for the effective establishment of prohibition.

"We believe that juries which decide the rights and liabilities of women equally with men should be composed of both men and women.

"We believe that the conditions under which women are employed are necessarily a concern of the state and must be safeguarded in order to protect the vitality of the race. We urge the adoption of a shorter working day for women in industry, and adequate provision for the enforcement of labor laws.

"We believe that in considering the welfare of the state, special attention should be given to preventive methods in the treatment of dependents, defectives and delinquents. In no other way can we prevent an extraordinary expense being placed upon the state properly to care for its charges. We therefore urge the development of a comprehensive preventive program of public welfare.

"We urge the creation of a tax commission to investigate the entire system of taxation in the state, and especially to compare the relative weight of taxes thereby now imposed upon differing forms of capital, and to report the results to the legislature of 1928.

"We urge continued effort to determine what consolidation of the executive departments of the state will secure greater economy and efficiency.

"We favor such distribution of state aid as shall secure more equitable opportunities of education for all children in Connecticut. We also urge state aid for special classes and increased support for the division of special education and standards."

CROWDS MANIFEST THEIR AFFECTION FOR MUSSOLINI

Attempt on His Lite Has Increased the Popularity of Premier of Italy—Sunday Mussolini Insisted That He Be Driven Past the Spot Where Saturday an Anarchist Hurled Two Bombs at Him—The Fascist Idol Was Pleased With the Manifestations of Affection.

ROME, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Il Duce was acclaimed today by adoring crowds on the sp[ot] where a score before he had escaped death at the hands of a would-be assassin.

The calm courage of Premier Mussolini when his wife was threatened by bombs hurled by an anarchist roused popular admiration to a high pitch. All thousands of persons stood for hours in the suffocating heat, unprotected from a burning sun, before the Palazzo Chigi Palace to catch a glimpse of the Fascist idol as he entered and left his offices.

Sitting alone in his automobile, the premier insisted that he be driven past the spot where yesterday morning Eroe Giovannini hurled two bombs at him. As the car passed the scene of the attempted assassination, the throngs gathered at the spot cheered wildly.

Mussolini, evidently pleased with the manifestations of affection, returned the greeting with the Roman salute stretching out his right arm in his characteristic manner.

In the throngs passing the Colonna square before the palace were many women who cried: "God bless him and keep him for us."

One old woman bearing flowers appeared at the Chigi Palace and said she wished to present them to Mussolini in congratulation for his miraculous escape and also in remembrance of her son who was killed in the war.

The premier apparently deeply touched received the flowers and ordered them placed on the tomb of the Fascisti Deputy Casalini, in observation of the anniversary of his murder by communists.

The palace was flooded today with messages of congratulations and flowers sent by sovereign heads of states and by humblest of individuals from all parts of the world. Among them were messages from prominent dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church, and from Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, from Col. Umberto Nobile, who flew across the north pole in the Norge, and from Gabrielle D'Annunzio, Italian writer and statesman.

Almost members who were outside of Rome at the time of the attempt on the premier's life, rushed back today, using automobiles and airplanes, to return to the side of their leader.

One of them said to Mussolini in a excited manner. "Thank God the would-be assassin's aim was no better. The bomb would actually have ended the car."

"In that case," Il Duce replied drastically, "I would have picked it up again and thrown it back at my assailant as was done during the war."

The attack, his secretaries say, has not interfered with the premier's activities. He continues working as usual, given orders, seeing coordinates and even answering telephone calls personally.

His brother, Arnaldo Mussolini, editor of Il Popolo Italia, telephoned from Milan. The premier shouted back: "It's me talking—as hale and hearty and strongly determined as ever. Be quiet, don't get excited, greetings."

THE WOULD-BE ASSASSIN IS SHIELDING ACCOMPLICES

ROME, Sept. 12—(AP)—Ermete Giovannini, who yesterday tried to assassinate Premier Mussolini, is shielding accomplices in a wider plot to remove the premier and end the fascist regime, the Roman press declared unanimously today.

The young would-be assassin still insisted to the police today that he was "an individualist anarchist" and that he acted solely on his own initiative and not as part of an organized plot. The newspapers asserted, however, that he was hiding the real facts concerning himself and his previous whereabouts.

Giovannini told the police he crossed the frontier near Ventimille on September 9, purchased two bombs and a revolver after entering the country, and then came at once to Rome, arriving by train only two hours before he hurled the bombs at the premier's automobile.

It was also pointed out, was very unlikely. The frontiers are so closely watched that it is almost impossible for anyone to enter without a passport, it was said. That the young man could find a way in two days some one ready to sell him the bombs and the revolver was improbable. His assertion that he spent only two hours in Rome before the attack was discredited, it was said, by the unlikelihood of his learning within such a short time the route followed by the premier on his way to his office, and the time he would pass the scene of the attempt as well of his being able to recognize so readily the premier's car.

On the contrary, it is believed that he had entered Italy long before and had been provided with a passport, a good if fraudulent; that he had been supplied with arms by friends who gave him all the necessary information regarding Mussolini's habits and the shape and color of his car, and that he was but the instrument of an organization with headquarters abroad, probably in Paris or Lyons and with affiliations in Italy which helped him in the attempt on Mussolini's life.

Various persons have told the police that they saw Giovannini speaking freely with other people immediately before the attack. The young girl, who happened to pass the spot a few minutes before, asserted that she saw the young man arrive in a yellow automobile with four other men. The officers who arrested Giovannini stated he was speaking with two other individuals before Mussolini's approach.

Il Messagero declared today that the police are on the trail of a vast plot hatched abroad adding the belief that Ermete Giovannini is not the prisoner's name, and that the young man arrived in Rome a week ago, stopping at a third class hotel.

Inflangible automobile windows, ordered in England, were already on their way to Italy when the attack occured, it was learned today. It was planned to fit them in Mussolini's car without his knowledge because of his repugnance to special protective measures. Yesterday's bomb explosion shattered the windows of the car, the flying glass injuring several bystanders.

The police questioned Giovannini closely as to what use he intended to put the revolver he carried with the bombs.

The young man merely shrugged his shoulders and muttered: "Do you think I ought to have taken flowers with me?"

GOV. TRUMBULL DESIGNATES SEPT. 22 AS NATHAN HALE DAY

HARTFORD, Sept. 12—(AP)—Memorial tribute to Nathan Hale, in honor to a "fine type of Connecticut manhood," is paid by Governor Trumbull in an official proclamation designating Wednesday, September 22, the anniversary of the Revolutionary patriot's sacrifice, Nathan Hale day.

That suitable occasion may be taken to impress anew the ideals of Nathan Hale, the governor urges that the schools observe the day by devoting special attention to the study of Hale's life and by appropriate memorial exercises. The proclamation says:

"This year, throughout the United States, we are celebrating the 150th anniversary of American independence. The year marks a fitting occasion, also, for honoring the memory of those by whose faith and valor that independence was made possible. Each state has its particular revolutionary heroes: Virginia claims the great Washington, Massachusetts has its Paul Revere, and Pennsylvania its Franklin. But of all the noble traditions which have come down to us from those stirring times, none has so fired the imagination or so moved the hearts of generations of Americans, as the story of Connecticut's own Nathan Hale.

"There is no more noble expression of patriotic fervor in any language than his last words: 'I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country.'

"In commemoration of his unique patriotic services, the state of Connecticut has recently dedicated her sesqui-centennial medal to him. And in 1856 erected in the east corridor of the main floor of our capitol the beautiful bronze Nathan Hale statue by Karl Gerhardt."

SERIOUS FIGHTING IS REPORTED IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 12—(AP)—Serious fighting took place yesterday around El Bluff between the revolutionary forces and the government. William J. Crumpton, the American collector of customs at that place, telegraphs that the revolutionists succeeded in capturing part of El Bluff and the island between that town and the island between that town and Bluefields.

The garrisons at El Bluff were bombarded heavily Saturday with shrapnel shells one exploding within a few yards of the trenches. The government artillery destroyed one machine gun nest, demolishing the gun and killing 17 of the enemy.

Revolutionary machine guns on the beach concentrated a heavy fire on the wharf where government troops were stationed, and the custom house was riddled with bullets. Two vessels were engaged in the bombardment and three others were standing by.

It is declared that American mahogany and fruit companies are suffering heavy losses on the east coast of Nicaragua the revolution causing a cessation of boat service.

NATIONAL PLEBISCITE IS BEING HELD IN PHILIPPINES

MADRID, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The first official figures in the national referendum made public this morning show that 49,957 men and women in Madrid City and province have voted confidence in the Primo De Rivera administration and for the establishment of a national assembly.

The regulations governing the referendum provide that only votes in favor of the government will be accepted. No vote against the government may be cast.

The patriotic union, under whose direction the plebiscite is being held, is satisfied with the results obtained thus far and is optimistic as to the final figures. No untoward incidents are reported.

Forty-five per cent of the voters were women. A great number of voters were from the government offices. Many members of the teaching staff on Madrid university voted confidence in Primo De Rivera.

This is the first time that women ever have been able to vote in Spain and they are out in full force to take advantage of the privilege.

Postal Employes Get "Shoot to Kill" Order

Command Sent Out by Post office Department to Thus Deal With Bandits.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A command "to shoot to kill" was sent out today by the post office department to its army of 22,500 railway mail clerks to protect from bandits even at the cost of their own lives, the millions of dollars worth of treasure handled daily in the United States mails.

The command, which applies to the thousands of other postal employes, also constitutes a warning to the underworld that the postal service means war and anyone found attempting to rob the mails may expect a cold reception and no mercy.

In issuing the command it also was indicated that, if this means of protection should fail, the United States marines again might be called to guard the mails as they did late in 1921 when banditry was prevalent.

This drastic move was determined by Postmaster-General New at a council of war with his lieutenants as a result of the recent holdup near Chicago, in which bandits stole $135,000 in currency.

Postmaster-General New has considered calling the marines, but the "soldiers" of his own forces—the postal employes who have been fully armed—will be able to cope, he believes, with the present epidemic of banditry.

Calling into conference Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, who has direct charge of the railway mail service; General Superintendent Fisher of that service, and Rush D. Simmons, chief inspector of the department, the postmaster general took steps to tighten up the handling of valuable mail. Every precaution was taken by regulations to prevent any unauthorized person from entering mail cars or postoffice quarters, and orders given to shoot when necessary.

"It is self-evident," Mr. Glover said in a communication to his men, "that members of the underworld and bandit gangs throughout the United States have again thrown down the gauntlet of battle to the railway mail service to hold up a every possible chance the postal cars and attempt to steal valuable registered packages. It means only this, that we must tighten our belts, place the holster easier of access, clean up our revolvers, be more careful in the protection of this valuable mail, and, which you are determined will 'to shoot to kill,' finally renew our pledge to protect the mail entrusted to our care.

"I have faith in the railway mail service and will back it against any similar body of men anywhere. We have a record to protect and we will do it. The number of recent holdups of postal cars makes it necessary and the last one, which has just taken place near Chicago, is the call to arms."

Mr. Glover expressed confidence in his men and made a personal offer of a reward of $500 for the first railway mail clerk who kills anyone attempting to rob a railway postoffice, and also promised a reward for any railway mail clerk who captured anyone attempting to hold up a railway postoffice car. While he says his men are doing everything possible to protect the mails, he believes the further incentive of a reward of a couple of months' salary on the side will help.

There were 14 major robberies in the year which ended June 30 last. These resulted in the loss of $1,408,340 and Chief Simmons and his force of inspectors already have succeeded in recovering $760,624 of the money. In the last two years there have been 65 convictions of mail robbers in major cases. The robbers received an average sentence of 16 3-5 years. One was sent to the penitentiary for 50 years, 30 for 25 years, seven for 15 years, three for 12 years and two for ten years.

SEARCHING FOR $135,000 IN BILLS STOLEN FROM TRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Six details of federal postal inspectors and Chicago detectives searched the underworld today for traces of $135,000 in bills stolen from a grand trunk mail car here last Friday.

Two suspects, one of them said to have been identified by John H. Kelly, the robbed mail clerk, remained in custody under continuous questioning. Nick Kramer, lieutenant in the McErlanebasilis gang of beer runners, was the main said to have been identified. He was arrested by detectives who held the theory that the mail robbery was perpetrated to obtain defense funds for Frank McErlane, soon to face trial for murder at Crown Point, Ind., and "Polack Joe" Saltis, in jail here carged with murder.

The other man under arrest is Peter Gusenberg, alleged to have been implicated in a rich mail robbery at the Dearborn street rail station for which Big Tim Murphy, Chicago labor leader, recently served a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas.

Kramer and Gusenberg have refused to talk according to reports, except to deny implication in the Grand Trunk robbery.

AUTO BECAME STALLED ON RAILROAD CROSSING

DANBURY, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A stalled automobile on a railroad crossing with an express train approaching brought excitement to five autoists near here today, but all escaped uninjured.

Those in the machine were Mr. and Mrs. Burt Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Barrett and Ralph Corentz, all of Carmel, N. Y. As the automobile reached the Greenwood avenue railroad crossing in Bethel, the operator, Mr. Smith, saw that the gates on the opposite side of the track were down. He stopped his machine on the track and it refused to start, the engine stalling.

An express train bound from Pittsfield to New York, was approaching and the autoists left their machine in haste. Just as the last of the five had stepped down, the train crashed into the automobile, carrying it 25 feet down the track and demolishing it.

Rainfall the Cause of Floods in Kansas

Eleven Inches of Rain Fell at Leroy Saturday Night and Sunday Morning.

EMPORIA, Kansas, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Heavy rainfall in eastern Kansas today sent swollen rivers out of their banks and flooded several towns with a toll of at least two lives and property damage estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Flooded streets in business and residential districts forced many to escape from their marooned places in row boats and one boy lost his life when his craft capsized. Rivers and creeks within an area of 100 square miles became torrents after a record rainfall which lasted nine hours. The precipitation ranged from five to 11 inches.

Rock Creek, flowing through the heart of the business district of Burlington sent a stream of water six feet down the towns main street, damage to stores and their stocks was heavy.

A wall of water hit Stafford the afternoon of the population had retreated safely on high ground. One merchant marooned in his store donned a bathing suit and swam ashore.

Boats were used to rescue people stranded in parts of Emporia, Madison, Strong City and Cottonwood Falls, all of which were damaged by the flood waters.

The Cottonwood river at Emporia rose 11 feet in 14 hours. At 11 today the water began spreading over lowlands which were inundated.

No further damage was feared tonight, except for a new flood threat at Madison because of a rapid rise in the Verdigris river.

AGAINST RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—After a months intensive study of conditions in soviet Russia, members of the Sherwood Eddy commission, returned to the United States today expressing the conviction that this country should recognize the Russian government.

The commission an unofficial delegation, made the recommendation without passing at any way on the merits of the soviet system, from a political viewpoint.

The delegation was the first group of Americans to enter Russia to study the political, economic, moral and living conditions in order to determine the advisability of recognizing the Russian government. Lawyers, writers, educators and prominent church men, composed the delegation. Two women members made a study of the woman problem under the soviet regime.

Members of the delegation said the Russian authorities gave them a free hand, and placed at their disposal credentials documents as well as allowing them unhampered access to government institutions and industrial plants. The Americans interviewed prominent soviet leaders.

Admitting there were places of the soviet system which seemed objectionable to outsiders, the commission members declared the spirit of government had greatly benefitted the masses of the people and was one of the most stable governments in Europe.

The delegation included Paul Jerome Davis of Yale university.

DARBIE OF DANIELSON IS TO STICK TO WADHAMS

HARTFORD, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Elbert L. Darbie of Danielson, speaker of the house in 1925 and a Windham county leader, said tonight that he had been approached by a prominent republican with a proposal that an arrangement be made to throw a few complimentary votes in his senatorial district (25) to State Senator Frederick C. Walcott of Norfolk on the first ballot in the lieutenant governorship contest as the republican state convention Tuesday. "Nothing doing. I am going to stick to Wadhams," was Mr. Darbie's reply to the proposal.

The proposition extended to Speaker Darbie in the second report of mind. Last Friday Senator Eugene P. Golden of Meriden said he had been approached by persons who claimed he declined to cooperate and urged to give the votes of the Meriden delegation to Senator Wadhams for lieutenant governor.

There was nothing in either of the reports to indicate that Senator Walcott had any knowledge of them.

HERRIN, Ills., Sept. 12.—(AP)—William Holland, 20, was killed and Mack Pulliam and his wife, Mildred, were seriously injured early today when several unidentified men fired a volley of shots at them as they were driving along a road four miles east of here.

Authorities attributed the shooting to another outcrop of a liquor war that resulted a month ago in the slaying of Everett Smith and Harry Walberg. The latter two and Holland and Pulliam were alleged to be members of the Shelton gang here.

Holland and the two Pulliams had attended a dance Saturday night and were taking a short drive. Pulliam told officers, when several men jumped out from along the road, riddled him with pistol and shotgun shots and escaped. Pulliam said he did not recognize any of the men.

Holland's body was riddled with 15 pistol shots and Buckshot. Pulliam and his wife were brought to Herrin hospital, with gunshot wounds in their legs and chest. Both are expected to recover.

Pulliam could describe no reason for the attack. No arrests have been made.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS ARE UP TO EXPECTATIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The expected broadening of business activities after Labor day came fully up to expectations last week, strengthening the promise of a fine autumn trade. The ending of the vacation season, according to reports from many centers was followed by "stiffening commodity prices, an expansion of consumer operations and a larger wholesale and retail buying movement.

Summarizing measures of trade, industries, bank clearings, department store earnings and the trend of prices in various lines, Bradstreet's review of the improvement which has taken place and is now under way, says:

Following up the entire structure of business has a fundamentally sound credit situation. Money rates have stiffen a bit on the approach of fall but in view of declining commodity prices there has been no dollar stringency and no commercial inflation. So far there are no conditions have appeared to check enterprise or to work any hardships upon legitimate business requirements and the federal reserve rediscount rates have been maintained at a low level.

The number of cars loaded with freight in the week ended August 28 is reported as the largest on the record.

Trading centers show the peak of the crop and merchandise movement is yet to come and would not be surprised to see the August bookings record a liberal gain in the fall.

TO INAUGURATE NATIONAL BROADCASTING SERVICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Inauguration of a national broadcasting service with Station WEAF, recently purchased for $1,000,000 from the American Telegraph and Telegraph company as a unit, was announced today by the Radio Corporation of America.

The station has been incorporated as the National Broadcasting company, the R. C. A. announced, and active control will be assumed on November 15.

The Radio Corporation of America said in an official statement it was not seeking a monopoly of the air, the announcement stated.

That would be a liability rather than an asset. It is seeking, however, to provide machinery which will insure a rational distribution of national programs and a wider distribution of programs of the highest quality."

The programs will be broadcast through WEAF and will be made available to other stations desiring them, so far as practicable it was stated. The new company may also lease time from other stations.

TRUST COMPANY'S QUARTERS INSPECTED BY BIG CROWD

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13—People literally stormed the new banking quarters of the Danielson Trust company Saturday, at the formal opening, for which thousands of invitations had been issued. At times there was such a jam around the entrance as to suggest a chain store front on a bargain day. An orchestra played, there were souvenirs for all who came and ice cream and cigars and what not for everyone.

The entire force of the bank was on duty during the extra hours that the bank remained open for the convenience of those who came to look it over.

Opened in the fall of 1914, the Danielson Trust company has had such a splendid and steady growth at its quarters in its own building were found last year to be no longer adequate. In January the work of remodeling was undertaken and only recently was completed. Today the bank occupies practically the entire floor of the building. The interior has been completely rearranged. Art metal work and marble enter into the arrangement of the bank, which has very spacious quarters, with sections set aside for the commercial, savings, trust and other departments of the institution's business. The bank quarters are now among the most finely appointed and attractive in eastern Connecticut.

E. L. DARBIE CANDIDATE FOR STATE ATTORNEY-GEN'L.

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13—Today republicans of Connecticut, through their representatives gathered in the party's state convention in Hartford, may name Attorney Elbert L. Darbie of this town as their candidate for attorney-general. All of Killingly will watch the fortunes of Attorney Darbie with the keenest interest, and there will be little less concern in all the towns in this corner of the state.

Attorney Darbie goes into the contest for the nomination with Charles Williamson of Darien as his opponent. Mr. Darbie's candidacy will hold a keen special appeal for many of the delegates, because of his excellent record of service to the party, which two years ago honored him with election as speaker of the house, a position that he filled with dignity and efficiency. Solid support of Mr. Darbie is anticipated from the eastern Connecticut delegations. Over and above that he is well and favorably known in every nook and corner of the state and will draw support from every county. While prophecies are dangerous and often confounding, there are those who look with every confidence to his nomination for the attorney generalship on Tuesday.

Delegations that are to attend the convention will leave this section this afternoon, that they be in Hartford this evening for the preliminaries to the convention.

Out of the welter of things atendant upon the holding of the caucuses of Killingly's political parties there is a circumstance that is going to be a surprise to the average citizen who does not watch every detail of the making of nominations and the personnel of the tickets presented to the voters. This pertains to the failure of the republicans last Thursday evening and of the democrats Friday evening to give a nomination to Miss Emma F. Pilling for a place on the town school committee, of which she is and has been a member for a considerable term of years and has rendered very valuable service. Miss Pilling's present term of three years as a member of the committee expires with the election of October 4. Though her name is not on the democratic caucus list, the democrats regularly for years past, at the expiration of a period for which she had been elected, have renominated her. They failed to do this this year and the republicans filled their ticket Thursday evening with other candidates for places on the committee.

This year the political parties of the town were privileged to nominate two candidates each to fill expiring terms of three years and one candidate for two years to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of William Kinder, who was a resident of Attawaugan, but who has left the town of Killingly. Friday evening the democrats nominated for the three-year terms John W. Gallup and Mrs. Ella Woodworth. They passed up the chance to nominate for the unexpired term of two years, for this those who would support Miss Pilling for further service on the town school committee see their one chance to re-elect her, which they might do through great activity and good organization by writing her name in on the ballot for the two-year term.

Democrats of Killingly have taken a tremendous amount of kidding over that caucus of last Friday night and the forty phantom voters. Most of them have stood the joshing of their political opponents with good grace, but underneath the surface there is resentment that such a thing could happen. They may laugh cordially enough when someone suggests that they should have as many as 32,000 votes when election day comes on October 4, and beat the republicans to a frazzle, but the razzing isn't pleasant medicine.

As a matter of fact, that caucus has started something inside the democratic party that will be heard of for many moons to come. It reflects on the entire party and its matter of doing business, when, as a matter of fact, the surplus of votes in the ballot box over what the check lists called for likely can be charged to a comparatively small group not at all scrupulous about their political doings and willing to take a chance that would lead them into serious difficulties if detected. There was some talk over the week end of presenting the case for the consideration of the secretary of state, as a highly irregular happening. As one democrat put it, "If they can get away with that, they can get away with anything." A variation of a few votes would not cause great comment and might be charged to errors in checking, but there is no accounting, except in one way, for a surplus of 40 votes getting into a ballot box in a caucus of a few more than 200 people. The matter smells to heaven and will have it after-effects.

The longest session of the town court in months was held Saturday, lasting from forenoon into the early afternoon. Three cases were presented for the consideration of Judge W. Fenner Woodward. Adelard Lasnier, charged with operating a motor vehicle without having an operator's license, went to jail. He was fined $20 and costs, had no money, a reason he had advanced to the court for not having the license, so had to take the jail sentence to work out the price. Lasnier was the proud owner of a $5 sport model Ford roadster when he came shooting out of North street into North Main late Friday night to have his machine knocked into low-priced junk by one of the Connecticut company busses that was coming along. Lasnier escaped from the pile of tin with no more serious ailment than a shaking up and a bruised leg. Neither the bus nor its passengers suffered in any degree—they are tough, those busses. When asked by Judge Woodward as to whether he did not feel that he should have had a license in view of the fact that he has been driving about for

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 13—The republican electors of the town of Putnam will be in caucus Monday evening and the democratic caucus will be held Tuesday evening.

There is no opposition in Putnam nor in the county to the renomination of Charles A. Gates as county sheriff. As far as this end of the county is concerned, the democrats apparently have no one who wishes to enter and contend or the office.

Some boys near Mechanicsville have been annoying motorists by their pranks. Their principal trick was the placing of a tire in the road to be seen by drivers of cars and when the driver stopped and reached for the tire, it would be pulled away by a string by boys hidden in the brush by the road. It is said that one young lady was so badly frightened she fainted thinking the scheme was a holdup.

The Stillwater Worsted company of East Woodstock is running night and day. All of the looms are in operation and the concern employs local help. An addition to the plant is being built.

At a recent meeting of Abington Cemetery association the generous offer of Arthur Grosvenor was accepted. He agreed to finance the building of a road on the west side of the cemetery to connect with the road on the east side of it. This is a much needed improvement to relieve congestion near the cemetery and Mr. Grosvenor's generosity is greatly appreciated. The work was started immediately.

Word was received by the Putnam police that Joseph Bouchard of South Meadow street, was wanted by the Hartford police. He had been ordered to appear before the police court there and failed to show up. It was found here that he was not at home and the warrant was given to the state police.

CRABS AND PINT BOTTLE IN FORD WHICH BUMPS BUS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13—Henry Poirier, who lives at 428 Laurel avenue, Auburn, Mass., will be before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to explain how he came to drive the Ford sedan in which he was riding smack against the bumper of a Connecticut company bus, while the big machine was stopped at Elmville discharging passengers, about 4:35 Saturday afternoon. Poirier spent Sunday in the police station, held to answer a charge that he was operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of an intoxicant. In his car about a bushel of crabs were found, also a pint bottle with an odor like a combination of vanilla and high test gasoline. Poirier came out of the daylight crash in which he figured without any injuries worth mentioning. Not so much can be said for his car. The bus stood the crash splendidly—such vehicles are no kind of a machine at all for a Ford to have a bucking match with.

CLAMBAKE KING'S HORSE DIES AT THE AGE OF 35

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13—His friends will mourn with King George Jacques of East Killingly over the death Saturday of his horse—Baby, an animal that lived for 35 years—and as good and intelligent an equine friend as any man might hope to own. The King is sincerely sorry over the death of the animal, which was of pure Morgan blood, and had been his faithful friend for many years.

FRANCE REDUCES ARMY

Report has it that this country is pleased at the announcement coming from across the water that France is to make large reductions in its army for purposes of economy. There's more than one reason for applauding this action.

France is one of the nations which has stood in the way of disarmament because it has been unwilling to participate in reductions that would go further than the Washington conference. Hitherto it has maintained a position of others that necessitated maintaining a large military organization, and for that reason it has given the impression that it was strongly in favor of militarism. The voluntary reduction in its army will go far to erase that idea.

France has been criticized because while it was going through various financial changes and endeavoring to adjust its financial problems it was continuing to maintain a large army. Such criticism is now all in order, seems and the feeling has been that such a large army was not needed by other nations in these substantial times and conditions in Europe. Rather than other nations urging a reduction of war forces, France is being urged to maintain 170 military establishments. Certainly use and the reduction of army forces should follow the world disarmament conference a decided step forward.

But in addition to these advantages which is regarded will be gained, it is expected that France makes this reduction voluntarily as the admission of others and the lessening of tension will afford reinforcement to the peaceful overtures to the effect that France is strong enough to maintain its position in Europe and that it is willing to meet other nations on a basis of equality. It will not only be able to turn the money now used for military purposes into channels and help meet its financial troubles. There is no question but that the reduction has lessened the tension of the situation.

IN WISCONSIN

[illegible] Democrats in Wisconsin [illegible] agreed that the candidacy of [illegible] for United States senator [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Democrats [illegible] that as the primary [illegible] there has been a [illegible] on the part of the [illegible] to oust Lenroot at the primaries. EVERYBODY'S DOING IT

Swimming the English channel has [illegible] become an international [illegible] Women have been swimming [illegible] lately. Not all who [illegible] have succeeded, but [illegible] have succeeded, but [illegible] Year for such [illegible] and [illegible] the matter of time has been generally overlooked but success was considered something of a feat even if it did take a long time, but now it has gotten so that everyone is doing it and the time of crossing has been cut nearly five and one half hours. It is in this big time reduction and the improved methods of swimming that interest is chiefly centered this year, if it can be overlooked that women have accomplished the feat for the first time.

Gertrude Ederle started the tall rolling this year when she was the first woman to succeed in the effort and at the same time cut the time from 16 1-2 hours to 14 hours 31 minutes. But while she was being acclaimed on her return to this country, Mrs. Corson another American woman made her way across, but without breaking the Ederle time record. Her success was quickly followed by the establishment of a new record by Vierkoetter who did it almost two hours faster than Miss Ederle.

The record had been pushed down so rapidly that there was a feeling that the German swimmer would hold the honor for some time, judging by the length of time the holder of the 14 1-2 hour record remained the undisputed champion. But almost immediately George Michel of France, rushed across in 11 hours and five minutes.

Such results tend to indicate that the study of the channel and its tides and the knowledge of the experience of others have done much to make the swimming of the channel so common an accomplishment that only by making faster time or by making a return trip without stopping will that swimming stunt be able to get much interest in the future.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Interest from all sections of the state will be centered today and tomorrow in the republican convention at Hartford, at which candidates will be selected for United States senator and the state ticket preparatory for the November election.

As for the senator and most of the state officers there will be no contest. Hiram Bingham has made such an excellent record during the time he has been at Washington that there is not only a willingness but an eagerness to renominate him. He has demonstrated in a brief time that his reason is necessary.

For very similar reasons Governor Trumbull will be renominated. His administration of state affairs has been of the highest. Thoroughly grounded in state business through his years in the legislature he has given the state the benefit of his experience and judgment with most gratifying results.

The lack of contests for the chief offices doesn't mean that campaigns have not been waged by those seeking the lieutenant governorship for Lieutenant Governor Brainerd will be opposed by John M. Wadhams, while Hubert L. Darbie of Danielson and Charles B. Williamson of Darien are seeking the nomination for attorney general. For the remainder of the offices there will probably be no contest.

The republicans of Connecticut are deeply interested in the maintenance of the highly satisfactory governmental with which it has been favored for the last two years and through the delegates named to the convention it is confidently believed there will be nominated or renominated a ticket that will continue to command the confidence of the voters. It is at least the duty of the convention to produce a ticket that will mean the retention of the highly successful state government and there are good reasons for believing that the responsibility will be recognized.

MACMILLAN IN THE NORTH

The return of Donald MacMillan from his trip into the far north should mean the release of some interesting information. He is credited with bringing back some articles which are believed to have belonged to the Nutsemen, and with them there will be no stories of conditions as he found them in Greenland, stories which always have a fascination because they deal with so many things about which we few people get a chance to inform ourselves, through personal contact.

There are many secrets of the far north which remain to be revealed. MacMillan has been doing his best to get at them and with more or less success, but even though he may not have accomplished all that he attempted, he has to have done so would have meant taking unwarranted risks or doing the impossible, he is always ready to set out again for that part of the globe which seems to be constantly calling him back.

There are endless puzzles to be solved, a vast amount of information to be gained, much scientific data to be secured in addition to the pictures which reveal the conditions in the far north, where people have lived for centuries but of whom too little is known.

But no matter how successful MacMillan has been in his quests he is always ready to start out for more and it is said that he plans to return to the arctic region again next year. Through similar sacrifices have we obtained our information concerning such remote regions and the contribution which MacMillan has added just will add to more is by no means inconsiderable. The lure of the north to MacMillan is what the attraction of the mountains is to others.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Many cooks substitute two or three bouillon cubes for soup stock, in making mushroom soup.

When making a nut cake, add the whites of eggs and nut meats last.

Milk that has been kept for some hours before being used should be put in a shallow bowl. If placed in a jug it will turn sour very quickly.

Mix ingredients for ginger cookies with cold coffee instead of water. It improves them.

Ceilings that have been smoked by oil lamps can be cleaned by carefully washing with soda water.

Cockroaches dislike turpentine so sprinkle it freely where they congregate, and they will soon disappear.

Use beef suet in rich puddings and dumplings that require long steaming only as it chills quickly and is unpalatable if used in ordinary cooking.

Face cloths made of three thicknesses of white mosquito netting are very satisfactory. They keep white, dry quickly and are especially good when traveling.

A teaspoon of powdered alum mixed with ordinary polish will give a stove a fine luster and with half the work.

No clothing should be put away even for the night without first removing all steel pins, as dampness may cause rust spots.

To keep brass plates and handles untarnished, rub a ray potato over them after they have been cleaned. This will keep them bright for several days.

Never allow soup to boil. Let it simmer slowly. Much of the liquid is wasted in evaporation and the best of the flavor is lost if the soup boils or is heated too quickly.

When making bread fill a small baking powder can about half-full with dough. In making it will rise to the top of the can. This bread makes sandwiches the size the children like.

TREATING CAST IRON UTENSILS FOR SERVICE IN THE KITCHEN

New kettles and skillets, waffle irons and other utensils made of cast iron need some sort of preliminary treatment before they are put in use for preparing food, in order to remove the lacquer coating applied by the manufacturer as a rust preventive.

A simple and well tested method of treating these utensils is the following:

Prepare a solution of one tablespoon of washing soda and one tablespoon of chipped soap to each gallon of water. Fill the kettle or skillet with the solution or in the case of waffle irons or popover pans immerse in a large kettle of the solution. Boil for 15 to 20 minutes.

Following the treatment with an ordinary washing, rinsing and drying process.

When thoroughly dry, grease the utensil thoroughly with an unsalted fat place it over a very slow flame or in a moderate oven for about half an hour.

This tempering with heat and grease will prevent the food from sticking to the utensil when the utensil is used for the first few times.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

External treatments will help correct the oily dandruff, but of course more is needed to effect a real cure. One's general health is a very important factor. Excessive overweight or underweight, worry, nervousness or organic troubles are often indirectly responsible for a poor condition of the scalp or hair.

The best shampoo obtainable can be made very easily right at home. Shave into fine pieces one cake of Castile soap, add a little water and simmer until it forms a jelly. This may be poured into a jar and used when desired. It is a splendid shampoo for oil and dry hair alike.

Children should be drilled in the proper care of hair and scalp so that they may have beautiful, abundant hair when they grow up. Too much shampooing is to be avoided, as it dries out the hair. Daily scalp massage is very important. Simple blond tones and pure white soap shampoo should be used for blond hair.

If mother is easily upset and nervous with one of the kiddies has an accident a few of the most common accidents and their treatments tacked on the inside of the medicine cabinet door would be a decided help to her.

LABEL THEM CORRECTLY

I have seen careless people wash out a medicine bottle and without changing the label refill it with some entirely different medicine. This is a mighty dangerous practice, as we are no doubt all of us at times and it might cost a very discerning one to the stranger who is helping us out.

OIL 'EM

Some of us use our sewing machines so seldom that it never dawns on us to oil them. It is most important to keep them clean and oiled, even if not used frequently, if we expect good service from them when we do use them.

TO HOLD PAPER

A net shopping bag may be hung in the cellarway and hold pieces of wrapping paper and paper bags. Then the usual hunt and running is avoided as is the case through the mesh of the bag and find what one wants immediately.

GOLDFISH HOLDER

Instead of the ordinary glass fish bowls, glass holders which have been [illegible] used to flower centerpieces are being put into service. They are much more decorative than usual. For instance a glass elephant is one of the many types being seen in this new [illegible].

DECORATIVE SCREENS

Nothing more decorative for the dining room could be selected than a screen covered with wall-paper which has a deep ultramarine blue background and a design of leaves and grapes in dull [illegible].

DICTATES OF FASHION

New hats for autumn are fashioned of velvet in rich tones of blue, shading from a light French blue to deep sapphire tones and navy.

A novel set of scarf and bag is made of black and white checked silk. The scarf is of the short narrow type, while the bag is closely pleated and attached to a frame of grey snakeskin.

Distinctly new and very pretty are sports frocks made of tub silk. They are the popular two-piece model but the jumper is fashioned to cross in front after the manner of a surplice and this line is accentuated by a pleated white frill.

To wear with sheer summer frocks are strikingly effective large hats of black velvet. Many have wide brims but others are modeled on beret lines. Occasionally a bit of metal ribbon is used for trimming.

Coat dresses of twill are scheduled for fall. These facings are of soft-colored chiffons and crepe de chines.

For the young girl, a dance dress of silver lace and white tulle is a suitable expression of her youth and innocence. The simple round neck line and bouffant skirt is a strictly debutante style in this type of frock.

Metal brocades will be much in vogue during the coming winter. The patterns are somewhat conventional and show a masterful knowledge of color as well as design. Squares of brocade edged with chiffon or satin are used for evening shawls.

MIDSEASON COLOR IS NAVY BLUE

A season that starts out in a riot of color frequently ends with black and navy blue in places of distinct importance. No one can tell just why this is but the fact remains that almost invariably midsummer finds these darker shades conspicuously exploited. Gor the dress of semi-sheer material for wear when it is necessary to come into town, nothing is smarter than black or navy blue, particularly if there are piquant touches of color in collar ends or in the facings of revers.

SAME COLOR TWICE

The only rule of the new scheme is that the same color must appear at least twice, to avoid any haphazard effects. To meet this difficulty with the few clothes possible today such ingenuities as colored tags to shoelaces, colored buckles to shoes, and buttons of one hue sewn on with thick silk of another, are being used.

FAN HANDLES

Feather fans have appeared with monograms on the handles. The monogram in precious, or semi-precious stones, must correspond in color to the feathers.

LAUNDRY HINTS

It is said a cup of vinegar in the last rinsing water will help brighten faded blue garments.

Hanging white silk stockings or gloves in the sun makes them yellow. Hang them in the shade to keep them white.

Baby garments made of outing flannel should not be ironed, but may be freshened and softened by brushing lightly.

If silks and woolens are covered with slightly dampened cheesecloth they can be ironed safely on the right side.

A discarded Turkish towel should be tucked in the back of the ironing board. Then when a bit of embroidery turns up to be ironed, requiring special attention, it can be ironed upside down on the towel and the best effect obtained.

OATMEAL FOR STAINS

Apple, potato and most other stains may be removed from the hands by rubbing them with oatmeal moistened with lemon juice or vinegar. If you use soap before removing the stain it will be more difficult to remove it.

GRASS STAINS

Grass stains may be removed from clothing by washing in warm water to which a teaspoon of ammonia has been added. If this does not remove the stain, cover it with bicarbonate of soda and let stand till the stain disappears.

DO IT THIS WAY

To open a can properly first remove the label and lay the can on its side with the seam up. Insert the can opener directly next to the seam and just near enough to the top to allow free operation of the opener.

After the opener is inserted, stand the can on end and, holding it firmly, work the opener away from the seam until you have cut entirely around the can.

It is then possible to turn back the entire top and remove the contents. The smooth edge left by opening the can in this manner makes the emptied can desirable for many uses about the house or garage, or the cans may be saved until spring and used for starting tomato plants and such things.

HOME DRY CLEANING

A clean white blotting paper placed under the article of clothing to be cleaned with a liquid that evaporates quickly will prevent the liquid from spreading over portions not needing to be cleaned, at the same time absorbing dirt from the soiled portions.

GOOD CHEESE

The color of cheese is not the thing to go by, as the rich yellow may have been induced by coal tar or other coloring matter. Judge rather by its texture. Good cheese is reasonably solid, not too greasy and cuts grainy, rather than waxy.

CONCERNING WOMEN

A Japanese wife may be divorced by her husband for talking too much.

Great Britain has named a woman, Dame Edith Lyttelton, as one of the official delegates at the league of nations council meetings to be held at Geneva in September.

One of the most important cities of the United States bearing the name of a woman is Anniston, Ala., originally Annie's Town, named for the wife of one of its founders.

"Women are spoiling themselves by overeducation and too much work," said a well-known surgeon recently. "They are wearing themselves out in their desire for thoroughness."

For 18 months Miss Meitzner, 17 years old, of Riverton, N. J., has been doing diving work on the Delaware river. She is the youngest woman engaged in this unusual business.

Miss Mary Martha Morris has carried her youthful fondness for dolls to college, where she has adorned her dormitory room at the University of Texas with a collection of 40 dolls of all sizes and varieties.

CAN'T BE DONE

If baby continually pulls the ties out of his booties, tack them securely to the back of the bootie and the trick cannot be done.

PRESS IT FIRST

Press the mussed material before attempting to cut it out. You are very apt to have a misshapen garment if the material is not smooth under the pattern.

RECIPES

Frozen Peaches: This is a very economical dessert, and yet it is very good. Peel one quart of ripe peaches, slice and run through a colander. Boil one cup of granulated sugar with one pint of water and four cracked peach pits for seven minutes and cool.

Blend the sugar syrup with the peaches and add the juice of half a lemon and half a cup of chilled double cream, whipped solid. Freeze slowly as for sherbet. Remove the peach pits before blending the syrup with the fruit.

Mustard Pickles: Use equal quantities of small cucumbers, button onions and separated cauliflower. Keep covered with salted water for 24 hours, then add the brine and dissolve in it alum as big as a nutmeg for each gallon. Pour boiling brine over the pickles. When cold, drain thoroughly. Then prepare as much vinegar as there is brine. To one quart of vinegar use one cup of brown sugar, half a cup of flour, and one-fourth pound of ground mustard. Boil the sugar and vinegar. Mix the flour and mustard and stir into the boiling vinegar and when smooth pour it over the pickles.

Cleveland, O., is Prof. Hocking's native place. He was graduated at Harvard in 1901, won his degree of Ph. D. three years later, and, during 1902-03, was a student in Gottingen, Berlin and Heidelberg universities on a traveling fellowship from Harvard, won by his outstanding ability. From 1904 to 1906 he taught the history and philosophy of religion at Andover Theological seminary, and then went to the University of California to teach philosophy. In 1908, on the strength of his publications and the ability they disclosed, he was called to the philosophical department of Yale. While at New Haven he wrote The Meaning of God in Human Experience, a book that figured in his appointment to his present post at Harvard.

Stories That Recall Others

All Greek

At the golf course the player was addressing the ball. The next moment he had driven straight down the fairway. Those watching applauded.

"But I don't understand what it's all about," protested a golfer's "widow" to her husband, both of whom were watching the play.

"Well, you ought to, I told you what it was like. That was an iron shot and he is in line for a birdie." And taking his wife firmly by the arm, he started in pursuit of the players.

Whittles 'Em Down

Two colored boys were having an interesting debate as to which was the better fighter, all growing out of the claim that the other was shirking his work. One was a tall, dark boy; the other was short of light complexion.

"Yo just lak a rat," the little fellow said to the tall boy. "Yo crawl into every hole yo' kin find."

"Ain't crawlin' into no hole from yo'," was the sharp reply.

"No, boy, but I kin make yo' crawl. Jus' 'cause yo' long no reason yo' calc'late yo' kin git in a hole. I mess yo' all up with ma fists. I hit and kick yo' so fas' yo' think I'se a long-legged man."

"Yeh, all talk. Do yo' fightin' with yo' mouth. Just sayin' words."

"Does ma fightin' wiv words, huh? Neveh seen ma borin' knife, is yo'? I carries a borin' knife and I cuts long black guys lak yo' down to ma size."

TAFTVILLE A. A. AND J. B. MARTIN EACH WIN GAME IN ANNUAL VILLAGE SERIES

Nearly 5,000 fans saw the rival Taftville teams, the Taftville A. A. and the J. B. Martin teams, break even in the first two games of the annual series for the baseball supremacy of the village. Taftville took the opening contest at the Providence street grounds by a score of 6 to 5 but was given a wicked walloping Sunday at the J. B. Martin field, the score against them being 16 to 5.

Both teams entered into the fray with a vim and the first contest was hard fought throughout. Taftville took first blood in the second inning netting a two run lead. In the fourth a walk by Fisher cost a run and left the bases filled. Hits in succession brought in three more tallies in that inning and sent the Velvetmen into the lead 4 to 2. Taftville evened up matters in the last of the fourth on hits by Normandin, Mayer and Fisher, adding another run in the fifth. The Velvetmen again tied the score in the sixth but the winning Taftville run was waiting until the 7th. Fisher getting a two base hit and scoring on a single by Jarvis. The pitching honors were about even, Fisher for Taftville fanning 3 men and allowing no passes, while Brooks for the Velvetmen fanned six and walked five. The hits favored J. B. Martin 13 to 10, but they failed to get them when they counted most.

In the second game at the Velvetmen's field, Sunday, the Taftville team was hopelessly outclassed, J. B. Martin team finding Berg, Gauthier and Jarvis for 23 hits, Taftville getting but six hits, four of them coming in the ninth when Lanning let up and allowed the ball to be hit freely.

The game Sunday was far from interesting, the Velvetmen scoring almost at will, piling up a lead of 16 to 1 in the eighth, then slowed up to let Taftville score as many as possible before a third out was made.

Lanning for the Velvetmen had Taftville standing on its head, fanning 11 men and allowing but two hits until the final inning. All the Velvetmen shared in the hitting honors except Wildey and Smith, E. Murphy starring with five hits in five trips to the plate, two being for doubles.

The final game of the series will be played at some future date. The scores:

RIVERVIEW DEFEATED SOCONY OF NEW LONDON

Starting off with a five run drive in the first inning the Riverview club cracked away the game with the Socony team of New London, played Sunday at the hospital diamond. Three hits in order, mixed with a double steal and an error accounted for the runs Riverview winning 3 to 4.

The Socony team took a spurt in the third inning when West hit Chappell and Couillard singled. Burns was given a pass and West hit Chapman, forcing in one run, Couillard making the second run on Bardier's sacrifice fly. Two more runs were added in the fifth after two were out. Chapman got a Texas leaguer back of second and scored on a circuit clout by Barry.

In the ninth with one out, Socony had a man on first but Couillard lined out a drive that looked good for extra bases, only to have it speared by Kelley, who doubled the man on first ending the game. The score:

PAAVO NURMI BEATEN BY EMIL WIDE OF SWEDEN

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—(AP)—By running two miles today in 9 minutes one and two-fifths seconds, Emil Wide, of Sweden, not only settled old scores with Paavo Nurmi of Finland, whom he outdistanced by a score or more yards, but established a new world record.

Nurmi, too, outdid himself, also, beating the previous world record by covering the distance in 9 minutes 5 seconds.

(The previous world's record for two miles was made by the British champion A. Shrubb in 1904—9 minutes 9 and 3-5 seconds).

There were five men in the race, and the American Goodwin finished last. Goodwin took the lead at the start and held it for a thousand yards; then Nurmi went to the front and held that position up to about 300 yards from home.

It was then that Wild by a terrific spurt overtook Nurmi, who was unable to keep up the pace, and the Swedish champion fairly ran away from him at the end.

SPEAKER AND BURNS HAVE PERFECT DAY AT BAT

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 12—(AP)—Cleveland made it three straight today, winning 14 to 4 from Washington in a game played in the mud, pelted by rain and finished in semi-darkness. Washington played erratically in the field while Marberry, starting pitcher, was hit very hard. Levsen was fairly effective throughout and was brilliantly supported.

Speaker and Burns had perfect days at bat. Speaker having a single, two doubles and a triple while Burns had two singles and two doubles, his sixty-second and sixty-third, respectively, of the season.

DEMPSEY DEMONSTRATES HE STILL PACKS WALLOP

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, following the precedent established by Georges Carpentier, will finish the remainder of his training campaign in secret, with the public barred, starting Wednesday.

Tomorrow will be the last time the public will have a chance to see him in action before he crawls through the ropes into the ring in defense of the worlds heavyweight championship against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia Sept 23.

Dempsey in his five severe rounds of boxing today, convinced expert observers that he rapidly is getting on edge. The champion revealed his true fighting form by all but knocking out Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia light heavyweight, who only yesterday made Dempsey appear awkwardly clumsy and at times like a novice.

The champion, evidently smarting under the criticism of his showing yesterday, ripped into Loughran for two rounds this afternoon driving him around the ring under an avalanche of wicked punches. Twice he appeared to hold his blows in restrain after Loughran had been knocked back on his heels. Loughran was driven into the ropes a half dozen times with Dempsey tearing into him, shooting heavy left hooks and rights to the head. As the second round ended, Dempsey had Loughran's lips puffed and bleeding and in evident distress. Dempsey missed a left hook to the head with Loughran backed up against the ropes as the bell ended the second round and the champion crashed into the ropes with such force that he almost fell out of the ring.

After the two bristling rounds with Loughran, Dempsey flung punches at Martin Burke for two rounds, finishing up with a round against Frankie Carpenter. Dempsey punished Burke with the same viciousness with which he tore into Loughran, but the New Orleans boxer, knowing more of Dempsey's style, was more fortunate in escaping from some of those heavy wallops to the head.

BABE RUTH MUST HIT HOME RUN EVERY DAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Babe Ruth would need a home run a day and two on each of the Sundays left before the season ends to set a new major league record. He added only one to his list during the past week but his total of 42 gave him just twice as many as Wilson of Chicago, who leads the National league with 21. The New York Yankees have sixteen more games to play and Ruth's five year old record of 59 homers in a season bids fair to stand at least another year.

REDS AND PIRATES CREEP UP ON ST. LOUIS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 12—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds annexed both ends of a doubleheader with Brooklyn today by 5 to 0 and 4 to 3, climbing to within one game of the Cardinals who were idle. The Pirates kept pace with the Reds by taking a twin bill from the Giants, leaving the same margin of one and one half games separating the clubs.

Pete Donohue blanked the Robins with three hits in the opener and then came back to save the second contest relieving Luque with two on the bases and one out.

Aided by splendid fielding support, Donohue easily disposed of Brooklyn in the first game. Dazzy Vance went the route for the flock allowing 13 hits, four of which were made by Eddie Roush in the same number of times at bat.

Brooklyn advanced to an early lead in the second game and was not overtaken until the eighth when Hargrave hit a home run into the left field bleachers with a runner on. Doug McWeeney of the Robins was banished by Umpire Rigler in that inning and Bob McGraw finished the contest. Score:

PIRATES GAIN IN RACE FOR LEAGUE PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Pittsburgh entered upon its invasion of the east today with a double victory over the New York Giants by 5 to 1 and 7 to 1, thereby advancing the Pirates to within two and one-half games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Home runs featured the opening contest, Kelly breaking a scoreless tie with a circuit blow in the sixth while Waner knotted the score with another in the seventh. However, two rallies in the eighth and ninth netted the visitors four runs to put the game safely away.

Aldridge twirled steadily until the last frame when he blew up and left the game with the bases full and two out. Bush went to his rescue and retired Pinch-Hitter Terry for the final out.

In the second game, Meadows pitched perfect ball for six and two-thirds innings when Frisch beat out an infield tap. New York's lone run was the result of Meusel's triple and Tyson's single in the eighth.

Paul Waner of the Pirates was the batting star of the day with five safeties good for 14 bases, two of which were home runs. He drove in two runs in each game.

The Giants' announced the purchase of Chick Thompson, second baseman of the Buffalo International League club. The price was not stated. The score:

TORONTO CINCHES THE INT. LEAGUE PENNANT

BUFFALO, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs cinched beyond all question the International league pennant laurels for 1926 when they squelched the Bisons in both portions of a twin bill here this afternoon by scores of 9 to 8, and 4 to 0.

OVER FORTY CANDIDATES OUT FOR CONN. AGGIES FOOTBALL ELEVEN

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 11.—Intensive drill for what is expected will be the largest Connecticut Aggie grid squad in the history of the college will be started here next Thursday, according to the announcement of Sumner A. Dole today, Wesleyan is the Aggies first opponent on Oct. 2, which means Storrs eleven will be given a stiff test in its first encounter.

Captain John J. Daly of Hartford, is at present visiting his brother Maurice of the Army eleven at West Point, where he is a daily visitor at the practices of the cadet squad. The older Daly is the regular center on the Army eleven, and John holds a similar position on the Nutmegger's team. Maurice captained the 1922 Aggie eleven from a fullback position.

John Daly is a good exampl. of a scholar-athlete, having attained exceptionally high grades which will enable him to graduate from the State college in three and a half years instead of the customary four. Because of this, he withdrew from college last February at the beginning of the second semester, and since that time has been working on the poultry farm of Fellows Brothers at Norwich Town. When seen two weeks ago he was in exceptionally good condition, and ready for the first call to practice.

Coach Dole will be assisted in the coming season by Freshman Coach L. A. Alexander '23; W. S. Moreland '26, halfback on last year's eleven; and Wallace Elliet of Presque Isle, Me., a member of two University of Maine State Champion elevens in 1924 and 1925. Elliet, a graduate student at Storrs, played guard at Maine, and will assist with the line men.

With over forty men expected for the first practice, Coach Dole plans to utilize the senior members of the team as group instructors for the first week of practice. This will enable him to develop the squad more thoroughly in the amount of time available, he believes.

Arthur V. (Pep) Williams '28 of Danielson, on whom Connecticut followers are counting to raise havoc with opposing lines, was a visitor here this week. After a summer of hard work in a New Hampshire forestry camp, Williams weighs 215 pounds and is without any superfluous flesh. Williard Eddy '26 of Simsbury, triple threat man was a visitor this week also, and following a summer in the tobacco fields of his home town is ready for the approaching season. Others who called during the week included Quarterback William K. Schofield '27, of Waterbury, who is in excellent shape after a summer in a Massachusetts boy's camp; and Arthur Zeilin '27 of Arlington, Mass., regular tackle last year.

Arthur Lorentzen '27, regular guard from Naugatuck will be able to play this fall, though according to reports received a few days ago he was threatened with an attack of appendicitis which would have kept him from competition. He has been passed following a doctor's examination, and will report with the rest of the squad next Thursday.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE CHANCE FOR ST. LOUIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Record breaking interest dominated the baseball world today in view of the portending world series with the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals as principals.

St. Louis has never carried off a baseball banner and now after practically 50 years of waiting, the team of that populace appears on the verge of becoming a reality. The rise of the Cardinals has injected great enthusiasm west of the Mississippi and from all sections fans in droves are preparing to attend the world series.

Performances of the past week show that of the three leading contenders, the Cardinals alone managed more than an even break. St. Louis won four of the seven games, the Pirates five out of eleven and the Reds, three out of nine.

Manager Rogers Hornsby has displayed considerable skill in distributing the work of his pitching staff.

One of the outstanding events of the recent Pirates-Cardinals series was the showing of Allen Sothoron, formerly of the Browns, Red Sox and Indians, Sothoron beat the Pirates, 2 to 1, in one of the crucial games allowing three hits.

The battle for a first division rating in the American circuit will be on in earnest for the remainder of the championship journey. The end of the week found six games separating the sixth place White Sox from the third place Athletics with the Senators fourth and Tigers fifth. Cleveland was intrenched in second place, three games in front of the mackmen.

The week also saw the end of a losing streak by the Boston Red Sox which had extended through 17 contests. The club came near equalling its own record for successive reverses of 20 which occurred in 1906 and duplicated by the Philadelphia Athletics of 1916. However, the Pittsburgh Nationals of 1890 figured as the worst ball club known by losing 23 straight.

Talk of Wilbert Robinson signing a three-year contract as manager of the Brooklyn Robins continued. The question of Robinson quitting the bench and appointing a successor, however, was still open for speculation with Sach Wheat, Max Carey and Jack Fournier mentioned as likely candidates. Reports also had it that Arthur Fletcher of the Phillies was being considered as pilot.

OFFICER LEE ACCUSED AT NEW LONDON OF DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—David R. Lee, executive officer aboard U. S. S. Camden, stationed at the submarine base, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, charged with "violation of the motor vehicle law," although Murphy insisted that Lee was driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Lee was examined by City Physician George P. Cheney to determine whether the officer had been drinking, but the doctor did not render his opinion. Lee was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $150 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning Director of Finance Carey Congdon, qualifying as surety.

Lee was driving a Ford sedan on Main street about 2:30 o'clock, when the automobile crashed against an automobile driven by Victor Orazi, 31 Richard street, which was motionless because of traffic conditions. Both cars were damaged, but not bad. Lee suffered a cut lower lip as a result of being thrown against the steering wheel. He assumed full responsibility for the accident.

Cars had been brought to a stop on Main street, near the corner of Main by Officer Murphy, who was directing traffic. Lee's car was observed approaching at a fast rate of speed and in another instant it crashed against the rear of Orazi's automobile, the fenders of the two automobiles being locked so that it required considerable effort to free them. After the crash Lee alighted and as he stepped to the pavement witnesses of the accident declared that Lee was intoxicated. He was taken to the police station and his automobile was held by the police as they refused to allow Lee to continue to drive it. Lee denied to Dr. Cheney that he had been drinking and stated that the accident resulted when he stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake.

BRIDGEPORT FATHER FINDS MISSING DAUGHTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—Andrew Shay, 593 Broad street, Bridgeport, came to New London last evening in search of his daughter, Helen Shay, 17, who had run away from home. He informed Patrolman George Cockell of his belief that the girl was rooming in a Bank street house. On their way to the rooming house, Officer Cockell and Shay came upon the girl, who was accompanied by Bertha Hicks, 13, also of Bridgeport. The two girls were taken to police headquarters, where Shay arranged to escort the runaways back home. The girls stated that they have been in New London since Sept. 1.

An automobile driven by Truth Edson, 44 Perry street, in which was Miss Louise Horton, and an automobile driven by Reuben Lubchansky, 217 Main street, collided this morning on Federal street, corner of Huntington street. Miss Horton was injured, sustaining cuts and bruises. Both automobiles were damaged.

An automobile driven by Johnathan L. Johnson, 31 Lincoln avenue, Norwich, and one driven by Thomas Curtin, 235 Connecticut avenue, collided at 1 o'clock this morning on Ocean avenue, corner of Lee avenue. Both automobiles were damaged and Johnson and Curtis were injured, principally from shattered glass. Johnson and Curtis reported the accident at police headquarters.

There will be much business to claim the attention of Judge Victor Prince in the police court Monday morning; for over 20 cases are scheduled to be presented for various offences, principally for intoxication and violation of the motor vehicle laws. Included in the bunch of drunks to be presented is Bernard Styrman, 48, a marine fireman. Styrman was arrested on North Bank street by Patrolman Louis Wheeler Saturday night. After Styrman had been locked up two hours he became ill and was attended by City Physician George Cheney.

Charles H. Perry, 56, well known resident of Waterford, died Saturday morning following a lingering illness caused by infirmities attending his advanced years.

Mrs. Charles Parandes, of Hartford; Ernest Merry, United States Coast Guard destroyer Henley; Mrs. Frederick Taylor, Groton; Mrs. Dewey Davis, Germantown, Pa.; Miss Mary Fleming, Lower Boulevard; Benjamin Scapden, Waterford; Frederick Tuttle, 107 Federal street and Miss Virginia Newberry, 151 Howard street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

A slight fire occurred Saturday night at the municipal pier, where the planking became ignited, probably by a cigar or cigarette butt being dropped between decayed timbers. A brisk wind prevailed and the timbers became ablaze. Patrolman George Cockell was informed of the fire and notified police headquarters. Fire headquarters was communicated with and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Nameaug Engine company responded. The fire was extinguished with chemicals, with but slight damage resulting.

Joseph Casimon, 27 Steward street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Michael Dorsey charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He furnished a surety on his bond of $150 for his presentation in the police court Monday morning.

Santo Sciro, 232 Shaw street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen Clarence Martin and Ellwood Bailey on a charge of breach of the peace prefered by his wife. Sciro went home in an ugly mood and quickly engaged in a quarrel with his wife. Sciro created such a disturbance that Mrs. Sciro appealed to the police.

An automobile driven by James H. Martin struck Louis Esposito, 7, of 619 Bank street, on Bank street, near Shaw street, Saturday afternoon. The boy was knocked down, but escaped injury other than body bruises.

A holdup took place Saturday night at West Warwick, R. I., and the Groton state police were requested to be on the lookout for the crooks. The three robbers were in a maroon colored automobile, which carried Rhode Island registration.

Allen Hopkins, of New York, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy on complaint of Lieut. Com. Withers, of the destroyer Davis, who alleged that Hopkins was wearing the uniform of the United States navy without authority, as Hopkins was not an enlisted man in the service. He will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

Two fights took place at the Salvation army lodging house, corner of State and North Bank street, Saturday night. Walter Korpensky, a soldier, stationed at Fort Wright became so ugly that he precipitated a fight and was arrested by Patrolmen Ernest Opperman and Arthur Feeley. The other fighter was Peter Kelley and he was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan and Ellwood Bailey.

John Davis, United States Coast Guard, stationed at the state pier, made complaint to the police Saturday morning that he parked his motorcycle on the pier Friday night and when he returned there this morning he found that the motorcycle was missing. Saturday night Davis notified the police that he had found the motorcycle, which had been placed alongside the Thames river highway bridge and abandoned by whoever took it. Davis stated that he had been informed that two sailors had used the motorcycle.

A. G. Fritts, 58 Phillips street, complained to the police Saturday night that his automobile was struck by an unidentified automobile on Main street, near Richards street and damaged. The driver of the colliding automobile failed to stop and continued through Main street to Federal street where it disappeared from view. Fritts was unable to obtain the registration of the automobile.

There were half a dozen drunks in the police court Saturday, but they were usually first offenders before the court and they were allowed to keep going and get away from this city. The exception was Welch Ustach, a fellow who has occasional drunks when he is out of employment. He was fined $5.

Jacob Rosenberg and Emma Weiner were charged with violation of the rules of the road in not reducing the speed of their autos in passing intersecting streets. Neither would admit that they were conscious of speeding. The court allowed both to go unpenalized.

A woman residing on Truman street, who refused to reveal her name, notified the police Saturday afternoon that a man was driving an automobile and was under the influence of liquor. She stated that the car had been driven from the yard of Miller's garage, Truman street, a few minutes before and was headed south on Truman street. Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey was ordered to arrest the man, but his search did not result in the driver being located.

Passengers on the sound steamers in and out of this port have been given excellent views of submarines of late for during the past two weeks there have been anywhere from two to four submarines at anchor in the harbor. The steamers pass close to the submarine so that the passengers obtain a close-up of the undersea boats.

A shore patrol from the United States Coast Guard destroyer Wilkes, state pier, informed the police Saturday morning that a prisoner named Bottomley, escaped from the Wilkes Friday night. When Bottomley made his escape he wore blue overalls and jumper. He is described as being 22, about five feet eight inches in height and having brown eyes.

H. W. Davis, sailor, stationed at Ward F-1, Brooklyn, N. Y., navy hospital, complained to the police Saturday morning that his Tudor sedan had been stolen. Davis stated that he parked the automobile on the state pier when he went to Brooklyn several days ago and upon his return here Saturday he discovered its theft.

Harold Hunlock, 35, about five feet five inches in height, a patient at Norwich State hospital, escaped Saturday morning. He was dressed in a blue suit. The New London police have been requested to maintain a look out for Hunlock who may come to this city in an endeavor to reach his home.

NINE CANDIDATES SEEK OFFICE OF COUNCILOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—Tomorrow will be election day in New London, when members of the city council, board of school visitors and board of selectmen will be elected. But little interest is being manifested in the annual election and it is believed that a comparatively small vote will be cast. There are nine candidates for office of councilor, Jeremiah J. Lyons, John F. Murray, Michael L. O'Connell, Malcolm M. Scott, Frank S. Shea, Emily Spiers, Edward L. Streeter, Jr., Robert B. Chappell and Mathias Keenan. Because of an error having been made by the press in the last candidate's name, there is a possibility of confusion. The name of Mr. Keenan's son, Matthew Keenan has been mentioned in the press as the seeker of the office, when in reality it is the father for whom the ballots will be cast. The candidates for office of school visitor are E. Victor Goldsmith, Dr. Joseph M. Ganey and Frederick W. Edgerton, whose term of office expires Oct. 1, all three will be elected. For selectmen, William L. White and Lawrence S. M. Cook, whose term of office expires Oct. 1 seek reelection. The new candidates are George R. Morris, Jr., and Peter J. Eshenfelder.

AUGUST HENNO DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—August Henno, 32 Hamilton St., tailor, about 55 died this morning while being rushed to the hospital, death resulting from a heart attack he suffered on the street.

Henno was walking through Howard street about 11 o'clock and when near the corner of Bank street, suffered the attack and collapsed, falling in a heap on the sidewalk. Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh was nearby and commandeering an automobile because of the apparent seriousness of Henno's condition, the stricken man was rushed to the hospital but he expired a short distance from the place where he fell.

Joseph Ferrigno, 10 Jefferson avenue, was arrested this evening by Traffic Officer Ernest Opperman, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law, in not possessing driver's license nor registration and failing to heed a signal given him by an officer. He was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning, being one of 26 cases scheduled for hearings.

The WENTWORTH Re-du-Sea, Portsmouth, N. H.

Did You Ever Drive Up Here?

ONE of the finest of New England's shore resorts, as thousands know, is THE WENTWORTH. It is located in a private park of 125 acres on an island in the harbor of Portsmouth, N.H. On this island, in 1669, Samuel Wentworth opened the first inn in this section. Here occurred the first overt act of the American Revolution.

This splendid hotel became world famous when the Russo-Japanese Peace Treaty was signed here at the instigation of President Roosevelt. Now hundreds of people find here their ideal summer playground.

Driving up in the morning to this porte-cochere is something one never forgets. Every outlook breathes a welcome. Breakfast is ready—and such a breakfast. The coffee they serve here is La Touraine. Thousands of people from all over the country have here first gained their introduction to this exquisite coffee.

When you can't be at THE WENTWORTH you can still enjoy its coffee. All the year around you can serve it on your table if you will. It will bring you delights your home never can know till you do this. You have never tasted a coffee blend to compare with La Touraine (Extra).

Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee

It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 237 years of coffee development.

It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffees. In all Statler Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.

The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.

Three of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 25% more than Sao Paulo, the prize coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent twenty years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.

Mr. E. J. Butler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this premier coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.

La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

East Lynne, the William Fox production of the celebrated stage play and novel, which Emmett Flynn directed for the screen, is coming to the Breed theater Wednesday for two days. An all-star cast of unusual excellence will be seen, including Edmund Lowe, Alma Rubens, Lou Tellegen, Frank Keenan, Leslie Fenton, Paul Panzar, Beele Bennett, Marjorie Daw and Lydia Knott.

Capitol Theater, Willimantic

Willimantic has been wanting to see The Green Hat for some months, and tonight at the Capitol theater you may have that pleasure.

Michael Arlen, in dramatizing his widely read book The Green Hat has given the theater one of its most interesting plays. He tells a good story of well-bred sinners, without giving the impression of dirtiness or eternal "significance." Mr. Arlen calls a spade a spade, but he does it gracefully, sometimes even wittily. His sinners disarm you by their apparent sincerity and modern frankness.

His Green Hat as a play, has the stuff that makes people buy theater tickets. It also has the stuff that keeps them in their seats, once inside.

This famous play will be presented here with a distinguished company of players, including Dorothy Overend, the famous English star. Mr. Norman Houston, general stage director for A. H. Woods, has staged the production.

Bradley Theater, Putnam

A choice theatrical plum has been plucked by Manager Alpert of the Bradley theater, Putnam, who announces that he has arranged to bring The Green Hat here for one night only, Tuesday evening, Sept. 14th and it ought to prove to be one of the truly enjoyable offerings of the season.

The Green Hat has become the foremost theatrical topic of conversation of the fascination of its heroine, whose moral viewpoint was the cause of such world-wide discussion when she first made her appearance in Michael Arlen's novel of the same name. Local theatergoers have long anticipated with the keenest pleasure the unique experience of meeting Iris March face to face in the flesh.

The characters of The Green Hat brought to life, will be enacted by a distinguished company, including Dorothy Overend, Geraldine Browning, Yvonne Dor, Margaret Temple, Rupert Lucas, Arthur Metcalfe, W. Boyd Davis, Craig Nelso, Courtney Travers, J. Paul Callan and several others.

Reserved seats, from $1 to $2.50, plus taxes, now on sale at the box office.

Broadway Theater

In The Judge's Husband, William Hodge's starring vehicle, in which the popular actor will be seen at the Broadway theater for one night on Wednesday, Sept. 15, there is revealed almost at the very rise of the curtain the turbulent state of the Kirby household, for Mrs. Kirby has political ambitions. In fact, according to records, she might be termed the 260ist woman lawyer in the United States and the second woman judge of a circut court—Mary M. Bartelme of Chicago is the other in real life. The case of the Kirbys affords many laughable and dramatic situations, culminating in a startling novelty in court room scenes. Plain, honest, lovable Joe Kirby, a keen witted Yankee lawyer, played by Mr. Hodge, is hailed before his wife as judge in her own action for divorce.

It is said that Mr. Hodge's many admirers will find his latest comedy one of the most original, entertaining and thoroughly delightful vehicles in which he has appeared in many years. The play was written by Mr. Hodge and has been favorably received in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. The attraction plays here prior to the New York engagement which begins September 27th.

Mr. Hodge has surrounded himself with a cast of true metropolitan excellence, with Gladys Hanson in the feminine lead as the judge. The supporting company to be seen here will be the same that opens in New York at the Maxine Elliott theater.

The box office is open every day for the advance reserved ticket sale.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Busy at Black Point

Within the last month, seven cottages have been completed at Black Point, where activities continue so that the season is to be prolonged up to Nov. 1st. James Jay Smith is keeping his office on the point open until that date. A number of Norwich people have been at the point and are greatly interested in the development of the fine location. Miss Grace Benjamin, of Norwich has been most successful in the disposal of choice cottage sites on the bluff this season.

Broadway theatre

Due to the William Hodge show playing at the Broadway theater Wednesday, the management rather than disappoint the many vaudeville fans, will present a Keith-Albee vaudeville program of four acts. Although the acts play here today and Tuesday only, they were originally scheduled for the three days and the patrons are assured of a good program even though it is for two days only.

Nothing in recent years has so held the attention and intrigued the imagination as the screen version of The Keeper of the Bees, Gene Stratton-Porter's famous novel which appeared in McCall's magazine recently and which reaches the silver sheet by way of the skilful direction of Leo Meehan, son-in-law of the noted novelist. The Keeper of the Bees is now showing at the Broadway theater, and in addition to other high spots of interest it contains in the cast, Mrs. Porter's granddaughter, Gene Stratton Monroe, who was the original of the Little Scout character. Colorful with the backgrounds of the wide Pacific and the wind-born trees of the West Coast cliffs, warm with a human sentiment that only a Mrs. Porter could portray, and telling a big, throbbing story of a war hero's fight against sickness and disease, the latest F. O. B. production of Mrs. Porter's works leaves a lasting impression of fineness. It is thorough entertainment throughout, and an excellent cast supports the Little Scout.

Breed Theater

When Elinor Glyn starts out to tell a love story it is done in such a realistic way that one is carried along living with the leading characters and breathing with them too.

Madame Glyn's books first won acclaim and now she is making as definite a name for herself in her screen productions for they are utterly unlike any other pictures made and one is always sure of a palpitating moment or two when viewing a picture or hers.

The Only Thing, which opened at the Breed theater on Sunday is by far the best picture she has given to the screen, even surpassing in interest the passionate story of Three Weeks and the fiery one of His Hour.

The characters in this newest Glyn offering are real. There is a queen who might easily be a queen. That is the leading feminine role played by Eleanor Boardman. Her exterior is dignified but there is a warmth beneath that is clearly discernible. Miss Boardman wears a blonde wig for the occasion. It is becoming and gives to the screen followers a new fair-haired beauty that easily might rival any blonde star on the screen. There is a grace and ease about Miss Boardman's performance that carries one away.

Conrad Nagel plays the leading male role—that of Harry Vane, Duke of Chevenix. His fiery love for the beautiful queen is nobly portrayed and one finds a sparkle never discerned before in this performance of his.

There has never been a more tense scene pictured than the one of the wedding. The princess does not flinch for a second and the duke stands by and carries out the orders of his king.

This is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture and the company should be praised highly for the class of the production which in every detail measures up to the highest standards.

Jack Conway directed the picture. Elinor Glyn supervised it and wrote the script, and Chat Lyons is credited with the photographic effects, which are beautiful, and Cedric Gibbons with the sets, which are magnificent.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Uneven price movements developed in this week's financial and commodity markets. Stocks lost ground with the reaction generally attributed to the correction of a temporary overbought condition. While professional operators working for higher prices were disappointed at the lack of public participation, they derived some encouragement from the favorable character of current earnings and trade reports and hoped for increased interest after the mid-month tax, dividend and interest payments were out of the way.

Bond prices held relatively firm, but the volume of new corporate financing was small. Heavy oversubscription of the treasury note issue still seeking investment.

Wheat prices rallied several cents a bushel, although current quotations are still about 20 cents a bushel below what they were a year ago. With increasing indications of another large winter crop, prices of that commodity lost ground, the closing of certain New [illegible] having a depressive effect on speculative sentiment. Raw sugar prices advanced to new high [illegible] season. Commodity prices [illegible] were firm.

Although the entrance of Germany into the league of nations was well received in financial circles, the principal foreign exchanges lost ground during the week, due to the pressure of commercial bills. The latest attempt of Premier Mussolini was reflected in the heaviness [illegible] government bonds, but caused little disturbance in the market for [illegible] lire.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Life's Captain

Life's captain is the sunshine—and so we march the hill;
His flashing sword is of the Lord, to light and not to kill.

Life's captain is the sunshine—he has
this song, the smile;
And so we take the winding road that runs the magic mile.

Life's captain is the sunshine—and lead me on, I say.
Unto the sweeter singing, into the purer day.

My master and commander—unfaltering
I it me sing.
The music of the sun of love that crowns the sun our king.

Life's captain is the sunshine—and
this shall be my quest;
To follow and fulfill my fate and five
by lives high test.
—Folger McKinsey, The Bentstown Bard.

The Fly

How large unto the tiny fly
Must little things appear!
A rosebud like a feather bed,
Its prickle like a spear.

A dewdrop like a looking glass;
A hair like golden wire;
The smallest grain of mustard seed
As fierce as coals of fire;
A loaf of bread a lofty hill;
A wasp, a cruel leopard;
And specks of salt as bright to see
As lumbkins to a shepherd.
—Walter De La Mare.

Washington's Tomb

Great kings of old have wrapped them round in state,
And, clothed in splendor, yielded up their breath,
Dreaming a monarch's fame should outlast Death.
And gold and jewels stay the hand of Fate.

The treasures of the earth have decked their tombs;
With amber, topaz, diamonds and jade
Have skillful craftsmen their dark house inlaid,
As though their jewled gleam might light Death's glooms.

Yet have kings slept the centuries
away,
Their names forgotten and their glories dim;
And no man's lips have named the name of him
Who walked as walks a god, a little day.

But thou, a Country's honor and its pride,
How void of splendor is thy sleeping place!
For no man's hand has skill enough to trace
The story of thy worth, thy grave beside.

Yet here shall gather through all passing days,
So long as men shall reverence the true,
Children and children's children, to renew
Thy Country's homage in their heartfelt praise.

Sleep thou serenely in the earth's soft breast
Better than radiant gems or dazzling gold
Our love and reverence about thee fold:
In nobler state what king would ask to rest?
—Lois Whittlesey.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Hey many of the Wide Awakes have a hobby? There are numerous hobbies and every one of them is good if looked upon in the right spirit. Many children are collectors of stamps, of buttons shells, different woods, colored earth, leaves, etc. Sometimes parents call this collecting trash, and they are right, unless the collector learns all that is to be learned from the objects collected. Collecting objects of various kinds opens the way for study and knowledge.

For instance a collection of stamps spurs the collector to learn all he can about the stamps from our own and foreign countries, to study the history of the various countries and to read up on the biography of the persons whose portraits are used on the stamps. Sometimes animals and objects are shown on the stamps. They often tell of a change in reign or show the results of revolutions. Stamps in a collection are like tiny notebooks, containing a wealth of information if it is only ferreted out.

There is a saying that a rolling stone gathers no moss. The reason for this is that if a stone is continually rolling moss has no chance to grow on it. So the ragged edges of the stone become smoother and smoother through friction and in time the stone is worn round and glossy. Pebbles on the shore are being continually rolled by the waves and the tides and hence they become very smooth and round.

Don't be a "rolling stone" for if you are you gathering but scanty information. Have an active not an idle mind. Be a searcher for the why and wherefore every day of your life and you will be sure to be well informed.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

My Dream

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to the Wide Awakes about my dream.

There was once a fellow that had a boy carved out of worry. He always carried it with him wherever he went. This fellow was very fond of girls, so one night he went to see one of his girls. He forgot his ivory box at home. He had a good time at the girl's house. When he was ready to go home she girl told him to wait for her return. When she returned she had a rope with her. She told him she would tie the rope around him and let him down by the porch, when he was half way between the porch and the earth she made him hang there until morning. When the people went by they laughed at him. He was very angry at them. After awhile his nephew went by and he told him to wait. He told him to go home and get him his ivory box. When the boy returned he threw it up to his uncle. He caught it and opened the lid and we heard some voices saying, "I'm at your command master." The fellow told them that he would like to be untied and set free. It was no sooner said than done. I afterwards learned that he kept evil spirits in his command. It was a funny dream, but I was glad it wasn't true.

The White Stag

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you and all the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story about the white stag.

One of the expeditions of Charlemagne was into Italy. He would go across the Alps but when the gorges, crags and winding ways presented themselves Charlemagne began to lose confidence. He would have to go back and give the expedition up altogether or enter Italy by a different way. Courage was renewed when Archbishop Turpin bent his head in prayer. When they had finished they were about to go ahead when suddenly upon the southern slopes was seen a beautiful creature such as one never saw before. Archbishop Turpin cried out, "Behold the creature. Behold the heaven sent creature who will be our guide across crags, gorges and winding paths. The creature was as white as snow. On its head were two wide spreading antlers and it seemed as though sunbeams came forth from every point. They started up to where the creature stood. The white stag led with a long line of men, with Charlemagne at the head. The steep descents seemed to rise up higher, and the snow-capped peaks to look down upon them more angrily. They travelled up the mountains with still the white stag as guide. More than once the men would have turned back except for the courage of Charlemagne and the radiant and beautiful creature whom they felt sure would guide them to Italy. When they had gone over many descents and bottomless gulfs that almost swallowed them up they reached a peak upon which they could stand and look back at sweet France which seemed like a speck in the distance. When they looked forward hoping to see a map of fair Italy it would seem as though the crags would grow like a wall before them. For seven days they traveled over the winding paths and crags and on the eighth day their hopes were rewarded. There lay before them sunny Italy and fields. When Archbishop Turpin and Charlemagne bowed their heads to pray the soldiers did so also and when they lifted their heads the white deer had disappeared.

Roger Williams Park.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to the Wide Awakes. I live at Narragansett, R. I., beside the ocean. I like to live down here very much. Roger Williams park is 20 miles from Narragansett. Our Sunday school teacher gave us a picnic and we went to Roger Williams park. We saw a buffalo, bear and deer. The deer ate leaves out of our hands. The bear chewed a piece of gum, and you should have seen him chew it. We saw an eagle, peacock, and on our way up we got some peanuts and we gave some to the monkeys and then we started for home. We had a lovely time. I am 11 years old and have to go to school next week.

My Vacation.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my vacation. I went to Worcester, Webster, Putnam and Hartford.

I went to my aunt's and cousin's and they took my sister and I to the theatre, and then visited public buildings.

One Sunday we went to Green Hill park to see the fishes. We brought bread to feed the fishes; also saw the stuffed birds of all kinds and also live ones.

There were a great many people there. It is a very nice place to see. We enjoyed it very much. We spent two weeks, and it seemed quite short. We made the trip by auto. It is a very pleasant trip.

A Hot Dog Roast

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you and the Wide Awake circle to you and the Wide Awake circle to you and the Wide Awake circle. A girl friend of mine had a hot dog roast Wednesday evening. She invited my sister and I and 20 other boy and girl friends.

We had hot dogs, roasted corn and marshmallows. We had a fire and we each had a long stick. After we got out hot dogs and put them on the stick we held them over the fire, then we would take the corn and put than on the stick. We then toasted our marshmallows. We then played all kinds of games. We played telephone, and fortune and other kind of games. We certainly had a nice time and we all enjoyed it very much.

"The Billy Goat."

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written for a long time, so I thought I would write today.

We have a billy goat that is four months old. He is all white and under his lower jaw he has little things that we call whiskers but they are not.

My little nephew likes to play with him. When he puts his fists up to Billy's head Billy will butt them. James will pull his tail and he will jump in the air about four feet and then start for James. James thinks this is great sport. So when people come he runs to the billy goat and pulls his tail to make them laugh.

Sunday James took a handful of salt and the billy goat licked it

PASTOR SAYS ELIOT'S FAME ON MORE LASTING BASIS THAN VALENTINO'S

Valentino found support to fame, but a fame that [illegible] transient which Charles William Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, built a lasting fame on the strength of a commanding character said Rev. A. N. Foster in his sermon Sunday morning at the Church of the Good Shepherd "Universal Light Two Types of American Life: Rudolph Valentino and Charles William Eliot."

The [illegible] text was Ecclesiasticus XLIV:2. The wise leaders of the people, each [illegible] generation [illegible] from [illegible] of the [illegible] Valentino [illegible] suggests the natural reaction of the moving pictures and their [illegible] ing influence on modern society. This thought is supplemented by that of the swift and skilled dramatic adjustment of [illegible] vast [illegible] and to [illegible] [illegible] although he wins the shortlived [illegible] such fame is transient.

[illegible] William Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, at the age of 92 [illegible] for close to half a century, was not a great inventor like Franklin or Edison. He was not a capitalist like Gould or Rockefeller. He was not an orator like Beecher or Phillips or Bishop Brooks, all of whom were known to him; and yet if the final test of oratory be the shaping of public policy, what orator exerted greater influence than he, through the changes of two generations.

He was not a great scientist like [illegible] but during his [illegible] punishments was but the lengthened shadow of its noted president. So great may individual influence become. It seems safe to assume there are numerous friends in Norwich who [illegible] knew him in personal acquaintance. Such will vainly recall the erect and stalwart form, the countenance fair [illegible]

[illegible] ter for American scholarship and coordinated the work of specialists and gave it greatly enhanced power before the world.

He was a great educator. Of all the great leaders who have advanced the distinctive policies of American education, I should magnify two names, Thomas Jefferson who founded the University of Virginia after which the state universities of Michigan and Wisconsin and others were patterned and President Eliot who during the 40 years he directed the policies at Cambridge advanced Harvard to the rank of the great universities of the world. The divinity school was changed from a denominational recruiting center to a school for the scientific study of all creeds and all denominations. The changes in the law and medical schools were no less significant. The watchword for these two great leaders in American education was the same—"Freedom. With Jefferson it meant freedom from oppression by the state and ecclesiasticism in the church. With Eliot it meant the development of the elective system of instruction and the [illegible] of the appeal to the student's [illegible] motive.

Indeed his statement of the Five Foot Shelf of Books Library was an assertion of freedom from the conventions and traditions of the past. [illegible] for the years of a generation America's first citizen although he held no public office whatever.

He was of austere Puritan ancestry and was the center of Cambridge culture and yet he has frequently sought on the platform in the discussions of labor unions and collective [illegible] and has [illegible] cause of prohibition with emphasis and did not fail to clear the state economic argument in its favor. He championed the cause of the league of nations as showing the intelligence, duty and the rare opportunity for American leadership. In such connection, party ties were of secondary or incidental value only.

Few men have commanded the trustees of the world scholarship which came to him on his 90th birthday and few Americans have shared such extensive acquaintance with the leading personages of the world. Yet, as was ever the great example of "plain living and high thinking" and he ever magnified the joy found in work as of supreme importance in any real evolution of life. "Always young for liberty" and ever forward looking, despite the passing of the years; perhaps [illegible] a [illegible] mind and head on his and a secret of his remarkable leadership. In religion, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

PROSPERITY STRESSED BY M'LEAN IN KEYNOTE ADDRESS AT G. O. P. CONVENTION

As Temporary Chairman of Republican State Convention, Senator McLean Declared All the Keynote We Shall Need in 1928 Will Be the Consent of Calvin Coolidge to Run Again—While Not in Sympathy With the 18th Amendment, the Senator Would Not Have the Dry Act Changed at Present, and Counseled Patience Until a Sane Solution is Reached—Spoke in Complimentary Terms of Senator Bingham and Governor Trumbull—Only Contests Will Be For Offices of Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General.

HARTFORD, Sept. 13—(AP)—Prosperity as the 1926 campaign issue and Calvin Coolidge himself "if he will again" for the 1928 issue were interwoven by U. S. Senator [illegible] tonight, when he delivered the keynote address as temporary chairman to the republican state convention which tomorrow will renominate Hiram Bingham and complete a state ticket in the field for the November election.

Issues relegated to lesser importance, such questions as the league of nation membership, cancellation of war debts, foreign relations and the tariff were given attention to each in turn, such as he has been urging.

Senator McLean declared that in his opinion the issue before the people this year is simply "Let that which is well and sound to be better alone. Let that which is not right ought to. In 1926, 1928 will be the issue of itself. All the keynote speeches used in 1924, will be the constant refrain of Coolidge to run again."

Senator McLean referring to the absence of Governor Hopkins Clark, who has been at every convention which has met since he was named said that he spoke to [illegible] and it is believed Mr. Clark, "wise and prudent leader" would have [illegible] chances the senator said made it impossible to give close attention. His reference on the "wet and dry" issue was brief, but that he was not in sympathy with the 18th amendment. He declared that repeal of the amendment, if it be brought about, must be by persuasion and not of legislation. He said that so long as the people have grains, fruits and vegetables which will ferment they will have alcohol if they want it. His solution to start solving the problem was to start an inquiry into the drinking and country-wide condition of alcohol and keep the question out of politics. One good thing the prohibition amendment did, he said, was to close the saloon. He would not have it changed at present and believed that with and dry ought to be wise to have patience until a sane solution is reached.

Senator McLean praised national and state administrations, spoke of [illegible] elementary terms of Senator Bingham's services in the senate, and of Governor Trumbull was the [illegible] governor on the ground. In the air [illegible] on the water" as well as in his office.

The State Guard armory in which the convention was held never looked gayer than it did tonight, the decorative scheme being generous, and the tri-color on the gallery rail being put through neatness. The delegates entered slowly but they were enthusiastic as they entered and took their seats. The attendance of spectators was limited to two rows in the balcony.

It was 8:20 when State Chairman J. Henry Roraback dropped his gavel and called the convention to order. He then presented the name of the state committee, Mrs. Katharine Byrne, of Putnam, who had been in honor and a pleasure to present the temporary chairman, Senator McLean.

The audience laughed when the senator made a sally of the man with the [illegible] who if he did not use it on Monday preferred to ride in a trolley car [illegible] until Monday. More applause came when he said that good manners and good sporting and they go a long ways toward peace with the world. Delegates laughed and nudged each other [illegible] in referring to foreign relations, when Senator McLean said he had poor opinion of statesmanship which "blows hot and cold" when away from home."

There was great applause at the [illegible] reference to President Coolidge, when reference to "follow in the footsteps of a great leader" with the words "thank God for Coolidge" was applauded.

The speaker took a drink of water before resumed discussion of the prohibition question and his hearers laughed as he [illegible] several times while he talked on the 18th amendment. It being hearty appreciated was a matter of "education, persuasion and not of legislation."

WESTERLY

APPEAL IN BARBER CASE FROM JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 13—A number of automobile mishaps occured about Westerly, over the week end, one of which led into court, when Judge Oliver H. Williams held a special session of Third District court this noon.

Benjamin H. Barber, 45, formerly of Shannock, who has resided at 18 Spring street, Westerly, for a year and worked for the George C. Moore company, was arraigned on a complaint of driving an automobile while intoxicated. After pleading nolo through his counsel, A. T. L. Ledwidge, he was found guilty and sentenced to ten days in Providence county jail. An appeal was taken to the September term of superior court for Washington county which begins session at the county court house at West Kingston on next Monday and $300 bonds were required for his appearance at that time. This is not the only case pending for Barber was made the defendant in a civil suit for $500 damages, as a result of the damages and injuries sustained in the auto smash. A writ was served on him in the Westerly police station late Saturday night.

The auto accident occurred Saturday evening about 7:45 when Barber in a Ford touring car sideswiped the touring car driven by Miss Mary P. Connors of Hope Valley, and Pawcatuck. The collision occurred on Elm street in front of the residence of Charles A. Morgan when two automobiles were parked one on each side of the street and the autos smashed as they passed by each other. With Barber was his six-year-old grandchild and in the Connors auto were Mrs. Timothy Connors, 112 Liberty street, Pawcatuck; and Miss Mary Healey, 25 Lester avenue, also of Pawcatuck, who sustained minor injuries. The left and rear mudguards and running board of the Connors automobile were bent and broken. Officer Leroy F. Norman investigated the accident and Officer George H. Champlin, on duty at the time, came later. Taken to station, Barber was examined by Dr. M. H. Scanlon who declared him intoxicated and when Dr. John W. Helfrich was called by the accused his opinion was the same.

When Barber was presented in court Monday Attorney Ledwidge asked for a suspended sentence, as it was a side-swiping case, and this was the first time that he had ever been arrested. Barber supplimented his attorney by an appeal for clemency, saying that his family would have to suffer if he was given a jail sentence. Judge Williams asked Chief Brown what the man's record was and he said that he was unknown to him. When the ten day jail sentence was imposed, Mrs. Barber in the court room exclaimed, "O, judge, what will my family do!" Attorney Ledwidge sought to have the sentence suspended for 30 days and Judge Williams said he desired the matter to be reviewed by the attorney general; the appeal to superior court followd.

A Ford coupe, owned and driven by Nick Volpicallo of Stonington, Me., and occupied by Mrs. Mary Palmuotte, also of Stonington, Me., and her daughter Miss Dorothy Palmuotte was run into about 5 30 o'clock Sunday night near the High street railroad bridge by the motorcycle operated by Harold L. Clark of 28 Hobart street, Westerly, who had as a passenger Edward Hoxie. Clark sustained a possible broken little finger on his right hand and his right leg was badly bruised between the ankle and knee. Hoxie also had a bruise on his leg. Both went to Dr. Henry L. Johnson for treatment.

The accident was investigated by Patrolmen George L. Madison and George H. Champlin, of Westerly, who reported the Maine car as coming out of Railroad avenue to round the silent policeman and pass over the railroad bridge and which was struck about 20 feet west of the traffic signal by the motorcycle which came over the bridge. On the Ford coupe the tie pad was bent, the left front shoe blown and the left front headlight and front fender broken. The motorcycle had a rear shoe blown and its gas line broken. The motorcycle operator was reported as assuming responsibility for the accident.

The Ford truck of the LaClede Woodmansee Gift shop, operated by Gordon B. Streeter and the Jewett sedan, owned and driven by Sylvester M. Murano of 76 Oak street collided Sunday on Elm street. The Woodmansee truck was turning into the driveway to the residence on Elm street when the autos came together, resulting in but slight damage.

WESTERLY, Sept. 13—Judge William A. Wilcox, of Pawcatuck held a session of Stonington town court Monday morning, when two cases were disposed of which had their origin in intoxicating liquors.

Howard Browning Shortman of 26 Moss street, Pawcatuck, son of Fred and Jeanie Browning Shortman of Pawcatuck, was united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Peace Dale Congregational church, Peacedale R. I., with Miss Laura Mildred Sweet of that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Carl Skilin in the presence of about a hundred guests. The organist played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Miss Anna Gardiner was the soloist.

The bride wore white double crepe and carried a shower bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Gladys Sweet as bridesmaid and Miss Irene Sunderland as maid of honor. The best man was Douglas Buchanan, of Westerly. The ushers were John Thomas and H. Crandall. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shortman left on a wedding trip to Boston and Maine. On their return they will reside at Margin street, where they will be at home after Oct. 1st.

The groom is a machinist and the bride has been a bookkeeper at the plant of the Columbia Narow Fabric company of Shannock.

A Massachusetts auto operated by Mark E. Ridge and James Foley of Boston, crashed into a tree in grounds of the Westerly grange at Avondale Sunday night about 9 o'clock when the operators were not aware of the sharp curve at that point on the Watch Hill-Westerly road. The steering wheel of the auto was pushed through the windshield and Ridge suffered bruises to his hip and Foley had cuts about his face and head. Motorcycle Traffic Officer George L. Madison investigated the accident. The injured men were taken to the office of Dr. J. Gordon Anderson for treatment.

William A. Broadfoot and Annie Broadfoot to Olcott C. Mills land with buildings and improvements, on the east side of Highland avenue.

The loud ringing of a gong on Canal street, Monday morning about 8:30 o'clock attracted not only the attention of passers by also caused storekeepers and clerks to step out on the sidewalk. Patrolman George H. Champlin hurried from Dixon square and when at the United Theatre building found that the gong which had rung was connected with the newly installed automatic sprinkler system, a head on which had been taken off. Officer Robert M. Kessel was a close second to Officer Chamlin entering the theater to ascertain the cause of the ringing of the gong. It being the first time the gong has sounded, and an unfamiliar clamor, many thought that some burglar alarm was in operation.

Married in Westerly in 1922, Harold W. Jones, was in New Bedford, Mass., Friday when a New Bedford newspaper had the following to say: "Wife in name only is the alleged status of Mrs. Charlotte A. Jones, stenographer in the office of Albert Fuller, Taunton attorney. Her husband, Harold W. Jones, 93 Hart street, Taunton, was a petitioner before Judge Mayhew B. Hitch, in probate court here today asking for a divorce on the ground that since their marriage at Westerly, R. I., on July 24, 1922, they have never lived together as husband and wife.

Jones told the court that prior to their marriage they had discussed having a home, but at the time of the marriage he said it was agreed he would continue to live at his home, while she would continue in her own home. Since then, he said, he has several times offered to provide a home for her, but she has declined to agree to the arrangement. He said his wife is known in Taunton by her maiden name and is scarcely known at all by her married name. Deputy Sheriff James M. Burns, Taunton, on the witness stand this morning, said he never knew until today she was Mrs. Jones, always having known her by her maiden name. Judge Hitch granted the divorces."

Harold William Jones, a quarryman, giving his address as Centerville, Mass., and born in Taunton, Mass., the son of Edward F. and Minnie Fitzgibbon Jones, was united in marriage with Charlotte Alice Francis, who, born in Providence, daughter of the late Wayland L. and Sarah L. If a child doesn't like oatmeal, win over with famous "Quaker Flavor"

THE reason some children don't eat their oatmeal without urging is that they're not given the right kind.

There is a great difference in the flavor of oats. And flavor, above all things, is needed to win a child's appetite.

Quaker Oats has a unique flavor; a rich and toasty flavor you'll find in no other brand. That is why millions will accept no other kind.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats—which makes luxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamines and this "bulk" make Quaker Oats an excellent food balance.

Today, get Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes), or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known them. Grocers have both kinds.

PHILIP ROBERGE INJURED—STRUCK BY FALL RIVER CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13. — Philip Roberge, World war veteran, winner of the distinguished service cross and the French Croix de Guerre, was dragged out not seriously hurt from under the front axle of an automobile that struck him, at 5 o'clock this afternoon, as he was crossing Main street at the Attawaugan hotel. Roberge was no more than semi-conscious when he was assisted into the hotel, but an examination by Dr. W. H. Judson revealed no injury of a serious nature and Roberge was later taken to the home of his sister in Elmville by Gordan J. Gale.

Roberge was crossing the street to get a bus for Elmville when he was struck. The driver of the car that hit him was Joseph Radoca, of 203 Leonard street, Fall River, Mass. Radoca was allowed to proceed, after he had been questioned by the police.

DRAWN INTO DRYING CANS, ELMER BURDICK MAY LIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 13.—Elmer Burdick, about 24, an employe in the bleachery department of the Main street plant of the Paco Manufacturing company was drawn head foremost into a maze of revolving drying cans at the mill this morning. Though seriously injured, it was stated Monday afternoon that he very probably will recover. He is a resident of Elmville.

No one knows just how Burdick became entangled in the machine, with which he was experienced. The drying cans are copper rolls about two feet in diameter, set about four inches apart. The 39 of these cans that are included in the equipment revolve. Going in head first, Burdick was drawn in up to his waist before his cries attracted other employes who stopped the machine and extricated him. Burdick suffered a fractured malar bone, a bone in the cheek under the eye, among other injuries.

He was given attention at the mill by Dr. Warren Tanner and later was removed to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam in the ambulance of the institution.

Those who have gained the impression that deer have been killed off so persistently in this part of Windham county that few are left should talk with farmers that are having experiences with them this season. Andrew Wilson, who has a farm on the Brooklyn-Pomfret road, tells of seeing one herd of 38 this season. He went out onto the veranda of his home one morning about 4 o'clock and, looking down across the fields of a neighbor's land saw deer. His count had reached 29 as the animals continued to emerge from nearby woods, when his dog saw them, made a dash at them and in jig time had them in a wild stampede. Mr. Wilson feels that there were more deer in the herd than he saw and that he would have a chance to have seen them all had not his dog upset the situation. No, the deer are not extinct hereabouts. There are plenty of them and they are doing great damage to crops and have killed hundreds of young fruit trees with their nibbling. Farmers kill them when they can, but the animals are so plentiful that the farmers are helpless to effectively contend against them, and they will tell you that this is a good reason for an open season—that crops are more valuable to Connecticut than deer, handsome and innocent as they are.

Henry Poirier, who hails from Auburn, Mass., pleaded guilty in the town court Monday morning to having operated a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs, which he paid. Poirier ran his Ford into the rear end of a Connecticut company bus that was stopped and discharging passengers at Elmville, Saturday afternoon. In addition to the fine and costs that Judge Woodward imposed upon him, Poirier was tendered a bill from a representative of the Connecticut company for the damage done to the bus in the collision. This damage is not great, relating only to a bent rear bumper and a dent in the body of the bus.

Another Ford that tried conclusions with a New England Transportation company bus, Sunday afternoon is at a local garage in need of a new front right wheel, a new front right fender and a new headlight. Frank Casavant, an elderly man, of Jewett City, is the owner of the damaged machine. He struck the bus as it was stopping to discharge passengers in Danielson Center about 4:40 p. m. The bus came out of the crash with a crumpled rear fender and a damaged door at the rear. No one in either machine was hurt in this accident.

Delegations getting away from towns in this territory to attend the republican state convention in Hartford left Monday about noon. The Killingly delegation is made up of Attorney E. L. Darbie, candidate for attorney general, Benjamin F. Leonard, William B. Hunter and James E. Smith. Mr. Darbie expressed no opinion as to his chances for the nomination upon his departure. He was, it was known, assured of strong support for the place, however. Judge Sabin S. Russell will be another Killingly man attending the convention today.

A Weld Child conference is to be held in the town hall building this (Tuesday) afternoon. This is one in a series of such conferences held during the past year or more, and affords an opportunity for every mother who has a real interest in the well being of her children to bring them in and have them examined without cost by experts in children's health and methods of improving the condition of those who need attention of one sort or another.

Barbers from Danielson and other towns near here were at Putnam Sunday for an outing and clambake arranged for members by the Barbers' local union.

And now Sterling has a democratic caucus with happenings charged to be irregular. It's becoming epidemic.

This is a day that weighs heavily on the minds of a great many men. It happens to be the 14th of September, the day that marks the end of the straw hat season. Of course, there is nothing official about this, just a sort of tradition that such hats should be retired to winter quarters. The average man is wont to pouf, or something of the sort, about women and their slavery to style or fashion, but he is a bit sensitive for all that, lest he may be considered out of class if he does not get rid of his straw hat before Sept. 15, or by that date at least. He may not admit this, but straw hats will be more or less scarce after today. Watch and see.

Once again the date for the opening of Killingly High school has been tentatively advanced. Now Sept. 27 is the date set. It appears impossible at this time to have the school ready for use for Sept. 20, the date on which it was hoped sessions might be resumed. Students who will make up the school when it is being reconvened are having the longest vacation record, but it cannot be helped. However, when the sessions are resumed there will be a program for making up the lost time, and it is not unlikely that extra sessions and longer sessions will account for every hour of study lost in September before the end of the present school year comes next June.

There will be no solidarity in the ranks of the democratic party in Killingly at the town election on the first Monday in October, in so far as the battle over candidates for selectmen is concerned. That fact was made clear Monday by interests that are disgruntled over the turn of affairs took in Friday night's caucus of the party. No secret is made of the fact that many democrats will vote for just one candidate for selectmen. That operation will work both ways, for there are two sides to that arrangement and either side can work it and it is assured, will. With that state of affairs there will be no hope of more than one democrat winning, inasmuch as there is seldom any hope in republican Killingly that two of the minority party might be elected. It will be a case of slash and cut back on both sides, with ardent pleas to those within the republican ranks to "give a vote" for either one of the democratic candidates. Tabulating the vote for selectmen is going to be a tedious job for the counters on election night.

The close of the republican state convention tonight (Tuesday) will be followed in Killingly by talk about candidates for representatives. At the present time the field appears to be open to both the ranks of the republicans and democrats. Some who are active in politics have talked a little about prospective candidates, but no names have been mentioned excepting casually and there are no booms are on as yet. There will be within the next few days.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Rissiger, 10004 Nelson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

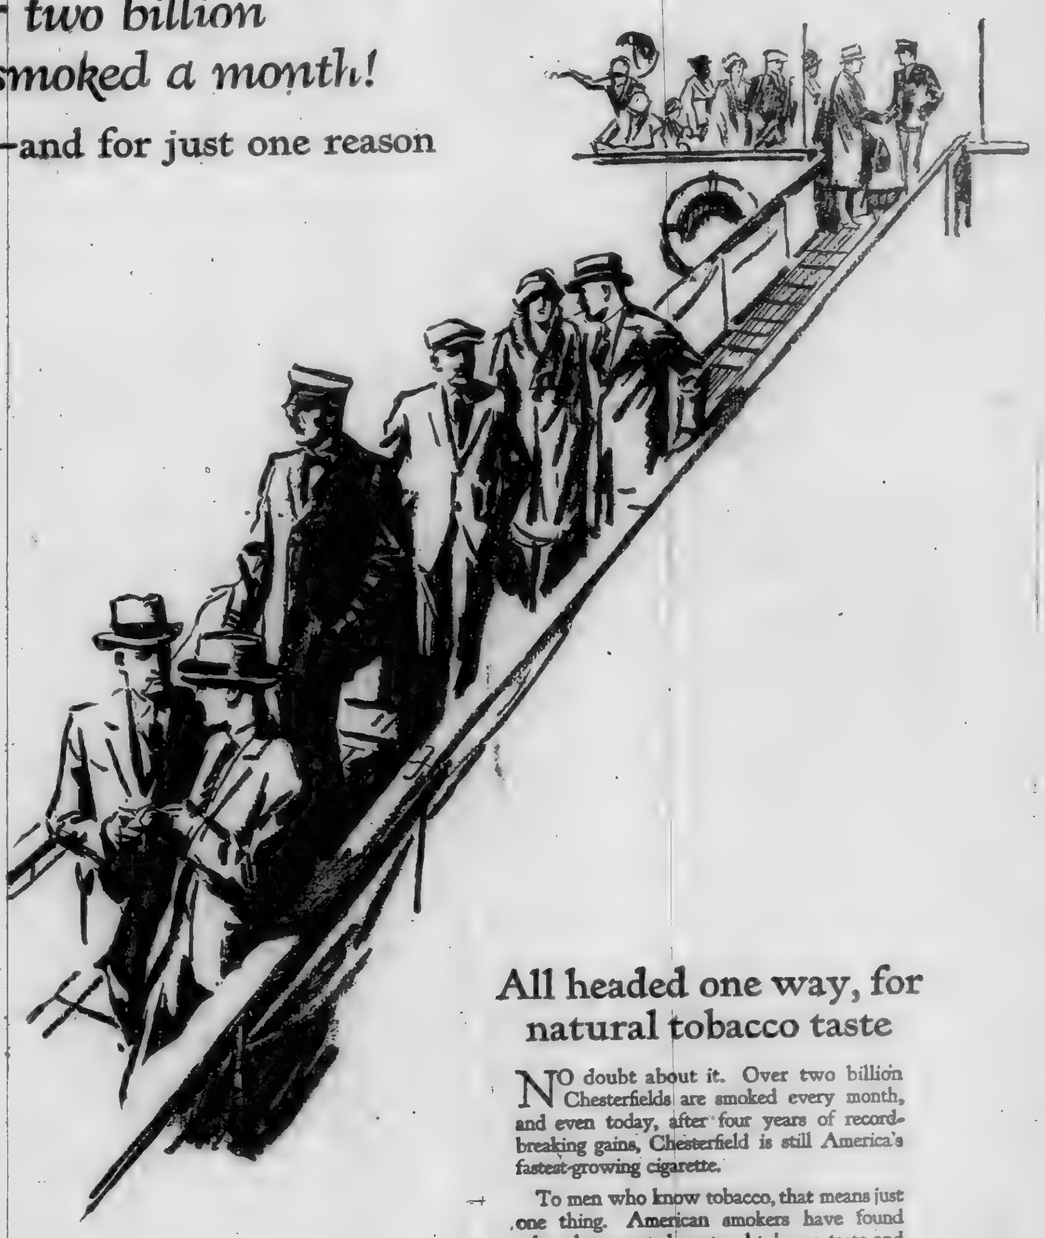
Over two billion smoked a month!

—and for just one reason



All headed one way, for natural tobacco taste

NO doubt about it. Over two billion Chesterfields are smoked every month, and even today, after four years of record-breaking gains, Chesterfield is still America's fastest-growing cigarette.

To men who know tobacco, that means just one thing. American smokers have found what they wanted—natural tobacco taste and character. They've found it in Chesterfields only—and the shift to Chesterfield is on!

SENATOR M'LEAN'S ADDRESS

Senator McLean is no stranger to Connecticut as a keynoter. His clear and pointed analysis and views of national affairs is always heard with interest and invariably with approval. His careful presentation, his sound reasoning and his well scored points clearly show how admirably fitted he is for this particular task of addressing the state republican convention.

In dealing with the matter of prosperity Senator McLean directed attention to the large amount of money we are spending and urged thought on the question, Where does it come from and can we keep it coming? Declaring that Uncle Sam holds the prosperity of the American people in the hollow of his hands he emphasized the fact that "the best way to conserve [illegible] prosperity and prosperity is to elect a president and a congress who understand the fundamentals of sound finance and economics and men who will not make mistakes in the selection of subordinate federal offi[illegible] maintain a safe and sane [illegible] at Washington. Senator [illegible] pointed out that the league of nations had accomplished much for peace and justice without harming [illegible] and he sees no harm to us had we joined under the Lodge reservations. The advantage would lie in keeping us informed what the others are doing. He deplored the manner in [illegible] tariff question was befogged, made telling reference to the dangers of a tariff for revenue only which would bring nationwide destitution if not revolution and urged the importance of, sending congressmen to Washington who will bear that fact in [illegible] and stood basis of a tariff that will maintain our prosperity, which is [illegible] due to the deserved confi[illegible]e American people have [illegible] administration.

Concerning tax reductions Senator McLean insisted the returns vindicated the action taken. In some respects they could and should have been larger and he is confident that they will [illegible] come including the ending of the [illegible] taxes.

A considerable part of his address was devoted to the prohibition question. He believes that temperance will come by persuasion and education and not by legislation." He re[illegible] [illegible] of the advocates of prohibition as being the suppression of [illegible] which was gotten rid of in the quickest and most efficient way possible. But now that this has been done and we have had ample opportunity to observe the futility [illegible] the use of alcohol as a beverage with a constitutional amendment that does not attempt to [illegible] the cause we want [illegible] to a law that [illegible] an aristocracy [illegible] hotels and pro[illegible] every poor man's home with a saloon of its own? Does anyone know [illegible] abandoned his [illegible] 18th amendment [illegible] to realize that [illegible] because of it [illegible] boys and girls [illegible] as the moth [illegible] candle, and with like

Mr. Lean believes "the gov[illegible] [illegible] of expense should [illegible] investigation of [illegible] production and [illegible] countrywide consumption of alcoholic [illegible] in the meantime [illegible] be kept out of [illegible] doesn't favor the [illegible] saloon to sell beer [illegible] simply provide [illegible] of every kind of [illegible] believe in the [illegible] distribution of liquors through government agencies with drinking at the place or sale strictly prohibited.

[illegible] republican par[illegible]tion, sound mon[illegible] and justice to the [illegible] principles which [illegible] brought us far on the road to better days, he said we could bank on the democrats resorting to that dangerous step of revising the tariff down if given the chance.

The senator paid a high and deserved compliment to President Coolidge as a man and as a president and declared that all the keynote that will be needed in 1928 will be the consent of Calvi. Coolidge to run again. His [illegible] of Charles Hopkins Clark was [illegible] [illegible] to Senator Bingham and Governor Trumbull as candidates for renomination were sincere [illegible] for the retention of workers in the right places.

The [illegible] address was characteristic of the senior senator from Connecticut, a fair, straightforward presentation of facts and conditions and [illegible] made the same excellent impression upon the people of Connecticut as it did upon the convention.

PROTECTING THE MAILS

"Shot to kill" is an order which has been previously given to postal clerks by the postoffice department, and it is now renewed for the purpose of letting it be known by those who are most interested that attempts to rob the United States mail are fraught with real danger. There is much difference between shooting to frighten and shooting to kill. There are many instances when the former may suffice but when postal clerks are ordered to get their man there's a meaning which the underworld is certain to understand.

The best way of discouraging robbers and holdup men is to give them to understand that their chances of getting away with the loot which they seek are far from good. In too many instances they have been encouraged to get into their game because of the experience of others in escaping without harm or with very light punishment. Naturally they rate themselves as a bit more clever than others and ready to take the chance of a short imprisonment should they get caught.

Desperate as they may be in some instances, most of the robbers will be disposed to think a bit over the folly of their schemes if they are confronted with the fact that nine out of ten who try to rob the mails are shot, possibly killed, or are penalized in other ways in keeping with their crime.

It has been frequently said that if a person is given plenty of rope he will hang himself. Some train robbers or mail bandits may be disposed to take too great chances, but there is need for making such business uninviting and the knowledge that cold lead is to be faced will have a deterrent effect upon many.

But further than giving order to shoot to kill there is excellent reason for surrounding the sending of valuable mails and the shipment of money with proper secrecy and adequate protection so that help is not indirectly given to the robbers and it is really possible to carry out such an order as "shoot to kill".

A BAD PROPOSAL

Some idea of what can be expected from the democrats in the next session of congress is indicated by the statement from Senator Simmons of North Carolina who urges the cutting of more than a half billion dollars from the annual tax bills. It is not impossible that some tax changes may be made but the idea of making any such slash as that is not only out of the question but it does not savor of good business.

The purpose of the senator, as revealed by his own words, is to so encompass the republicans with debt reductions as this time, whether it is advisable or not, as to prevent them from advocating and putting through any such plan during the year of a presidential election. In other words the southern senator would play politics with the tax and debt reduction question regardless of what the conditions may be. He would cut taxes and delay debt reduction, meaning the extension of the debt over a longer period and piling up the interest account, for the sake of stepping what he imagines may be a plan for legitimate tax reductions at such a time in the future as conditions show them to be justified.

The administration has been following the sound and sensible policy of cutting down the federal debt. It has made excellent progress in that direction to the advantage of every tax payer. It is headed in the right direction, paying off indebtedness while there is the best opportunity for so doing and there is no more reason for introducing politics now in tax and debt reducing any more than there was when the recent tax reduction act was adopted. It is a time for a wise financial administration and not for kicking tax and debt reducing about like a football. That should be as evident to the democrats as to anyone else.

REGULATION NEEDED

From the testimony of the railroads before the interstate commerce commission there is concrete evidence of the effect of the motor vehicles upon the transportation systems. Old forms of travel are being abandoned for the motor vehicle even though the latter means a larger expense. Demands have to be satisfied and it is inevitable that transportation lines when they find their patronage slipping must resort to the methods of their competitors or must abandon attempts at service.

Where railroads or trolley lines find business slipping because of the motor vehicle traffic the outlook is uncertain. With the Erie railroad facing a million dollar loss a year it cannot be blamed for feeling that there should be quite the same amount of regulation for the motor vehicles which have taken away so much of its business as there is for the railroad.

With regulations within the respective states, it is no unfair proposition when similar regulation is sought for those lines which engaged in interstate traffic. This is asking no advantage for itself when a railroad makes such a demand for it is now the case in many instances where railroads have resorted to the motor truck or the bus line because their patrons demanded such service in preference to the former freight and passenger trains.

There were many years when there was no interstate regulation of transportation, but it would be unjust to permit motor traffic to go unregulated for so long a period.

HATED POUNDAGE

She spoke feelingly, this woman who set such a delightful dinner table for her family and friends, and what she said was a polite curse hurled at the string-bean flapper with the narrow chest, the languid young married woman starving herself to death in order to wear misses-size-16 in gowns, and the hopelessly fat middleager who dines on a lettuce leaf with painfully hungry eyes on the creamed shrimps and pie a la mode and mayonnaise dressing.

"The most I can hope for that girl my young son Teddy is so crazy about," said she, "is that when she is old enough to get married lettuce will be $5 a pound and water and toothpicks will grace only the tables of millionaires! I asked her and another girl and Ted's chum to dinner one night and with clinging memories of young-robin appetites that raged in my crowd when I was their age I extended myself on that menu. I had a delicious soup and a roast turkey with all the dressing and sauces that travel with that bird. There were vegetables and a lovely salad and a whipped-cream cake and I sat down with a gratified expectation of the scene about to be enacted at my table.

"Henry had drawn me aside before we went into the dining room to ask anxiously if I ever had seen two such fragile sylphs of girls and did I think they'd break in two before we handed them some nourishment?

"The boys downed the soup, but Daisy and Edith took exactly two sips. Oh, yes, indeed, Mrs. Hasbeen, the soup was simply delicious, but they never allowed themselves creamed soups. Henry served the turkey with open-handed generosity and those delicate creatures picked around the edges with their forks while they cast tender eyes at their swains.

"I think Daisy swallowed two bites of turkey, none of the dressing, a teaspoonful of cranberry jelly, no hot rolls, oh thank you, no! There was butter on the green peas, anyhow. Peas had so much starch, so there were just as many little green balls on the plates when they went out as when they came in.

"The mayonnaise on the salad was anathema and they fished gently at the edges of the lettuce, while as for the nice gooey dessert, they fluffed with their forks and laughed and gurgled a great deal, telling me politely that it was simply delicious. Mrs. Hasbeen and doing legerdemain over it to signify that they were eating it.

"I give you my word that the young man guest was as bad. It seems he was training for basket ball and if he put on an extra pound would be shot down at dawn at least by an outraged coach and team.

"Those three youngsters, who were at the age which hitherto has been known as empty to the shoe tops and practically unfillable, ate about as much combined as could be packed into a tea cup—and then they wafted and danced ten miles home. They went home. However, they did let the boys buy them 25-cent banana flips or crushes during the evening and Teddy told me sadly that after they got them the girls just sort of rambled around the edges of the delicacies with their spoons, leaving 99 per cent of it to be thrown out. You needn't tell me they weren't restraining themselves by main force and I marvel at their stern strength of will.

"Folk of my own age are just bad. When I go out to a party I take a childlike enjoyment in the party food and I eat what my hostess sets before me, leaving nothing usually but the picture on the plates. Anyhow, no matter how much she smiles, a hostess is seething mad to see all her party food forked over and left to be thrown out. With my own eyes I saw four women at the next table at a bridge luncheon sit frigidly and see placed before them Newberg lobster, puffy little rolls, molded fruit salads, olives and marvelous frozen desserts made in the shapes of flowers with cakes that melted in your mouth, and not one single forkful of all this food passed their lips. They pulled the lobster pate around and around and mussed it all up, buttered their rolls and never ate them, broke down the salad forms so they couldn't be set thriftily back in the icebox and dabbed their forks up and down in the ice cream while they chattered languidly. Yes, they did drink some black coffee at the end. Ten dollars worth of food went back from the table to be thrown away quite unusable and they told their hostess when they said good by that it had been a simply marvelous party with such a delicious luncheon.

"Yes, they were tolerably slender but one of them is divorced, and another is going to be—and I'm here to say it is because they've never fed their husbands a man-size meal since they were married!"

"Maybe!" said the abashed plump lady who was having luncheon with her, "if you weren't one of the aggravating slim-jims who never would grow fat if they lived on double cream butter and chocolates, you wouldn't be so downright bitter! Oh, yes, pass the cornmeal muffins again—I'm going to begin reducing tomorrow!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Since its organization at Sydney, Australia, seven years ago the Press Congress of the World, which begins its third session today at Geneva, has had as its president Dr. Walter Williams, who is dean of the University of Missouri School of Journalism. Dr. Williams is a Missourian who, following a high school education, became a printer and newspaper owner, and from 1884 to 1908 was an important figure in the journalistic ranks of the state. It was for this reason that he was selected to head the university's school of journalism. In 1904 he planned and carried through the World's Press Parliament held in St. Louis. It was his good fortune in 1913-14 to be the recipient of the Kahn Fellowship which gave him a tour of the world for the purposes of study of comparative government and social organization as well as of international journalism. Few American journalists have the same range of interest in international problems.

A Family Affair

Jim who had nine brothers recently told a company of friends about a wonderful photograph of himself taken with a silk waistcoat on. One day he brought down ten photographs, each brother wearing a flashy silk waistcoat, all taken many years ago.

"You must have had money in your youth in order to wear clothing like that," said one of his friends.

"No," said Jim with a smile, "that's the same vest on all of us."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Queer Climber

The humblest folk to seeing eyes
Will furnish many a surprise.
—Old Mother Nature.

Both to Reddy Fox and Jimmy Skunk there was one kind of shellfish on the beach which was of no interest at all. That was because neither Reddy nor Jimmy had seeing eyes. Both Reddy and Jimmy thought of these shellfish as a kind of Clam. But one day it struck Reddy that these didn't live like any other Clams; that is, they were not living in burrows in the mud, or in the sand. It was then that his interest became aroused and he began to grow curious.

They were not just the shape of the Clams he was acquainted with. The shells seemed to be covered with a sort of thick skin and this was a glossy black, bluish or brown. The empty shells which covered the beach were bluish inside. There were two shells, just as with the Clam, and these shells were rather thin. These things like Clams seemed to live together in great masses which covered the mudflats and in places were attached to the rocks. Occasionally Reddy would find a very large one with seaweed attached to it. This he knew had been washed in by the tide. The brownish skin that covered them reminded him in a way of the fresh water clams which Jerry Muskrat was so fond of, and which you know are really Mussels.

"What are these things?" he asked of Graywing the Gull, pointing to a lot of them.

"Mussels," replied Graywing rather scornfully. "Mussels. I thought everybody knew a Mussel when he saw it. The first thing I know you'll be asking me what stones are."

"Well you needn't be so cross about it," replied Reddy. "I thought they were some kind of Clams, but if you say they're Mussels, why I suppose they're Mussels. They are not interesting, anyway."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Graywing. "Is that so? Well, I don't suppose there is anything interesting in them to folks who don't use their eyes. I would hardly expect you to find anything interesting in a Mussel. Look at that one over there fast to the side of that rock. It hasn't entered your head to wonder how it sticks there, has it?"

Reddy looked a little bit foolish. It hadn't occurred to him to wonder how that Mussel could cling to the side of that smooth rock. He went over to it now and took at it. He took hold of it. It was fastened securely to that rock. He looked up at Graywing and hesitated. You see, he just hated to admit that there was something interesting after all about that Mussel. Then he grinned sheepishly. "I'll take it all back, Graywing," said he. "How under the sun can a Mussel hang onto a rock like this?"

"Go over and look closely," said Graywing. "If you use your eyes, you probably will see a little yellow thread which fastens that Mussel to the rock." Reddy looked. Sure enough, it was as if that Mussel was growing with little yellow roots out of the rock.

"That is a little sticky matter that the Mussel makes, and which is thrown out and hardens on whatever it touches. I suppose you wouldn't believe it if I told you that that Mussel can climb up this rock."

"I'll believe anything you say," replied Reddy humbly.

Graywing looked pleased. "It's a fact," said he. "He can throw out those little threads and they stick to the rock, and he can pull himself up. It is very slow work, and it takes him a long time to move a very short distance, but he can move."

"Say!" exclaimed Reddy impulsively. "Everything is interesting when you come to know it."

Residents of the east side section of the city have petitioned the town school board asking the establishment of an eighth grade at the Bishop school. About 300 persons have signed the petition which will be considered at the school board meeting this (Tuesday) evening. At present there are seven grades in the Bishop school and after completing this grade the children have to attend Broadway school for graduation from the eighth grade.

There were at one time eight grades in the east side section but crowded conditions made it necessary to cut out the eighth grade and send the children to Broadway school. Now that there is ample room at the Bishop school it is felt by the residents there that the eighth grade can be re-established.

NORWICH TOWN

"Don't Let Your Best Help Go," was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey in his sermon at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. The Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening was in charge of two leaders, Mrs. Burton Jopson and Miss Elizabeth Avery. The topic assigned was "What Is the Church and What Should It Be Doing?" Eph. 2: 17-22; Matt 26: 16-20.

For his Sunday morning text at the First Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten chose Jeremiah 2: 13. For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water.

Rev. Mr. Whitten spoke from the same text at the Gardner Lake Methodist church Sunday afternoon, when the congregational included only local people, most of the campers who spent the summer at the lake having returned to their homes. It is expected that these Sunday afternoon services will continue until cold weather.

At the Sunday evening Christian Endeavor service of the Norwich Town Methodist Young People's society, the leader was Miss Florence M. Brown. What Is the Church and What Should It Be Doing? was the topic.

Announcement was made in Washington that Benedict Crowell, a former assistant secretary of war has been re-elected president of the Army Ordinance association, an organization formed in 1919 to keep alive an interest in munitions among manufacturers and engineers.

How I Dress My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The thousands who see me daily on the stage wonder at my beautiful hair. It is wavy, glossy and abundant. Nearly everyone thinks that some wonderful hair dresser gives it daily care.

Not so—I'm too busy for that. I never go to a hair dresser, have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. It is not sticky, not greasy. Before they made it I never dreamed a liquid could do so much. Now all toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

Nothing else I know gives a girl or woman so much added loveliness at once. No one can resist it when she knows. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

STERLING HALL FILLED FOR DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STERLING, Sept. 13—The democratic caucus held in the town hall Saturday night was a good one in every respect. The story afloat that K. K. K. was to be out in force and control it called out a big crowd, filling the town hall full, and some outside.

Charles B Montgomery was elected chairman and immediately a battle was started for clerk, Alvah J. Dixon and Miss Gladys Mowry being candidates for the office of selectman. A very small vote was cast, less than one half of the city's total vote going to the polls. Malcolm M. Scott and John F. Murray were elected members of the city council, Frederick W. MANY OF NATION'S BEST GOLFERS ARE HOVERING ON BRINK OF ELIMINATION

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Baltusrol received America's foremost amateur golfers at its breastwork of bunkers today and repulsed all but incomparable Bobby Jones in the first 18 hole round of the 36 hole qualification test for the national championship. One hundred and forty-four players—sectional champions, intercollegiate stars, former national titleholders, Walker cup veterans—pitted their skill and power against the hazards of the long New Jersey course. But Bobby alone survived the battle with sand and bunker and water to complete his first day's drive for his third consecutive amateur crown with a brilliant score of 70.

Playing flawless golf, the Georgia marvel outstripped his field by no less than four strokes with the only card of the day that crept under a defiant par of 72. His machine-like play stood out boldly against a background of disastrous contact with Baltusrol's treacherous traps on the part of other favorites, many of whom expended so many strokes in the yawning pits of the New Jersey course as to threaten their chances of qualification in the closing 18 holes of medal play tomorrow.

Fourteen players in addition to Jones fought their way inside the 80 stroke zone but only one of the group, Chick Evans, held a place in the new ranking list of the United States Golf association from which eight players will be seeded tomorrow for the subsequent rounds of match play. The veteran Chicago star, champion of a decade ago, turned in a smooth 79.

It was a day of tingling uncertainty and smarting surprises for nearly every one but the smiling Atlanta conqueror. For hours it appeared that only a mere handful would finish within hailing distance of Jones. Then along came George Dawson of Chicago, former Illinois state champion, closing a brilliant round in the dusk to land second place, four strokes behind the defending champion, with a consistently good card of 74.

Jones was the only member of America's powerful Walker cup team to break into the first fifteen. Lauren Upson of Englewood, N. J., former Pacific intercollegiate star, and Paul Haviland, Yale university champion, tied for third place with cards of 76, while one stroke behind them came Dexter Cummings of Chicago, former intercollegiate titleholder, Rudy Knepper, former Sioux City player and Ellsworth Augustine, of Cleveland.

While these young players were cranking unexpectedly into places at the head of the pack, veteran campaigners ranked in forefront of Bobby's challengers were wallowing desperately through Baltusrol's sea of sand.

Bob Gardner, champion of the Walker cup team, drove out of bounds three times and took twelve strokes on the first hole, winding up with an 88 which will probably eliminate him from the tournament. George Von Elm, of Los Angeles runner-up to Jones two years ago and considered Bobby's strongest rival, failed to bring his putter under control at a cost of 83 strokes. Von Elm was also threatened with possible downfall tomorrow, unless he can bring off a sensational comeback.

Disturbed by a marshal chasing spectators off the fairway, Max Marston, of Philadelphia, former champion, took several strokes at the twelfth while Jesse Guilford, the Boston siege gun who for several years has been a strong title contender, snapped a flying start with an ugly seven at the tenth, where he lost three strokes shovelling a buried ball out of the sand. Guilford finally closed with an 80 two strokes less than the count of Marston.

Francis Ouimet, Boston's popular veteran and hero of many a thrilling duel over the rolling fairways, apparently deserved a better fate than that which a card of 80 gave him. Playing around with Lester Bolstad, the public links champion, Ouimet started brilliantly with an eagle three on the first. He continued his fast pace for five more holes before colliding with trouble at the seventh. Here his ball picked up a piece of dirt which sent it curving wierdly into the rough.

The break cost Francis a six, and before his vicious clouts had divested the sphere of its excess baggage, he had expended twelve more strokes negotiating the eighth and ninth.

Against the erratic play of the men who have been rated as his outstanding rivals, Jones moved serenely from green to green. For 14 holes, the Atlanta wizard swept forward with a steady succession of pars. So straight and true were his drives and so accurate his marvelous approaches that only once was he off the fairway.

He was putting for birdies on nearly every hole, but not until the 400 yard fifteenth did the defending champion finally sink one of the long putts that had been rimming or jumping the cup with exasperating consistency. From a tremendous drive, the champion lofted his second within five yards of the pin. H then pushed the pullet into the hole for a three.

Bobby then closed with par scores for the sixteenth and seventeen, and a birdie four on the eighteenth.

The champion's commanding lead placed him in position to carry off his first qualifying medal in several years—an honor won at Oakmont by Young Roland Mackenzie of Washington, D. C. The latter today could not straighten out his powerful smashes from the tee. He hooked off the fairway in twelve out of the 18 holes, while his putting was uncertain, and at the 15th, he added to his troubles by skidding his drive into a brook. He finally escaped with an 81.

Frank Dolp of Portland, Ore., new western amateur champion, suffered disqualification for improperly playing a ball out of bounds on the second hole. The young Pacific coast player had turned in an 80, and appeared likely to win his way into the match play.

DETROIT, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Detroit lopped a game and a half off the New York American's lead by taking both games of today's doubleheader. The Tigers won the first game 4 to 3, by bunching hits in two innings and took the second, 4 to 1, behind the brilliant pitching of Sam Gibson, who allowed only three hits. New York's single score in the second game was the result of a wild throw by Burke, Tavener's fielding was the bright spots of Detroit's defensive playing. Meusel hit his eleven home run of the season in the sixth inning of the first game

GRANTS INJUNCTION TO PREVENT BOUT OF DEMPSEY AND TUNNEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 13.—(AP)—The petition of the Chicago Coliseum club for an injunction to prevent the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney world's heavyweight championship bout at Philadelphia, Sept. 23, was granted tonight by Judge Clinton H. Givan in superior court here.

Judge Givan's opinion rendered after a day of wrangling by attorneys for Dempsey and the club did not mention in any way the manner in which an Indiana court's injunction would be operative in the state of Pennsylvania where the Dempsey-Tunney fight is scheduled to be held.

KELLY AND LINDSTROM AID IN GIANTS VICTORY

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Succumbing to a Giant onslaught inspired by the homers of Kelly and Lindstrom with men on bases the world's champion Pirates lost ground in the league pennant race today nine runs to five. It was New York's fifth victory of the season from Pittsburgh and the second the McGrawmen have been able to wrest from McKechnie's sluggers at the Polo grounds.

Four home runs were hit, two by Grantham, Pirate first sacker, George Kelly slammed the first ball out of the yard in the first inning, driving Frisch before him for two runs. Carmen Hill, who started for the Bucaneers, lasted until the fourth when the Giants hit safely fourtime before a man was retired. Lindstrom hit a high one into the upper rightfield stand for a home run with Florence and Ring on base. Morrison relieved Hill on the mound.

The Pirates took advantage of Giant mistakes in the eighth to score three times but the Giants added another in heir half of the inning to make their victory decisive. Jimmy Ring started onthe mound for New York but was succeeded by Davies in the eighth. Pittsburgh tried four hurlers.

REDS MAKE GAIN AT EXPENSE OF BROOKLYN

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Brooklyn was blanked 4 to 0 today by the climbing Cincinnati Reds under the direction of Eppa Rixey's left pitching arm. The Red moundsman allowed only six hits. Two Brooklyn players reached third base.

Cincinnati opened strong in the first, filling the bases but was retired when Critz was thrown out at first. The Reds' first score came in the third with a hit batsman, a sacrifice, and Pipp's single. In the fourth inning they got another through singles by Hargrave and Rixey and an infield out.

The remaining scores were in the eighth when Carey muffed Pipp's fly, and Dressen tripled, later scoring on a sacrifice. The Reds gave Rixey fine support, playing errorless ball.

SUSIE WRITES TO SPORTING EDITOR CONCERNING JOYS OF VACATION TRIP

A camping tour is not all that is anticipated according to the brief letter written by Susie who writes from Lake Maguntic ook, near Camden, Me., where the party has pitched its tent for a brief stay. Susie's letter follows:

Lake Maguntic ook,
Camden, Me.
Sept. 9, 1926.

Dear Sports Ed:

How's things in the Rose of New England and how's all my friends down in New London? They ain't had no more dollar days or firemen's parades has they, 'cause I sure would be sorry to miss 'em if they had. Well things ain't so well with me either and this camping party ain't the howling success that it was expected to be. Guess I ought to have left out that word "howling" and just said "success" 'cause that's about what everybody's doing, just howling. First it's pa and then it's Ma or Willie and of course I have to keep my end up in this quartette. It was a quintette at first but sister Nellie don't like this back-to-nature idea and has went back home.

Outside of a nice raw sunburn, a nasty cold and the effects of sleeping in various and sundry positions and places I am getting along all right. The first coupla days is the hardest in a trip like this and then you get so you don't care what happens. Gosh I wasn't never going to envy them Indians any more. When I used to read about them living in their tepees and moving from place to place without no home to do but hunt and fish I used to think that life was the berries. But now I know. Them birds had a tough life and I don't mean maybe, 'cause I'm speaking from experience, yest a lotta of experience too. Well I'll give you the inditatory of our trip to date.

Monday morning, that's Labor day, the gang gets up with the sun and Ma packs a lunch so's we won't have to do no cooking at noon. We has breakfast and then we assemblies in the back yard ready to pile into the flivver. Ma drives just like she said she was going to. Pa's on the front seat with the boss and little Willie while me and Nellie manages to wedge ourselves in between the radio and the patent cook stove and we starts. The rain is starting to fall but that don't mean nothing to us. We ain't got no idea where we is going than nothing. We gets down the street a ways when Ma pulls up to the curb and informs Pa that she forgot to turn off the gas and her electric curling iron so Pa beats it back to the house only to find that she has done everything she ought.

Then we has a debate where we'll go. Mas is for going to Cape Cod and then to Maine. Pa's wants to go to New York and up the Hudson to Saratoga where them ponies is racing. Me and Nellie holds out for the White Mountains but as usual Ma wins the bet and we bies our old tin can toward the sand dunes. Well everything goes fine and we hits Providence and New Bedford and a coupla other of them burgs and finally we is informed by our pilot that we is going out the Cape. It's late in the afternoon, we having had our lunch at noon sitting in the car cause it's too wet to get out.

When we gets to East Brewster it's getting along towards dark and Ma suggests we find a camping place. Pa sees what looks like a good place but Ma don't like the scenery so ties on. Ma spots a place but Pa says no 'cause Ma wouldn't stop at the place he picked out so on we goes. It's getting darker and darker and wetter and wetter. Believe me Ed, when it's wet there ain't no wetter place on earth than Cape Cod. Well finally we finds a place that both heads of the family can agree on and we starts unloading. Pa is elected to put up the tent. There's a good wind blowing and Pa and the tent go to the mat. The tent throws Pa a coupla times and Pa gets out an even break. Finally after spitting out all the choice cuss words in he book and some that ain't never been cussed before Pa gets the tent up.

Then Ma says she'll get the supper. She sets up Pa's camp stove but it's raining so hard that the water gets in the oil and all it does is splutter and goes out. Pa says we'll haft to build a fire of wood but there ain't no dry wood so we uses them tent pegs and Pa builds the fire inside the tent and almost burned the darned thing up. I wisht he had now. Well, it ain't no go so's we all gets in the flivver and goes to a farm house where we gets our grub. Then we comes back to the tent to sleep. Pa and Ma sets up their cots and we kids do the same and we crawls in between blankets that is somewhat moist. Well, along about midnight they is an awful wind and our tent goes up like a balloon, leaving us poor mortals to the tender mercies of the weather which ain't too tender at that. Everybody beats it for the car and we twine ourselves around the steering wheel and any place whe we can and spends the night that way.

In the morning the sun is shining but we is as black as any thunder cloud. Pa's got a crick in the neck where he laid on the emergency brake lever and I ain't in any better shape nor is the rest of the family. Nellie says never again and demands to be let off at the nearest railroad station for she's goin' back home. That don't get me sore none. Well we goes out to Provincetown and climbs the monument for 15 cents and then starts back. We makes Boston that night and puts up at a hotel and says good bye to Nellie. Next day we makes for Maine and that night stops at Freeport at a nifty little hotel and today we arrived at Lake Maguntic ook at the foot of Mt. Battie just outside of Camden. Pa has set the tent up and it's fair weather so far. Willie has been down to the lake and has fell in but that ain't nothing worth mentioning.

Pa and Ma don't speak since Ma almost got pinched in Portland for sassing a traffic cop. All that saved Ma was that the officer belonged to the same lodge as the old man. What got Ma sore was when Pa throws it up at her that she was kicking because he was always going to lodge meetings and he says now see what it got you. Tomorrow we is going to climb the mountain if we is alive. There's plenty of skeeters here and it looks like we is going to be busy with them pests.

Well, Ed, I'll be home in a week or about I gotta stop now and mail this letter over to Camden.

Yours as ever,
SUSIE.

BRAVES HAND ST. LOUIS SETBACK IN LEAGUE RACE

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Boston took the final game of the series from St. Louis today, 5 to 4 in 14 innings, and further endangered the pennant chances of the Cardinals. Cincinnati, winning while St. Louis was loosing, went into a tie with the Cardinals for first place.

A hit by Cooney with two out and Taylor on second base blasted the hope of St. Louis in the 14th inning. Twice while the teams were tied at 4-4 from the eighth inning on, St. Louis had filled the bases with none out. Each time the team, with Hornsby at bat, was unable to score. The game was bitterly contested throughout and the Venow's fielding was a feature.

Douthit's home run in the fourth was the longest drive seen at Braves' field this season. Sherdel and Alexander pitched for the Cardinals and Wertz and Benton for Boston.

TEXAS LEAGUE CLUB LOOKING FOR JOE FABER

Joe Faber writes home that the season is now at a close and that he will arrive in Norwich on Thursday. Faber has made good with the York team this season, having played 121 games, fielding over .900 and hitting .329 up to Monday.

That Faber's playing has attracted attention may be gained from the following article from a paper at York, Pa.

Shreveport, of the Texas league, wants Joe Faber. This announcement was made recently by Manager Dessau. The Texas leaguers are hot after Faber for next season and have made a flattering offer to the York club. Manager Dessau is not in a hurry to dispose of Joe, who has become very popular here this season, and is playing a bang-up game, at the short field. One big league club is known to be after Faber's services and may put in a draft for the York shortstop. Faber has improved wonderfully this past season, both in his fielding and at the bat, and the York club may realize a neat sum for him this fall. Johnny Tillman and "Red" Parkes are other players who may be sold at the close of the season.

MOOSUP BEATS ANTHONY IN TEN INNING STRUGGLE

The Moosup team scored its seventh successive win in a bitterly fought ten-inning battle against the Anthony A. A. on the Carpet Grounds at Moosup on Sunday last. Both teams played an errorless game in the field but the Moosup boys outhit their rivals two to one and succeeded in bunching their singles at opportune times. The local boys drew first blood in the opening session on singles by Strelt, Frechette and Kendricks. The Rhode Island boys, however, could not be denied, tying the score in the third and going one to the good in the fourth. French opened the eighth for Moosup with a clean single over second but was forced out on Strelt's infield tap, the latter advancing to second on Allard's neat sacrifice to first, from where he tallied the tying run on Frechette's wicked double to right. The valley boys made a determined effort to carry off the game in the ninth when with one gone Place singled over first. Yendizee fanned the breezes but Yanzack nicked a good one for two bases. Rivers hit a wicked one over second which was knocked down by Drerosches for the third out. The winning run was scored by Moosup in the tenth on successive singles by Jollicoeur, Strelt and Allard.

STOLEN NEW LONDON CAR FOUND IN MONTVILLE CONTAINED KNIFE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—An automobile owned by O. L. Reynolds, who is residing temporarily at 45 Garfield avenue, was stolen last night and this morning was found abandoned in Montville. The automobile was parked on Garfield avenue last night when Reynolds ended a ride. When he rose this morning he discovered the automobile missing and reported the theft to the police. About 9 o'clock an officer of the state police, Groton barracks, located the automobile in Montville and it was a huge butcher knife.

CITY COURT HAS TO DEAL WITH OVER THIRTY CASES

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13—The police court had a tremendous docket at this morning's session, there being more than thirty cases for presentation. Auto speeders, drunks, train riders without purchase of tickets, brawlers and similar offenders were complained against. Joseph Grassmier and D. R. Lee were charged with automobile speeding, for they were arrested with and admitted that they operated cars at a speed not warranted by the safety of the passing of streets intersecting the highways on which they were traveling. They were fined $10 each. When the costs of trial were added to their expense bill the payment made them estimate what the expense will. They might have saved further paid into the court had they ridden at a reasonable speed—a speed which would have permitted them to see what they were passing.

Allen Hopkins, whose home is in Groton, Conn., had been in the Coast Guard service up to Saturday. Then he was discharged because he was an undesirable for that service. He did not get a dishonorable dismissal, but he knew that he could not stay in the service because of his character. Hopkins he was seen in New London wearing the uniform of the Coast Guard. Lieutenant-Commander Whitehead has arrest for wearing the uniform 12 hours after he had [illegible] Lieut.-Commander [illegible] Hopkins in Groton and related that the offense of which he was dismissed was not a crime. The officer said that he proposes to have a man in the service who is in his employ respected in the part of Hopkins was on his way to his home when the clothes he was wearing can be made use of them and get to his parents in view of the fact made for Hopkins the [illegible] that he might get out [illegible] and ascended judgment to [illegible] Bristol.

Peter Kelly, a boatswain's mate in the Coast Guard, a big, muscular fellow with a bad temper, hit Walter [illegible] a heavy one blow that floored him and a blow from a club would have done him out. The latter went to the Army and Navy rooming place and got a room, but he did not get it, for he was intoxicated Kelly happened along with a load of grog aboard and buried in. Kupinsky notified the fellow that his kindness was not appreciated and told him in so many words to mind his own business. That angered the sailor and he hit Kupinsky with the latter fell as he might have fallen and a mule kicked him. He was rendered unconscious and was not revived till he was administered to at the police station. The brute Kelly was sought and found and today was fined $15. Kelly was drunk when he was arrested at a local restaurant some time after the exhibition he made of himself at the Army and Navy place.

Five careless autoists, who paid no heed to streets that crossed the ones on which they were riding were fined, after they had endeavored to explain their conduct but the execution of judgment was suspended that they might learn wisdom from their experience without paying other penalty than the notoriety their offenses brought to them.

George Paisley headed the list of drunks and he paid dearer for his spree than did any of the others similarly charged. He came over from Fishers Island, where, he said, he had worked industriously a year and a half, and brought $150 with him. He didn't have any of the money when he admitted to the court that he was drunk, when taken taken into custody. That was a costly spree for Paisley, so he was let off with that penalty.

Sailors and civilians made up the balance of the booze fighters. In some of the cases judgment was suspended, while in others the accused were fined and the execution of judgment was suspended. Mike Durand gave a bond of $25 when he fell into the police net as a drunk, to insure his appearance in court. He failed to keep his promise so his bond was called and forfeited. A couple of other bonds of $15 each were forfeited also.

George Dooley was fined $10 for window peering. He claimed to have come from New Haven and to have become drunk and had gone in to a yard on Green street where he was found. But a young woman who complained to the police that Dooley was peeping into her bedroom window was in court to accuse him, so he pleaded guilty, rather than have her tell what happened.

Three young fellows taken from a New Haven railroad train that brought them from Boston, were charged with beating their way to New London. They admitted the offense but claimed they were working their way to North Carolina where they were to attend college. They had no money and little clothing other than what they wore in court. The railroad company desired only to discourage attempts to ride free on trains, so when the trio proposed to leave town by other means than stealing rides the court allowed them to get away.

Santa Scira was informed against by his wife for a breach of peace. There are some family matters to be settled up in this case, so it was continued to the 4th of December. A case against Daniel Stahler was similarly adjourned.

The court nolled a complaint against Jennie Phillips, charged with failing to have a dog registered. She has made disposition of the dog which she claims is safe with her to be cared for by its owner.

A complaint against Harry Holloway, of Groton, was continued a week, because he is physically unable to appear in court. He is charged with the embezzlement of a large sum of money from the H. L. Handy meat concern. He denies the accusation and is understood to claim that the accounts of the concern are tangled.

Mrs. Victor Dahl, 29 Eighth street, reported to the police this afternoon that a young man was loitering in the vicinity of her home and was acting in a strange manner. Sergeant John Cavanaugh, who was sent to Eighth street, found Henry Hale, 17, hanging around the Dahl place. He stated that he had been committed to the Waverly, Mass., school for boys some time ago and recently ran away, finally landing in New London. He was arrested and taken to police headquarters where he was taken in charge by Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who has communicated with the Massachusetts institution relative to arrangements being made for the return of the boy to the school.

Tony and Agta Arionchuck have sold a house and lot on Hill street to Apollinary Rydel.

William A. Slocum has sold a building lot on Dell avenue to Levi Q. Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Roath and family, 156 Montauk avenue visited friends in Millerton, N. Y., Sunday. They made the trip by automobile.

The funeral of Miss Susan P. Boss, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 69 Vauxhall street and was attended by many mourners, among them several teachers. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Carey Congdon, William H. Reeves, Edwin C. Ford and Robert R. Congdon. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. Foley, widow of Charles Foley, of Waterford, was held at 9:15 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were Harry Stanford, Owen McCurdy, William Phillips, Herbert Newbury, Philip Robinson and Charles Stanford. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Hartford Transcript, which is read by a large proportion of the 500,000 Catholics of Connecticut, printed the following tribute to Walter Fitzmaurice of Waterbury, whose funeral took place in this, his native city: A fine fellow was laid away last week. As true and noble and loyal a friend as ever lived. Walter Fitzmaurice whose funeral was held in New London on Tuesday, leaves in the heart of his countless Waterbury friends a memory that shall last as long as life shall endure. Simple as a boy, with a mind that thought no evil, and a tongue that spoke nothing but charity, his wide circle of acquaintances here who valued his big-hearted friendship and benevolence will miss him beyond recounting and feel the poorer indeed for his passing. And for some of us who knew him more closely than the world today may seem within its sunshine, still we complain not. We bless God that we had him, that we knew him, that we were privileged to love him. May his good kindly soul rest with God and peace and light forever. He is survived by a brother, Frank Fitzmaurice, of 85 Ocean avenue, New London, and four sisters, Mrs. Theresa Shea, Miss Ruth Fitzmaurice and Miss Mary Fitzmaurice of 85 Ocean avenue and Mrs. Edward J. Reynolds of Lynn, Mass. He also leaves an uncle, the Rev. John H. Fitzmaurice, pastor of St. Francis' church, New Haven.

It is recalled that the father of Walter Fitzmaurice, also named Walter, was long a prominent man in the life of New London and was equally well known in Norwich, having served so faithfully for years as the Westerly and at one time the New London correspondent of The Bulletin. For years he was a prominent worker in the Connecticut Catholic Total Abstinence society; and when St. Mary's T. A. & B. society of Norwich was celebrating its golden anniversary, it was Walter Fitzmaurice who was selected to summarize the activities and achievements of the organization—which he so ably did, and in rhyme. Many a man now in high places in this city has reason to remember the kindly writer as a helpful friend, ready aid and to boost, and in some cases making even personal sacrifices to do a good turn, when publicity might have proved exceedingly embarrassing to the unfortunate or the unlucky. His pen and his talents and his service were always at the command of those who sought his assistance; and his memory is honored in the hearts of his splendid son, by rich and poor alike.

Wesley Graham, 591 Main street, complained to the police this afternoon that John Hines, Federal street, had attacked him with a club in front of the house on State street earlier in the day and requested that Hines be arrested. Hines could not be located at the time, but when he was informed that inquiry for him had been made by the police, Hines went to the police station to ascertain what was wanted of him. He found out quickly, being ordered to present himself in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile driven by George Lubow, 285 Montauk avenue and an automobile driven by Mrs. Henderson of Noank, collided this afternoon and the latter auto was damaged. The automobile driven by Lubow was turning from Main to Church streets and just as the auto driven by Mrs. Henderson was being driven from Church to Main street. In making the turn the autos collided, Lubow's car getting a wrecked mudguard.

Maria, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Mandler, 15 Briggs street, died Sunday at the residence of her parents. She had been ill but a few days.

The funeral of Allen Brewster was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence at Crescent Beach, the services being conducted by Rev. George W. Gilbert of Niantic. The bearers were George Brewster, Ira Brown, M. Kelley, John Mills, Peter Dyer and George McFee. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Annie M. Miller, 74, widow of Charles Miller, died Sunday at her home on Barley road, Flanders. She is survived by a son, Frank Dawson. Her husband died several years ago. Mrs. Miller was born in Woodbury, but had resided in Flanders for many years.

Walter S. Garde of Neptune park, who suffered a fractured arm two weeks ago, was able to leave Lawrence-Memorial hospital today and return to his home.

RIVERSIDE SECTION SEWERS FAVORED BY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 13.—There is every probability that a system of sewers will be constructed in that section known as Riverside, adjacent to Connecticut college. The estimated cost of the sewer and the outfall as made known to the city council this afternoon is $40,000. Of this amount the city will pay some $20,800 for the construction of the outfalls, etc., east of the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad, and the balance of $19,500 will be assessed against the property on the west side of the tracks. It is probable that some land must be acquired for the completion of the work and for this the city manager will negotiate. He has been authorized to do that. A report was presented to the council on the matter of the proposed widening of Green street, from State to Tilley. It is estimated that under the plan proposed by the report submitted, the cost of the work will be nearly $60,000. So the project of widening vanishes. Now it will be for the council to extend Green street to Tilley, a comparatively inexpensive undertaking if the city is to relieve traffic congestion on Bank and State streets. It was Councilor May who brought to the attention of the council the extension of Green street to Tilley but the matter has advanced to the point where it was not contemplated in the original scheme of traffic relief. Under the plan it is proposed to make the street 60 feet wide, with eight foot sidewalks.

The cost of the work contemplated is $4,000. In addition to this cost there will be the alteration of sidewalks, the grading, water and sewer services, catch basins, and a lot of other work that will run the cost up to the figures given—about $600,000. The report was received for filing and record and represents the estimated cost as furnished by the city engineer.

Councilor Streeter brought up the matter of a zoning commission act and reported that the committee desired to hold a conference with the planning board and with the council. So the reported progress and the report was received as such.

Ordinances contemplating the laying of sewers in the Hillside road section were read for the third time and adopted, as was an ordinance providing for a sewer on Lower Boulevard.

Taxpayers on Kononoc street petitioned for improvements in the highway on that street, representing that the road was badly out of repair. The petition was referred to the city manager for a report.

Messrs. Whiton and Streeter asked that the city manager report on the entire cost to the city of outfall sewers that the outfalls might be listed as an asset on which money might be borrowed, it seemed necessary.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A season of playgoing is scarcely a season at all unless the popular William Hodge comes along with a comedy from his own pen and to which he adds his distinctive acting methods. His countless admirers will welcome the announcement of his forthcoming appearance at the Broadway theater on Wednesday night, Sept. 15 in The Judge's Husband, in which Mr. Hodge has been playing with marked success in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. He will be seen here prior to his New York engagement opening September 27th.

Mr. Hodge is an adherent of our homely American traditions. In his inimitable delineations he carries on the memory of such artists as Sol Smith Russell, James A. Herne and others whose plays and acting methods were distinctly American. In fact Mr. Hodge is now almost alone in his field. In his latest offering he portrays a quaint character, Joe Kirby, who is a lawyer in a small New England town. His politically ambitious wife is elevated to the bench. She is surrounded by an unscrupulous crowd of politicians. Her home is neglected and her husband falls heir to the job of housekeeper and playing mother to a somewhat spring daughter. A domestic clash culminates in the divorce court with the wife as judge presiding over the trial—a unique scene in the annals of stage trials. It is conducted in its legal phase entirely in accordance with the present laws of the state of Connecticut.

The well-known and lovely Gladys Hanson is Mr. Hodge's leading woman and in her experienced hands is the role of the judge.

Seats are selling very fast and the management advises immediate purchase of tickets for which purpose the box office is open from ten till ten.

Palace Theatre

Sam Ash famous star of Rose Marie, Honeydew, The Music Box Review and many other successful musical comedies comes to the Palace opening at Thursday's matinee and remaining for three days only. His coming is an event of importance in the early fall season and another evidence of the management's intention to bring exceptional artists for the entertainment of Norwich citizens. Sam Ash is known to thousands by his phonographic records and they will now have the opportunity of seeing and hearing him in person. It has been said by many that Mr. Ash's voice compares favorably with John McCormick's. For sheer merit and entertainment value Sam Ash takes a high place, he has a charming voice and presence and is rated as one of the finest vaudeville features of the year. He will, no doubt, receive a royal welcome in this city as he has every where that he has appeared.

The commuter's idea of hades is that it is a suburb of heaven.

Breed Theatre.

A picture that seems destined to rank among the famous "ten best of the year" is "East Lynne," the William Fox supreme attraction directed by Emmett Flynn from the classic of the stage.

This rare screen treat will open on Wednesday at the Breed theatre for a two day run, and advance inquiries at the manager's office indicate unusual interest in the first showing of this photodrama in this city.

One of the startling moments of this picture is the spectacular train wreck near the climax of the picture.

The original period of the stage play—that of the '70's—has been retained.

Palace Theatre

Jack Adams and the Thompson Sisters as the stage presentation at the Palace opening yesterday, charmed their audiences with a delightful mixture of songs, dances and musical numbers. This talented trio of entertainers made many friends at their first appearance and will be heard again at matinee and evening performances today and Wednesday. The motion picture program presents Gilda Gray, famous dancer of the "Hula Hula" in her first picture production "Aloma of the South Seas," supported by Percy Marmont, Warner Baxter, Julianne Johnston and a large cast. Aloma is an elaborate production with a romantic and gripping story and Gilda is seen in the dances that made her famous amid settings of gorgeous tropical beauty such as have not previously been seen on the screen. Charlie Chase in a side-splitting comedy entitled Bromo and Juliet put the audience in good humor. The Palace Topical Events gives all the latest world wide news and Walter Lang and his popular orchestra provide appropriate musical setting for the picture program and an overture consisting of "On the Riviera" and gems from The Girl Friend.

Broadway Theater

Although the Keith-Albee vaudeville program which opened yesterday at the Broadway theater, plays here for the last time today, it proved to the crowded audience that the management could put on as good a two day variety bill as would be expected from a three day bill.

Hargraves and Moxie, The Midnight Steppers are the fastest humans on feet that we have seen in months. One of the boys is the proud possessor of a medal he won for tap dancing while entertaining in the A. E. F. at Bordeaux, France.

Joe Walters and his company of three in Granddaddy by Eugene Conrad is a pretty and very entertaining story told in song, dance and dialogue.

La Vine and Dale billed as Lads You Will Like are real funny in their dialogue singing and dancing.

Stanley and Elva On the Wire is a act so to speak, although they do many stunts that are thrilling.

The reason Gene Stratton-Porter is the ranking novelist of the day in point of book sales and popularity with the public is proven conclusively by the F. B. O. production, The Keeper of the Bees, which may be seen at the Broadway theater today before it yields the screen to another picture. Directed by the late Mrs. Porter's son-in-law, J. Leo Meehan, and with the famous novelist's grand-daughter, Gene Stratton Monroe, taking one of the important holes in the cast, it might be said to be a thoroughly porteresque production; and it proves a corking picture! The warmth, sentiment, and wholesome philosophy of the novel all inbue the picture with an aura which cannot but make it one of the most successful movies of the year. It outclasses even The Girl of the Limberlost, the work of the same author and director, and it is certainly destined to add many fans to the millions, who already know and love the books of this great writer.

Watch Elimination!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

RETENTION of bodily waste matter in the blood is referred to as a "toxic condition." This often gives rise to a dull, languid feeling, and sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning perfectly at such times is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. Many people have learned to assist their kidneys in ridding the blood of these toxic products by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of a stimulant diuretic. Doan's Pills are a stimulant diuretic and act on the kidneys only. They have earned a national reputation. Ask your neighbor!

POETRY

A Name in the Sand

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast;
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so, me thought, 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth from me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time, and been, to be no more,
Of me—the day—the name I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet, with Him who counts the sand
And holds the waters in His hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought,
And from these fleeting moments caught
For glory or for shame.

—Hannah Flagg Gould.

Elfin Song

Ouphe and goblin! imp and sprite!
Elf of eve! and starry Fay!
Ye that love the moon's soft light,
Hither—hither wend your way;
Twine ye in a jocund ring,
Sing and trip it merrily,
Hand to hand, and wing to wing,
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.

Hail the wanderer again,
With dance and song, and lute and lyre,
Pure his wing and strong his chain,
And doubly bright his fairy fire,
Twine ye in an airy round,
Brush the dew and print the lea;
Skip and gambol, hop and bound,
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.

The beetle guards our holy ground,
He flies about the haunted place,
And if mortal there be found,
He hums in his ears and flaps his face.
The leaf-harp sounds our roundelay,
The owlet's eyes and lanterns be;
Thus we sing, and dance, and play,
Round the wild witch-hazel tree.

—Joseph Rodman Drake.

A seven days' wonder among Sturgeon bay, Wis., folk was a rooster that had eaten 926 kernels of corn at a meal. E. G. Druding, a grocer in the neighboring town of Ellsworth, had a big rooster that he believed could beat that record and invited his customers to guess how many kernels it would eat. They gave him their estimates, the rooster started eating and in 20 minutes had consumed 1,480 kernels, by actual count.

While making a tour of the Rio Grande border, J. T. Rotinson, land commissioner, came across the most remarkable shaped farm that he ever saw. This tract, near Sapata, Tex., is 40 feet wide and three miles long. Its peculiar shape is due to the dividing of an estate owned by a Mexican family, each of the heirs being entitled under the law to riparian rights on the Rio Grande. The narrow strip extends from the river back into the interior for three miles.

The old maxim that "silence gives consent" is not accepted by English law, under a recent ruling of the court of criminal appeals in England. A prisoner, accused of receiving stolen goods, had remained silent when asked whether guilty or not guilty, and his silence was taken as a plea of guilty. He was sentenced by the lower courts to five years or penal servitude. But the court of appeals ruled that his silence was not adequate evidence of a plea of guilty by the prisoner, and discharged the convicted man.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Price movements lacked definite trend in today's curb market, with the total volume of business showing a marked falling off, due largely to the transfer of General Motors new stock to the "big board." The public was reported by brokers to be apathetic although a few pools tried to stimulate interest by bidding up stocks in which they were interested.

Oils failed to respond to reports of another decrease in california production, most of the active issues in that group drifting lower on liquidation by tired investors and speculators. The active Standard Oil issues showed little change on the day. In the independent group Red Bank broke 4 points to 22 and Reiter-Foster 3 1-2 to 16.

Warner Pictures B was one of the spectacular features in the industrial section, jumping nearly 7 points to a new high at 60 3-4, after having sold as low as 8 earlier in the year. Radio shares developed a little more activity in connection with the opening of the annual radio exposition here today, but except for a point gain in Freshman, the net changes were small and unimportant. Motors were heavy. Public utilities were mixed.

Little interest developed in the new stocks of the DuPont and Texas corporations, stockholders of the former approving the recapitalization plan which provides for an exchange of two shares of new no par stock for one of the present $100 par.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Buying interest in today's bond market centered almost exclusively in the foreign list. Continued stiff money rates and an unsettled stock market retarded trading domestic securities, although a few points of special strength developed.

Most of the activity in new financing also was in the foreign field. Arrangements were completed by a syndicate headed by the National City Company for a $15,000,000 loan to Finland, while the $20,000,000 Brussian bond issue, offered today, was promptly subscribed.

Coincident with the rise of Japanese 6 1-2s to a new high record, reports were revived that additional Japanese financing might be expected, possibly for leading municipalities, but bankers were not aware of any plans for an early offering. Four French issues, including two of the government's obligations, reached the best prices of the year and a strong demand developed for various German and South American issues.

Miscellaneous industrial lists made the best showing in the domestic division.

Railroad bonds were mixed, with a fair demand for semi-speculative issues offset by the heaviness of investment issues.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Grain values averaged lower today. Buying power remained slack during the greater part of the trading and the close was weak with wheat down 1-2 to 1 5-8c, corn unchanged to 3-8c lower, oats unchanged to 1-8c off, and provisions at the same as Saturday's finish to 32 1-2c decline.

Enthusiasm was lacking on the buying side of the wheat market, the greater part of the day. The general tone, however, toward the finish was a little better than in the early dealings, largely because of buying resistance which was encountered on the dips.

The market as a whole reflected the big short covering of last Saturday.

A desire on the part of the longs to take profits or restricted buying power, gave corn an easier tone.

Oats, while higher in the early trading, dipped later, largely on profit taking sales prompted by the set-back in wheat.

Provisions were easier, despite an advance in hog values.

Telling Them By Toll Line

WHAT does toll telephone service mean to you? Do you look upon it as an expense, or do you see it in its true light as a valuable saver of business money and time?

One of New Haven's most progressive wholesale commission merchants, Mr. S. Landow, Treasurer of The S. Landow Co., knows its worth to his business. He says: "Much of our progress is traceable to prompt contact with out-of-town markets. When, many times daily, we have wished to tell the distant shipper or broker immediately of our needs, we have simply 'Tolled' them; that's all."

Speedy personal contact with out-of-town merchants is essential to Mr. Landow's business—and he uses toll telephone service. Let your local Exchange Manager explain to you the different kinds of toll calls and how they can work for your business.

Had it not been for [illegible] formal ballots to determine the contested choice for lieutenant governor [illegible] attorney general the convention [illegible] have been the quietest one in [illegible] most of the delegates.

Mr. Brainard who was elected a senator in the 1925 general assembly, and was president pro tempore of the [illegible] branch became lieutenant governor when Mr. Trumbull went into the governor's office as successor to Governor Bingham who had become United States senator. He desired the nomination but was opposed by former Senator John M. Wadhams, of [illegible]. ANOTHER STEP TAKEN IN EUROPEAN RECONCILIATION

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Another historic step in European reconciliation was taken today with the deposit with the secretariat of the league of nations of the ratifications of the Locarno treaties of security and arbitration. This was followed by an optimistic statement by Gustave Stresemann, the German foreign minister, to the British correspondents that the Locarno accords, now officially merged with the league, have completely changed the political situation in Europe.

"It is," he declared, "the end of the policy of mistrust and the birth of an era of collaboration."

In the opinion of Dr. Stresemann the big difficulty was in winning over German public opinion to the ideas voiced at Locarno, and he now was convinced that a big majority of his people sincerely believed in the Locarno pact.

Contrary to expectations, beyond meeting for the Locarno ratifications, Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand held no conference today, the French foreign minister resting, while the Reich foreign minister attended a somewhat listless afternoon session of the assembly.

The assembly's juridical commission finally adopted an amended draft regulating the method of election of non-permanent members of the council, including the Norwegian amendment giving the assembly power to convey and reapportion the non-permanent council seats if one holder undly obstructs the council's work by preventing unanimity.

Klan Wizard Warns League of Nations

Would Protect Mexico From the League and the Nations of Europe.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—An immediate offensive against "Romanism, alienism, bolshevism and anti-Americanism of all kinds," was the battle cry sounded here today to the Ku Klux Klan by its emperor and imperial wizard, Dr. Hiram W. Evans.

There was an instant and vociferous response from the hundreds of delegates attending the third biennial convocation of the organization. Time and time again as the imperial wizard mapped out the Klan program for the ensuing years, the Washington auditorium rang with the cheers of the knights.

After the imperial wizard had concluded this carefully prepared address, he announced that he had delayed acceptance of his re-election by the grand dragons for four years because he wanted the assurance of a united Klan behind him in the program he had determined upon.

Immediately a cyclops from Alabama moved the endorsement of his re-election and his platform and administration and a klansman from Texas seconded that motion. The response was a rush of delegates for the state, with a klansman from South Carolina, bearing the state banner, leading the procession.

Within a few minutes the imperial wizard was the center of a milling mass of shouting delegates and he finally was borne from the stage to the pit of the shoulders of four men who carried him around the immense hall while the delegates stood and cheered.

With the restoration of order the motion was carried by a rising vote and Dr. Evans accepted the endorsement with the promise to fight for Klan principles to the end of his time.

Then Dr. Evans was cheered again and again during his address, the greatest outbreak came when he urged klansmen to use every effort to "take the United States out of the World Court." He was declaring for adherence to the principles of the founding fathers against entangling alliances.

When quiet again was restored he interpolated a warning to the League of Nations and the nations of Europe not to interfere with the internal affairs of Mexico. There was no direct reference to the religious fight now waging in that country.

The imperial wizard asserted he had heard it said that the League of Nations would interfere in Mexico and predicted, that if Europe did interfere in that country it would find itself in trouble.

"If any European nation lands a force in Mexico," he shouted, "and if the United States government is not ready to act, thank God there are enough klansmen in America to repel them."

This was the signal for another great outburst of hand-clapping and cheering.

SUPREME COURT OF ERRORS TO HEAR VACCINATION CASES

HARTFORD, Sept. 14—(AP)—Whether children between the ages of seven and sixteen must be vaccinated before they can attend school is a question which will have an airing on the criminal as well as the civil side of the state courts, with the result that the whole vaccination question as it applies to school children will ultimately have an airing in the supreme court of errors.

This seemed assured today when State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn said that he would try Everett Emmons, of 641 New Britain avenue and John A. GOV'T CHANGES COURSE IN DAUCHERTY-MILLER TRIAL

Has Temporarily Abandoned Its Attempt to Prove Conspiracy to Defaud the United States—Now Endeavoring to Prove That the $7,000,000 Claim the Accused Paid to Richard Merton, German Agent of the Societe Suisse, Was Not Valid.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The government today temporarily abandoned its attempt to show that Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller conspired to defraud the United States and bent its efforts toward proving that the $7,000,000 claim they paid to Richard Merton, German agent of the Societe Suisse, was not valid. Previously United States Attorney Buckner had said he would prove a conspiracy whether the claim was valid or not.

Merton, the government's key witness, was bombarded with questions during the entire day—the fifth he has spent in the witness box—in an attempt by Mr. Buckner to prove that he knew the claims were false. Mr. Buckner also sought to show that Merton was coached by G. H. Williams, first assistant to Miller as alien property custodian, to construct his claims in a manner that would conceal facts that would have produced refund of the $7,000,000 of American Metal Company shares seized under the trading with the enemy act.

The specific charge on which Daugherty and Miller are on trial is "conspiring to defraud the United States of their unbiased unprejudiced opinion and intelligent service." Testimony was adduced to show that Merton paid the late John T. King republican national committeeman from Connecticut, fees amounting to $441,000 for "pushing" his claim through the alien property custodian's office and having it passed by Daugherty, then attorney general.

Mr. Buckner conducted an exhaustive redirect examination of Merton on technical phases of the financing of the Societe Suisse and Swiss loans and their relations to the two German companies—the Metal bank and the Metallgesellschaft, of which Merton was a director.

All of the direct testimony Merton gave today is based upon cross examination by counsel. Much was in turn was made upon evidence admitted under objection by counsel for Daugherty and Miller and which will be stricken from the records unless Buckner gives it a connection with the conspiracy charge and makes it binding upon both defendants.

Daugherty, hunched in his chair, his coat collar turned about his neck, apparently took little interest in the proceedings. Even when his counsel, Max D. Steur, jumped to his feet and moved that the jury be discharged because, he alleged, Buckner had acted in a matter prejudicial to a fair trial, the former attorney sat unmoved. Miller, whose wife sat near him during the trial, followed the proceedings closely.

The motion to dismiss the jury followed the reading, by Buckner, of a letter Merton wrote John Frey, Boston, New York lawyer, in November, 1920. Waiving the letter because of hearsay, Buckner accepted it only as evidence of showing an oral transfer of the shares of the American Metal company to the Societe Suisse had originated in information Dulles wrote in code. Prior to that, Buckner charged, there never had been a mention made of this oral transfer.

"By his gesture, by his manner of quoting dramatically, by the waving of the letter he holds in his hand," Steur said, "Buckner makes it impossible for these defendants to have a fair trial. I move that the jury be discharged."

"I fear," Judge Mack observed, "that you attach too much importance to Mr. Buckner's histrionic abilities, Mr. Steur."

The crowd in the courtroom laughed at the judge's observation.

As Buckner, who has been charged by defense attorneys with attempts to impeach and attack the credibility of his own witnesses, tried to prevent admission of exhibits, he found the defense attorneys defending the government witness.

[illegible] testimony of examination [illegible] entered about the oral transfer by him and his mother in 1918—a few days [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Societe Suisse [illegible] [illegible] Metal company [illegible] assumed by his father in 1919 and 1920.

Buckner argued that this obligation was a myth, concocted for the purpose of establishing a motive for the transfer of the shares that antedated the war. But Merton, giving long explanations of the events leading up to the transfer and the relations of the Merton family to the various concerns involved, stood by his previous statements. He enumerated that he believed at the time he made the claims that they were valid and that he still believes them valid.

Merton said that when he came to America [illegible] he felt them to be weak because of the oral transfer. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the claim [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

DANIELSON

ENLARGED HIGH SCHOOL IS FINELY EQUIPPED

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14—Between 150 and 200 pupils will be regularly served with luncheon in the cafeteria of the enlarged Killingly high school, which will open for the year's work September 27, a week from next Monday. This particular fact will indicate to a great many what a large and modern school the town will have in use in the immediate future.

Supt. William E. Parker, on a tour through the building today, pointed out how rapidly the finishing work has been pushed forward and how far advanced it is at the present time. Those who have not seen the interior of the enlarged structure cannot have a real conception of the vast amount of work that is entailed in getting it ready for of the thousand and one details needing attention. The great effort that has been expended during the past few weeks is now in evidence in rooms practically ready for occupancy. There are a number of these rooms that are receiving their finishing touches and will be already for occupancy when school opens on the 27th.

In the rooms where the seating has been completed one gets an idea of how the school will look when it is in use. Seats and desks are on one standard a splendid arrangement that allows not only comfortable and convenient room for the pupils, but also makes cleaning about the single metal standard an easy task. The new floors are of a fine quality of Michigan beech.

The building is arranged so that the rooms to be used by each department are adjoining—a section here for science, another elsewhere for domestic arts, another and another for each department of the school.

Down in the basement steam fitters were making ready to build fires under the new twin heaters Tuesday for their first try out with steam. Toilets and showers were being put in place, blackboards were going up in class rooms and the activities of about four score workers was all indicative of how fast the work was going forward, as well as the great amount of it that is being done. It has been no simple task to make this building ready, as the public will sense when it is thrown open for public inspection.

As for the cafeteria, this special feature of the school will be a great boon to a great many who study at the school. It is estimated that as many as 200 will come to the school from outlying sections of the town of Killingly from Brooklyn and other nearby towns.

At noon they will be able to purchase warm food prepared in the building. Meats, vegetables, soups, salads, hot coffee, chocolate and desserts will be available at prices just sufficient to meet the cost of providing them. Those served will take a tray and go down the length of a counter on which the foods will be set, taking such things as they wish. At the end of the counter their tray will be checked and the amount due collected from them. The cafeteria will have accommodations for about 75 at one time.

CONN. MILLS CO. TO REMOVE MACHINERY TO THE SOUTH

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14—This evening, stockholders here of the Connecticut Mills company, one of Danielson's largest textile plants, received notice from officials of the company that the corporation has decided to remove a large part of its machinery to the south, where a complete unit for tire fabrics manufacturing will be established. The company now operates three separate plants, one in Danielson, one in Fall River and one in Taunton. The yarn is spun at Fall River and Taunton, then transferred by motortruck to Danielson, where it is manufactured into the fabric of excellent quality and high reputation. The separation of the plants one from the other, makes the cost of manufacture too high to permit the corporation as now located to operate at a profit, in the present highly competitive market.

After long consideration on the part of the directors and after an investigation by a textile engineering concern of wide experience, it has been decided after visits to various localities in the south, that it would be desirable to have a southern unit. Provided that a suitable location is found, local interests will co-operate by supplying manufacturing facilities on the basis of a lease or some similar arrangement. The stockholders are informed that it is believed this condition can be met. The funds of the corporation with the financial assistance which the directors believe can be secured at the point where the new mill will be located, will be sufficient to cover the cost of moving the machinery and should leave a sufficient balance for working capital. The directors have been advised that, with the new unit in operation, the earnings of the corporation, even if the product is sold at the local prices now prevailing, will be sufficient to cover all charges and to pay the dividend on the first preferred stock. Improvement in market prices will substantially increase the margin of earning applicable to stock of other classes. The directors believe that this move is for the interests of the corporation. The notice to the stockholders is by the president, Obediah Butler and by Charles Walcott.

This news will be depressing to the town of Killingly as it means the loss of at least half the number of hands that have been employed at the plant here. The concern has had a difficult time since the general depression in business, in 1920, and since that time has paid no dividend on its common or second preferred stock, much of which is held in this vicinity. Dividends on the first preferred stock have been paid.

HIGH BRED DOGS READY FOR SHOW AT BROOKLYN FAIR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 14—Joseph Birch of the Windham County Kennel club said Tuesday afternoon that the organization is planning for a fine kennel exhibition show at the Brooklyn fair. There will be classes for all sorts of dogs and anyone may enter an animal. The dog show was a special feature, attracted a great deal of attention at the fair last fall. This year it will be even more attractive. Awards to winners will be made in all classes. Out of town judges will pass upon the merits of the dogs and make the awards. This year the dog show will be staged in a very prominent location near the main entrance.

Enumeration has begun of all the children in the town of Killingly between the ages of 4 and 16 years, as is done each fall. The state, for educational purposes, allows the town $2.25 for each child enumerated. At Goodyear the enumeration is being made by William S Hunter. A. D. Sayles is listing the children in East Killingly, Tucker district, Sparks district, Valley, Killingly Center, Mashentuck and South Killingly. Frank Bennett is doing the enumerating in Dayville. Attawaugan, Ballouville and in Danielson north of Academy street and east of and including Broad street. Henry Lague has charge of the work south of and west of Academy street, including the Riverview section, and as far south as the Killingly-Plainfield line. These enumerations are made each fall.

That there may be no confusion among hunters as to what their rights are under existing laws, which in some cases are now conflicting as between federal and state enactments, game officials are calling attention to certain regulations peretaining to taking waterfowl. Connecticut and federal statutes do not agree on the open seasons at present, so the federal laws take precedence over the state laws. Greater and lesser yellowlegs are the only waterfowl that may be legally taken in Connecticut at this time, the open season on them, under the federal law, being from August 16t o November 30.

Waterfowl, except wood duck, elder duck and swans, cannot be legally taken in Connecticut before October 8.

The regular hunting season for protected game birds in Connecticut will open October 8.

Through a change in plans because of illness in the Danielson home, the meeting of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., scheduled to be held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George Danielson of Maple street, is to be held with Mrs. Sidney P. Marland of Broad street.

County Game Warden J. F. Ash of Pomfret and Deputy Game Warden G. E. Withey of Danielson on Wednesday confiscated nine steel traps found set up in hedge sbuilt to entice protected game birds, prime evidence of an effort to take game illegally before the beginning of the open season on October 8. The use of steel traps at the entrance to these hedges, instead of the old string loops, is something of a new device, and against the law.

At the Congregational parsonage in Brooklyn last Thursday afternoon Miss Rose L. Broughton became the bride of Louis D. Parkhurst, Rev. John R. Pratt performing the ceremony. HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Lee & Osgood Co sells lots of it.

Superior Performance Results from Superior Manufacturing

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

The state republican convention has not done so much different than was expected. It has done for the most part just what was expected, done it well and done it in response to public demands.

It may have been a foregone conclusion that Senator Hiram Bingham would be renominated and that Governor John H Trumbull would be named to head the list of state officers again, but that was so because of the character of service they have rendered as public servants and because it was known that without as well as within the party there was general recognition of the excellence of that service and a strong desire for its continuance.

As Senator McLean said in his keynote speech, "the people of Connecticut made no mistake when they called these two men into public service." There was confidence two years ago that they were the men desired and their administration of their respective duties since then has justified every expectation We need just such an active, alert and responsible representative at Washington and we need in Connecticut just such a sane, sound, business executive.

Their records are open books the republicans have given hearty endorsement to their accomplishments through renominations and we have no doubt but what the people of Connecticut will welcome the opportunity to see that they are returned to office by large majorities.

Such contests as developed in the convention were close and spirited. Good men were certain whoever won and the outcome should simply mean that the competitive candidacies have increased the interest and enthusiasm for the entire ticket.

Lieutenant Governor E. G. Brainard of Branford who has been renominated has had two years' experience, while the other state officers with the exception of the candidate for attorney general, B. W. Alling of New Britain, are renominated on their records The ticket is a strong one and can be relied upon to make its appeal to the people of the state who have the welfare of the commonwealth at heart.

STRAIGHT BUT DANGEROUS

What is required to make a road safer? It may all depend upon the condition of the road, but after reasonable attention has been given to that there is plenty of evidence to show that one of the big factors is the part which the individual driver plays in protecting himself and others. Safety is to a large degree what the users of the highway make it.

Attention is called in an interesting way to this by the New York Herald Tribune which points out the fine, straight, level White Horse pike running across the state from Camden to Absecon City, and to the Newburyport pike from Boston to Newburyport, laws and engineers surveyors can make it as expensive of highways as they choose, straight and fine it could not possibly exceed all the best.

The answer to [illegible] that such fine highways have been provided, some [illegible] have been furnished, that every [illegible] who might be induced to drive a bit of care on a good road and control safe highway are [illegible] for the road for the thrill that is in it or for the sake of trying to beat the other fellow.

It is another bit of evidence which goes to show that the more that is done to meet the demands of motorists the greater is the disposition to throw caution to the winds and when that is done it means a steady and deplorable list of fatal and [illegible] accidents with too many deaths and injuries galore. Danger exists in all directions if there is no disposition to observe a proper amount of care.

There is no good reason why the best and straightest highways should produce the greatest number of accidents. It is when care is thrown to the wind, chances are taken and recklessness takes the place of caution that serious trouble is certain to follow.

For years it has been apparent that the warnings and protective measures established at railroad crossings have not prevented the horrible accidents there, but it is only because of that same disregard for known dangers which piles up the list of dead and injured on the straight and intriguing highways.

MUSSOLINI'S ESCAPE

Regardless as to whether Mussolini is favored or not, there cannot fail to be general satisfaction that the fellow who attempted to assassinate him failed, even as others have.

The idea of removing those to whom objection is raised by killing is abhorrent to sober minded people in a republic. It savors too much of the rank lawlessness that is practiced by the murderer and the lyncher. It is inevitable that any leaden should make enemies as well as friends, but because his methods are opposed or objected to does not mean that a target should be made of him by a person probably much more dangerous.

Mussolini has escaped three times and following his latest experience of that nature he had something to say which was interpreted as meaning that it is time for France to drive out those dangerous characters, upon whom he apparently places the blame for the bomb throwing.

That the man who threw the bomb had taken refuge in France is indicated but it now appears that he is a noted Italian anarchist, an enemy of fascism and a fugitive from justice with no little responsibility resting upon the Italian authorities to see that such a notorious character was not permitted to endanger the life of the Italian dictator or any other official. Possibly if Italy was willing to give up criminals who take refuge there it would have had little difficulty in getting Lucetti from France.

It is not surprising, however, as the result of the latest attempt at assassination that there is a strong demand for the restoration of the death penalty for dealing with crimes against the head of the state and the head of the government. Such criminals deserve every possible amount of discouragement no matter how much by their way of reasoning they consider their action justified. Mussolini's escape has been much more fortunate than it may be another time.

MAINE'S RESULT

It isn't often that the democrats get much to console them out of the election results in Maine, and certainly the outcome this week furnishes no crumb of comfort. Maine is a republican state and it has long been maintained that as Maine goes so goes the nation. Many times it has worked out so whether Maine has been responsible for it or not.

Democrats have been disposed to get encouragement from the manner in which they have been able to whittle down republican majorities. This year the election was preceded by the claim that unless the republicans got more than a 15,000 majority it would presage a democratic sentiment and probably victory in the nation. With figures on the governor showing a majority of nearly 22,000 during an off year and with certain other than partisan opposition the result shows that Maine is quite as rock ribbed republican as in the past and a hearty endorsement is given to the national administration.

This latter is particularly accentuated by the fact that all of the republican congressmen are re-elected, when democrats were disparing much confidence in their ability to elect at least one.

Maine hasn't produced the vote that it does on a presidential year. Such a vote wasn't expected. There was nothing to bring it out. But Maine by its vote has made it clear that it is still steeped in republican faith and desirous that its example should make the proper impression upon the rest of the states in their subsequent elections.

A POOR LOSER

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania was a candidate for the United States senatorship from that state. He put a lot of money into it, created a three cornered fight, was responsible for preventing the renomination of Senator Pepper and aided in the nomination of Congressman Vare who stands for things which the governor strongly opposes and now he announces that he is out of the race himself that he will have nothing to do with the campaign and that the nominee is unfit to represent the people of that state.

Such a reflection might be given a different reception in Pennsylvania and outside were it not the fact that Governor Pinchot played the part he did in bringing about the very conditions which he now so greatly deplores And it all came about through his determination to satisfy his own personal ambitions when it seemed quite probable that he didn't stand a ghost of a show and whatever he did would simply be playing into the hands of those against whom he is now making such strenuous objections.

As a political factor in the Keystone state it has been evident for some time that the governor has lost prestige and might not against Congressman Vare and get some attention were it not for his record during the whole campaign. He lost the chance to expect any great following now when he split the party against Epeper and that very shortsightedness will serve to minimize his influence in the campaign that is now underway. There's a boomerang in what he has to say but politics is his declarations. His efforts to have the barn locked after [illegible] has been stolen are amusing.

BIRDS NOT OF A FEATHER

All the women, nearly, in the small town, especially those on Henderson street, where stood her girlhood home, regarded Hattie Bulwark Howard with a feverish absorption, meanwhile turning their thumbs down. For in not a single, solitary particular did Hattie comply with their pattern for womanhood, more especially young widowed womanhood returned to the parental roof.

They really had never known the Bulwarks' daughter because Hattie had gone to school in the east, the family had traveled during vacations and she had married and settled in New York. Now that she was definitely back with her foolishly complaisant father and mother they were scandalized, pained, disapproving and breathlessly interested. She was very beautiful, which somehow did not seem just right with one's husband so recently dead; she was not garbed in black at all; she skillfully turned the conversation when callers got out their handkerchiefs and a tremolo voice as they began set speeches on her loss, and she utterly declined to spread the tragedy before them as a delicious morsel.

Secretly they resented not being able to go home and say that poor Hattie was pathetic in her bravery and that it made you shiver to hear her tell how Dick had suffered at the last. She seemed to find it unnecessary to appear in public with redrimmed eyes and she was known to laugh when occasion arose. Old Mrs. Jordan, directly across the street, voiced the general impression when she said even if Hattie didn't care a rap for the dead man she might show proper respect for his memory.

"Looking for No. 2 already," said Sarah Jones, who was 50 and unmarried. "Did you see her deliberately hunt out the Rev. Mr. Farrar and talk with him hours on end in the corner at the meeting the other day? She'd do well as a minister's wife!"

Sarah did not connect that corner conference with the Boys' club. That organization came into being at the Farrar church within the month and to it Hattie gave much time and gay help. She was even criticized for that, some of the boys being less than 10 years her junior. Old Mr. Jordan said Hattie ought to be ashamed of herself, walking up the street with that wiry Hill boy, who had been expelled from school. He was carrying a basket of dahlia roots which he was observed to plant for Hattie, working with a will while she chattered cheerfully and helped. Later the two sat on her back steps and ate doughnuts with apparent relish under the battery of eyes from six kitchen windows. In the gossip that arose the fact was utterly lost sight of that presently the Hill boy was back in school studying hard and behaving himself.

What stirred up things to fever heat was what she did when the Thompson girl occupied public attention. Ten children there were in the ramshackle cottage of the shiftless Thompson family and Irene worked in the Racket store, a-jingle with cheap jewelry adorned lavishly with the paint of the day, a-thrill with being popular among the boys. Irene defended herself against the cold stares of the better element with her hard bright eyes, her don't care attitude. When eventually trouble came to her there was no help for her in the ramshackle Thompson cottage. She was turned out amid reproachful wailings and fury and tried to drown herself in the river.

They couldn't put her in jail, the committee of disapproving women and village fathers who considered distastefully the case of the shivering sullen little creature who was getting a just punishment for her sins, but she certainly had to be put some place. While they debated she was allowed shelter in the Jones' garage from which she suddenly vanished.

"Don't bother about Irene," Hattie Howard told the committee with a brilliant glint in her lovely brown eyes. She bit her lip restrainingly. "I've taken charge of Irene and I've sent her away for a time. I'll be responsible.

Hattie Howard certainly showed herself up, mixing in at her age in unsavory affairs, they said, appalled. It wasn't done! She was under 30, and young women are not supposed—and when some time later Irene Thompson, subdued, shamed, trembling, returned to town, if Hattie Howard didn't make her indulgent mother hire her as household help and once in a while she took the girl out riding in her smart little sedan.

Something ought to be said to Hattie, said the ladies, countenancing such actions as Irene's, treating her as though she had done nothing at all! Irene married a young farmer in a couple of years and made a happy home but folks overlooked that. Then, too, Hattie never would join their Culture club and read queer books respectable persons never even heard of and she would walk along the street with anybody's husband who was going her way, smiling and talking just as though he were free and unattached—oh, she so continually kept doing such unheard-of things that when, after five years, she married another out-of-town man and went away for good a lot of people heaved relieved sighs.

To this day they will sniff when they talk about her. A good thing, says old Mrs. Jordan, rocking, a good thing that Hattie Bulwark, that was, has departed!—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The king of Spain, who is facing a critical condition of affairs in his dominion, has many names and many titles. He has also so many attributive qualities that one might be puzzled to know whether he is greater, for instance, as a sportsman than as a constitutional monarch. It is to his credit, that he plays all his varied roles well. Alfonso XIII was born in 1886 and is, therefore, 40 years old. He attained his majority when he was 16, according to the Spanish law, and was crowned king soon afterward. Today he has occupied the throne longer than any other of the reigning monarchs in Europe. His father was Alfonso XII, who died in the infancy of his son, and the present king's mother, Maria Christina, ruled as queen regent until 1902. Alfonso is a direct descendant of Louis XIV of France. In 1906 he was married to Princess Ena of Battenberg, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria of Great Britain.

YOUR HEALTH

CANCER

By Willy Meyer, M. D., New York City
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Medical men have known for many years and the public is beginning to realize and to appreciate that scientific medicine is definitely in the age of preventing disease.

Much has been accomplished. Some scourges which formerly decimated the people of the earth, and the causes of which are known, are under control, as for instance, smallpox, diptheria, and typhoid; provided those to be benefited by these wonderful discoveries show good will and sensible cooperation by allowing the family physician to rub into their skin, after superficial scratching, or inject with a clean syringe and needle beneath it, that vaccine, antitoxin, or serum which has been found efficient.

However, there is one disease, the most terrible of all, which has baffled the ingenuity of scientists all over the world—cancer. As soon as we know what causes cancer the foundation will have been laid to prevention its occurrence and development.

Fully aware of their handicap, medical men are directing their attention to early recognition. Those tumors that can be seen or felt are most carefully diagnosed to determine whether they are cancerous. If found to be so and not too far advanced, they are promptly submitted to operation, to treatment with rays which are emanated by the X-ray tube, or to application or radium.

Internal cancers are recognized principally by the symptoms they produce while important methods of examination assist in establishing the diagnosis. Worst of all are those cancers which occur in the tubes through which we breathe and swallow; in the divisions of the windpipe, and within the canal which connects mouth and stomach, the esophagus.

Up to the present moment almost every patient who carries such a growth reaches the surgeon too late. The public and medical men must work together to bring about a prompt and wholesome change.

A persistent and unexplainable cough as well as difficulty in swallowing in formerly healthy individuals of 30 years or more, male as well as female, must at once arouse suspicion and be the signal to go to a hospital of standing where specialists can carefully examine them. Here the X-ray tube and the rays of the electric lamp, conducted or thrown into the windpipe and its division, as well as into the esophagus, can corroborate, refine, or refute the suspicion or the diagnosis of the expert. If properly recognized as cancer there is then only one answer—immediate operation.

Fortunately the surgery of the chest has sufficiently advanced to enable the operator of today not only to reach every organ in the chest, but to reach it safely. Methods have been evolved to deal properly with the troubles mentioned and give the patient his only chance.

A medicine, a pill, or a salve prescribed for these troubles, by some one who does not know, means delay in doing the correct thing, means destroying the hope for a definite cure.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

The Miracle of Books

A book is a miracle wrought by human agency. What more wonderful than that the thought of a lifetime should be made visible and concentrated so as to be carried in the pocket; that black lines and dots upon a white page should bring before our minds the most beautiful images More remarkable than the telegraph or the telephone, a book not only annihilates space but time, and carries the voice of David or Homer across the seas of the

Luck at Any Price

Traffic at an intersection where there is no traffic cop or signal came to a sudden standstill. A moment later half a dozen sirens from machines chugging away in the stalled line shrieked their impatience while motorists were trying to find out what it was all about. A flivver had come to a dead stop only a few feet ahead.

Out of the front seat of the small car climbed the driver. He bent over in front of the machine and picked up a horseshoe. In a great state of jubilation he waved it over his head, got back into his car started the engine again and moved on.

Two Women Find Health Essential to Happiness

MRS. BELLE THOMPSON
ROUTE 2, ROSSVILLE, GEORGIA

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, Route 2, Rossville, Ga., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy.

But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too.

She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

Another Happy Woman

Decatur, Illinois.—"I took your medicine for weakness. I would sometimes have to hold myself up with my hands. I was this way for five years, off and on. I read in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped a lot of women, and I thought I would take it. I am now getting better so fast that every month I can feel a difference. My work now is cooking. If you like, you may use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to help you boost your medicine. —Mrs. Irene Reed, 635 Greenwood Ave., Decatur, Ill.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Littlest Crab

The humblest folks sometimes afford
A glimpse of life in sweet accord.
—Old Mother Nature.

Reddy Fox stood watching a Hermit Crab scuttling about with his house on his back. Reddy never got tired of watching those funny little Hermit Crabs. They amused him. You know, we all like to be amused. And down inside Reddy had a great deal of respect for those little Hermit Crabs who were smart enough to use the shells of other folks for their own protection.

"Do you know," said Reddy to Graywi- the Gull, "I think those Crabs are the smartest of all the Crab family."

"Why so?" asked Graywing, looking a little surprised.

"Because," replied Reddy, "they have been smart enough to find shells that will protect them better than their own shells would, if they had any. None of their relatives have been smart enough to do that."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Graywing. "Never make a statement. Neighbor Fox, until you know you know all there is to know about that particular thing. Now you come along with me."

Graywing flew along down the shore to where a boat had come ashore with some Oysters that morning. Some of those Oysters had been opened on the boat. Graywing looked around among the opened shells. Presently, he picked up something and dropped it where Reddy could see it. "Take a look at this," said he. "What do you make of it?"

Reddy walked over and looked. It was a very tiny Crab. It didn't have any pinching claws and its legs looked too weak for it to walk around. It was a teeny weeny Crab.

"That," said Reddy, looking very wise, "is a baby Crab."

"Guess again," retorted Graywing "That Crab is fully grown."

Reddy's eyes opened very wide. "I hate to say that I don't believe you," said he, "but you can see for yourself that this Crab can't run around. It isn't big enough yet."

"That isn't a 'he,'" retorted Graywing. "That is Mrs. Crab and it is quite true that she can't run around nor swim around. She doesn't have to and she doesn't want to. You never saw her before, did you?"

"No," replied Reddy, "I never did."

"Well, you wouldn't see her now if it hadn't been that somebody opened an Oyster, and she fell out."

You should have seen how promptly Reddy's sharp ears pricked up. "What do you mean by 'fell out of an Oyster?'" asked he.

"I mean," replied Graywing, "that this is Mrs. Oyster Crab, and she has lived nearly her whole life within an Oyster shell, with an Oyster. She went in there when she was a baby, and she never left there after. That is why she hasn't any strength in her legs, or any pinching claws. You think those Hermit Crabs are well protected in those shells they carry around with them, but those shells are nothing compared with Oyster shells."

"Does she live on the Oyster?" asked Reddy.

"No," replied Graywing, "she lives with the Oyster. They are the best of friends."

"Imagine," chuckled Reddy, "any one having an Oyster for a friend."

HIGH STREET MAN FOUND DEAD IN KITCHEN FILLED WITH GAS

Shutting himself in the kitchen of his home, No. 5 High street, stopping all possible leaks, and turning on the gas cocks in the room, James Beswick, 59, committed suicide sometime Tuesday morning. Despondency over ill health is given as the cause of his self destruction. Two years ago Mr. Beswick was injured in an automobile accident and since that time his health had not been very good.

The condition of his health made it imperative that he give up working at his trade as a stone mason, and for sometime past he had conducted a second hand furniture store on Spring street. Mrs. Beswick left the house about 8 or 9 o'clock Tuesday morning for her employment and it was during her absence that Mr. Beswick took his life.

On her return home shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon she found the door locked with the key on the inside. Sensing that something was wrong, she got a small boy to go into the house through a window and open the door. Entering the house Mrs. Beswick noticed a strong smell of gas, and opening the kitchen door found her husband dead on the floor. The gas cocks had been turned on and the kitchen was filled with gas.

Dr. G. H. Gildersleeve, acting medical examiner in the absence of Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve, was notified and conducted an investigation into the man's death. Suicide by gas was his verdict and Hourigan Bros., were given permission to remove the body to their undertaking rooms. It is thought the man had been dead about eight hours before the body was discovered.

Mr. Beswick was born in Yantic, Jan. 12, 1867, the son of James and Julia Lucas Beswick. He was united in marriage in St. Andrew's church, Colchester, with Nora A. Elliott of Lebanon, Dec. 27, 1898. Besides his wife, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Charles Phillips of Fitchville, two children, Mrs. John McCarthy of Westerly and Mrs. Stephen White of New London, and eight grandchildren.

LEGION DISCUSSES PLANS FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Plans for the observance of Armistice day in Norwich were discussed Tuesday at a meeting of the executive committee of R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, at the Legion rooms on Shetucket street. Commander E. C. Dunbar presided at the meeting. A committee was named to take charge of the plans for the local observance of Armistice day and the personnel of the committee will be announced after the regular post meeting Friday evening.

Commander Dunbar stated Tuesday evening that State Commander Harry C. Jackson, District Commander N. N. Terry of Mystic and District Commander Francis J. Pritchard of Rockville will be present at the post meeting Friday evening. A large attendance is expected at the meeting to greet the state commander and visiting district heads.

With regard to the necessity for getting out the vote in the coming election Adjutant Joseph Bellefleur issued the following statement Tuesday evening:

"The American Legion recognizing the menace to our representative form of government due to neglect of their political obligations by the majority of our citizens, are co-operating with the National Civic Federation which has organized a department of political education which will endeavor to arouse voters of all classes and ages to the vital need for the conscientious discharge of these duties.

"The fact that 30,000,000 eligible voters failed to go to the polls after the exciting campaign of 1924 has caused political writers to predict that party government in the United States is gradually disappearing and that the group system, which has played such havoc in Europe, is the only alternative eventually to take its place. The deadening effect of such a system is illustrated by the present situation in Germany and France, one having 15 parties and the other ten while, as is well known, Mussolini found so many organizations in Italy that he was obliged to suppress all in order that government might function and, in Spain the confusion created by 20 different parties also resulted in a dictatorship.

"Since our government rests primarily upon the foundation of political parties, it is clearly the duty of every voter to participate in the creation and maintenance of this government by enrolling himself with a political party and taking an active part in the framing of its policies and in the selection of its candidates for public office.

"Little study has been devoted to the practical problem of how the knowledge thus acquired is to be transmited into action. Unfortunately, the average citizen, even among the supposedly well informed, is generally unfamiliar with the rules and regulations governing party organizations in his own state. Few understand the methods by which nominations for public office are made, or understand the proceedure for the selection of delegates to political conventions. Nine out of ten are ignorant of the duties of district leaders, the function of county, state and national party committees, and the utility of local political district clubs. 'General apathy' seems to be the reason for the failure of a great many voters to go to the polls. A great many give as a reason for not voting that there is no difference between the two, old parties which are equally as bad and they pointed to the inferior grade of our law makers, municipal, state and federal, utterly ignoring the fact that they refuse to assist in the selection of worthy officials by absenting themselves from the polls on election day. These are the people who are declaring democracy to be a failure. It is in their power to make it a success.

"In furtherance of the plea that every citizen should join some party and assist actively in its work and knowing that control of government is through politics the whole objective is summed up in the statement of John T. Adams, former chairman of the republican national committee in the following declaration: 'There must be in this country two political parties, and the more strength each possesses the better for the nation. All citizenship training which has not, as its main objective, the promotion of membership in a party organization is largely valueless.'

"While the American Legion is strictly a non-partisan organization, it is very much in favor of the plans of the National Civic Federation in educating the voters of the country and nation to the necessity of party government and to urge active participation in caucuses and primaries.

"'Politician' is defined by Webster as: (1) One versed in the science of government; statesman; (2) One seeking advancement in public office, or success of a party; intriguer.

"Let all men and women become politicians under the first definition or, sooner or later, those under the second will utterly destroy the integrity of our government."

HARRISBURG BUSINESS MEN VISITED RADIATOR PLANT

The plant of the Richmond Radiator Co., on Thames street was visited Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 by seven members of the chamber of commerce of Harrisburg, Pa., who were met at the plant and greeted by Mayor Milo R. The visitors came here from Hartford, being members of a party of 200 Harrisburg men who are on a "Good-will Tour" through New England. After being welcomed by the company officials and shown through the plant, the seven Harrisburg men spent some time in the city and returned in the evening to Hartford to rejoin their party.

CRUSHED UNDER TRUCK AFTER FALL FROM CAB

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 14—Henry Belair, of Hartford, formerly of this city, was almost instantly killed when he fell out of the cab of a three ton Packard truck owned by the George E. Dewey Co., of 335 Trumbull street, Hartford, and his skull and chest were crushed by the rear wheels about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night in front of the Dolly Stanton gasoline station at the Ridges. The truck was operated by John McKernan of 52 Chestnut street, Hartford, who is held on the charge of manslaughter with bonds placed at $5,000.

Belair, who has but one leg, had been sitting on the edge of the seat wrapped in a blanket with his back to the door. The truck struck a bump and he fell out backwards. His companions said that he had been drinking. Also in the truck was Albert O'Toule a helper and George Ulm, friend of Belair.

Ulm and O'Toule were sleeping in the back of the truck at the time of the accident. The crew was on their way to Cape Cod from Hartford to secure a load of furniture and had come to Willimantic over the North Coventry highway. Belair died as he was being brought to the hospital, where he was rushed in the truck. Medical Examiner Louis L. Mason gave permission for the removal of the body.

Belair had worked for several years after coming here from Maine for the Willimantic Lumber and Coal company. Some five weeks ago he went to work for the Dewey concern. It is said that he leaves a wife and child in Simsbury and a brother in Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Edward J. Ottenheimer who attended the injured man said that the skull and chest and bones had been crushed.

MONTVILLE TAKES BANNER AT PALMER MILL PICNIC

The weather proving favorable, the program of the day was well carried out by the officials of the Palmer Athletic association at their annual picnic and field day held on the club ground last Saturday. From the arrival of the first committee until the farewell to the grounds at night the day proved a success from every standpoint.

Ten o'clock found the three teams, Fitchville, Montville and New London on the grounds ready for active part in the various games scheduled. Pitching horse shoes was the starter with Fitchville winning their second and third games. The order of the day was followed with, by events in the ball field. In this event, Miss Lathrop from New London carried the victory. Miss Tyler from Montville second and Miss Mary Smith from Fitchville third. Another Fitchville team unable to come last place in the girls' race, they came in on the low end just for man to come first place. Montville second, New London third. This score didn't suit New London and in the pushing one the girls came back again winning first prize. Montville second and New London third prize. The obstacle race was the next on the program with six entries, three men and three girls, from each team. To even the score, Montville carried the banner in this race with 14 points New London 3 and Fitchville 2 points. The balloon race which was won by Montville caused much interest to all due to the wild guessing, the balloon several feet out of their course. The most interesting event for the girls was that of the tug of war with New London showing Montville and Fitchville just how to do it. In this event New London carried Montville and Fitchville six feet to victory. The set Fitchville is thanking for, in the meantime of war they carried the "heavy weight" New Londoners all over the field for first place and thrown to Montville. This set the ball rolling for in the shoe race that followed there were some "pep" in every contestant's shoes were cast. Some one belonging to the same was won by New London, next, and third, and Montville second place. After a dizzy-zizz race which was won by New London the still relay race, which proved very interesting and enthusiastic to the onlookers was won by Montville second place for Fitchville and New London third.

After the event everyone took part in the most delightful event of the day, the dinner, which consisted of clam chowder, steamed clams, rolls, coffee and pie. This was followed by the usual after dinner speeches. George S. Palmer president of the company, was asked to say a few words to the many in attendance he made complimentary remarks concerning the winners of the numerous sports and expressed his appreciation of the great number taking active part in them. After Mr. Palmer's address Mr. Hicks, industrial secretary of the New London Y. M. C. A. announced the winner of the morning sports. Montville winning forty points was presented the banner with New London and Fitchville tie for second place.

At the conclusion of the speaking, a baseball game was played between Fitchville and New London and Montville combined. During the game, ice cream and soda was served to all. At four o'clock the game was brought to a close this making a pleasant day for all who were present.

The following committees were in charge of the events of the day: Dinner committee: Randall W. Palmer, chairman, Willis Chappell, chef, John McManus, Timothy Coughlin, Warren Tomlinson, Oscar Dawson, Orrin Maples, Harold Winchester and Albert Nye, all around committee: Leroy Lathrop, Lawrence Abel, Alvin Main, Lloyd Abel, Robert Adams, and Isaac Perkins; commissary committee: Mrs. Leroy Lathrop and Miss Gladwin; waitresses: Ethel Powers, Mildred Tolson, Annie Thompson, Jan Sullivan, Harriet Morgan, Margaret Fields, Sadie Allyn, Mary Smith and Helen Main; athletic committee: Ellsworth C. BISHOP SCHOOL PETITION REFERRED TO SUPERINTENDENT

With President Walter P. Lester in the chair the September meeting of the town school committee was held Tuesday evening in the office of the school superintendent at the court house. The meeting received a petition, headed by the name of George H. Stanton and containing about 40 other names, asking the re-establishment of the eighth grade at the Bishop school on East Main street. At present there are seven grades at the school and the residents of that section of the city are asking that the eighth grade be re-established so that they will not have to send their children to the Broadway school to attend the eighth grade in that school. INDIANA INJUNCTION ON BIG FIGHT IS NOT EFFECTIVE IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Arrangements for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship in the sesqui-centennial stadium next week went forward today without interruption.

The injunction issued by the Indiana court last night restraining Jack Dempsey, the world's champion, from fighting before he carries out the contract with the Chicago Coliseum club to meet Harry Wills, is not effective in Pennsylvania unless action is taken in this state, said Attorney General George W. Woodruff today.

"It is merely a matter of news in the Pennsylvania courts; it has no legal effect," Mr. Woodruff said.

"The safe side in the event such a case comes here, Tex Rickard has arranged a conference with Magistrate Lenhart for tomorrow at which time will be taken to oppose any move to stop the bout. The city's legal adviser will be present.

Rickard posted out today that the officials of the Chicago Coliseum club would have to put up a bond of at least $500,000 as a guarantee against loss to the attendants if a suit were instituted later.

Early receipts has been estimated at $1,500,000 and the state exacts a bond of double the amount of possible loss in the even the suit were thrown out of court and there was no financial loss.

"They won't money enough to pay the premium on such a bond," said Rickard, "and I doubt whether the Coliseum club will attempt to press the case in this state."

Edwin M. Abbott, counsel for the Sesqui-Centennial association, concurred in the opinion of the attorney general that the Indiana decision was not effective in Pennsylvania. He pointed out that when Larry Lajoie jumped from the Philadelphia Nationals to the Cleveland Americans during the major league baseball war, the star second baseman was enjoined from playing with any other team than the Philadelphia League, however, played in all American League cities except Philadelphia.

Tex Rickard said today that with a fight only nine days off, the record of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout is ready on the verge of being broken. He said that the sale of tickets so far has brought in over $1,000,000, and I am not in the least doubtful that the night will be a complete sell-out and that the Dempsey-Tunney record will be broken by more than $2,000,000.

Work of laying some of the flooring on the big sporting event at the stadium is under way. The National Orange held a celebration in the big concrete structure today and many of the farmers divided their attention between the speakers and the carpenters.

WILL FILE WRIT IN THE PENNSYLVANIA COURTS

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Two certified copies of an injunction issued yesterday in Indianapolis forbidding Jack Dempsey to box any other opponent before fulfilling a contract to meet Harry Wills will go forward at once from Philadelphia by air mail and special messenger, John M. Whiteside, counsel for the Chicago Coliseum club said today.

The writ will be filed with the state courts Whiteside said and will be sent thereon on Dempsey, by Philadelphia attorneys.

TILDEN AGAIN HAS TO BATTLE HARD FOR VICTORY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Exhibiting the most erratic brand of tennis he has shown since becoming national champion six years ago, William T. Tilden limped to his second victory today in the title tournament at the West Side club.

"Big Bill," still favoring his strained knee, had as much difficulty overcoming one of his young proteges, Neil Sullivan, of Bethlehem, Pa. as he did yesterday in disposing of John Van Ryn, Princeton youth. The title-holder finding few of his strokes in consistent working order, dropped the first and was given a lively tussle before he gained control sufficiently to pull out the match at 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

Sullivan frequently outdrove the champion in their back court exchanges and might have given his famous rival more trouble had he employed the sort of drop shots and slices that Van Ryn yesterday used to such advantage. Tilden remained anchored on the baseline almost from start to finish and gave every outward evidence of suffering from pain on the few sorties he made to the net.

With Tilden still off form and his bid for a seventh championship apparently fading, the other fifteen tournament survivors reached the third round in a series of hard-fought matches that produced numerous upsets.

The most conspicious of these eliminated Japan's two foremost threats. Takeichi Harada, Nipponese Ace, was overpowered by the fiery attack of Dr. George King of New York in straight sets, at 6-4, 8-6, 8-6, while Tsumio Tawara, another Japanese Davis Cup performer, was put out by Arnold W. Jones, of Providence, R. I. in five sets, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1. By his victory Jones gained the right to oppose Tilden tomorrow.

Harada's downfall was the beggest upset so far. The Japanese has numbered "Little Bill" Johnston among his victims this year and was the star of the Davis Sup inter-zone finals, defeating both Rene LaCoste and Henri Cochet. Weakness of his backhand and unsteadiness at critical moments under King's terrific bombardment cost him today's match.

Another "seded" entry faded from the competition when Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., erstwhile conqueror of Tilden and a Davis Cup team candidate, fell before the hard hitting of Francis T. Hunter, New York veteran, 6-2, 8-7, 3-6, 6-3.

Among Tilden's foremost rivals, William M. Johnston had a day of idleness through default but both Vincent Richards and Rene LaCoste encountered some opposition before triumphing. Richards let down after a flying start and dropped a set before defeating George Lott, Jr., of Chicago at, 6-0, 8-2, 4-6, 6-4; while LaCoste found Malcolm T. Hill, Boston youth, a stubborn foe after the latter had overcome his early unsteadiness. The Frenchman's victory was scored at 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

Jean Borotra, the Wimbledon champion, also had trouble overcoming Watson M. Washburn, former Davis Cup player, at 7-9, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, in a match that ended in semi-darkness.

SEEK RULING ON WAY TO SELL SERIES TICKETS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14—(AP)—The federal government today inserted another "out" in the National league pennant race.

The St. Louis post office asked the department in Washington if the plan announced yesterday for sale of world's series tickets here did not constitute a violation of regulations forbidding operation of a lottery through the mails.

Postmaster Alt said he was "quite sure" that determination of who gets tickets and location of seats by any drawing would constitute a violation. He requested a definite ruling from Washington however.

Sam Breadon, Cardinal president, said he would modify the plan to conform to any suggestion of the post office department.

Meanwhile, six clerks began the task of opening seven sacks of mail, estimated to contain 17,500 letters with more than enough applications to exhaust the 13,725 reserved seats and indefinite number of box seats.

Neither Cincinnati nor Pittsburgh has announced any plans for ticket sale, although the Reds forged into the lead today by winning from Brooklyn while the Cardinals were idle.

TAFTVILLE-RIVERVIEW PLAY FINALS THIS WEEK END

Having safely tucked the first game of the Taftville A. A.-Riverview club series under their belts, the Taftville club expects to wind up the series this coming week end by gaining a double victory.

The second game of the series is scheduled to be played at the Providence street grounds at Taftville on Saturday afternoon and the third and final game is to be played at the hospital diamond on Sunday afternoon. Manager Troland of the Taftville team and the management of the hospital team have not yet divulged their lineups but it is certain that both managers will put strong teams in the field this week end.

ROSENBERG, BANTAM WEIGHT CHAMPION, SUSPENDED FOR LIFE-LOSES CROWN

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Illinois Athletic commission today disqualified and suspended for life Charles (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, the bantamweight champion of the world, and handed his crown to Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., his challenger for the title bout, scheduled here Thursday night. The bout is off.

Suspended with Rosenberg were Harry Segal, his manager and all the boxers who have trained with him for the final match.

The commission's formal notice of expulsion said that the action was demanded "in order to protect boxing."

"Segal and Rosenberg, in our estimation, are not the calibre of men that should have to do with boxing and their unsportsmanlike attitude, coupled with their total disregard for our law and rule, compelled us to take this action. The championship bout between Taylor and Rosenberg therefore will not take place."

The commission listed an order covering rules which it regards of great importance to the preservation of the Illinois boxing code. The first mentioned is posting forfeit money and the second read: "No betting allowed."

The promoter James C. Mullen, was absolved of any reprehensible conduct, directly or indirectly in connection with the fight he had planned at Cubs park, September 1, and ordered that Taylor should first appear in Illinois in Mullen's bill.

"Our object in requesting that Mullen shall promote the first bout in which Bud Taylor is to defend his championship is because of his willingness to cooperate with our commission by compiying with all our rules and regulations, and also because he has already been put to a heavy expense in connection with staging the scheduled Rosenberg-Taylor exhibition.

"We firmly believe that if boxing is to survive it must be scrupulously clean. Having this uppermost in mind, there was nothing else for us to do but to take this action."

Neither Rosenberg nor his manager could be found about the training quarters this evening.

The blanket suspension of Segal's boxing stable includes two other New York bantamweights Archie Bell and Johnny Green. The latter has been Rosenberg's chief sparring partner in his training quarters here.

The Illinois boxing law provides no appeal from the findings of the commission in such cases.

PHILLIES TAKE FINAL GAME FROM CHICAGO

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Phillies today took the final game they will play with the Chicago Cubs this season, by a score of 5 to 4.

CINCINNATI NOW LEADS IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 14—(AP)—The Reds defeated Brooklyn 5 to 1 today and moved into the league leadership while St. Louis was idle. Carl Mays won his nineteenth game of the season after volunteering his services to Manager Hendricks. The Reds eased into first place with a half-game margin over the Cardinals.

Twelve hits of McGraw, the Robins' reliance, gave the Reds their tallies. Brooklyn could do little against the understanding delivery of Mays, hitting for but five scattered safeties.

Cincinnati's offensive centered about Walker, Roush, and Critz, with Critz's fielding a feature. The visitors took the lead in the second inning scoring once on a double by Critz, who reached third on Wheat's fumble and came in on an infield out. The Robins tied it in their half when Marriott singled and went to second on Ford's low throw past Pipp and scored on O'Neil's single.

The Reds went into the lead again in the third on singles by Walker and Donsson and a wild pitch, and added up the game in the sixth with two runs resulting from singles by Critz, Hargrave and Ford, and a sacrifice fly.

Critz started his brilliant work in the first inning, scooping up a slow roller off Herman's bat which got past Mays. He tore in, swept the ball up with his gloved hand and got it to Pipp in time to retire the batter, preventing a Brooklyn score. In the next inning he robbed Cox of a safety by spectacular pickup in front of the second base. Score:

PITTSBURGH GAINS ON IDLE ST. LOUIS TEAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—The world's champions played champion ball today, shutting out New York 5 to 0. Ray Kremer made it his eighteenth win of the season, allowing no hits until the seventh inning when Frisch beat out a slow one to Grantham.

The victory gained McKechnie's team ground in the pennant race due to the idleness of St. Louis. It was their third win from the Giants in four games played in the series.

Hugh McQuillan, opening ceremonies for New York, took a fancy to the Pirate bats which landed on him and on Kent Greenfield, who relieved him in the first inning, for five hits and four runs. Waner's homer in the second concluded the scoring for the day.

Greenfield settled down and pitched steady ball until the ninth when his duties were taken over by Poetz, a new man from Portsmouth, Va. Only three Giants hit Kremer, Frisch succeeding twice. The score:

BOBBY JONES CONTINUES TO PLAY SENSATIONAL GOLF AT SHORT HILLS

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The magic clubs of Bobby Jones paced America's foremost amateurs successfully through the qualification test for the national amateur championship to a dramatic finish on the sand capped links of Baltusrol today.

Three thousand spectators trailed the famous Atlantan through mountains this afternoon as he raced ahead of the pack to post a 73 for a medal-winning total of 142. But it was not until three hours later, with dusk settling down on the links battle ground, that they had the privilege of looking upon the day's most stirring struggle, with Francis Ouimet of Boston, hero of bygone days, and young Watts Gunn, Bobby's Atlanta foe in the final last year, fighting desperately for places in the match-playing field.

Four other players, M. B. Stevinson, of Crevy Chase, Md., Eddie Held of St. Louis, M. L. Massingill, of Fort Worth, Texas, and Frank W. Dyer, of Memphis, were grouped with the youthful Georgian and Ouimet in the post round contest for the last five places in the list, and it was in Ouimet that interest focussed for only a year ago the bespectacled former champion in a similar test went down to defeat in the most stunning surprise of the season.

There was a breathless suspense as the popular veteran hooked his second shot of the six cornered play-off into a trap at the left of the first green. Once more it appeared that grim fate was to reach out a detaining arm to brush from the struggle one of the most picturesque golfers of all time.

But today Ouimet was greater than his misfortune. With a spectacular shot he hoisted the pellet from the sand and landed it within six feet of the pin. He then sank his putt for a bogie four to clinch his qualification.

Massingill, playing straight and true all the way down the fairway, also gathered a four, while Gunn, despite a poor tee-up shot, and Held, after hooking into a tree came through with par fives. Two bet Dyer and Stevinson, both of whom took sixes, to battle it out on the second hole for the 4th place in the field, and par figures proved good enough to sweep the Maryland player into the fold.

Dyer made a noble attempt to save himself on the second green. After his rival had played the hole perfectly for a four the Memphis man found himself 60 feet from the cup on his third. His putt reached the cup, circled its edge dramatically and then hopped clear, giving Stevinson the hole and victory.

With this belated rescue of two favorites, all the outstanding contenders for the crown held by Jones came through. Brilliant second rounds saved most of them after erratic starts yesterday and a review of the qualifying figures shows the highest scores that have prevailed in the national event in several years. Only 16 players were inside the 160 mark, including four members of the Walker cup team.

Contrasting with his machine like play of yesterday, Jones today found trouble a plenty, but his bag seemed to hold the solution of every problem. He was in water, he was in sand, he was in the grass, but none of the hazards was too great for his versatile implements.

At the 13th hole, after hooking into water, he brought off a tremendous base of 235 yards to the green for a par which had seemed almost impossible.

Four strokes behind Jones came Rudy Knepper of Chicago, with 147, while Lauren Upson duplicated his 76 of yesterday to clinch third place at 152. J. Wood Platt of Philadelphia and Eustace H. Storey of England, next in line with a brace of 154's were two stroke better than Roland MacKenzie of Washington, D. C., the youngster who won last year's medal.

Jess Guilford of Boston played consistently good golf all the way to the George Dawson of Chicago for eighth place, while George Von Elm of Los Angeles survived a disappointing seven at the first hole to finish with 75 for a safe 159.

While the whirlwind finish of the veteran stars furnished the high spots of the days play, there was a treat of match play trouble for the favorites in the sensational rush to the front of Aaron Jacobs, the Chicago lad, Roland MacKenzie, Dunsmore Shute, Dick Jones and Eddie Held, in addition to Upson and Knepper, were at their best today, turning the lowest score of the day.

The former Sioux City player tore through the first nine holes of the tournament in 34 strokes, three under par, and then eased almost as strangely to tie the mark of 70 which the champion had posted yesterday. Knepper's card included five birdies.

The pairings for the first round tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m. follows:

Von Elm vs. Augustus; Marston vs. McCarthy; Gunn vs. Westland; Knepper vs. Cummings; Carter vs. Platt; Massingill vs. Dawson; Guilford vs. Homans; Corkeron vs. Held; Ouimet vs. Moe; Shute vs. Storey; MacKenzie vs. Stevinson; Upson vs. Wright; Evans vs. Fownes; Wilde vs. Whittemore; Bobby Jones vs. Dick Jones and Beckle vs. Haviland.

Eight players were seeded: Bobby Jones, Evans, Von Elm, MacKenzie, Ouimet, Guilford, Carter and Gunn.

LOUGHRAN HAS FAST MEN FOR 1926 MOOSUP TEAM

This coming Sunday Manager Henry Loughran puts a strong team into the field against one or the fastest semi-pro ball teams of the state, the Moosup games to be continued for several weeks and will include the annual series with the J. B. Martin ball club.

The Moosup team will comprise many of the best known ball players of New England, among them being Big Tim Kennedy, Providence college twirler, who held Boston college to 7 hits this season and allowed Yale but three singles in six innings. Kennedy is also credited with pitching a no hit, no run game against the Salem town team. Kennedy is now pitching at the games at the Kingston fair and will be in Moosup for Sunday's game. Other men in the lineup will include Bill Liberty of Jewett City, catch, Frechette of Moosup, first base, Ray Doyle, captain of Providence college 1927, second; Joe Kendricks, Ware, Mass., short stop; Hollecher of Harvard '28, third base; Ernie Agnew of the Hartford Eastern league club, left field; Kid Alexander, center field and Joe Street right field. Chip Nichols of the New Haven Eastern league club has also been signed and will appear later, also in the J. B. Martin series.

JIM BONES OF BRIDGEPORT LOSES TO SAN SANCHEZ

NORWALK, Sept. 14—Jim Bones, Bridgeport bantamweight, lost the decision to San Sanchez, Mexican 118 pound champion, at the armory tonight, after 12 rounds of fighting. The Mexican had the advantage over the Bridgeport lad in all the rounds except the eleventh and twelfth.

YANKS AND INDIANS BEGIN BIG SERIES TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—Pennant hopes of Redland fans were at the high-water mark today when Cincinnati moved into undisputed possession of first place in the National league race as the result of another triumph over Brooklyn, the fourth straight.

The Cardinals were forced to idleness today because the game on schedule with the Braves was played as part of a double-header last Saturday and so tomorrow the St. Louis club will start a six-game series in Philadelphia in second place, half a game from the Reds. Cincinnati has eleven games yet to play and the Cards, 12.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh kept its distance with the leaders by blanking the Giants and became stationed two and one-half games from the Reds. The Cubs lost to the Phillies and are now separated from the Pirates by three contests.

The standing of the National leaders follows:

Teams	Won	Lost	Ave
Cincinnati	83	60	.580
St. Louis	82	60	.577
Pittsburgh	80	62	.563
Chicago	77	65	.542

The Yankees and Indians were without schedule today but go into their crucial six-game series starting tomorrow. The standing of the American contenders follow:

Teams	Won	Lost	Ave
New York	96	56	.631
Cleveland	81	69	.574

WINDHAM GETTING SET FOR STONINGTON GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 14—Raring to enter into a season of wins, two-score husky lads are reporting for football practice under Coach Thomas A. Carnahan who will guide the destinies of Windham high school again through sportdom this year. The first scrimmage session will be held this week. To date the mentor has been drilling his promising but green material into the fundamentals of college work and conditioning exercises. While the local lads are being seasoned Coach William O'Brien is putting the squad of heavy material for Stonington high through their duties in anticipation of the opening game to be played in this city Saturday afternoon September 25.

The experienced timber left at Windham this year consists of: Captain Buck, Wilkinson, L. Hagerty, Sabawojik, Reed, M. Hiller, F. Prater, F. Ahern, Gariepus Conner and Nevan. With these last year men as a nucleus the choice for a full squad remains to be made from Storrs, Boglish, Loomis, Dillon, Macomber, Cauth, Southward, Sandstrom, Sumner, Gatchell, Ed. Martin, Beaudoin, Loiselle, Woodward, Jordan and A. Meikle. The latter is a younger brother of the three year ace, Tommy Meikle, and he promises to have the same integrity and game knowledge which won honors for his brother.

PROVIDENCE CLINCHES EASTERN LEAGUE PENNANT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14—(AP)—The Grays by defeating Bridgeport in the first game this afternoon clinched the Eastern League pennant. The score was 10 to 3. Mike pitched fine ball holding the Bears safe when errors were off the sticks. His support, however, was not of the best. Leopard was hit in bunches, getting away to a poor start and finishing weakly. A Polk pitcher was used in the second game and made good showing, yielding but one earned run, errors helping the Bears to win by a score of 3 to 1. The Grays found Rush a hard proposition.

GIBSON ANNOUNCES SECONDS FOR CHALLENGE

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Billy Gibson, Gene Tunney's manager, tonight announced the seconds for the challenger in his championship bout with Jack Dempsey at the sesqui-centennial, Philadelphia, September 23. The four seconds were completed by the addition of Jimmy Bronson.

Bronson, who is a New York boxing instructor in France the world war, will join and Lou Brix, connected with Gibson's office in handling his boxers, will work outside the ring. Bronson refereed several bouts in which Tunney appeared in France.

Disagrees With Sluggers

Dear Editor: Tuesday's Bulletin contained an article announcing the Taftville Sluggers as village champions. The Redtops would like to know by what right such a claim was made, as the Redtops have already won a decided victory from the Sluggers by the score of 13 to 5.

The Redtops have a team of youngsters, not one being over 16 years of age. This team has not yet lost a series to any team in Norwich or vicinity. Therefore the Redtops not only claim the Taftville village championship, but also the junior championship of eastern Connecticut, 16 years and under.

WILLIAM PELTIER.
Mgr. Redtops.

Men men would learn if they could acquire knowledge without the humiliation of being taught.

F. G. GUARDE'S PACKARD BURNS AFTER BUMPING POLES

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. Sept. 14—Francis G. Guarde, 39 Pearl street, Mystic, formerly a resident of Hartford, was before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck in a special session of Stonington town court this morning, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Declining to plead, a plea of not guilty was directed by Judge Wilcox, when the defendant asked for an adjournment. Wednesday, Sept. 22nd at 9:30 o'clock was set as the time for trial and the defendant was required to furnish bonds in the sum of $500. Giochino Macarino of Mystic became his surety.

The accident which led to Guarde's arrest occurred, at about 2:30 o'clock this morning. Accompanied by Frank Bette, also of Mystic, the accused was rounding the curve near the old red barn on the Stonington-Mystic highway at a high rate of speed. The Packard sedan on leaving the highway struck a telephone pole, crossed a ditch with a culvert, struck a second telephone pole with the left side of the machine, passed along a hedge at the property of Selectman Joseph A. Vargas of Stonington and then struck the third pole, turned over and becoming ignited, burned up, charring the pole. Both men were badly shaken up and Bette was taken to Dr. A. H. Myers in Mystic for medical attention. Patrolman William Ostman of Stonington placed Guarde in the Stonington lockup until his court arraignment.

MYSTIC

The bridge to Mason's Island is nearing completion, the steel work being put in position and grading on the north side finished. Travel to the island during the construction of the bridge has been by the Sadonia mills. This island was first known as Chippechaug Island and when bought and occupied by the Mason family was called Mason's Island which name no doubt will cling to it owing to so many generations of that name owning it, until the last one died. Since so many have built summer cottages there, travel to the island was increased and crossing the railroad track has been necessary since the railroad was built in 1856. The crossing was very dangerous as it was impossible to see if a train was approaching until close to the track and the only safe way was to heed the warning, "Stop, Look and Listen". With the new bridge making travel safe it is expected more will be attracted to the island to build cottages.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Pleasant weather during the past week has aided inthe speeding up of construction work now under way in the city, but the number of new permits being asked for remains low, but seven being petitioned for during the past week.

Additions to the United Congregational church, the Community house and the construction of the new home for the Dime Savings bank on Broadway, makes up the larger part of construction work under way in the center of the city.

Numerous small jobs are keeping carpenters busy in outying sections, the usual type of work done at this season of the year.

The seven permits granted this past week include garages and additions to present structures, one of the additions call for the construction of a store to adjoin a house. The cost of the construction granted in the recent permits figures something over $2,000 an advance over the amount granted in the previous week.

Permits Granted

The seven permits granted during the past week by Fire Marshall Howard L. Stanton were as follows:

To Mrs. Robert D. Smith to erect frame garage, 20x20 feet one story on and of Mrs. James Thompson, abutting on 111 Orchard street.

To Michael Barbarosa to raise ell of present frame house at 147 Broad street, size to be about 12x14 feet, frame construction.

To Amelia Rynkiewicz to build plain porch on building at 11 Third street, size to be 4x15 feet, materials, wood and paper.

To Frank Zytara to erect barn at 714 Boswell avenue, size to be 12x16 feet, stone foundation, roofing paper.

To Ellen and Est. John McCrohan to build addition to present house rear of 98 North Main street, size 4x11 feet, to be used as bath room. Materials to be of cement and wood.

To Julian Wierabinski to build addition to present structure at No. 46 North Cliff street. Size to be 12x20 feet. Materials of lumber, brick and mortar, foundation of brick, frame construction.

To Michael Butrimowicz to build addition to present structure at 164 Hickory street. Size to be 18x41 feet, cement foundation, one story frame store to connect with house.

The Situation

The Commercial Record tells of the situation in part as follows:

Among the most significant developments of the past week in business circles is the obvious fact that trade is undergoing a prompt reaction from the anticipated summer recession. Reliable advices from various sources testify to the current upturn in business activity and consequently to the remarkable underlying strength of fundamental conditions. Of particular interest locally, is the decided increase in real estate and building activity with which the current month was ushered in. Figures compiled show that the totals of real estate conveyances, mortgage loans and building permits for the past week in this state were considerably in excess of the corresponding period of 1925. This increase in building activity is most encouraging not only to the building trades but to the industrial community as a whole.

Building

Building activity in this state, as indicated by the record of permits issued in the building centers covered by The Commercial Record, was at a considerably higher rate this past week than a year ago. There were 735 permits issued during the week for construction work estimated to cost $1,044,258. During the like week in 1925 the total number of permits issued was 787 and the total estimated cost $814,521.

BUILDING BECOMES SLOW IN WESTERLY

With the ending of the summer season in Westerly building operations, many times of the nature of alterations, at the shore resorts of Watch Hill, Pleasant View and Weekapaug continues brisk. Owners who have let their cottages for the summer months occupy them and while they improve the time in having changes made.

Zoning building permits have been issued by Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi for the second week in September as follows:

Sept. 7, 1926. Mrs. Della L. Foley, 15a Granite street. Two- car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet at 15a Granite street.

Sept. 8, 1926. LeRoy F. Cox, Margin street. Two story chicken house 16 feet by 40 feet on Allen estate on Margin street.

Sept. 9, 1926. Antonio Trovato, 8 Narragansett avenue. Two-car garage 20 feet by 20 feet, 8 Narragansett avenue.

Sept. 10, 1926. Charles Rathbun, Post road. Cottage house 24 feet by 40 feet, Post road.

Sept. 14, 1926. Joseph Antoci, Rose avenue. Remodelling for bungalow, old cook house.

Sept. 15, 1926. Walter Gutterson, Breen road. Two story addition 12 feet by 10 feet to present house, Breen road.

Construction work on the two business blocks being erected in Westerly, one on High street and the other at the corner of High and Canal streets continued the past few days to make appreciable showing.

The new office building of the South County Public Service company at 45 High street being erected for the light and power company, had progressed to above the ground level when the work of setting the buff-gray granite blocks on the south side of the structure was begun on Monday morning. The iron girders and supporting posts for the first floor are already in place and but a few days more will be required to finish the wooden forms on which cement will be poured for the first floor. Much brick for backing the stone walls is already on the grounds.

The Narducci block, corner of Canal and High streets, has most of the cement basement walls completed. The High street basement wall, being located some ten feet back of the former street line shows to what extent High street will be widened at this point. Wooden forms with a curved surface are being erected at the junction of Canal and High streets for the rounded corner of the new block and to join with the Canal and High street cement foundation wall already in place and built up to the sidewalk level.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week in Norwich there were two sales of real estate as compared with 10 sales in the corresponding week in 1925. Mortgage loans during the same weeks totalled $47,750 in 1926 and $48,605 in 1925.

In New London last week the sales of real estate totalled 15 as compared with seven in 1925. The mortgage loans figured $74,800 in 1926 and $49,500 in 1925.

New London

Plans have been prepared for a residence for E. Grann, 76 Washington street, on Faire Harbor place. The proposed house will be of English design frame and stucco construction. It will contain eight rooms and a sun porch, and will be 30x44 feet, with an ell 7x19 feet, in the rear. Hot water heat, tile baths, hardwood floors and other improvements will be provided.

Extensive repairs are being made to the building at 87 Bank street, owned by Jeremiah Twomey, which was damaged by fire recently. The estimated cost of the repairs is $4,000.

The permit has been issued to L. Q. Raymond, 327 Montauk avenue, for the erection of a house and garage on Dell avenue. The dwelling will be 24x24 feet, of Dutch colonial cottage type. The combined cost of house and garage will be about $5,300.

City Manager Holt is conducting an investigation of the need for the replacement of the tower of Bulkeley high school which has been condemned as unsafe by Building Inspector William Gunn, Jr., and Robert Symington, superintendent of the H. Wales Lines Co. In his inspection of the condition of the tower, Mr. Symington represented the school trustees. In a communication to the city council the trustees of the school asked that the city bear the expense of removing the old tower and erection of a new one.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Items of interest to Norwich people in 1851 are printed in part as follows from the news of the Norwich Courier of 75 years ago.

Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1851—Even the greatest among us are liable to err. This is written because we notice that Rev. Ward Beecher of Brooklyn, writes from Woodstock, Windham county, an article concerning the Indian Burial ground in Norwich. In his article he takes the New England cities and towns to task for neglect of the burial grounds, stating that these are the only places where weeds are allowed to grow unmolested. We differ with him only on one point, when he writes that, "We stood with particular pleasure, but a few days ago, in the burial place of the family of Uncas, in Norwich, Conn., upon the banks of the Mystic." His writing is complimentary to the city and the burial grounds but we dislike to be told that a section of Norwich has slipped its moorings and is now on the banks of the Mystic.

In a divorce case before the superior court in this city, brought by a man well known here, the petition for divorce states that the respondent drinks and uses morphine and thus has ruined the happiness of the home. The court ruled that the husband was at fault for the woman taking liquor and morphine, having started her in the use of liquor and drugs with the sole aim to gain a divorce. The divorce was refused by the court.

Thursday, Sept. 11, 1851—The master spirits of secession are still at work in South Carolina and from the speeches being made they are not afraid to come out strongly in favor of an armed conflict, a Civil war if need be, to gain what they claim to be constitutional freedom. In closing one of the principal speakers at a recent meeting said "The sword once drawn will not again be returned to the scabbard, until constitutional freedom is reestablished on a pure basis. Let federal minions and murderous measure; the cry is now and not but be ignored. Let [illegible] break his power."

Saturday, Sept. 13, 1851—It is our melancholy duty to record the decrease of another of the prominent and well known citizens of Norwich—Thomas Huntington. He died on Thursday evening after but one weeks illness. It seems but a few months ago that a brother of the deceased, the Hon. Jabez W. Huntington, U. S. senator, was suddenly struck down by disease. Both men were prominent in local and national circles.

Catherine Hays, the Irish prima donna, whose fame as a vocalist is second to none, unless it be that of Jenny Lind (and whether she yields the palm to the Swedish nightingale is doubtful,) is expected to arrive in this country within a short time.

Col. Crittenden in his last letter writes that he and the party of 100 men who were to be shot by the Spaniards in Cuba, had given up the struggle and were putting out to sea when overtaken and brought back to Cuba. From his letter it is evident that he had lost faith in the fight as he had not been furnished with amunition as promised. In writing of the fight he states that Lopez was but three miles away when he landed and could have come to his assistance had he desired.

In a Cuban dispatch it is learned that Crittenden asked the Spaniards that he be allowed to stand and face the guns that he might die as an officer and a gentleman, not as a pirate. This was refused and he was shot in the back, although he remained standing, refusing to kneel with the other 50 patriots when the order to fire was given.

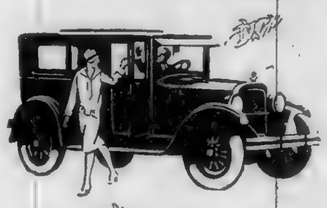
Never a Marcel Wave

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My hair is ever-curly, with never a Marcel wave. And it always has a glow. The reason lies in a hair dress made exclusively for me. It was perfected for me by great experts when I had my long hair bobbed. Now all toilet counters supply it under the name Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

I cannot conceive of a girl or woman going without it when she knows. No one who sees my hair will do so. Nothing else I have ever found makes hair so lustrous, so wavy, so fluffy, so abundant. My guarantee is enclosed with every bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Better than Ever-



Following their traditional policy of constant improvement with no yearly models, Dodge Brothers, during the past eight months, have vastly bettered their motor cars in many vital respects.

Indeed, there has never been an equal period in Dodge Brothers history when so many refinements of a popular and fundamental nature have been made.

The public is registering its appreciation of this progressive industrial service by purchasing every motor car Dodge Brothers can build—in spite of the fact that Dodge Brothers production, during these months, has broken all previous records by an impressive margin.

SAILORS, UNRULY AT THEATRE, PUNCH NEW LONDON'S DEPUTY FIRE CHIEF

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Besides [illegible] arrested on charges of breach of the peace and intoxication last night, Martin H. Collier, 21, sailor attached to U. S. S. Camden, submarine base, was forced to take a severe beating at the hands of the police. Collier received a fractured nose and had lacerations of the scalp when he and a companion attacked Deputy Fire Chief Calvin Edmunds at the Lyceum theatre where Collier and his friend attempted to take charge of the female performers on the stage. Collier was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital following being booked at police headquarters. His wounds were treated at the hospital, after which he was returned to the police station.

Collier and his companion went to the theatre where the Powder Puff Frolic, a burlesque show, was being presented. They had been drinking and during the performance they became noisy, so much so that they were threatened with ejection by Officer Francis Corcoran, who was on duty. They remained quiet until the end of the second act, when they left the theatre and went to the stage entrance. Without ceremony the two sailors entered and made their way to the stage and endeavored to converse with several of the show girls. Deputy Fire Chief Edmunds, also on duty here, endeavored to induce Collier and his companions to leave the stage. When just outside the stage entrance the sailors started to beat Edmunds, punching fast and furious at him. While the three were at combat Officer Corcoran was informed of what was taking place and hastened to the assistance of Edmunds. When he reached the stage entrance Edmunds and the sailors were in a heap on the concrete. Officer Corcoran pulled his blackjack and put an end to further hostilities for he dealt Collier a blow on the nose and another on the head, which put the sailor out of commission completely. The second sailor leaped to his feet before Corcoran could grab him and running through a crowd that had collected, disappeared through Washington street. A telephone message was sent to the police station, which indicated a much more serious fight, and Officers Arthur Feeley, George Laboue and John Sullivan were hustled to the theatre in the speed automobile. Arriving there, the sailor, bleeding profusely from his wounds, was taken to police headquarters, but because of the seriousness of the lacerations, he was ordered to the hospital by Dr. George P. Cheney.

The funeral of August Henne was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, 39 Hamilton street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Congregational church. Burial was in Hopkington, R. I., cemetery.

Frank Castagne has sold to Philip Son a house and lot on Spring street.

Arthur H. and Annie Beckman has sold to Harry E. Long a house and lot on Warren street.

Eugene Holmes, a laborer, was arrested for the first time yesterday because he was drunk on North Bank street. Holmes said he "was drunk and he was not drunk," a plea the court would not accept, so he was prescribed and allowed to tell his story. He said he met a fellow who gave him a couple of drinks that set him dancing. The testimony of two police officers was to the effect that Holmes was decidedly drunk when taken into custody. Holmes was fined $5, but he was not compelled to pay, as the execution of judgment was suspended, as an inducement for him to stay away from fellows with a bottle. He said he would do that, and appeared to be in earnest.

MISS M. A. ST. JOHN BRIDE OF BERNARD A. MEHLS, JR.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Bernard A. Mehls, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Mehls of Shelton, and Miss Mary A. St. John, daughter of Mrs. Johanna St. John, 94 Montauk avenue, were married at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church. The marriage which was solemnized by Rev. Raymond J. Crawford of Coniston, R. I., cousin of the bride, was witnessed by a large gathering of relatives and acquaintances. Ralph M. T. Robinson, Yale 1921, was best man and Miss Afra St. John, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The ushers were David Condon, Holy Cross, 1921, and Emerson B. Jones, Yale, 1921.

The bride wore white georgette with ostrich feathers trimming and wore a bridal veil and lace cap. She carried a bouquet of Elgar roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Afra St. John, the bride's maid wore orchid georgette and carried asters of the same color. Her picture hat was of silver cloth.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the [illegible] of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Mehls was graduated from Williams Memorial institute in 918 and up to the time of her marriage was secretary to E. B. Patterson of E. B. Patterson, Inc. Mr. Mehls is a graduate of Yale in the class of 1919 and is with Winslow, Day and Stoddard, brokers, of New Haven.

They left for an automobile trip through the White mountains to Canada. On their return they will make their home at 39 Argonne street, New Haven.

Mrs. Herbert B. Bradford of Pittsburgh, has returned home after having visited with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bradford of Avery court.

Miss Agnes Fenton has concluded a visit of two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Ellen Fenton, Connecticut avenue, and has resumed her duties with the Southern New England Telephone company in Hartford.

Attorney and Mrs. Thomas E. Troland have returned to their home, Ocean avenue, after having enjoyed three weeks in Europe, during which time they visited Italy, France England, Belgium and Switzerland. During Attorney Troland's absence from the city his duties as director of law, were filled by Attorney Max Bover.

Mrs. J. F. Conlin has concluded a visit with Mrs. A. E. Green, 575 Bank street, and has returned to her home in Farmington.

Max Fern, 1110 Ocean avenue, this afternoon made complaint to the police against the driver of an automobile bearing Connecticut registration X-117125, claiming that the driver was guilty of evasion of responsibility. Fern's automobile was parked beside the curb on State street and was backed against by the unidentified auto. Fern called to the driver to stop, but the latter failed to do so, instead speeding away.

Morris O. Horen, 15 Paquot avenue, was arrested this evening by Patrolman George Laboue charged with breach of the peace by John McGarry, 303 Williams street. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 in Jacob Tarnapol for his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Horen claims to be the authorized agent of his mother in the care of her property, a part of which is located on Walker street. Mr. McGarry is also the owner of property on that street, having purchased a large barn a year ago and since then he has converted it into a garage. This evening Horen went to his mother's property on special mission and he observed several signs on a fence that divides the properties line. McGarry was about his property and Horen remonstrated with him for placing the signs on the fence and demanded that they be removed. Mr. McGarry maintained that he had a perfect right to place the signs where they were, but Horen declared that unless Mr. McGarry removed them he would. Mr. McGarry refused to do this and Horen carried out his threat for he ripped the signs from their supports. Desk Sergeant Frank Howard, who is absent from his duties at the police station, being on his vacation, resides across the street from the Horen and McGarry properties and hearing the war of words between the two, he went over and when he did, Mr. McGarry made complaint against Horen, resulting in his arrest. Patrolman Lahone was sent to Walker street and escorted Horen to police headquarters.

CANDIDATE FRANK S. SHEA ALLEGES INCORRECT COUNT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Frank S. Shea, youthful attorney of this city, and one of the candidates for office of member of council, is aggrieved because of the report of Winder E. Reed, general moderator at yesterday's election being filed with City Clerk Julian D. Morgan. Mr. Shea declares that the report was not a correct one, inasmuch as it did not show the candidate having received all the votes that were cast for him. Mr. Shea made it known this afternoon that he would seek an order from the superior court, compelling the ballot box used in the third ward to be opened and another count made.

Mr. Shea claims to have been deprived of 100 votes and that, had a correct count been made, he would be among the candidates who will seek election again on the 27th inst. Mr. Shea's statement is corroborated by counters employed at the ward, who state that when the entire compilation of the figures had been made it was shown that the voters of that ward had deposited 217 votes for the candidate, but when the report of Moderator Reed was filed the figures showed 100 votes less having been cast. If the recount is ordered and it is found that the error, as alleged, was made, it will bring about the running of Mr. Shay for office, together with the other eligible candidates, Robert B. Chappell, Edward L. Streeter, Jr., and Michael L. O'Connell. Should the count, as filed, be correct, Jeremiah J. Lyons will be the fourth candidate. Mr. Lyons' total vote was 1103, while the official vote accorded Mr. Shea is 1107. If the error is determined to have been made, Mr. Shea's total vote will be 1207.

The candidates who will run for office of selectman at the next election will be George R. Morris, Jr., and Peter J. Eshenfelder. Mr. Morris' total was 484 and Mr. Eshenfelder's 404.

With Charley Chase in his laughing comedy Bromo and Juliet and the always popular Topical Events to complete the film program with Walter Lang and his musicians to furnish the musical accompaniment makes an exceptionally fine entertainment. Thursday will bring Sam Ash famous star of Rose Marie, the Music Box Review and other successful musical comedies and maker of popular phonograph records, who is making his first vaudeville appearance, has been secured by the Palace management for Norwich at great expense. Sam Ash is known to thousands who will now have the opportunity of seeing and hearing him in person and as he is one of the noted artists of the stage capacity houses will no doubt be the rule during his stay of three days. Sharing honors with Mr. Ash is Florence Vidor supported by Lowell Sherman in her screen production "You Never Know Women" that scored a tremendous hit at the Rivoli theatre New York. Gene Tunney in the second chapter of The Fighting Marine, the inimitable Ben Turpin in When a Man's a Prince and the Palace Topical Events. Truly a big time show in every respect.

Broadway Theater

William Hodge's appearance at the Broadway theater for tonight only at 8:20 in his latest comedy, The Judge's Husband, is a theatrical event fraught with genuine interest for every class of theatergoer, for Mr. Hodge is an old friend, one whose comparatively frequent visits has won a warm place in the hearts of his many admirers. The star comes here following successful appearances in Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago. He will open in New York on Sept. 27.

Mr. Hodge's offerings, it is said, are always an assurance of a delightful evening in the theater.

Many of the older generation of theatergoers will remember the signal hit Hodge made as Whitcomb Ash, the droll and quaint painter and village gossip in Sag Harbor. It seemed as though he had been born to the part and could have been playing nothing but Yankee types, to have acquired such a mastery of that particular type of character.

This first noteworthy American character part of the inimitable Hodge contained, only about six "sides" or pages of dialogue. The part was hardly more than a "bit" but by his unique personality and art, he made the novelty hit of the play.

It may be of interest now to recall the original Sag Harbor company, comprised James A. Herne, William Hodge, Forest Robinson, Sydney Booth, Frank Monroe, Mrs. Sol Smith, Marion Abbott and both Julie and Crystal Herne. It is said that Sag Harbor was written by Mr. Herne in a most unusual way: that he started to rewrite an earlier piece and suddenly discovered in the process that he had created an absolutely new drama. Whitemarsh, however, was not in the personnel of the old play.

Breed Theatre

"East Lynne," the William Fox production of the famous old stage play and novel, comes to the Breed theatre today for a two day engagement. This picture, directed by Emmett Flynn, is presented with one of the greatest all-star casts ever seen in one production.

Playing the two principal roles, those of Sir Archibald Carlyle and Lady Isabel, are Edmund Lowe and Alma Rubens, already established favorites with millions of motion picture fans because of the splendid work in previous Fox production.

Lou Tellegen, stage star, who for years was leading man with Sarah Bernhardt and who has won almost as great fame on the silver screen, plays the second role, that of Sir Francis Levison, the scheming, smooth-tongued admirer of Lady Isabel. Mr. Tellegen adds new laurels to his crown by his sincere and finished acting in this picture.

Marjorie Daw, too, comes in for a long share of honors as Barbara Hare. Other notable stars in the supporting cast are Frank Keenan as Chief Justice Hare Belle Bennett as Afy Hallijohn, Lydia Knott as Mrs. Hare and Leslie Fenton as Richard Hare.

The original period of the stage play is preserved in the film version of "East Lynne," with the quaint and somewhat cumbersome costumes of the 70's adorning the figures of the men and women. Mr. Flynn has achieved some telling effects in his direction of this William Fox supreme attraction.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

An Americanization Pageant

With Americanization its keynote and purpose, an interesting pageant will be presented at the lawn fete, to be held Friday afternoon, September 24, at the home of the Misses Lucas, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the United church. This pageant depicts in a colorful descriptive way the problems of immigration with which America has to deal.

Columbia, attended by the Spirit of Pilgrims and the Spirit of America, will receive immigrant groups, representing Italy, Norway, Poland, Bohemia, Greece, Albania, Hungary, Serbia, Russia, Syria, Holland and Denmark. These will all appear in costume, singing their national anthems as they approach Columbia, the friendly republic, seeking entrance to this land of promise and opportunity, the spokesman of each group telling somewhat of her country's history.

Other appropriate music and singing has been planned, with dances representative of Italy and Greece, to be given by some of the pupils of Mrs. Edward Andrews. The scene will be a charming one, and the gay costumes will lend their vivid, colorful touch of foreign atmosphere against the lovely out-of-door setting of lawn and trees.

Tea will be served and there will also be a food and candy booth. This is the first of the many activities planned by the Guild for the new year, and an afternoon spent at the lawn fete is sure to be entertaining. Special prices have been arranged for children, for whom as the grown-ups of the future, this pageant holds special educational and patriotic values. Gates open at 2:15. Tickets 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children under 12 may be obtained at Cranston and company.
